Acting Secretary of Agriculture Tuesday late Friday apportioned the $400,000,000 appropriated by the Industrial Recovery act for emergency highway construction. Michigan's share was $12,736,277.

The money will be available to the state July 1. It was apportioned under terms of the Industrial Recovery act which provided that seven-eighths of the total should be distributed in the usual way that federal road aid is made available.

The other one-eighth of the emergency funds were allocated on a population basis.

The Armp, the invention of Dr. Cloyd L. This new craft is the result of seven years of study and experimentation by Dr. Snyder on the principle of the flying wing. He believes that the Armp will revolutionize commercial aviation because of its unusual safety factors. It is so designed and constructed as to make a fallspin and a flatspin impossible and lands at a speed slower by five feet per second than does a 500 square foot area parachute.

He was traced definitely by it, and now is serving a term in prison.

Big Check Mystery Solved

After deep investigation the mystery of a $1,800,000 check found in a railway car in France has been cleared. A Frenchman serving a sentence for theft at Lyons admitted that he forged it. He admitted that he found in a railway train a blank check on a London bank payable to M. Champagne of St. Gallen, Calcutta, "or bearer." He made it out for $1,800,000 francs, then feared to present it and dropped it in the window slot of the car.

Our Government
—How It Operates

By William Bruckart

CHECKS AND DOUBLE CHECK

THERE is a classical story extant here about a man who was retired after some forty years of government service only to be notified two years later that his accounts showed an unnamed amount still due him. He made numerous trips to the building where he had been employed and eventually was told that his claim had been approved. It was a month or so later before he was paid, but he surely was paid, the check being for a total of three cents.

Though that may seem to be an exaggerated case, it actually is not out of the ordinary. Your Uncle Sam watches pennies closer, I dare say, than most of us. He has to do it. The government is approximately a five billion dollar business. Its records are, and have to be, exact to the penny. Had the circumstance of the three-cent incident, mentioned above, been favorable to Uncle Sam, the amount would have been collected even had it been necessary to sue in court and obtain a judgment.

The necessity for maintaining such a close watch on the pennies is the reason why there is a general accounting office. The comptroller general of the United States, who is head of the general accounting office, never has the good will of all offices of the government at one time. The nature of his job makes popularity impossible. He is required by law to tread on too many toes.

Let me illustrate how, in doing his job, the comptroller general gives so much disfavor. He passes upon every payment that is made out of federal funds; every penny that is appropriated by congress has to be spent according to the letter of the law, and the comptroller general's job is to see that the several hundred disbursing officers of the government do it that way. It takes no stretch of the imagination, therefore, to understand that when a disbursing officer makes a payment and then is told by the comptroller general a few weeks later that the payment was not in accordance with law—well, it is the exception rather than the rule when that decision fails to produce an argument. You probably would argue, too, if you were held liable for the government.

It is not alone with the disbursing officers that the comptroller general has troubles; he meets individuals to whom the disbursing officers go to get back their overpayments, and frequently they demand reconsideration. Overpayments may result in the purchase of supplies for the government, in the payment of salaries, or in such things as refund of expenditures paid by governmental representatives.

Laws require, for instance, that an individual traveling at government expense, must take the most direct route. Picture then what the reaction is of an individual who is informed weeks after he had made a trip that if he had taken the proper train, or boat, the expense to government would have been $150 less, and that he must pay back that sum out of his own jeans. (You select your own language, and I will match it with expressions I have heard, because they cover the whole category of epithets.)

But all of this is necessary, or else the government would be the loser, not in thousands of dollars, but in millions, annually. Government supplies are costly. The appropriations for them are enormous. If there was no check on the way the money is spent, it is easy to understand what would happen. The taxpayers would be called upon to furnish more money.

So congress arranged a long time ago to have an auditing system for all government accounts. It was not because it feared dishonesty among the workers. There is very little of this in the government. But the laws are intended to provide for expediencies, and if those laws are not carried out, chaos naturally would result. There had to be a central authority, therefore, for checking all the payments. This brings about uniformity of interpretation of the laws and assures orderly conduct of payments by the government. No one doubts the propriety of such a course.

Thus, every check that is made out by any government disbursing officer anywhere sooner or later finds its way through the regulation channel—some call it red tape—to the scrutinizing eye of the comptroller general whose assistants, numbering scores, determine whether the payment was proper. The magnitude of this job of auditing becomes apparent when it is known that rulings from the general accounting office average about thirty per week, or about five each day, and that these arise from examination of about two and one-half million checks a month.

Limited Vision

Our thoughts are often worse than we are, just as they are, often better than we are. And God sees us as we are, altogether, not in separate feelings or actions, as our fellowmen see us. We are always doing each other injustice, and thinking better or worse of each other than we deserve, because we only hear and see separate words and actions. We don't see each other's whole nature.—George Elliot.

Rhubarb, in Combinations or Alone, Delicious in Season

Suggestions for serving the always delicious rhubarb are always in order. The following methods are set forth by a recognized expert:

Fresh rhubarb pie plant and spring were once synonymous. Now, like most other vegetables and fruits, its city season is long extended both by shipments from warmer places and by hothouse forcing. Early summer, however, does bring a drop in price and puts it into the class from which it rose.

Every town backyard used to have its own supply of "pie plant," some of it pretty sour and tough, but which when cooked with plenty of sugar made a sauce or a pie whose tang seemed just what we needed for that jaded appetite.

Rhubarb of today is lovelier in color, with its deep pink contrast to the light green of the stalks. The skin is usually so tender that it need not be removed, and therefore color may be preserved during cooking. To keep the color, and keep the pieces in shape, there are two "best" ways to cook rhubarb—one is to bake it with sugar in a covered casserole—the other is to cook it over hot water in a double boiler.

Some people like to serve rhubarb hot, although I think the average person likes the sauce cold. There may be the addition of raisins during the last few minutes of cooking, or the combination of the cold sauce with sliced bananas or oranges or with cooked prunes. Rhubarb cut in small pieces and chilled in its syrup makes a good foundation for a fruit cup, with any other fruits you may like to use.

Most puddings made with rhubarb are best hot, it seems to me, as it is with those made of apples. In fact, almost any good apple recipe can be adapted to rhubarb with the use of some extra sugar. There is brown betty, bread and butter pudding, or tapioca pudding.

Rhubarb, with its tartness, makes a good component of marmalade—the more elaborate conserves. Sweetener fruits, such as pineapple or cherries, and sweet oranges, contrast well with it. It can so often be found at such a low price that it makes an economical foundation for other more expensive fruits.

Rhubarb pie is associated in my mind especially with American cooking, although probably in its first form it may be found in other countries. I do not seem to remember having it any place but in this country, when it was combined with pastry. Individual shortcakes with rhubarb sauce are surely an American origination. A few strawberries add color and form to this dessert.

While we probably do not give it the enthusiastic welcome which was given it by our ancestors, who were deprived of fresh fruit all the winter, we still give it our appreciation. By the way, I suppose rhubarb is really a vegetable, as the tomato is really a fruit, but we nevertheless use them to the contrary.

Rhubarb and Pineapple.

Take equal parts of rhubarb, cut in one-half pieces, and fresh pineapple diced. Add two cups of sugar to one quart of fruit. Let stand one or more hours. Place in saucepan, let heat slowly until sugar is dissolved and cook without stirring until rhubarb is soft but not broken. Cool and serve.

Rhubarb Sauce.

1 cup water
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 cup stewed rhubarb
Sugar (to taste)

Mix sugar and cornstarch in saucepan, add water, place on stove, cook until smooth and clear, stirring. Remove from fire, add stewed rhubarb and sugar to taste. Stir and serve with rhubarb pudding.

Quick Meal.

Chilled rhubarb with pineapple
Broiled minute steak
Sautéed potatoes
Broiled tomatoes
Hot rolls Jelly
Mixed vegetable salad
Toasted crackers
Cheese
Coffee

For a first course I am suggesting a delicious combination of rhubarb cooked according to the recipe given in the column today, and of course cooked the day before or in the morning while breakfast is being prepared so that it can be well chilled. The pineapple was prepared and sugared at the same time.

For minute steak choose thin cuts of round or sirloin and cook it under a very hot fire—a little more than a minute, however. The tomatoes can be broiled at the same time as the steak.

A fresh vegetable salad with toasted crackers and cheese to serve with coffee will be a fitting end to a meal which begins with a fruit cup.

Order of Preparation.

Prepare salad and dressing, and chill.
Mix fruit cup.
Prepare tomatoes.
Broil steak and tomatoes.
Heat rolls and potatoes.
Make coffee.

Steamed Rhubarb.

4 cups rhubarb
1 cup sugar

Wash rhubarb and cut into inch pieces without removing the skin. Cover with boiling water, let stand five minutes, drain, add the sugar and cook in top of a double boiler over hot water or in a covered baking dish in the oven until soft. Less sugar is needed if rhubarb is scalded according to these directions. If the rhubarb is very young and tender it need not be scalded.

LOVED PIONEER WOMAN
DIED LAST WEDNESDAYCharlevoix Mourns Passing of Mrs.
Charles DeBoer, Local Pioneer

The death on Wednesday, June 28th, of Mrs. Charles DeBoer, marked the demise of another of Charlevoix's rapidly diminishing pioneers. Mrs. DeBoer had been in ill health over a year, and a broken hip, received in a fall about eight weeks ago, hastened her passing.

Samantha Hannah Handley was born in Crawford county, Ohio, August 25, 1849. When a child she came to Michigan with her parents and in 1865 was married to William H. Noantay at Grand Haven. There were five children born to this union, two boys who were drowned while children; Mrs. Mary Swartz, now deceased; William Noantay of Grand Haven, and Mrs. Lillian Bourisau of Charlevoix.

In 1885 she married Charles DeBoer and one son, Charles Anthony DeBoer, who lived with his mother on Dixon avenue, survives. She also leaves seven grandchildren, sixteen great grandchildren and five great-great grandchildren.

CITIES ARE URGED TO MAINTAIN STATE PARKSShortage of Finances Forces Curtailment by the State

Michigan municipalities have been formally urged by the department of conservation to contribute financial aid toward the support of state parks in order that the recreational centers may be kept open this summer.

Governor Cumstock met with Geo. R. Hogarth, director of conservation. After the conference the governor said that the two had agreed upon a plan whereby municipalities would be allowed to donate money for the maintenance of the parks.

The conservation commission at a recent meeting ordered that 22 of the 53 state parks be closed July 1 because of lack of finances on which to support them. In addition, eight more would be closed soon because finances from the state athletic fund have been diverted to other purposes.

TRAINING FLEET TO

Celebration July 19, 20, 21

The fleet will be in! Arrival of the five biggest ships of the training fleet of the Ninth Naval district as one of the outstanding features of the 1933 National Cherry festival to be held in Traverse City July 19, 20, and 21, was announced recently by Lieut. Commander F. C. Hunteon, aide to the district commandant.

The ships which will drop anchor in Grand Traverse bay on the morning of July 20 will be the Wilmette, Wilmington, Dubuque, Paducah and Hawk, the five ships bringing several hundred naval militia who will have a prominent part in the festival.

A welcoming salute from shore batteries will be answered from the ships as the fleet steams up to the water front and drops anchor and on the welcoming committee to greet the officers and men of the fleet will be Governor William H. Comstock, who has promised to be in Traverse City for two days of the festival.

Sailors from the ships will stage a naval parade as one feature of the festival program.

One of the interesting pre-festival features will be the selection of a prince and princess at the Lyric theatre on the night of Friday, July 7, and Queen Morella Oldham, selected to reign over the year's festival, will be one of the judges. Fifty-two little boys and girls will form the field from which the prince and princess will be chosen.

With Regular Plates

The half-price sale of 1933 license plates will start August 1, it was announced by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald following the governor's decision to veto the Raymond bill which provided for four different license plate prices, according to time of purchase.

Defects in the bill in not properly specifying the times when plates should be sold at half and at quarter prices were one of the reasons given for the veto. The half-price sale will start August 1 under the provisions of the Orr bill which allowed 1932 plates to be used until that date when accompanied by a windshield permit showing that one-half of the 1933 weight tax had been paid.

TAX PENALTY LIMIT
IS AGAIN EXTENDEDAuditor General Orders Ban On All Penalties to November 1st

County treasurers Friday were directed by Auditor General John K. Stack, Jr., to accept payment of 1932 taxes up until November 1, without penalty or interest charges.

Stack's communication was sent in compliance with a resolution passed by the legislature during the final days of the 1933 session. The action is an extension of the Bellows act which authorizes the treasurers to accept the delinquent taxes without penalty up until July 1.

The legislature's action in requesting a further extension of time was based upon an assertion that many banks are still closed and that taxpayers, particularly the farmers of the state, will not have funds until fall.

The further leniency, contained in a resolution, is not binding upon the county treasurers but is merely an indication of legislative desire, the lawmakers at the time the resolution was passed not having sufficient time to authorize it by statute.

VOTER MAY DECIDE PRI-VATE PRESERVE MATTERQuestion May Be Brought Before
State Electors in 1934

Possibility that voters in 1934 may pass upon a bill repealing repeal of the private shooting preserve act, is seen in the request to the department of state for information regarding initiatory legislation.

The request was received immediately after the governor announced his intention of vetoing the measure which would repeal the private shooting preserve act. In order to place such a question on the ballot, petitions embodying the proposal and bearing 129,000 signatures, must be filed with the department at least 10 days before either a regular or special session of the legislature.

ELECTED TRUSTEES

Report of Secretary Reveals Acute
Financial Crisis Faced Next Year by District

Two trustees were elected, the financial statement and reports of the secretary and librarian read and other business transacted at the annual meeting of Charlevoix school district No. 1, city and township, held Monday evening at the high school assembly room. A record attendance of voters was present.

William P. Hicken, present secretary of the board, was re-elected for a three-year term. Carl Kohler, well known young business man, was elected to succeed Ernest L. Dawson, whose term expired after six years. Mr. Dawson declined to be a candidate for re-election.

It was voted the salaries of school board officers be reduced approximately 40 per cent to conform with the cut in teachers' salaries for the ensuing year.

The following report, read by Wm. P. Hicken, secretary, gives a complete resume of 1932-33 conduct of schools and prospects for the coming year:

"During the past year the Board of Education held twenty-nine meetings. Only repairs which were absolutely necessary were made to buildings, furniture and equipment. The insurance on buildings and contents was reduced to $108,000.00.

"Transportation was provided for the children living on the north and south sides of the city.

"Teachers' salaries for the coming year have been reduced approximately 40 per cent and their contracts contain a fifteen-day cancellation clause so that further reductions may be made if necessary.

"The following departments have been eliminated: physical education, opportunity room, music, domestic art, and there is a possibility that the county normal will have to be discontinued.

"The financial situation for the next year is the most serious which the district has ever had to face. Our budget for the past year called for expenditures of $73,285.00. Items on this budget were later cut to make our actual expenditures $60,559.77. Drastic reductions have been made in every department and every item in our budget for next year, and the tentative budget for 1933-34 calls for expenditures of approximately $37,000.00. Our income for the coming year has been estimated at from $35,000 to $40,000.

"The district is indebted at the present time as follows: $5,000 to the Charlevoix County bank, $5,140.00 in scrip issued, $600, approximately, in unpaid bills, $480 to the State Teachers' Retirement fund, $1,190, approximately, in interest due on bonded indebtedness. This interest was due on July 1st, 1933, but the district had no funds with which to meet this payment.

"The general tax levy of the district for the past year was $49.368.20. Of this amount the treasurer of the school district has received (Continued on page 2.)

COURIER-INN BRIDGE SCHOOL CONTINUES TO CREATE INTEREST

The defensive valuation of hands, biddable suits, and opening bids of one in all their variations, will be the principal subjects to be discussed at The Courier school of contract bridge Friday in the parlors of The Inn. The classes during the day will be held at 10:30 a. m., 2:00 p. m., and 8:00 p. m., under the direction of Harold Sharpsteen, vice president of the Michigan Bridge association and the state's outstanding Culbertson authority.

Readers of The Courier may enroll in any one of the classes Friday for 50 cents by using the special bridge coupon appearing in today's issue. Without the coupon the lesson fee is $1.00.

Mr. Sharpsteen is at present conducting similar bridge schools for prominent daily newspapers in Northern Michigan including Petoskey, Traverse City, Manistee and Ludington. The schools are largely attended by both beginners and advanced players.

Clip the coupon in today's paper and enroll in one of the classes next Friday at The Inn.

NEW WHEAT TAX IN EFFECT ON SATURDAY

Federal Levy to Aid Wheat Farmers Is Now Collected

The nation Saturday started lifting the wheat farmer out of the hole to the extent of 18 3/4 cents on every 25-pound sack of flour, in agreement with the terms of the federal agricultural relief act.

Some Charlevoix merchants had a supply of flour on hand and this is not taxable so it is being passed on to the customers at the regular price. When this supply is exhausted, however, and new flour purchased the processing tax becomes operative.

In addition to the processing tax the state 3 per cent sales tax is also operative.

The money collected through the processing tax is to be used to reimburse farmers for shortening their acreage of wheat, each wheat farmer being paid so much per acre to permit a part of his fields to remain idle, in an attempt to prevent any future overproduction of wheat.

SEEK FEDERAL AID FOR WELFARE WORK

ASK FUNDS FOR SHORE DRIVE
SOUTH TO NORWOOD

Mayor and City Clerk Authorized to Seek Federal Loan to Finance
Sewerage Disposal Plant

Plans for local participation in federal emergency relief funds, if and when they are available, were started at the last regular meeting of the city council.

The council approved and sent to the finance committee of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors a petition signed by H. A. Craig and 137 others asking approval and action upon construction of a lake shore drive from South Point along Lake Michigan to Norwood. Finances for the project will be requested from the Federal Emergency Relief commission, and its approval when the commission is set up and in operation in Michigan. Labor would be drawn from the welfare list.

This project, considered on many instances in the past and more frequent recently as a welfare relief plan, would give Charlevoix one of the most delightful scenic drives in Northern Michigan. Accessibility of materials necessary for construction along the route would remove much of the local financial burden and enhance its feasibility greatly. The drive would be an extension of the present highway around South Point.

Another step in the direction of welfare relief was taken when the council authorized the mayor and clerk to make application under provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act for a loan to construct a sewage disposal or sedimentation plant and complete storm water sewer system for Charlevoix. The amount estimated as necessary for the projects, Charlevoix is listed for this amount in the government set-up. The May street storm sewer project, bids for which have already been received, is being held up until answer is received from the request for federal aid. Charlevoix has preliminary plans for the project, and these plans have been approved by the state sanitary engineer and Streams Control commission.

The council adopted a resolution setting the limit for payment of 1932 city taxes without penalty as November 1 in conformance with action of the state legislature.

The mayor and clerk were authorized to borrow $3,000 for a 60-day period to meet expenses until tax receipts are available.

BELVEDERE OFFICERS LOWERED GOLF RATES

Change in Policy Reflected by Increase in Number Players

A reduction in rates and change in policy which opened the course to the general public this year at the Belvedere Golf Club has resulted in an appreciable increase in patronage.

Officers of the Club at a recent meeting reduced the daily greens fee from $2 to $1.50, the weekly rate to $7.50 and the season ticket to $50. Play after 4 p. m., allowing sufficient time for a full round, is $1.

The change of policy at the Belvedere course, rated by Walter Hazen as one of the best resort courses in the United States, has made play available to all and has created a heavy increase in patronage. The watered fairways and greens are in excellent condition despite prolonged drought.

DRAMATIC CAMP CHANGE PROGRAM

"DIRTY HANDS" TO BE SHOWN
JULY 12, 13, 14

Opening Production Well Received by Audience from All Northern Michigan Resorts

The National Dramatic camp at Ironton got away to a flying start last Wednesday evening with the presentation of "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," by St. John Ervine, which was greeted with gales of laughter by a very appreciative audience from Charlevoix, Boyne City, Walloon Lake and Petoskey. The performances were repeated on Thursday and Friday evenings.

The play, a light comedy of English country life was replete with clever lines and humorous situations. The scene was laid in the home of the vicar of a small sea side town. Into this quiet atmosphere comes a famous London actress with her Cockney manager, later to be followed by a metropolitan playwright, thus creating an amusing clash of characters.

Particular credit is due the company for the restrained handling of the almost farcical situations and the commendable tone given the entire production. The mounting of the production was good and the costumes worthy of special comment. Well cast, the introduction of the camp players to this locality was most favorable, and the play provided a thoroughly enjoyable two hours.

An ambitious but sensible report, having been selected for the remaining eight weeks of the summer season. Although falling in line with the laboratory idea of the eastern summer dramatic camps, which provides for the presentation of experimental and untried plays, the list scheduled for production contains pieces of recognized dramatic and entertainment value.

The play this week is "Dirty Hands," paradoxically a clean comedy of life in a small mid-western town. The action revolves around an inventor who has perfected a collar button making machine, and his culturally ambitious wife. To this home comes an immaculate and peevish cultured rascal of impeccable manners. To him women flock much to their respective husbands' disgust because he creates a contrast that makes them appear crude and workaday.

Of course everything turns out all right, the women see the fallacy of their illusions and realize the everlasting value of wholesome bread as compared to chocolate eclairs, but the development of the plot and its denouement is interesting and amusing.

This play, fashioned along the same human interest lines as "Light and Shade" and the famous "Turn of Mind," possesses a wholesome moral and holds up a mirror to certain phases of small town life that are immediately recognized. The characters are clearly drawn and nicely shaded.

Albert Barker, who is directing the plays at the National Dramatic camp this summer is the author of "Dirty Hands." It was produced on Broadway last season.

"Dirty Hands" will be presented Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The curtain will rise at 8:45.

DISCREPANCY IN BOOK STORE FUND UNSETTLED

Answer to Demand for Accounting Lacked Satisfactory Proof

Despite rumors to the contrary, a settlement between the board of education and Gerald F. Bush, former superintendent, over alleged discrepancies in the book store account, has not been reached as yet.

A demand for an accounting and return of funds withheld for unpaid salary or otherwise within five days, was answered this week through Attorney B. H. Halstead of Petoskey. A statement of receipts and expenditures was presented the school board, but, due to the fact that no cancelled checks, check book stubs or invoices were received as proof of the statement, the board does not feel justified in accepting the statement.

Wm. P. Hicken, secretary, stated Tuesday that he had been instructed to make demand for a more complete accounting. In case of Mr. Bush's failure to comply, it was intimated legal action would be instituted.

1933 AUTO PLATES ARE NOW AVAILABLE

DEADLINE FOR HALF RATE
STICKERS IS AUGUST 1

Necessary Information to Obtain Plates Is Outlined by Manager of Local Branch Office

Car owners who have stickers on their windshield and those who have none will be expected to purchase 1933 Michigan license plates on and after August 1, 1933, if they plan to run their cars or trucks after that date. Half rate on the 1933 plates does not go into effect until August 1st, however.

In applying for plates, every applicant must bring in his certificate of title, as no plates will be issued unless it is presented. This is an absolutely inviolable rule of the state department. If possible, he should also produce his certificate of registration that he received when he purchased his 1932 plates.

All applicants for 1933 plates, who have stickers on their cars or trucks, must bring in (with his certificate of title) the certificate of registration (little square slip stamped with a circular red stamp) that he received when he purchased his sticker. This is very important, as the sticker registration card must be attached to the application for 1933 plates and he sent in to Lansing with the branch manager's daily report. In the case of a commercial vehicle, if the sticker registration card is not available, the vehicle must be reweighed and an official weight ticket presented, the same as when the sticker was purchased. So, if you have mislaid your sticker certificate of registration, make a thorough search for it before applying for 1933 plates.

Great care will be taken to prevent any mistake being made in collecting the second half of the fee. In cases where the wrong fee was collected for the sticker and regardless of whether the amount collected was over or short, the fee collector for the second half upon issuance of 1933 license plates and the fee paid for the sticker must total the correct fee for full year license.

After July 31st, applicants for full 1933 license will not be required to turn in their 1932 plates to the branch office nor will 1932 license plates have to be transferred with transfers of title.

Again the local branch manager owners against accepting transfers. (Continued on page 8.)

of Advertising

Charlevoix and Charlevoix county are represented in a substantial way in the World's Fair edition of "Michigan Scenic Highways—Around Lake Michigan Tour," a guide book just published by the Magazine of Michigan company, of Lansing, and distributed through oil stations in southwestern Michigan and northern Indiana.

Highways of Charlevoix county described in the book are US-31, M-66 and the county roads along the north and south arms of Lake Charlevoix. There is a half-tone illustration showing Lake Charlevoix near Ironton. Various points of interest are mentioned.

In the advertising pages, which were prepared under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy M. Henshaw, Charlevoix is represented with a double spread purchased by the city, a page for the Belvedere hotel, a page for The Inn, a page combining the Hallett hotels, the Hotel Hartlett, the American, the Noble hotel and the Elston Cottage, and a half page for the Charlevoix hotel.

One of the City of Charlevoix advertising pages consists of a page layout showing Charlevoix harbor, with Lake Charlevoix in the distance; a typical Charlevoix summer cottage; sunset over Lake Michigan; a bathing beach on Lake Michigan; mackerel trout caught by trolling in Lake Michigan; sailing on Lake Charlevoix; the yacht "Sylvia" leaving Charlevoix harbor; devotees of horseback riding ready for a morning canter; and the bathing pier on Lake Charlevoix.

The book as a whole consists of 128 pages, car pocket size, and is beautifully illustrated with photographs and drawings. The cover is golden-rod color, with a three-color panel showing a typical road, woods and lake scene in Michigan.

Altogether, nearly 60 separate highways are described in detailed but concise travelogues. These give a definite idea of the scenery, points of interest, cities and towns with 1930 population figures, state, county and municipal parks, state forests, lighthouses, coast guard stations, golf courses, and so on, with mileage figures woven in throughout.

Instructions on "How to Use the Book" tell the reader, "You will find the main United States highways—US-12, US-31, US-131 and US-2—in the traveling descriptions. Look through the travelog covering the highway you intend to follow. This will give you information about all the things you will see along the way. Also, a number of interesting side trips are mentioned in these main travelogues. Wherever one is mentioned, a footnote refers you to the page on which it is described. If you will turn to these pages, you may select the side trips you wish to make.

LOCAL TALENT IN ROLES AT NATIONAL DRAMATIC CAMP

Of local interest is the appearance in the National Dramatic camp plays of Miss Mellicha McKay of Belvedere, and Miss Margaret Hammond of East Jordan.

Miss Hammond was a member of the cast of "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," the first offering of the players.

Miss McKay will have the interesting character part of Blossom in "Dirty Hands," the current attraction on July 12, 13 and 14. Mrs. Allen G. Miller, the director of the camp, has asked that any local or resort citizens who are interested in any department of the theatre, make themselves known to her, as it is the aim of the company to use any such persons in small parts or back of the stage in the production end of the theatre.

Classes are also being formed in acting, make up, and diction, under the tutelage of certain members of the cast who have had teaching as well as professional experience.

ceived but $24,654.75, leaving $24,713.45 in delinquent taxes for the past school year alone. The township during the school year of 1931-32 paid the school district in taxes the amount of $3,526.82, while during the school year of 1932-33 we have received no taxes from the township treasurer. Our county normal money amounting to $3,000 has not been paid by the state, and only 30 per cent of the Turner fund has been received.

"As you can see from the above figures, we are facing the coming year with a greatly reduced income, owing to the passage last fall of the 15 mill tax limitation law. We are starting the new year with $27.98 in actual cash on hand, and with outstanding obligations of approximately $13,126.00. To offset this indebtedness there is due the district from the State of Michigan, $4,200 for the county normal and Turner funds; $24,713.45 in delinquent current taxes, and $5,408.01 in the Charlevoix State Savings bank, which amount is not available due to the closing of the bank. It is, of course, problematical as to when any of these funds will be available.

"Your school board feels that unless a goodly portion of these funds are paid to the district within the next sixty days, there is a grave possibility that the schools will not open in September. In any event, owing to the present financial crisis, there is also the possibility that the schools cannot be maintained for more than seven months of the next school year."

Salute Market Is Now Experiencing a Boom

Governors of States Get Two More Guns

Washington.—The salute market is experiencing a mild boom. Two "booms," in fact, have been added to the courtesy salute for Governors of American states by Presidential decree.

Honorable governors visiting army or navy posts within their own states will be entitled to 15 gun salutes, placing them on par with members of the Presidential cabinet. Formerly governors received 12 guns.

"Salute by gunfire is an ancient ceremony that grew out of custom and usage," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society. "Once strong nations competed weaker ones to salute by gunfire as an act of submission. During the Seventeenth century two points in matters of international courtesy sometimes even led to hostility between states of Europe.

All Salutes Returned.

"Because the earliest gunpowder greetings were largely forced affairs on parties of the second part, vessels and shore forts of stronger nations could reply to them or not as they saw fit. But custom gradually changed. With the spread of the idea of equality between nations, salute salutes were returned 'gun for gun.' This is now universal practice among civilized nations.

"The most widely used salute today is the international, which consists of twenty-one guns fired one after another. The ceremony and the number of guns was taken over by the United States from the British.

"Why did the British choose twenty-one as the number of guns suitable for an international salute?

"In the earliest days of sailing, British men-of-war fired seven guns. The number seven was taken, it is believed, because of its mystical and symbolical significance. Among ancient nations and in the Bible seven is 'The Sacred Number.' Astronomy once listed seven 'planets,' and the phases of the moon changed every seven days. In the Bible creation was finished in seven days, and every seventh year was sabbatical.

"But while early British regulations stated that ships might fire only seven guns, shore batteries were allowed three guns to every one on shipboard. It was explained that powder made from saltpetre spoiled on shipboard, but it was easy to keep on land. The multiple three was chosen, too, because it has had mystical and symbolical importance from remote times.

International Salute.

"When better gunpowder was made, the salute at sea was raised to equal that on land. By common agreement today the international salute of all civilized nations is twenty-one guns. In the United States twenty-one guns is also the national salute, given for the President, ex-Presidents, heads of foreign governments, members of a reigning royal family, and for the flag. "Once our national salute was one gun for each state. First authorized in 1810, the national salute had grown to twenty-one guns in 1818. The number of guns increased steadily with the growth of the nation, until 1811, when the national salute was reduced to twenty-one guns. In 1875 the United States also formally accepted twenty-one guns at the international salute. "This country has also an extraordinary ceremony known as the 'salute to the nation,' which consists of one gun for each of the 48 states. This salute was staged only at noon on July Fourth at American military posts, although it has been given on a few other notable occasions, such as the death of a President."

Liberty Bell Rug Valued at $150,000

Buffalo, N. Y.—A rug valued at $150,000, probably the most famous and most historical rug in the world, has been brought to Buffalo by its owner, T. H. Kuhlman, of San Francisco.

A rare example of oriental handicraft, the rug is known as the Liberty Bell rug, because in 1915, during the Panama-Pacific exposition, the bell rested on this rug for more than five months.

The rug has been pressed by the feet of universally renowned persons. Theodore Roosevelt stood on the rug when he made a speech at the exposition. Governor Lehman stood on it when he was inaugurated as New York state's chief Executive. The rug was used in the Electoral college when the election of President Roosevelt was formally ratified. Warren G. Harding stood on it when he was inaugurated in 1921. The Versailles Peace treaty was signed on a table standing on the rug.

Smart Simplicity of Casual Dress

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

YOUR daytime clothes to be only one, must carry that casual look about them which nothing other than an accidental-on-purpose simplicity can accomplish.

It is a knack to be coveted, this of dressing to all appearance, most simply, yet proving a hundred per cent perfect to the mode, even down to the slightest detail. The sentiment to draw a definite line between formal and informal apparel is more noticeable than ever this season. At the same time that dance frocks and evening attire are taking on more freedom, returning unmistakably to an era of softness and flowing drapes, when it comes to clothes for the casual day-time hours at the club and about town, best dressed women are playing up a role of sophisticated simplicity with all the art they possess.

The very materials themselves are timed to this movement which demands that one look casual and easy and confident in abnormal and nonchalant outfits during the shopping hours and at outdoor events. There are, for instance, the new linens which at this moment are utterly swaggar for suits and coats. Mark you, we are not speaking of flimsy as it was known in days of yore, the same which used to start out in the morning all fresh and immaculate and which, almost before one could reach their destination, would begin to wrinkle up and lie in a sorry plight. Modern linens are not like that. The new linens pride themselves on being non-crushable and, what's more, they answer to the call of fashion for textures which are soft and sometimes even twosy in appearance.

A black or a navy linen suit is considered too smart for words. Maybe you prefer gray or the now-so-much-talked-of string color for your linen spectator-sports or go-about town suit. Couldn't be anything more correctly chosen, only be sure to wear a dark blouse with it, for such is fashion's decree.

That the combination of a dark blouse with a light colored linen suit is good to look upon you will agree, after taking note of the stylish outfit the young woman to the left in the picture is wearing. Here is a heavy white linen suit, the weave being of that desired spongy unbreakable sort which gives it "class." The red and white striped blouse carries a home like style message. The overalls are made of the identical linen which fashions the suit. Notice the eyelet embroidered design which trims them—nothing less than the very last word in summer sports bootery!

With the exception of the emphasis placed on black and navy linen this is turning out to be very much of a pastel season. The pretty lassie centered above knows her colors in that she has selected for her cape frock subtle "dusty" pink crepe. Her large buttons are also pink. Her delicate sandals are made of wisps of white kid woven together across the toes. White kid footwear is the rage for summer.

The linen of a dark blouse with a light suit makes appeal to the modish creature seated. The red and white print silk of her blouse contrasts effectively with the chalky whiteness of her crepe frock. A red band on her white hat, a large red and white button fastening her cape jacket and last but not most important, her red and white kid sandals interpret the popular vogue of red and white. Thin pin perforations trim the red vamp and ankle strap of these shoes.

STYLE SAYS WHITE COSTUME JEWELRY

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Never such a "white" season as this. Fashion especially spotlights white costume accessories. It's white pique for hats and scarfs, white pique for belts and bags, shoes and gloves while the new little white pique jackets are quite the rage.

In time for this feeling of fashion for white a prominent designer of American costume jewelry has created most unique bracelets, earrings and brooches which matchingly and smartly resemble pique in both ribbed weaves and waffle patteringings. A happy combination this—white pique accessories together with white costume jewelry, and is there anything more flattering than white?

By the way, speaking of costume jewelry reminds us of the adorable little crystal nose-glasses which this same designer is conjuring out of crystal and beads and such. These sparkling little fantasies are both in flower and in berry form. One type has a replaude for perfume. Latest thing in way of boudoirerries to wear with your smartest of smart summer linen tailleur!

Fashionable Women Now Match Sweater to Skirt

As a change from the theme of color contrast, smart women are matching up sweaters and skirts this season for active sportswear. If a little added dash is needed, it is supplied by bandanna scarf, belt or handbag.

Pastels are the favorites. "There are luscious shades of peachy pink, lime green, soft yellow and linen blue, which have been developed in home-spun and basket-weave tweeds, with exactly matching sets of cardigan and slip-over to go with them.

New Coats Slim

The new coats are slim and modest as to silhouette, but they do things in a big way when it comes to fur. Shoulders are broadened by huge collars and the fur is the long-haired type.

SUMMER VELVET

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Now that everyone has found out that there is nothing in the way of a costume more effective and flattering than a pretty summery frock worn with a summery colorful velvet wrap, designers are giving special attention to creating perfectly stunning coats made of velvet, which of course is "light as a feather" or as shifty and delicate as chiffon, for velvets are just like that nowadays. The model in the picture is fashioned of smoke-gray velvet. Most of the velvet wraps indulge in huge bows as does this one, which makes them all the more attractive and youthful-looking. The subtle fur bandings on the sleeves are mounted on chiffon colored to the velvet

BIBLICAL CITY IN DEAD SEA WATER?

May Confirm Destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah.

A message to the London Times from a correspondent in Cairo stated that an airplane flying recently over the southern part of the Dead Sea reported having seen a "town lying beneath the water." This town, according to an assistant to Sir Flinders Petrie, interviewed by a representative of the London Observer, is thought of the London Observer, is another of the "five Cities of the Plain" that were destroyed in the same time with them. Archaeologists are not in agreement as to the probable site of these cities. The northern shores have been considered the most likely. But in the Scriptural record mention is made of a little city nearly named Zair, a city to which Lot and his daughters fled, a city so small as not to be as wicked as the rest! A city of that name at the south remained into Roman times.

There is abundant evidence that there was a Canaanite civilization in that region at a time when the plain was "well watered, everywhere as then goes toward Zair"—like the garden of the Lord. "The place was filled with city states as the Scriptural record suggests, each with its king:

"And it came to pass in the days of Amraphel, king of Shinar, Arphach, king of Elasar, Chedorlaomer, king of Elam and Tidal, king of Idid, that they made war with Bera, king of Sodom and with Birsha, king of Gomorrah, Sidrah, king of Akkad, and Shemeber, king of Zobah and the king of Bela (the same is Zair). All these joined together in the vale of Siddim (the same is the Salt Sea)."

Suddenly all the kings departed and with them all the "inhabitants of the cities and that which grew upon the ground," for more than 20 centuries. An "earthquake with very eruptions," is postulated, and a consequent general desolation. "And Abraham looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah and toward all the land of the plain and beheld, and lo, the smoke of the land went up as the smoke of a furnace." Perhaps, too, the waters of the Dead Sea were, before the disturbance, whatever it was, at a lower level. Now from the firmament's height their depths even are visible, and it may be that the sequel of the story of the judgment on Sodom and Gomorrah will be told.

Eczema Burned and Itched Terribly

Healed by Cuticura

"Eczema broke out in pimples on my child's head and later spread to her neck and back. It burned and itched terribly and the little one scratched and cried continually. Her clothing hurt her so that I had to very thin dress on her. Her hair came out in handfuls and what was left was lifeless and dry. The irritation prevented her from sleeping.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I could see a difference after using them. I purchased more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. K. Thompson, Energy, Texas, July 26, 1932.

Offers Help to Youthful Romeos

Bureau Gives Advice to Matrimonially Inclined.

Philadelphia.—Social and welfare leaders here have organized a bureau designed to give counsel to young people who are not married, but wish they were, and consolation to those who are married, but wish they were not. It is the opinion of this new marriage bureau that romance is badly in need of a certain amount of common sense. They maintain, however, that they do not intend to blunt the sharpness of Cupid's arrow, but rather make its points a little more anti-septic.

The group heartily endorses bigger and better love affairs, while at the same time declaring that the getting party route to matrimony usually leads the couple to the divorce court.

Alaska Gets Back Noted Flag Used at Purchase

Seattle, Wash.—The United States flag that was hoisted on Castle Hill, at Sitka, on October 18, 1867, signifying the transfer of Alaska from Russian to United States sovereignty, at last has been returned to the land which it honored, a gift of the State department to the people of Alaska. It has found a resting place in the territorial museum.

An aged Russian-American resident of Sitka gives the following account of the transfer:

"We saw strange ships in the harbor, and soldiers in strange uniforms; then we learned that Alaska had been sold to the United States.

"The transfer took place in the rain. The soldiers of the Siberian Line Battalion, in dark uniforms trimmed with red, stood at the left side of the flag-staff, the strange soldiers on the right. Captain Peschourov stepped up to the representative of the United States and said: 'By authority of the emperor of all the Russias, I transfer to the United States the territory of Alaska.'"

"The czar's flag wrapped itself around the pole while it was being lowered and could not be torn loose. A Russian sailor was sent aloft to bring it down. Captain Peschourov told him to bring it down, but he didn't hear. He tore it from the halyard and dropped it. It fell on the bayonets of the Russian soldiers. Then the strange flag was hoisted amid the cheers of the Americans."

Letter Visits 16 U. S. Cities of Same Name

Geneva, N. Y.—When a local man received a letter the other day which was intended for delivery prior to Christmas, he wondered where it had been for nearly four months. The address was not eligible, but the number of "Geneva" postmarks the envelope bore caused him to probe the situation.

He found there were 16 Genevas in the United States, and his letter had visited most of them before it reached its destination. They are in Alabama, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Minnesota, Nebraska, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and West Virginia. And for good measure, Ohio has two, the second being known as "Geneva-on-the-Lake."

Jigsaw Puzzle Help to Teacher in German Class

Rosewood City, Calif.—Miss Mathewne Wolters, teacher in the Sequoia Union high school, near here, has discovered that jigsaw puzzles aid the teaching of German to her students.

Miss Wolters had a large map of Germany made into a 300 piece jigsaw puzzle. Each day her pupils get better acquainted with Germany by putting the puzzle together.

"By the time the class assembles the puzzle two or three times the students will have a comprehensive idea of Germany's geography," she explained.

Squirrel Gets Back at U. S. Postal Department

Palo Alto, Calif.—Otto, squirrel, who lives in a tree on Palo Alto avenue, has had it in for the United States Postal department for a long time. It is the blue Puleo Sam pink on the back of his straps.

Several months ago Otto ate some stamps off a letter. The blue glinted him ill. He has been looking for revenge ever since. And so when E. A. Young, mail carrier, came too close to Otto's tree, Otto leaped to a limb and hit the postman on the right thumb.

Gay-Colored Bicycles Invade Paris Streets

Paris.—Bright-colored bicycles have become the fad among chic Parisians for Sunday and holiday boogieing.

"A boy and girl recently attracting attention were peddling their yellow and green enamelled tandem, dressed in green breeches, yellow and green checked sweaters and caps. Parking along the curb is becoming a problem.

THE COURIER BRIDGE SCHOOL
As readers of this newspaper have undoubtedly noted, The Courier in cooperation with The Inn is now sponsoring a weekly school of contract bridge. It is not offered as a boon to mankind nor as a solution to any of the major issues.

It is purely an entertainment opportunity for those who enjoy the game of bridge, and for those beginners who wish to take advantage of an excellent chance to learn the real fundamentals.

It brings not one penny to The Courier.

On the other hand, it does bring one of the foremost bridge instructors of this part of the country to Charlevoix, adding just one more form of summer entertainment to the diversity for which this region is famous.

It is a small contribution on the part of The Courier toward affording as much entertainment as possible to our many summer visitors.

Please do not hesitate to take advantage of this school if contract bridge happens to come within the scope of your interests.

As readers of this newspaper, it is your school, created solely for what ever enjoyment residents of this area will derive from it.

You are cordially invited to attend the next session at The Inn Friday to see for yourself what it is like.

Charlevoix merchants established a uniform scale for collecting the three cent sales tax at meetings last week.

At all business places except where the majority of sales is for 10 cents or under, the merchants agreed upon a one-cent tax for articles selling from 17 to 49 cents, a two-cent tax on articles selling from 50 to 83 cents and a three-cent tax for sales from 84 cents to $1.16. Our Government—How It Operates

—By William Bruckart

NATIONAL DEFENSE

SINCE the Armistice ended hostilities in that cathechism known as the World War, numerous strides have been taken among nations to preserve the peace. The movement has exemplified itself in many different ways and with varying shades of opinion shown, from the type of citizen desiring to be still and play dead on through the list to those fostering the belief that only the greatest army and the greatest navy can be expected to assure permanent peace for our country.

Fortunately for the nation, there is only a negligible number of those who are willing to chance the future of their homeland without an army or a navy. All of the advocates of peace contemplate a system of national defense of some kind, and advocate it in a size according to their light. But the point is that, desiring peace as we do, our desires cannot govern what course or policy some other government may elect to follow.

I believe it is safe to say that now as never before the average citizen is acquainted with the need for national defense and the way that need is met. Programs have been worked out since the World War ended that are predicated on a more general knowledge by every one of what constitutes the needs of the army and the navy in a condition of crisis. Although the two services are skeletonized now, should the emergency arise it is correct to state that a million men can spring to arms over night, and it seems that the number probably would be three times that if the carefully arranged plans may be judged properly by the layman.

While it is necessary that a great deal of the planning by the army and navy is done in secret and must remain so for the obvious reason that any nation learning of them is able to make counter methods, it can be stated that officers of the army and the navy constantly are engaged in study of theoretical attacks and defense. The Army War college and the Naval War college are the higher institutions of learning, so to speak, where the officers delve into the more intricate problems of war tactics, where they deal in theory and figure out what would happen in practice, and from these evaluate war plans which, let us hope, it never will be necessary to use.

These plans, of course, cannot be said to represent our national defense policy. That is a question which the President, as commander in chief of the army and navy, works out jointly with congress. The legislative branch obviously has the final say as to whether we will have a big navy or a small one, and whether the army will number 115,000 enlisted men and 12,000 officers or more or less. From this it is seen that the system of national defense is one of fact and not of theory, for it is, true to American tradition, left in the hands of the representatives of the people.

Aside from the determination of policy, however, administration of the army and the navy constitutes a tremendous business. There is, of course, an independent department for each, and each has a cabinet member at its head. But the cabinet members are civilians, more often than not, without military or naval training.

Consequently, one has to drop down the ranks a step to find the men who actually command the regular army and the navy, with its marine corps arm.

So we find in the War department, a general staff, and we find in the Navy department, a general board. Each functions to a greater or less extent as a board of directors for the service it represents, and each is dominant in its own fieldwork, for it is from these two groups that the actual direction issues for the respective services. Under each exists the individual control that is necessary in ways in administration and the number of those individuals expands as the power exercised by each one decreases, even to the rank of corporal.

In conjunction with the army, the navy and the marine corps, there is that recently developed, but highly necessary, aviation service. Aviation has become so important in the system of national defense that congress has seen fit to create the post of assistant secretary of air in both War and Navy departments. While their primary function obviously is that of promoting an efficient air service in each branch, the air division does much more; it is constantly fostering development of civil aeronautics, and it is working constantly with commercial interests engaged in production and use of airplanes in commercial lines.

The air services of the army, the navy and the marine corps, therefore, are carrying a tremendous influence into the field of air transportation in these days of peace. Highly trained men from the services are going into private life, day after day, to devote their skill and their time and attention to further air transportation. It is not meant that the army, navy and marine corps are losing all of their good men, but they are losing some of them, yet replacements are made without difficulty and the nation gains from the exchange.

TRUTH OF SALUTE TO FRENCH HERO

"Lafayette, We Are Here!"
Said by Col. Stanton.

The late Col. Charles E. Stanton, who said "Lafayette, we are here!" had the strange experience of coming a probably immortal phrase and of hearing it repeated almost as often as it was quoted to another man. Even President Wilson and Marshal Foch in formal addresses attributed to General Pershing the famous saying at the tomb of Lafayette in Picpus cemetery on July 4, 1917. It was a natural error, for General Pershing did speak extemporaneously on that occasion and it was easy for those not present to confuse his remarks with the preceding speech of Colonel Stanton that ended in the supremely appropriate salute to the French hero.

The fact of Colonel Stanton's authorship was never in doubt; it was early asserted in this newspaper and elsewhere in direct rebuttal of the Pershing fiction. But when a legend gains momentum it rolls on and on, it seemed doubtful that a disbeliever by General Pershing himself could right the popular mistake. Colonel Stanton, for his part, sealed his lips and with the most soldierly conception of duty permitted the world to move saying to be given constantly to his friend and commander. If General Pershing for 15 years made no emphatic effort publicly to dispel the myth he demolished it himself by whom he came to pay his respects in 1917 in these words: "It was on this occasion that utterance was given to an expression that could be born only of inspiration and that will live long in history: 'Lafayette, we are here.' Many have attributed this striking utterance to me and I have often wished it could have been mine. But I live to recollection of saying anything so splendid. Can you imagine those words were spoken by Colonel Stanton and to him must go the credit for so happy and beautiful a phrase?"

It was only after this declaration that Colonel Stanton said he had "remained quiet during all these years, having a firm belief that his forced accuracy would eventually prevail." The gallant and modest colonel had the final assurance that his contribution to the golden treasury of quotations would bear his name.—New York Herald-Tribune.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX NEWS COLUMN
Edited by
VINCENT ARNOLD

After nine months of mental gymnastics and comparative physical activity, Camp Charlevoix campers and staff returned to the soil on June 30 and prepared for eight weeks of "restful" play. It will be the purpose of this column to record, for the next few weeks, the various items of interest that may occur in the home of the Charlevoix tribe. It is to be hoped that the aforementioned items will be read with as much enjoyment as accompanied their occurrence. At least, we have a right to expect that pleasure of some sort will be a prominent feature of the camp activities; as to enjoyment on the part of the readers of this, we will not venture a prediction. Discretion is the better part of valor!

The opening council ring ceremony of the 1933 season followed the Fourth of July bench barbecue. Newcomers to the camp were led blindfolded to the large enclosed ring in the woods and initiated into the mysteries of the Tribe of Charlevoix.

Chief Reimann read the records of last year which had been buried in a bottle in front of the throne, and despite the presence of moisture on the precious sheets (the bottle was a quarter full of water), managed to make that part of the program a very interesting one. Might we suggest that this season's accounts contain a list of all the visitors to the camp, especially those on Dad's day? The only real value of such a record lies, of course, in the names that it gives. "Name" make news" someone said, and it applies here.

Saturday night saw a varied and interesting program presented in the club house as a feature of "all-camp" night. The opening event was a christening ceremony, with a cat as the principal figure. This particular animal recently wandered into camp and evidently liked the surroundings so well that it decided to stay on as a permanent guest. With much pomp and splendor Oke's cabin took charge of the christening proceedings, and when it was all over the cat had been officially named "Winona" (don't ask us why), despite its sudden demise in the midst of the solemn pronouncement because of its natural reaction to water peculiar to all felines. Incidentally, the cat has seven toes on each of its front paws. And also, incidentally, it had better stay away from the dining hall during meal time because we have heard several dire threats against its nine lives.

Francis Peters and Ed. O'Brien then took up the burden of entertainment and played a number of old barn dance tunes on the violin (fiddle, here, probably) and banjo. At this point Harlan Hogan of South Bend sent himself at the piano and after accompanying the other two for a minute or so took the center of the stage and proceeded to answer all requests as fast as he could play them. "Storm Weather," "St. Louis Blues," "Shuffle Off to Buffalo," and "Dinah" quickly replaced "Turkey in the Straw," etc. As far as the boys were concerned Mr. Hogan might have continued until he fell off the piano stool. Please don't misunderstand. Each type of music was well executed. It so happened that the popular tunes met with greater favor—not such a strange fact when one stops to consider the audience!

The elder Mr. O'Brien brought the program to a close with a somewhat sketchy account of the old lumbering days around Charlevoix. Our guess is that, given a smaller group in which to talk informally, Mr. O'Brien could tell an intensely interesting story. He was somewhat confused by the number present and his little talk suffered accordingly. The boys had just enough, however, to make them want more.

Taps closed the evening.

Scene: the beach at Mt. McSaub. Principle actors: Col. E. Gillespie, and everything.

Action: Dance of the Seven Veils. (Veils also absent).

Time: Sunday afternoon (if it matters).

Occasion: trip for the junior section.

In the distance: one of the finer sex, all unbeknownst to the actor mentioned above.

"Nuf said!

One Frank Currie of Midland brought to Camp Charlevoix, besides his duffle, a supposedly new word to be used at any and all occasions, and for any purpose. This word is "choice." Ever since camp opened on June 30, the word "choice" has been applied to everything. Far be it from us to criticize anyone's vocabulary, but this word has permeated the very walls of the cabins. Our only hope now is that someone else will coin a word to replace "choice." Then the same process will be repeated, in all probability! Perhaps it is better to bear "choice," bad as it is.

FIND RAY OF HOPE ON DAIRY SKYLINE

Herd Owners Organize First Test Association Started Since 1928

Testing of dairy cows in herds in Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Grand Traverse counties marks the turning point in the farmers' interest in dairying after a continuous three-year decline in the number of associations testing the production of dairy cattle in Michigan, according to the dairy department at Michigan State college.

Two reasons are cited by the college dairy specialists for the awakened desire to check closely the production of their herds. Dairymen are feeling a little more optimistic since the recent slight rise in prices of dairy products and are more willing to invest money in their herds. Also, feed prices have risen more rapidly than dairy products prices and it is now necessary to cull out poor cows to avoid losses.

The dairy herd improvement associations are groups of farmers who hire cooperatively a qualified tester to determine the exact production of each cow in each herd. The cost averages about $33 per year to every member in the association. Usually, 24 or 25 dairymen are associated in one of these groups.

LOWERED FREIGHT RATE TO AID CHERRY PROFIT

Readjustment Made Last Week Opens New Sales Territory

The great south, southwest and west territories were brought 500 miles closer to the Grand Traverse region last week, from a freight rate standpoint.

By virtue of adjustment of a rate differential Grand Traverse region cherry growers will benefit to the extent of at least an additional quarter of a cent a pound on all cherries shipped into those territories on and after July 15th.

SMALL LOAN BILL IS VETED BY GOVERNOR

Action Taken After Companies Agree to Lower Rates

Governor Comstock Thursday morning vetoed the Grajewski bill which would have reduced the legal interest rate on small loans from 3 1/2 to 1 1/2 per cent per month.

The action was taken after small loan concerns had agreed to voluntarily reduce their rates to 3 per cent on loans of less than $100 and to 2 1/2 per cent on sums ranging between $100 and $300.

ENROLLMENT AT INTER-LOCHEN IS NEW RECORD

Exceeding by nearly 100 students the previous peak year in 1931, the National Music camp has announced a total registration of 368 students for this season.

Camp authorities had modestly announced earlier that this season's registrations would probably exceed the 285 mark set two years ago but official figures place the total at 368 as against the 1931 high mark and 220 last year.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45. Wednesday evening at 7:45, first Wednesday of month only.

Subject, "Life." Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend our services and use our reading room. "Sacrament" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 9.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Mark 10: 43-45): "But whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister: And whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all. For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 31): "Obeying his precepts,—following his demonstration so far as we apprehend it,—we drink of his cup, partake of his bread, are baptized with his purity; and at last we shall rest, sit down with him, in a full understanding of the divine Principle which triumphs over death."

MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS

By virtue of a resolution adopted by the state administrative board, all interest, penalties and collection fees on 1932 taxes will be waived if the taxes are paid before November 1, 1933. The deadline for 1932 taxes originally was March 1, but this was extended by the legislature to July 1. The second extension was ordered by the administrative board after adjournment of the legislature.

The alphabetical system of distributing automobile license plates to the various counties will be continued in 1934, it was announced by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald. The same letters will be assigned in 1934 as in 1933.

While $30 a month pensions for most Michigan residents over 70 years of age, will become part of Michigan's laws within a short time, the method of providing funds for payment of the pensions is still doubtful. The Governor has announced that he will sign the bill passed by the legislature but efforts will be made to provide some new method of raising funds. The act now calls for a $2 head tax upon every Michigan resident over 21.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX NEWS COLUMN

Edited by
VINCENT ARNOLD

After nine months of mental gymnastics and comparative physical inactivity, Camp Charlevoix campers and staff returned to the soil on June 30 and prepared for eight weeks of "restful" play. It will be the purpose of this column to record, for the next few weeks, the various items of interest that may occur at the home of the Charlevoix tribe. It is to be hoped that the aforementioned items will be read with as much enjoyment as accompanied their occurrence. At least, we have a right to expect that pleasure of some sort will be a prominent feature of the camp activities; as to enjoyment on the part of the readers of this, we will not venture a prediction. Discretion is the better part of valor!

The opening counciling ceremony of the 1933 season followed the Fourth of July beach barbecue. Newcomers to the camp were led blindfolded to the large enclosed ring in the woods and initiated into the mysteries of the Tribe of Charlevoix.

Chief Reimann read the records of last year which had been buried in a bottle in front of the throne, and despite the presence of moisture on the precious sheets (the bottle was a quarter full of water!), managed to make that part of the program a very interesting one. Might we suggest that this season's accounts contain a list of all the visitors to the camp, especially those on Dad's day? The only real value of such a record lies, of course, in the names that it gives. "Names make news" someone once said, and it applies here.

Saturday night saw a varied and interesting program presented in the club house as a feature of "all-camp" night. The opening event was a christening ceremony, with a cat as the principal figure. This particular animal recently wandered into camp and evidently liked the surroundings so well that it decided to stay on as a permanent guest. With much pomp and splendor Oke's cabin took charge of the christening proceedings, and when it was all over the cat had been officially named "Winona" (don't ask us why, despite its sudden demise in the midst of the solemn pronouncement because of its natural reaction to water peculiar to all felines. Incidentally, the cat has seven toes on each of its front paws. And also, incidentally, it had better stay away from the dining hall during meal time because we have heard several dire threats against its nine lives.

Francis Peters and Ed. O'Brien then took up the burden of entertainment and played a number of old barn dance tunes on the violin (fiddle, here, probably) and banjo. At this point Harlan Hogan of South Bend seated himself at the piano and after accompanying the other two for a minute or so took the center of the stage and proceeded to answer all requests as fast as he could play them. "Storm Weather," "St. Louis Blues," "Shuffle Off to Buffalo," and "Dinah" quickly replaced "Turkey in the Straw," etc. As far as the boys were concerned Mr. Hogan might have continued until he fell off the piano stool. Please don't misunderstand. Each type of music was well executed. It so happened that the popular tunes met with greater favor—not such a strange fact when one stops to consider the audience!

The elder Mr. O'Brien brought the program to a close with a somewhat sketchy account of the old lumbering days around Charlevoix. Our guess is that, given a smaller group in which to talk informally, Mr. O'Brien could tell an intensely interesting story. He was somewhat confused by the number present and his little talk suffered accordingly. The boys had just enough, however, to make them want more.

Taps closed the evening.

Scene: the beach at Mt. McSauban. Principle actors: Col. E. Gillespie, sans everything.

Action: Dance of the Seven Veils. (Veils also absent).

Time: Sunday afternoon (if it matters).

Occasion: trip for the junior section.

"Nuf said!"

"choice." Ever since camp opened on June 30, the word "chulce" has been applied to everything. Far be it from us to criticize anyone's vocabulary, but this word has permeated the very walls of the cabins. Our only hope now is that someone else will coin a word to replace "choice." Then the same process will be repeated, in all probability! Perhaps it is better to bear "choice" bad as it is.

FIND RAY OF HOPE ON DAIRY SKYLINE

Herd Owners Organize First Test Association Started Since 1928

Testing of dairy cows in herds in Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Grand Traverse counties marks the turning point in the farmers' interest in dairying after a continuous three-year decline in the number of associations testing the production of dairy cattle in Michigan, according to the dairy department at Michigan State college.

Two reasons are cited by the college dairy specialists for the awakened desire to check closely the production of their herds. Dairymen are feeling a little more optimistic since the recent slight rise in prices of dairy products and are more willing to invest money in their herds. Also, feed prices have risen more rapidly than dairy products prices and it is now necessary to cull out poor cows to avoid losses.

The dairy herd improvement associations are groups of farmers who hire cooperatively a qualified tester to determine the exact production of each cow in each herd. The cost averages about $33 per year to every member in the association. Usually, 24 or 25 dairymen are associated in one of these groups.

Readjustment Made Last Week
Opens New Sales Territory

The great south, southwest and west territories were brought 500 miles closer to the Grand Traverse region last week, from a freight rate standpoint.

By virtue of adjustment of a rate differential Grand Traverse region cherry growers will benefit to the extent of at least an additional quarter of a cent a pound on all cherries shipped into those territories on and after July 19th.

SMALL LOAN BILL IS VETOED BY GOVERNOR

Action Taken After Companies Agree to Lower Rates

Governor Comstock Thursday morning vetoed the Grajewski bill which would have reduced the legal interest rate on small loans from 3 1/2 to 1 1/2 per cent per month.

The action was taken after small loan concerns had agreed to voluntarily reduce their rates to 3 per cent on loans of less than $100 and to 2 1/2 per cent on sums ranging between $100 and $300.

ENROLLMENT AT INTER- LOCHEN IS NEW RECORD

Exceeding by nearly 100 students the previous peak year in 1931, the National Music camp has announced a total registration of 368 students for this season.

Camp authorities had modestly announced earlier that this season's registrations would probably exceed the 285 mark set two years ago but official figures place the total at 368 as against the 1931 high mark and 220 last year.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Wednesday evening at 7:45, first Wednesday of month only.
Subject, "Life."

Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend our services and use our reading room.

"Sacrament" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 9.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Mark 10: 43-45): "But whosoever will be great among you, shall be your minister: And whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all. For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 31): "Obeying his precious precepts,—following his demonstration so far as we apprehend it,—we drink of his cup, partake of his bread, are baptized with his purity; and at last we shall rest, sit down with him, in a full understanding of the divine Principle which triumphs over death."

MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS

By virtue of a resolution adopted by the state administrative board, all interest, penalties and collection fees on 1932 taxes will be waived if the taxes are paid before November 1, 1933. The deadline for 1932 taxes originally was March 1, but this was extended by the legislature to July 1. The second extension was ordered by the administrative board after adjournment of the legislature.

The alphabetical system of distributing automobile license plates to the various counties will be continued in 1934, it was announced by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald. The same letters will be assigned in 1934 as in 1933.

While $30 a month pensions for most Michigan residents over 70 years of age, will become part of Michigan's laws within a short time, the method of providing funds for payment of the pensions is still doubtful. The Governor has announced that he will sign the bill as passed by the legislature but efforts will be made to provide some new method of raising funds. The act now calls for a $2 head tax upon every Michigan resident over 21.

These paragraphs, taken from the Michigan Lakes and Streams directory, give all the essential information about each lake, including the kind of fish in it, as reported by the state conservation department."

A comprehensive index, also included in the book, facilitates its use by the motorist.

In an introductory "Welcome to Michigan," the publishers greet the state's visitors, pointing out that "nowhere else in the United States will you find a more fascinating combination of spectacular scenery, diversified industry, thrilling and romantic history, and unlimited opportunities for healthful outdoor recreation."

How to Throw Money Away

Read in the American Weekly, with next Sunday's Detroit Times, how a titled English couple amazed a jury with their fantastic extravagances, including house parties where 36 guests dined every day for two weeks and the hostess, changing several times a day, never wore the same gown twice.

INDIANS TAKE SECOND IN LEAGUE STANDING

Handed Mancelona First League Defeat of Season Sunday

The Charlevoix Indians, victors Sunday over Mancelona, advanced to second position in the Charlevoix-Antrim baseball league standing. Charlevoix's 10 to 5 victory was the first set-back for the league-leading Mancelona team this season.

Amos John pitched one of his best games of the season, striking out 13 men and allowing only five hits. Sexton, Mancelona hurler, struck out three and was touched for 12 hits.

Mancelona scored first in the second inning and added two more in the fourth for a 3 to 0 lead. The Indians counted two runs in the fourth and fifth innings, three in the 7th and two in the 8th.

In a twilight game last Thursday evening, the Indians squared accounts with Kegonic, winning 7 to 6 in a close contest. Kegonic opened the scoring in the first with two runs, but Charlevoix came back in their half with five. These were the only tallies until the 8th, when Kegonic tied the count with three runs. The visitors scored again in the 9th for the lead, but the Indians, with two down, put the game on ice with two tallies.

Thursday evening the Indians meet the Ellsworth Packers in another twilight game, and Sunday they play a return tilt with Mancelona on the latter's diamond. It is anticipated Kegonic will return here for a winner-take-all contest on July 27th.

NORTHMEN BASEBALL "9" SPLITS A DOUBLE BILL

Loses to Barnard 13 to 6 — Wins from Maple Grove 16 to 11

The Northmen baseball team spent a strenuous afternoon last Sunday in a twin bill at the north side diamond, but the best it could do was to split even. The Barnard Sluggers defeated the locals 13 to 6 in the opener.

The locals then rallied and with a few new men in the line-up, they managed to pull out ahead of the Maple Grove team in the nightcap with a score of 16 to 11. Parsons pitched well for the locals until, relieved by Alvin John in the fifth inning. Shores had a perfect day at bat with five hits, two of them doubles. Brown and John each hit home runs with empty bases. Maple Grove had a 3 to 2 lead at the end of the second inning but Charlevoix made two in the third and was never headed after that, although the contest remained close until the locals put across six runs in the eighth.

The Northmen will meet the Ellsworth Independents on the Legion diamond Friday night at 8:30 o'clock. Next Sunday they play out of town.

LEGION ACTIVITIES

Edited by F. V. Tyler

Nominations for officers in Leslie T. Stanton post No. 226, American Legion, were made at the post's regular meeting, Tuesday evening. The regular annual election of the members will take place on Tuesday evening, July 18th, when it is hoped to have a record attendance of membership.

Next Sunday, July 16th, Carl O. Weaver post of Petoskey will be host to the regular annual convention of the lower 11th district, American Legion. Registration opens at 10:00 a. m. (and, it might be said here, that this registration carries with it several valuable privileges, including the banquet). The parade is at 2:00 p. m., and it is expected that the huge and drum corps of Traverse City, Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Charlevoix will participate and, possibly that of Cadillac. One of the special features will be the playing of "Semper Fidelis" by the massed bugle and drum corps and the Petoskey band. Practice for Sunday's parade will be held by the Charlevoix corps on Friday evening, July 14th. The banquet at the convention is at 3:00 p. m. and the business session, at which new district officers are to be elected, at 4:30 p. m. Past National Commander Colonel John G. Emery of Grand Rapids, will be present.

The popular Jack Kelly Stock company has been engaged again this year by the local post and will play in this city on July 27, 28, 29 and 30. Further details and advertisement will appear later.

ANNUAL HOSPITAL MEETING WEDNESDAY, JULY 19

Election of Directors and Arranging of Finances Important Issues

A coming event of interest to Charlevoix local and summer residents, is the annual meeting of the board of directors of Charlevoix hospital, to be held Wednesday evening, July 19th, at the city council rooms in the library building, at 8 o'clock.

In addition to the annual reports and arranging of finances for the coming year, three directors will be elected. The terms of W. H. Miller, Joseph N. Foster and William H. Wallace expire at the close of the 1933 fiscal year.

A greater interest than shown in the past couple years, during which time financial problems of the hospital have demanded especial attention, will be necessary at the coming meeting if the institution is to be continued in operation. All interested are expected to be present.

LARGE CROWD HEARD FIRST BAND CONCERT

Next Program to Be Given Saturday Evening at Memorial Park

The Charlevoix city band, directed by Robert B. Magor, gave the first concert of the summer season at Memorial park last Saturday evening before a large and appreciative audience.

The park is a beautiful place for the concerts, and the band, seated on chairs on the lawn with lights strung overhead, played in a manner entirely fitting to such surroundings.

The audience at future concerts is invited to come down into the park where they may hear better. Parents are invited to bring their children, although it is requested they be kept as quiet as possible so as not to disturb the musicians and those listening to the music.

The next concert will be held Saturday evening, July 15th, from eight to nine o'clock.

If you sell your car to an individual or to a dealer, do not merely sign part one of the transfer on the back of the certificate of title and hand it over to the buyer. You must appear in person before a notary and sign it and swear to it in his presence and see that the notary signs it as well and fills in the lines he is supposed to take care of. Do not sign any legal document in blank for anyone, at any time or for any reason. Office hours will be from 8:00 a. m. until 5:30 p. m., with one hour out for dinner (12:00 m. to 1:00 p. m.) when the office will be closed. 1933 LEGISLATURE ADJOURN TUESDAY

OVERRIDE GOVERNOR'S VETO ON TWO MEASURES

Uphold Chain Store Tax and Lower Printing Rate for Publishing Delinquent Tax List

The 1933 Michigan legislature adjourned its sessions at noon Tuesday.

With the exception of adopting a conference report on a resolution giving the state board of tax administration broad powers in enforcing the three per cent retail sales tax act, both houses completed only minor routine business during Tuesday morning's session.

The resolution directs the board to exempt manufacturers and farmers, among others, from the sales tax on equipment and other products purchased which will be used for completion of the finished product.

Working until late Monday night so that the bills would be cleared for adjournment which came at noon Tuesday, the legislators sustained all but two of the twenty-two vetoes imposed upon bills by Governor Comstock since the solons took their recess a month ago.

Most important of the two bills which will become law despite the executive's objections is the Fitzgerald bill which imposes a graduated tax upon chain stores. The levy ranges from $10 to $250, depending upon the number of establishments operated by the chain.

The other measure to survive was the Lamoreaux bill which will lower the rates paid to newspapers for the publication of delinquent tax sale descriptions.

The legislature refused to override Gov. Comstock's veto of the Munshaw-Karwick bill, prohibiting the sale of prison products on the open market and requiring their use in state institutions.

In rapid succession the house refused to override executive disapproval of a measure reducing small loan interest rates, establishing a state milk commission, giving osteopaths broader powers, and repealing the private preserve shooting act. More than a majority voted for several of the measures, but the necessary two-thirds could not be mustered.

The senate dealt more harshly with executive vetoes. It rode rough shod over six and sustained three. The bills adopted by the senate over Gov. Comstock's disapproval were, the prison industries bill open market and requiring their use in state institutions; the Raymond bill, authorizing a reduction of one-fourth in the cost of automobile license plates quarterly; the Derham bill, reducing the tax on malt from 5 to 2 cents a pound, and cutting the license fees of malt dealers; the Lamoreaux bill, reducing the rate for tax sale advertising in accordance with the population of the counties; the Doyle bill permitting judgments against railroads engaged in interstate business and the Leidlind bill, requiring the use of detectant in poisonous gas pest exterminators.

The house sustained vetoes of eight other bills. In most cases the formality of a roll call was unnecessary, the members consenting to attaching a negative roll. The vetoes upheld were: Appropriating $2,700,000 for the University of Michigan (the mill tax was not repealed and)

HAVE YOU JOINED THE COURIER-INN BRIDGE CLASS?—DO IT FRIDAY

Have you joined the Courier-Inn bridge school?

Each Friday in The Inn, Harold Sharpsteen, Michigan's foremost bridge instructor, is conducting lessons under the auspices of this paper for readers of this paper and the summer guests of Charlevoix.

Classes are held at 10:30 a. m., 2:00 p. m., and 8:00 p. m., on the mezzanine floor of The Inn.

Readers of the Courier may attend any one of the classes for 50 cents provided they use the special bridge school coupon appearing in today's paper. Without the coupon the lesson fee is $1.

It was not necessary to have enrolled in the opening class to take advantage of The Courier offer. Clip the coupon and join the class Friday. Many of Charlevoix's leading bridge players are attending the school at The Inn.

NOTED MAGICIAN WILL APPEAR AT BELVEDERE

J. Elder Blackledge to Present Program at the Casino

J. Elder Blackledge, one of the country's leading masters of modern magic, will present a full length program of entertaining mysteries Saturday evening, July 22, at the Belvedere casino.

Mr. Blackledge provides a new note to magical entertainment. He has been conducting an exhaustive study of the intriguing subject for twenty-seven years, and he is not only a finished performer, but also an authority on the history of magic. His travels in search of mystery have taken him into twenty countries.

In his presentation here he will present the entire program alone with all effects arranged and perfected by himself. The original Arab robe miracle which he had the good fortune to witness on the desert of Sahara will be included, together with many other refreshing novelties. Mr. Blackledge is not a mechanical magician, but depends upon finesse of manipulation in creating his mysterious effects and illusions.

BOARD EDUCATION ELECTS OFFICERS

CLARENCE MEGGISON CHOSEN
PRESIDENT FOR 1933

Wm. P. Hicken Retained as Secretary, Henry Partridge as Treasurer—Appoint Committees

Organization of the board of education was completed this week at the first regular business session following the annual district meeting held Monday evening, July 10.

Clarence B. Meggison was chosen to succeed E. L. Dawson, retired, as president of the board. Other officers selected from the membership of trustees were: Harker Kirby, vice-president; William P. Hicken, secretary; and Henry Partridge, treasurer, both succeeding themselves.

Committees appointed by President Meggison, the first named acting as chairman, were: building and grounds—Carl Kohler, Harker Kirby and C. B. Meggison; finance committee—Harker Kirby, W. P. Hicken and Henry Partridge.

Progress on the controversy over the hook store account was reported by Mr. Meggison, who stated the matter was gone over in detail at the organization meeting. The item of $350 withheld to cover salary reduction of the former superintendent the last three months of school has been restituted, and check book stubs, allowing a more complete check of the statement issued by Mr. Bush, have been made available.

Mr. Meggison stated he believed the matter would be brought to a satisfactory conclusion. Money returned, together with the increased value of inventory at the present time over that when the account was turned over to Mr. Bush, is expected to offset unpaid bills aggregating over $500. A complete and accurate accounting, however, will be impossible, due to the fact cancelled checks, the only tangible evidence of money expended, have been destroyed.

NORTHMEN "9" WINS ONE OUT OF THREE

Solists With Ellsworth in Two Games—Loses to Bay Shore

The local Northmen baseball team was only able to win one game out of three played during the past week. Last Friday they defeated the Ellsworth Independents 8 to 7 in a very interesting game. Mike Pallack drove in the winning run. Sunday they went to Bay Shore and lost 8 to 4. Art Yahr and Alvin John had a nice battle until John weakened in the fifth. Tuesday the locals went to Ellsworth and the Ellsworth boys evened the count at a game apiece, winning 16 to 6. Max Bnlser was the winning pitcher.

Sunday the Northmen play Ironton on the Legion diamond at 2:00 p. m.

VALUE OF SUNSETS EFFECTED BY INFLATION?

Petnskey's "Million Dollar Sunsets" have depreciated somewhat—figuratively speaking—since Elk Rapids adopted the slogan: "Elk Rapids, Home of the Billion Dollar Sunsets." After all, what's a million dollars or so.

FEW CHANGES IN STATE GAME LAWS

HUNTING SEASONS ARE SAME AS PREVIOUS YEAR

Lowered License Cost and Re-establishment of Shiras Gun Law Only Important Changes

For the first time in many years, a legislative session has terminated without a single change in Michigan's hunting seasons.

For the next two years, hunting seasons will be identical with those of 1931 and 1932, unless an emergency might necessitate the closing or shortening of some particular season or unless the federal government should liberalize its restrictions on waterfowl hunting.

Very few changes were made by the 1933 legislature in any of the game laws, according to the conservation department. Practically the only revisions included the re-establishment of the so-called "Shiras gun law," affecting the carrying of hunting arms in closed seasons; the lowering of the cost of licenses for taking small game and deer; and the enactment of a new ferret possession law.

The gun permit law is briefly as follows:

"It is unlawful for any person to carry a rifle within any area frequented by deer during the closed season thereon; or to carry a shotgun with buckshot, or slug load, or ball load, or cut shell within any area frequented by deer during the closed season thereon; or to carry a firearm within any area frequented by game when there is no open season thereon, except as provided."

The department of conservation may issue a permit to any person who has secured a license to hunt or trap, to carry specified firearms in any county or counties designated during the closed season. Anyone found violating a conservation law while carrying such a permit is subject to a minimum fine of $150 or a 30 days jail sentence. Permits are not required to carry firearms when entering a deer area during five days preceding the opening of a hunting season and no permit is required to carry a 22-calibre, low power, rifle for hunting small game during the open season, provided he has secured a hunting license. The legislature provided a minimum sentence of a $25 fine or a ten-day jail term for anyone convicted of carrying firearms without a permit.

ANNUAL RIVIERA TENNIS TOURNAMENT AUG. 7-13

Advance Entries Indicate Event Will Be Largely Patronized

Preliminary plans for the Michigan Riviera tennis championships, an annual summer entertainment feature staged at The Inn clay courts, are being made by officers of the Charlevoix Tennis Club.

Over six hundred invitations have been issued, and the early receipt of entries is an indication that the tournament will be well patronized this year. The dates, set and sanctioned by the Western Lawn Tennis association, are August 7 to 13, inclusive.

Several players of national ranking have made known their intention of entering competition this year, and Petnskey, Bay View and other Northern Michigan resorts will furnish their usual quota of stars.

SALES TAX VERY UNPOPULAR HERE

DETAILS COVERING COLLECTION STILL IN THE MAKING

Merchants Are "Up in the Air" About Whole Matter—Waiting for Definite Working Plan

Michigan's three per cent tax on the gross value of all retail sales went into effect on July 1, but merchants throughout the state generally are in ignorance as to the mechanics of the collection under the law. In fact, a definite set of rules and regulations to clarify and apply the act will not likely be issued until some time this week, as conferences are being held to work out some of the problems confronting the collection of the tax.

All retail merchants in the state will be required to obtain a license at the cost of one dollar annually. As the state board administering the act has had insufficient time to prepare the license forms, action against merchants who have not been able to obtain their licenses will be waived temporarily, but the tax payments must be made effective as of July 1. Merchants must prepare bookkeeping records which will enable them to make returns as of the first of July.

Returns are to be made monthly on the 15th, applicable to gross retail sales for the preceding month. The first payments to be due August 15. The act exempts sales of $600 annually, which can be spread over the year on the basis of $50 per month.

On credit sales, each merchant is entitled to apply for permission to make his accounting only on the basis of cash received. In the case of casual sales, from one individual to another, or in other isolated cases, there will be no tax. Farmers may sell their livestock and produce without paying the tax, but if they conduct roadside stands which deal with the ultimate consumer they come under the tax provisions.

Sales to governmental units are exempt, as are welfare orders which ultimately are paid for by governmental units. Wholesale and manufacturing establishments, whose commodities later are resold, are exempt from the tax but the wholesaler who sells at retail occasionally must pay tax on such sales, as must the manufacturer who sells directly to the ultimate consumer.

Advocated as a painless method of taxation by its sponsors, the sales tax may have lightened the burden of the public, but it has multiplied the troubles of the harassed merchant, a survey of local stores reveals.

"Not only is the computing of the tax and the bookkeeping aggravating but we are losing money by it every day," declared several leading merchants.

INDIANS LOST LAST TWO BALL CONTESTS

Drop Games to Ellsworth Packers and Mancelona League Team

After toppling over the league-leading Mancelona team a week ago Sunday, Charlevoix's Indians have lost two straight.

Ellsworth won by a 9 to 7 score last Wednesday evening, scoring four runs in the 4th inning to top Charlevoix's 3 to 1 margin. They were never again headed. Jack Peebles, Ellsworth hurler, had four hits to his credit.

Mancelona avenged their earlier defeat Sunday by trimming the Indians 6 to 1 in a game closer than the score indicates. The count was tied until the 7th inning, Mancelona scoring three runs in that session and two more in the eighth. Only five hits were allowed by three pitchers used by the two teams.

Thursday evening at 6:30, the Indians play the Petoskey American Legion team here. Next Sunday they go to East Jordan for another league contest, and Thursday evening, July 27th, play Keweenaw in a winner-take-all contest on the local diamond.

CHOSEN DISTRICT COMMITTEE-MAN AT DISTRICT MEETING

Annual Summer Session of Lower Eleventh District Held Sunday
With Program at Petoskey

The annual lower 11th district convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary was held at Petoskey Sunday. A fine crowd from this city as well as East Jordan, Boyne City, Alpena, Wolverine and Cheboygan were in attendance.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a parade took place after which a banquet was served at the Elks Temple. Dr. D. J. Gray of Petoskey acted as toastmaster. He introduced Judge V. D. Sprague, who was the principal speaker of the day. Guy Green of Alpena also gave a short and interesting address. Several short talks were given by a number of the guests present. Lee Allard of Charlevoix, district committeeman; and Mrs. Kathryn Shields of Petoskey, district committeewoman, were introduced to the visitors by the toastmaster.

At the conclusion of the program the Auxiliary and Legion units held separate business meetings at the Elks Temple. Mrs. Kathryn Shields was re-elected district committeewoman, and Mrs. Ann DePree of Petoskey as alternate. A past-president of the organization was elected president; Mrs. Lillian Hoffer was elected president; Mrs. Opal Allard of Charlevoix, secretary; and Mrs. Shields, treasurer. The state convention of the parley will be held at Grand Rapids August 20-22.

Between thirty-five and forty local Legionnaires attended the meeting.

AIRPORT IMPROVEMENTS UNDER WAY THIS WEEK

Local Airport to Be One of Most Ideal in Northern Michigan

A program of improvements designed to make Charlevoix's airport one of the best in Northern Michigan, is under way this week.

Accompanying Major Floyd Evans, head of the state department of aeronautics, City Engineer R. F. Sloan and Floyd Brown flew to Mackinaw City last week on a trip of inspection, following which plans for improvements here were completed.

A new approach to the airport is being constructed opposite the Rodgers farm on the Charlevoix-Ellsworth road. Fences and other obstructions are being removed and the field leveled. Three-way runways, a decided feature of convenience, will intersect the landing circle.

An estimate of the cost has been set at $755, with the state sharing liberally. With improvements completed, Major Evans stated Charlevoix would have one of the most ideal airports in this section of the state.

The woman's benevolence committee and a number of individuals gave financial help.

"Mrs. Henry Huir, Mrs. Howard Stephen and Mrs. Lee Sneathen of Hayes township, Mrs. George Meggison of Marion, Mrs. Earl Pablow of Norwood and Mrs. James H. Gallagher of Beaver Island, have taken charge of the work in their districts and have given valuable service. One hundred and one families have been served for. Numbers of garments cut from the material were: 86 dresses, 66 blouses and shirts, 67 gowns and pajamas, 41 bloomers, 28 slips, 154 infants' garments, 381 two-year-old dresses and rompers, 19 sheets, 2 pieces of comforters, or a total of 491 garments. Manufactured articles distributed were: 43 trousers, overalls and smocks, 18 pairs shoes and rubbers, 17 bloomers, 8 comforters, 3 play suits, 2 comforters donated, 4 comforters, 20 sweaters, 75 second-hand articles, or a total of 877 garments placed.

"In almost every instance the families helped were investigated and their particular needs considered. The chairman was assisted by Miss Lockwood, county nurse, and Miss Edna Brown, who gave generously the use of her car.

The following report of the distribution of Red Cross flour was given:

"Approximately 550 barrels were distributed to needy families in the city of Charlevoix, and townships of Charlevoix, Norwood, Marion, and Evelyn, including Ironton, the greater portion of Hayes, including Bay Shore and Beaver Island. 249 families were supplied; the supervisor of the outlying districts sending their requisitions. The distribution was handled by the index card system, the head of the family having an individual card, signed by them and approved by a taxpayer who vouched for their need. These cards, carried the dates of distribution, the number in the family, and a place for remarks relative to their actual condition. Each family received a 25-pound sack in proportion to the number in the family, a family of six or seven receiving one each week and smaller or larger families in the same proportion."

This report was submitted by Clarence Meggison, Legion welfare officer for 1932, and Charles Martini, 1933

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellemcamp.

Farm Women's Week Interests Local Ladies

A most excellent program has been arranged for farm women's week to be conducted by the home economics department of the Michigan State college. At the present time, there are ten ladies who are making preparations to enjoy the week of July 13 to 28.

Each day will be filled with lectures, demonstrations and discussions on various topics that are of especial interest to home-makers. Each lady may select the discussion that is of the most personal interest. In addition, the farm women will hear talks on poultry, landscape gardening and many others of deep interest. Each forenoon session will include demonstrations on clothing, foods and nutrition, home furnishing and others.

During the last eight years the ladies in this county who have been interested in the extension program have had courses on clothing, foods and nutrition, home management, and household furnishing. With all of these projects as a background, the ladies are especially prepared to enjoy further discussions of these same problems.

It is not too late for other ladies to notify County Agent Mellemcamp at Boyne City in case they plan on attending this farm women's week. Instead of having ten to represent our county, we certainly should have double that number. It will be a very inexpensive trip as the $5.00 registration fee will cover the cost of board and room while at the college. The transportation cost will not be excessive.

East Jordan Bull Club Purchases New Animal

The members of the East Jordan bull club have very recently purchased a new bull to replace the one they have owned for the last two years. This young bull, approximately ten months of age, was raised by P. E. Scott of Charlotte, Mich., who owns one of the better Guernsey herds in the state. They feel that he will make a decided improvement in their future Guernsey stock. He possesses very fine type and is from stock that has made very creditable records. His sire is one of the better known sires in the state and one who has a large number of high producing daughters.

This animal represents the third one owned by this bull club and unless all indications fail, should be the best one in this community. By owning this animal co-operatively, it is possible for the seven members to have the services of a much better animal than they could afford to buy individually. This happens to be the only bull club in our county, but scattered through the state are dozens and each community is constantly improving their local dairy program. It is to be regretted that more dairymen don't organize under the same plan in the county.

The following men constitute the members, all living very close to one another: R. V. Liscum, Floyd Liscum, Roscoe Smith, Charles Murphy, Walter Heileman, James Nice and Irving Crawford.

"But I was surprised at the attitude of the public," said a druggist. "The purchasers don't seem to mind the tax except for the odd pennies that are returned after a sale. They take the thing as more of a joke and we have to listen to gags about it all day long. They even sympathize because we have all become tax collectors."

In the clothing, jewelry and grocery stores the tax is applied on all sales of more than 16 cents. Drug, candy, cigar and magazine stores have started the tax at 10 cents. Eleven cents is charged for a 10 cent purchase.

Stores which give sales slips are carefully noting the amount of the tax on each slip so that in event the sales tax be declared unconstitutional restitution may be made on presentation of the slip.

First returns on the tax are due August 15 under the law. Forms will be available after July 20 at the Charlevoix Insurance Agency and Northern Auto company. The merchant must make application for an operating license at the time of filing the first return.

Penalty for failing to make a return or filing a false return is $1,000 fine or one year imprisonment. The license of the defaulting dealer may be revoked for such violation and his business closed.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX NEWS COLUMN
Edited by
VINCENT ARNOLD

Two ball games with Camp Algonquin were the outstanding events in the camp activities last week end. Boys between twelve and fifteen inclusive traveled up to Burr Lake on Saturday for a game with their own age group there, and a contest for those under twelve was played at Charlevoix. Both games turned out rather disastrously for us: the senior game ended 19 to 13 for Algonquin and the other (we shudder to tell the score) was 51 to 8! The latter reads like a comparison between a stock quotation in 1929 and the same one in 1932.

The only alibi that we can offer for the defeats is that Algonquin has a much more extensive athletic program than Charlevoix. Disregard the excuse, however, Algonquin deserved to win, and that she did in a very convincing manner.

Next Saturday night will probably live long in the memories of the campers, especially the younger ones. It has been arranged for the boys to attend the performance of Blackledge, the magician, at the Belvedere casino, on that evening. No one can forecast just what form his mysticism will take and no one seems to be trying to do so. Blackledge will speak for himself when the proper time comes (not an advertisement!).

One of the prize "honors" of the season was unearthed last Saturday, and it was discovered in this way: the use of the truck for the run to Camp Algonquin called for the gray wooden benches to be placed in the back. They had not been put in up to Saturday, and a hurried search was made, with no success. Then the

FOR FAILURE PROOF
BANKING STRUCTURE

Speaker Outlines Threefold Cooperation Between Bankers, Government Officials and the Public to Maintain Bank Standards

TWO elements beside the bankers themselves are required in order to give the nation universally the type of banking it should have, Francis H. Sisson, president of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address. He said that the efficiency of government officials upon whom the people rely to supervise the banks properly, and the patronage of the people themselves are factors in the kind of banks a community shall have.

"There can be no question that the people of the United States should have banks immune from failure and wholly free from bad or questionable banking," Mr. Sisson said. "It is not enough, as President Roosevelt has said, that while some bankers have been incompetent or dishonest, this was not true in the vast majority of our banks. A situation should exist in which there is not even a small minority of bankers open to question. There should be no room for dishonesty or incompetency to exercise any influence in banking anywhere."

"While bad faith and bad management enter the human factor in all types of business, their effects in banking should be surrounded by such special safeguards as to render them no longer a factor in bank failures. The responsibility for bringing this about, however, cannot rest upon the bankers alone, for the means to accomplish it are not wholly in their hands. There are other essential elements."

The Public's Part

"Another essential factor in maintaining good banks involves the part played by the public in banking. There is certainly a responsibility on the people themselves to support that type of banker whose rigid adherence to sound principles makes a sound bank, rather than to give their patronage to the easy going banker who may be easier to do business with, but whose methods create a weak bank."

"Bank customers are charged with a great responsibility in protecting the safety of their banks in respect to their utilization of the assets of the banks as borrowers. Banks have failed because many of their loans and securities, created in good faith by bankers in co-operation with the business interests of the country, proved unsound under subsequent conditions. An unsound loan is created by the borrower as well as the banker. A bank is only as sound as its community, and this applies also to the banking structure as a whole in relation to the economic condition of the nation as a whole."

"A bank is truly a semi-public institution, but in a reciprocal sense it has its obligations to the public, but so has the public equal obligations to the bank. No one who has not sound banking principles at heart has any business in a bank whether as a banker or as a customer."

"The banker is a semi-public servant. He is charged with the heaviest of responsibilities and obligations that occur in our economic life. But he can meet them fully only through the cooperation of good laws, good public officials who are empowered to exercise authority over his bank, and good business methods on the part of business men generally who cooperate by all means through such cooperation by all elements in our nation's community life can we be assured of a failure-proof banking structure."

"The Administration at Washington has taken hold of this problem with a firm grasp of essentials and is exercising splendid leadership toward the desired end. The strongest feature of the government program will be found in recognizing the joint responsibility of the public, of business and of government officials together with the bankers themselves in creating the kind of banking the nation should have."

Improved Pasture Pays

IMPROVED pastures are a cheap source of feed for stock. A farmer in New Hampshire, cooperating with his county agent top-dressed his 5 acres of pasture with 500 pounds of complete fertilizer at a cost of $75, reports the United States Department of Agriculture. After 4 weeks he turned his cows out on this pasture. Tests made during the six weeks the cows grazed there showed that his herd produced 7,000 pounds more milk than they did in the same period the previous year, although the farmer had one cow fewer and fed 800 pounds less grain. Based on current milk prices he made $183 on the extra milk and saved $16 on the grain, netting him an increase in income of $199.—U. S. Department of Agriculture.

SOMEWHERE IN THE SHOPPING CENTER

One Purseful of OPPORTUNITIES

THE OPPORTUNITIES, to which we refer, are the daily bargains to be found in every shopping area. Some people find them quite by chance... stumble over them blindly... and acquire them with astonishment. Others never seem to be in the right store at the right time: If there's a 25% marked-down sale of shoes at Smith's, they are buying at Brown & Co. If a grocer three blocks away is clearing out his canned goods at half-price, they are at the corner store making routine purchases.

But — there are some people who always find these opportunities. Their money buys them more — and better — merchandise than their neighbors'. Why? Not through good luck, you may be sure; but simply because these people read the advertisements in their weekly newspaper.

This advertising is NEWS. It tells WHAT... It shows WHERE. Those who read it every day are informed. They save themselves time, trouble, and DOL-LARS... And their homes are always up-to-date, their clothes stylish... their meals fresh with seasonal variety
... all through the OPPORTUNITIES that advertising gives them.

TAXPAYER'S PARADISE
Eight Michigan communities have been receiving a lot of favorable publicity lately because of the fact that they are known as taxless towns. This information comes from the Utilities Information Bureau of Michigan, which lists Pawamo, Sarnac, Applegate, Cass City, Clinton, Gagetown, Luther and Uby as being in this class. eight Michigan communities charged their residents nothing for local government in 1932.

Living in these towns may be quiet but at least it is inexpensive to the taxpayers. Village government in Michigan has always been of the best. In the smaller places citizens actually fight for the opportunity to serve their communities without pay. Whatever the small cost of local government it is easily borne, and often there is enough left in the treasury at the end of the year to care for the expenses of the next.

Village and township government should be encouraged and preserved. Both are inexpensive, both are close to the people, both create respect for all government in the minds of the people they serve.

AT THE MOVIES

Famous Southern Town Background Of Racing Drama

A famous old Southern racing town is the scene of "From Hell to Heaven," drama coming to the Palace theatre Friday and Saturday, July 21-22, and the running of a great Derby the motivation for its action. The picture, however, concerns itself more with the effect of the Derby on a group of people of diversified backgrounds and circumstances than with the Derby itself.

Carole Lombard, Jack Oakie, David Manners, Adrienne Amer, Sidney Blackmer and Verna Hillie play the leading roles in the film.

Rome Burns Again

History's most famous conflagration was repeated recently when a man turned on a gas valve.

Before the fascinated eyes of hundreds of workmen, flames burst out among a group of buildings, great billows of smoke rolled skyward, and a multitude of men, women and children ran screaming through streets.

Rome was burning again, 2,000 years after the famous blaze during which Nero fiddled.

This time the fire was created for the exclusive use of Cecil B. DeMille's cameras, filming the spectacle, "The Sign of the Cross," which comes to the Palace theatre Sunday and Monday, July 23-24, with a cast headed by Fredric March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughton.

A Hollywood beauty parade made up of more than 500 of the most gorgeous girls in the film capital, was staged by Sammy Lee, Fox dance director, to choose 65 for the "Dance of the Maidens" which supplies a spectacular sequence in "I Loved You Wednesday," to be seen at the Palace theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

Warner Baxter, Elissa Landi, Victor Jory, Miriam Jordan and Laura Hope Crews have the principal roles in "I Loved You Wednesday," and Henry King is the director.

Basil Rathbone, star of "After The Ball," the Gaumont production which Fox Film is presenting at the Palace theatre on Thursday, comes to the screen after one of the most successful careers of the legitimate stage. He will be remembered as the star of such outstanding productions as "The Czarina," "The Swan," "The Captive," "The Command To Love," "Peter Ibbotson" and "He Who Gets Slapped." Esther Ralston has the leading feminine role opposite him in "After The Ball," with Marie Burke, Jean Adrienne, George Curzon and Clifford Heatherley in the supporting roles.

NORTHMEN WON CLOSE GAME FROM ELLSWORTH

Copped 8 to 7 Verdict Here Last Friday Evening

Charlevoix's Northmen won a close game from the Ellsworth Independent baseball team at north side ball park Friday evening. The score was 8 to 7. Alvin John, who hurled for the Northmen, made four hits in as many times at bat, scoring two runs to lead the locals. He teamed with Ed Swanson to form the local battery. Mike Pollock, who also had a perfect record at bat, was credited with the winning score in the 9th inning, sending Tockoly acroers with a timely hit.

An agreement has been reached whereby money for the institution will come from that source; appropriating $800,000 for Michigan State college; appropriating money for damage done by bears; providing for six-man juries in certain cases; making it a misdemeanor to refuse to leave unposted or uninclosed grounds at the request of the owner; appropriating $25,000 for 4-H clubs; eliminating sticker candidates from all but township elections, and appropriating $30,000 for county fairs.

Nearly all members returned for the brief session. In the house 95 of the 100 members were present. Every senator was there. Crowded galleries watched the house as it wrestled with veto messages, and applauded frequently until warned by Speaker Martin R. Bradley.

LEGION ACTIVITIES

The three per cent sales tax must be paid by merchants on all retail sales, credit as well as cash, James E. Moggin, managing director of the state board of tax administration, announced Tuesday. He explained that the total tax on merchandise purchased on credit may be included in the down payment. This ruling means that regardless of whether a merchant collects the money for all the merchandise he sells, he must pay the tax on the entire amount of wares which consumers buy.

PROFIT VS. GREED

Governor Comstock's veto of the small loan bill occasioned no surprise among those who were supposed to know some of the inside conditions at Lansing. For several days prior to the official action, which wiped out the expressed will of both branches of the legislature, it was freely predicted by Lansing newspaper correspondents that the bill to lower the legal rate of interest on small loans from 42 to 21 per cent a year would not become law. In using the power of the veto, the governor expressed his belief that reducing the present interest rates on this class of loans would drive many legitimate companies out of business and result in the small borrower becoming the prey of salaried sharks and other vicious interests which prey upon the unfortunate.

PUBLIC ALWAYS FAIR

Without exception the greater majority of the public is always willing to listen to a reasonable explanation of any controversial issue, and to lend its moral and financial support in the right direction whenever a question of public welfare is at stake. This was clearly demonstrated regarding the 50-cent rod license fee. Owing to a sharp division among the legislators during the closing hours of the session the measure failed of immediate effect, which means it will not become strictly a legislative mandate until 90 days following the final date of adjournment.

By that time the fishing season will be practically at an end and unless good sportsmanship was shown on the part of the fishermen, much of this revenue would be lost at a time when it is badly needed to carry on the work of the conservation department.

Happily, we are told, there has been a surprising response to the request that licenses be purchased before the angler ventures forth and the chances are there will be no maintenance of the work of the department in keeping Michigan streams stocked with game fish. Such a report is most refreshing and shows the respect the general public has for the department in its work of keeping Michigan ideal as the vacation land of the nation.

THE NEW SALES TAX

The long anticipated sales tax is at last a reality. Chosen as the lesser of tax-raising evils it is now a major part of Michigan's tax system. How the new law will work out in actual practice, what effect it will have on those least able to pay such a tax, is something that cannot be definitely determined until it has been given a thorough trial.

Perhaps the one thing that can be said in favor of such a tax, it extracts its continuous toll in such small amounts at a time that, like the gas tax, does not raise the vigorous protest from the taxpayers as did the direct property tax which had to be paid in a lump sum and which finally grew too burdensome to bear.

However, one thing is certain: everybody, from the highest to the lowest will help pay the tax. If you continue to eat, to wear cotton or silk, overalls or fine tailored garments, you'll have to bear your share of the cost of government. Economy in government was forgotten in the mad scramble to find new streams of revenue to tap. Michigan is now on the way to collect the largest tax bill in history, and one of the illuminating features of the new system will be the spectacle of all tax-raising units being themselves taxed on the same things they buy to relieve the sufferings of the unfortunate.

BAD PLACE FOR POLITICS

Gov. Comstock's own comment upon the summary discharge of the wardens of the three Michigan prisons by the new prison board was this: "Perhaps it is best described as a political change. Although no charges of inefficiency have been lodged against any warden, we have felt that it was time Democrats came into control of such important branches of the Government."

We can think of few things more perilous to the public welfare and safety than a policy which permits the wardenships of penal institutions to be made into political plums. Without in any way intending to reflect upon the capabilities of the men chosen by the Michigan prison board to succeed the outgoing wardens, we contend that the moment efficiency and good service are made secondary to political affiliation, or to a desire to land out party spoils in dividing who are to be the men in charge of institutions full of desperate criminals, that moment an extremely dangerous and evil situation starts to develop. The governor is making a serious mistake in permitting anything of this sort in Michigan. — Detroit Free Press.

THE FINAL GESTURE

The state has definitely set November 1 as the final date on which 1932 taxes may be paid without interest or penalties. The legislature adjourned without officially extending the time beyond July 1, but the administrative board stepped into the breach and adopted a resolution calling upon all the counties to agree to waive penalties because of the belief that by November all classes of citizens, especially the farming class, will be in better financial shape to take care of their tax delinquencies.

It is safe to predict this will be the final gesture in behalf of the delinquent taxpayer. Already taxes in arrears prior to 1932 have been amortized over a ten-year period, provided the 1932 tax bill is paid. About all that could be done in addition to the relief already extended would be to remit the tax entirely, which is not going to happen. It will be the wise property owner who will make every effort to clean the slate before the first of November arrives.

THE WATCHFUL EYE

On-rescuing part of President Roosevelt's trade recovery program is the praiseworthy policy of watching the progress with which he is moving throughout the country by those who are not to forget the little days of a few years ago when everybody seemed afflicted with that form of hysteria. When price cutters realize they are under the watchful eye of the administration, that any unfair advantage in retail prices will be severely dealt with, they will be less likely to indulge in such practices. A great mass of our people have been caught between the upper and lower millstones of this socialist revolution to speed the return of prosperity, and only by the closest scrutiny of price fixing by our national leaders at Washington can they be saved from disaster.

WHEAT CUT BRINGS MILLIONS TO STATE

Michigan Farmers Given Chance to Stabilize Wheat Crop

A major prize of $4,385,000 and minor awards consisting of 20 per cent less work on their wheat crop, 20 per cent less total cost of growing wheat, and a form of crop insurance which brings the farmers a small annual payment even if their crop is a total failure are a part of the inducements offered to Michigan wheat growers for cutting their acreage, according to R. J. Baldwin, director of extension work.

The money is the benefit payment made to farmers who will sign a three-year contract to cut their acreage of wheat not more than 20 per cent. It will be divided into three payments, the first in September, 1933, and the other two in the next two years, 1934-35.

Payments will be made from the funds derived from the tax of 30 cents per bushel paid by millers on all wheat processed this year. The total obtained from the processing tax will be paid back to wheat growers who reduce their acreage. The expenses incurred by county committees of farmers in administering the work in their counties will be deducted from the amount paid to that county.

Michigan's average wheat yield for the years 1928-1932 of 15,529,000 bushels is used as the basis for computing the amount of money to be paid to Michigan farmers. The government pays a benefit on 60 per cent of the total production. The payment to farmers is figured at 20 cents per bushel minus the expense of the county committees.

The payment is computed on the average yield in bushels but the benefit will be paid at a certain price per acre for every acre, up to 20 per cent, decrease in wheat planted by farmers who sign contracts. Every farmer will be asked if he wishes to sign a crop contract. His answer, yes or no, is final.

The number of acres each Michigan county is asked to take out of wheat production will be apportioned among individual farmers by local committees selected by the farmers themselves. Each township or community will have a committee of three members, one of whom will be a member of the county committee which will decide how many acres of wheat each farmer has planted in the past three years and how many acres decrease he is entitled to be allotted. Obtaining signatures on crop contracts will be the duty of the township committees.

The task of finding out how many farmers in Michigan want to sign crop contracts has already begun. Township committees will be selected following local meetings at which county agricultural agents explain the purposes and rewards of the wheat allotment plan. The county committees will be organized as rapidly as possible.

Mr. Baldwin says that the Michigan farmer who ordinarily grows 20 acres of wheat will be asked to plant 16 acres this fall. To repay him for the extra 4-acre decrease in production, the farmer would be paid approximately $70 from the funds obtained from the processing tax on wheat. This added to the sales price of the wheat grown on 16 acres should bring the farmer a larger income from his 16 acres of wheat than a neighbor who does not reduce acreage will receive for the wheat sold from 20 acres.

The government payments for acres in wheat a farmer will be paid even if the 1934 crop is a complete failure. This makes a form of crop insurance that will yield a profit to the co-operating farmer in the event of crop failure.

The man who cuts his wheat acreage will also save the costs of planting, harvesting and marketing four acres of wheat. The four acres taken out of production can be seeded to grasses or legumes to be used for hay or pasture but can not be planted to crops used for human food.

The interests of the consumers of bread will not be forgotten by Secretary Henry A. Wallace. Warnings have been sent to the mayors of 49 cities that, if undue rises in the price of bread in those cities are not correct, the powers vested in the secretary of agriculture will be invoked to see that the public is not gouged. Two Michigan cities were in the list from which unfair prices were reported.

No permits will be issued by the conservation department this year to anyone who does not have an unexpired small game license. The permits will be issued by local conservation officers and from the Lansing office of the department.

The 1933 small game licenses will be sold at a fee of $1.00 to residents and $5.00 to non-residents. The deer license next fall, with a seal, will cost $2.25 with a non-resident fee of $25.00.

No change was made in the muskrat trapping license fee, which is $2.00 for the first 20 traps and 10 cents each for each additional trap. No licensee is permitted to have more than 100 traps.

Orchard owners and nurseries are given consideration in a new law which legalizes, under permit, the propagation and possession of ferrets. The propagation, importation, sale, transportation and possession of ferrets is permitted now under a $10 license, to be issued by the department of conservation.

In instances where rabbits or rats are doing damage to property, permits may be obtained from the department of conservation to possess ferrets to stop the damage. But catchers, who use ferrets, may obtain, under bond, a permit from the department.

OVER TWO HUNDRED NEW LAWS ADDED TO STATUTES

A total of 263 new laws were added to Michigan's statute books as the result of the deliberations of the 1933 legislature. In 1931, the legislature enacted 334 new laws and previous legislatures usually enacted between 325 and 400 laws every two years.

JACK KELLY STOCK CO. COMING HERE SUNDAY

Start Four-Night Engagement at Legion Grounds, Garfield Avenue

Starting Sunday, July 23, the Jack Kelly Stock company, which has long been a big favorite in this city, will return for an engagement of four nights and one matinee playing under the auspices of the American Legion and the big beautiful tent theatre will be erected next to the Legion home on the hill.

While this has been an off season for many shows, Jack Kelly went right ahead and engaged the best company he has had in years and the selection of plays this year is the very best.

On Sunday night the entire strength of the company will be seen in the latest comedy success "Where's My Teddy." This play has had a long run in both New York and Chicago and if you like a good laugh you don't want to miss this play Sunday night. It will also serve to introduce local theatre goes to Billy Carnish, one of the youngest and best of the comedians of the stage today and as a special feature for Sunday night Mr. Kelly will admit one lady free with each paid adult ticket.

Between the acts this year you will have many surprises as there will be from five to seven acts each evening and many of them having appeared in the leading vaudeville theatres of this country. This list is headed by Lloyd and Lola Connelly, the clever musical acts seen here last season with Mr. Kelly.

On Wednesday afternoon a special feature for the children, a new version of "Little Orphan Annie." This performance will start at 2:30, so send the kiddies as they will love "Little Annie" with the kidnappers. During the engagement the play and vaudeville will be changed nightly.

GROW SWEET GRASS TO MAKE INDIAN BASKETS

Several Acres Will Be Cultivated
This Year Near Pellston

Several acres of sweet grass which grows wild in the woods furnish Indian women material with which to weave baskets for Michigan's tourist trade.

Ordinarily, they use sweet grass which grew wild in the woods. In recent years, however, demands for baskets have increased until now they must plant and cultivate the grass in order to have a sufficient amount of raw material to care for their trade.

There are lots of big boys and small men in the world.

SURVEYING PROPOSED SCENIC ROAD STARTED

Will Have Preliminary Plans Ready for Approval in Ten Days

Survey lines for the proposed 11-mile scenic highway from Charlevoix south along Lake Michigan to Norwood have been started.

City Engineer R. F. Sloan reported Wednesday morning that three miles of survey work has been completed, and that the entire task will be finished in about ten days. The survey will furnish data for preliminary plans to be submitted to the Federal Emergency Relief commission for approval.

From an engineering standpoint, Mr. Sloan states the project is ideal for a scenic highway. The route proposed follows closely the crest of the first row of foothills along the lake front. With the exception of a few small stretches, abundant material for construction is to be had along the route. Grading and moving the stone hut a short distance to the roadbed is all that will be necessary. Culverts are planned to span McGeagh and Inwood creeks.

If approved and authorized, the project will furnish relief funds for labor to an amount estimated at $25,000 or more. Work would be started as soon as the project is approved and plans completed.

In addition to its value as a tourist attraction, the highway would throw open for development 11 miles of the most ideal lake frontage in Northern Michigan. As a scenic highway it would be without equal. Every local effort is being brought to bear in a campaign to have the project approved.

TAX PENALTY WAIVED UNTIL NOVEMBER 1ST

Legislature Adopts Holbeck Bill Extending Tax Limit

Michigan's 1933 legislature Tuesday had again rescued the delinquent taxpayer and ordered that all 1932 levies be accepted by county treasurers until November 1 without penalty or interest charges.

Revising the Holbeck bill late Monday the senate passed the measure extending the deadline four months from July 1. The measure now goes to the governor for signature.

Closely allied with this measure was a concurrent resolution asking that the provisions of the Munshaw-Bichoff act, which provides for a moratorium on mortgage foreclosures, be liberally construed. The resolution points out that in many instances foreclosures are being made on overdue notes and not on mortgages themselves.

CITY BAND TO LEAD CHERRY FETE PARADE

Organization Goes to Traverse City for Festival Friday

The second concert of the summer series was given last Saturday evening at Memorial park by the Charlevoix city band, directed by Robert B. Magor.

A large crowd attended in spite of the cool breeze which played havoc with the music stands and music. The musicians employed clothes pins to hold their music in place, but even then it was necessary to run after music now and then that the wind had blown away.

The program was opened by a march, "Trumpet Corps," a very brilliant number which employs a fanfare of the trumpets throughout. "Operatic Mingle" was especially pleasing to the audience when bits from "Carmen," "Bohemian Girl," "Martha," and other favorites were recognized. "Slim Trombone" was also very much enjoyed as the glissando of the trombone will always be novel.

The closing march "American Republic" is a fascinating combination of the "Star Spangled Banner" and "Yankee Doodle."

The concert band sounds best down in the park and those who sit in their cars or stand outside the park are not in the best position to hear. Enjoy next Saturday's concert by entering the park.

Friday, July 21, the Charlevoix city band will go to Traverse City to lead the parade of the cherry festival. The city council has given financial support to defray expenses of the trip.

DRAMATIC PLAYERS AT THE BELVEDERE CASINO

Presented Molnar's "Olympia" to Large Audience Monday

The first of a summer series of presentations by the National Dramatic Camp players was given Monday evening at the Belvedere casino.

A large group of local and summer residents received with high appreciation the presentation of Franz Molnar's "Olympia." Those who have been unable to attend the programs at the camp near Ironton had their first opportunity of enjoying this excellent entertainment, and only words of praise could be heard from all quarters.

Mrs. Carl C. Steiner, manager of the Belvedere hotel, stated the next production by the Dramatic Camp players has been scheduled for Saturday evening, July 29th, and a cordial invitation is extended all to attend.

welfare officer. Mrs. Neuman's report continues:

"The report of Dr. C. J. Winder, roll call chairman for the November drive, revealed the amount of money collected at $75. As usual the schools did fine work, as $28.77 of the above amount was turned in by the Junior Red Cross chairman, Miss Helen French.

"I would call to the attention of the Red Cross membership and the public generally, that the time and labor given to put over this work was donated. In many places women were hired to do the cutting, but our chairmen worked to conserve our funds. Many did not receive the help needed because they did not make application, fearing it was charity. It was an emergency relief only.

"We have been subjected to the usual criticism, but cases investigated, almost without exception, were perfectly legitimate.

"The county chairman will soon issue a call for an adjourned meeting for the election of officers. Be there!"

ROOSEVELT RECOVERY PLAN STARTS

ASK FOR WAGE INCREASE AND SHORTENING OF HOURS

Agreements to Be Sent to Every Employer in United States Before Effective August 31

President Roosevelt has called upon every employer in the United States to raise wages and create employment by shortening the working hours.

His urgent appeal launched an emergency re-employment drive such as never before has been undertaken in this or any other country.

Calling for "united action," the president asked all employers to subscribe to a blanket code giving white collar workers a 40-hour week and a $12-$15 minimum wage, and industrial labor a 35-hour week with a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour.

Voluntary co-operation was the basis of this unprecedented social and economic experiment, this "mass attack on depression."

The emergency campaign intends putting the industrial recovery program in full swing without waiting for approval of individual codes. Sections of the National Industrial Recovery act were invoked as authorization.

Highlights to the voluntary agreement to which all employers are asked to subscribe are:

1. The agreements would become effective August 31.
2. Child labor is banned with certain exceptions.
3. Clerical or "white collar" workers will be limited to a 40-hour week, with a minimum pay of $15 in cities of 500,000 or more; $14.50 in cities of between 250,000 and 500,000 population; $14 in cities between 2,500 and 250,000, and 20 per cent wage increases in towns of less than 2,500, provided this does not require more than $12 a week.
4. Factory or mechanical workers limited to 35 hours per week until December 31, with the right to work 40 hours per week for any six weeks within this period. No worker shall be employed more than eight hours in any one day. Forty cents an hour shall be the minimum wage unless a scale lower than that was in effect July 15, 1929, and in no case shall less than 30 cents an hour be paid.
5. Prices must not be increased over the July 1 price except where made necessary by increased costs or taxes.
6. Flexibility is provided to avoid working hardships in particular cases where limitation on hours of skilled labor would reduce production, but time and one-half must be paid for all work in excess of the maximum hours.
7. The voluntary agreement will cease to apply to any industry upon (Continued on page 6.)

MICHIGAN LEADS IN NEW FEDERAL LOANS TO CO-OPS

Michigan leads the four states of the seventh federal land bank district in amount loaned to co-operatives during June by the farm credit administration. The total of new loans to various co-operatives during the month amounted to $10,986, according to figures based on the June report of the farm credit administration. Total loans outstanding on June 30 in this district, which includes Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, amounted to $4,828,755.99. These loans are shared by 17 different organizations of producers covering such staple products as potatoes, wheat, butter, cheese and other dairy products, cherries, grapes and other fruits, tobacco and poultry.

Of the $10,986 in new loans, Michigan obtained $8,986, bringing this state's total outstanding cooperative debt to the farm credit administration as of June 30 up to $261,287.60. Minnesota, although it got no new loans in June, leads the list of those four states with $2,961,858 outstanding. Wisconsin is next with $1,378,181.23, and North Dakota has outstanding loans of $227,429.16.

These loans are made from the revolving fund of the agricultural marketing act. New loans made for the entire United States during the month of June by the farm credit administration totaled $2,404,234, and repayments to the fund by co-operatives for the same period amounted to $2,411,647.06, leaving a balance outstanding on that date of $181,153,833.56.

BELVEDERE PLANS WEEK END PROGRAM

DRAMATIC CAMP PLAYERS APPEAR SATURDAY NITE

American Music Camp at Bay View Presents American Symphony Orchestra at Casino Sunday

Two outstanding entertainment features have been arranged by the Belvedere Hotel management at the casino for the coming week end.

Saturday evening, July 29th, at 8:30 o'clock, the National Dramatic Camp players will appear for the second time at the casino, presenting Albert Barker's "Dirty Hands." This production, the second given by the players at their Ironton theatre, won the acclaim of all who attended.

Sunday afternoon an special treat is in store for music lovers when Director Frederick Lewis of the American Music camp at Bay View, presents the American Symphony orchestra in a one-hour program, commencing at 3:30 o'clock.

The orchestra, conducted by Alexander Schuster, made its first appearance of the season before a Bay View audience at the auditorium last Sunday afternoon. The program delighted the large assembly.

The program for Sunday's concert has been announced as follows: Overture, "Marriage of Figaro," Wolfgang A. Mozart's symphony, "Unfinished," number 8, Allegro moderato, Andante con moto, Franz Schubert; Menuetto—Opus 78, Franz Schubert; Allegro con grazia (from the Symphony No. 6), Peter Tchaikovsky; Valse Triste, Jean Sibelius; Barchanale (from the opera "Samson et Delilah"), Camille Saint-Saens.

It is anticipated this will be the first of numerous appearances of the American Symphony orchestra here this summer. Programs presented at the Bay View auditorium during the past three years since organization of the camp, have drawn music lovers from every section of the Northern Michigan resort region. They have been outstanding, as has also the growth of the camp since its inception. Charlevoix local and summer residents have a surprise and a treat as well in store for them Sunday.

CHARLEVOIX CITY BAND LED FESTIVAL PARADE

Represented This City in National Cherryland Fete

Charlevoix was represented musically at the cherry festival last Friday in Traverse City by its splendid city band.

Dressed in white, marching five abreast and six deep, the band made a striking appearance as they marched just ahead of the queen's float, carrying Miss Morella Oldham, local girl who reigned as queen of the festival. Playing good snappy marches the band received generous applause as they swept past thousands of people lined along the curbs of the Traverse City business streets.

Saturday, July 29th, at 8 o'clock, the band will play another of its regular Saturday evening concerts. More and more people are attending these concerts given in the park on Round lake.

FARMERS MUST REQUEST EXEMPTION

OTHERWISE MUST PAY TAX ON FEED AND MACHINERY

Summer Hotels Will Not Be Allowed Full $600 Exemption Under New Tax Commission Ruling

Farmers will not be exempted from paying the three per cent sales tax on seed, feed, fertilizer or machinery until some farm organization specifically presents a claim for such preference, James E. Mogan, director of the state board of tax administration, announced Tuesday.

While Mogan admitted such exemptions were the intent of the legislature, the board does not intend to make any broad rulings.

"When a ruling is asked, one will be given," Mogan said. "It will be limited, however, because if we keep on giving exemptions it is easy to see that no sales tax would be collected."

He suggested that the farmers' case be presented by the Michigan State Grange or Michigan Farm Bureau or some other farm organization.

At the same time, Mogan said that resort businesses which operate only a few months of the year will not be given the full $600 annual exemption authorized by the legislature. He said that the $600 must be prorated by them as by all other industries at the rate of $50 per month. Thus, a resort operating for four months will only receive a $200 exemption instead of the $600.

Mogan also warned retailers not to pay their tax to any alleged field representatives of the board. He said that there has been brought to his attention that "unscrupulous people" may attempt to take advantage of the collection of the tax.

"Retailers are advised that in no case nor at any time will any field representative of this board have authority to collect the sales tax," he said. "Retailers are also asked to refuse to give out information to anyone at any time concerning their business unless the representative has proper authority."

The board has also ruled that persons receiving welfare relief or relief from the Federal Reconstruction Finance corporation or widows on the pension list are not subject to the sales tax. The burden of proof, however, remains with the retailers to show to the board that the sale deducted under the ruling had actually been made to persons entitled to such relief.

DRAMATIC CAMP'S 'OLYMPIA' SUCCESS

ARTISTIC PRODUCTION OF MOLNAR'S COMEDY

Third Ironton Play an Example of Smart Acting, Beautiful Settings and Careful Handling

"Olympia" the third production on the schedule of the National Dramatic camp was pronounced an artistic success by the audiences who made the brief journey to Ironton last week. This production showed plainly the versatility of the players. Playing what is known as "high comedy" the company handled the most difficult scenes in sparkling style. They were aided by a setting that was a decided departure from the previous settings, modernistic even to the furniture. The entire production was an agreeable surprise to the audiences. They had not expected that such effort would be taken, but obviously the Ironton group do not do things by halves. Even to the costumes, accuracy in detail was maintained.

The story of "Olympia" was written by Molnar, concerns the love of a certain Captain Kovacs for the Princess Olympia. Her mother, a scheming, selfish, power loving woman fears a scandal if the young couple are too much together. She prevails upon her daughter to renounce the captain. The daughter deliberately insults the officer and in revenge he has himself revealed to her and her mother as an international crook. The ensuing trouble can well be imagined. The mother tries to buy Captain Kovacs off. He refuses—demanding the daughter in his arms instead. She proves both willing as well as an unwilling sacrifice at the altar of her mother's ambition. Morning dawns and with it the arrival of Olympia's father. Mother, having entrusted her Olympia to the Captain wonders what has happened. Olympia has nothing to say. And then the general, Olympia's father, and young Kovacs meet. They are old friends. The family are in a panic—a swindler on their hands—they can't expose him. What's to be done? Kovacs, himself, solves the problem, revealing that he really is an officer. The ending of the play is unique in that the playwright did not pandering to "movie taste" and supply a sugary ending. It was better so.

Elvera Baker and Harry Young made an appealing pair of lovers. Miss Baker played the character of Olympia with an admirable poise and emotional quality. Mr. Young was suave and handsome in his colorful Hussar uniform. He was an ideal type for the part of Captain Kovacs. Miss Dorothy Fritz came through with her usual fine performance. As the mother of Olympia she handled a brand of comedy that earned her a great deal of applause.

The general, as played by Charles "Chuck" Kocsis of Detroit, won the Michigan amateur golf championship for the second time Sunday, defeating Clarence Markham, Ann Arbor, at the Jackson Country club. Kocsis won his first state championship in 1930 at the Belvedere course here, and last summer won the Charlevoix open tournament at the Charlevoix Golf Club course.

"CHUCK" KOCSIS WINNER SECOND STATE GOLF TITLE

Charles "Chuck" Kocsis of Detroit, won the Michigan amateur golf championship for the second time Sunday, defeating Clarence Markham, Ann Arbor, at the Jackson Country club. Kocsis won his first state championship in 1930 at the Belvedere course here, and last summer won the Charlevoix open tournament at the Charlevoix Golf Club course.

ELLSWORTH CANNERY STARTS HEAVY RUN

Will Operate Day and Night Shifts Starting This Week

The Reid & Murdoch canning factory, Ellsworth's leading industry, will begin operation this week, according to Elmer Rood, general manager.

String beans will be the first product to be canned. This run will take about six weeks as the concern has contracts for 320 acres of beans. The beet season will last from six to eight weeks. They have contracted 140 acres of beets. The carrot season will be shorter as only 40 acres have been contracted.

Mr. Rood expects to employ about 140 on the day and night shift, with approximately 90 employed during the day run. No night run will be made on string beans, excepting those who will be employed at snipping. However, two crews will work during the beet season.

The factory which was completed last year, is one of very modern type. The machinery was installed this spring. It contains eight cookers and is equipped to can 2,000 cases daily.

REFUSED BEER PERMIT, A. & P. TO SUE

CITY COUNCIL ASKED TO SHOW CAUSE OF DISAPPROVAL

Case Will Be Argued at Traverse City Before Judge Parm C. Gilbert Friday Morning

Notice has been served on Mayor L. S. See, members of the city council and City Clerk Roy S. Hamilton that they must appear before Judge Parm C. Gilbert at Traverse City on July 28th, and show cause why the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company application to retail beer shall not be approved.

Shortly after 3.2 beer became legal, the A. & P. applied for a license to retail the beverage. The license was presented to the city council for approval. About the same time a petition came in signed by many people asking that all stores retailing food be denied permission to retail beer. As a result of this petition, the council refused to approve the application of the A. & P.

The matter hung fire for some considerable time, while approval was given to others requesting permit to retail beer. A resolution citing the petition as a reason why the application should not be granted failed passage by the council, and later the same evening the council refused to grant the application by a split vote. The matter resulted in heated discussion. Following their action in refusing the permit, the council granted the petition asking food stores be refused license to sell beer. Formerly it had only been accepted and placed on file.

Now, through its attorneys, the chain store has started suit to force the council to approve its license application, and the case will be argued before Judge Gilbert, Friday morning at 10 o'clock. In other cities in the state, it is understood, the chain store has been successful in its suits to force approval of its license application.

INDIANS BEAT PETOSKEY KEY BALL TEAM HERE

Took Thursday Evening Tilt by Decision 7 and 2 Count

Charlevoix Indians defeated the Petoskey Legionnaires at the south side ball park Thursday evening by a 7 to 2 score.

The Denemy pitched effectively until the 7th inning, when, with the bases loaded and two out, Amos John substituted to strike out the third. One extra inning was played, with John striking out three Petoskey batters in order.

REPORTS BATHING DANGEROUS WITHOUT FOUNDATION

Reports spreading through the Northern Michigan resort region that bathing in Lake Michigan is dangerous due to the presence of a small insect which is claimed to have bitten people with fatal results, are positively without foundation. This region has been without any incident of such nature and investigation has failed to produce any substantiation of such reports. Directly to the contrary, bathing has never been better nor more healthful than during the present summer season.

BIOLOGICAL CAMP IS IN 25TH YEAR

ANNUAL VISITORS DAY IS SUNDAY, AUGUST 6TH

Inspection of Camp, One of Largest in Country, Allowed Between 2 and 5 p. m., On That Day

On Sunday, August 6, from 2 to 5 p. m., eastern standard time, the biological station of the University of Michigan will hold its annual visitors' day to which the public is cordially invited. Educational exhibits of plants and animals of the region as well as exhibits of class work and investigations in progress will be displayed.

The biological station is located on the southeast shore of Douglas lake, Cheboygan county, on the old Cheboygan-Petoskey road, 13 miles from Cheboygan. The roads from Cheboygan, Topinabee, Brutus and Pellston will be well posted with biological station signs. There will be plenty of room to park, help in parking, free guide service, and free admission to all places of interest.

The biological station was established on Douglas lake in 1909 and has held an eight-week session every summer since its foundation. Its offerings many courses dealing with the study of plants and animals. Many of these courses are of a kind not usually offered in colleges and universities, and thus they supplement the training given during the academic year. This year 94 students are enrolled, 40 women and 54 men. They come from 28 states, ranging from New York to California and south to Texas, while two come from China. Naturally Michigan provides the largest number, closely followed by nearby states.

The biological station on account of its location in an area of many lakes, bogs, swamps, and both hardwood and pine forests, offers peculiarly valuable opportunities for the investigation of many problems relating to plants and animals. The results of about 25 to 30 of these investigations are published each year and these reports are sent to biologists and libraries all over the world. In all about 315 such reports have been published.

The University tract of about 4,000 acres stretches chiefly along the south and east shores of Douglas lake but also has a frontage on Burt lake. Entirely cut over in an early day, this tract is now being replanted under the direction of Prof. W. F. Ramsdell of the School of Forestry and Conservation. Since May 1, 1931, when this work began, more than 600,000 trees, mostly white and Norway pines, have been set out.

The biological station had its first session in 1909, hence this is its 25th session. An appropriate celebration of this event is being held in connection with the annual visitors' day. Invitations are being sent to University of Michigan alumni living in the upper part of the lower peninsula of Michigan and to alumni summing in this region inviting them to participate in an alumni reunion at the station on August 6th.

Those who knew the station in its early days will be interested to note the development of the physical plant from a single old log building with one room, and a half dozen tents to a village of 130 buildings, of which 11 are used for laboratories and 92 (Continued on page 8.)

AT THE MOVIES

"Heroes For Sale" Is Said to Afford Best Role to Barthelmess

The picture that is rated as the finest Richard Barthelmess characterization of the past few years is due next Friday and Saturday, July 28 and 29, at the Palace theatre. It is the First National production, "Heroes for Sale," a story of war, romance and depression.

"42nd Street" Epitomizes All in Backstage Life

"Three good tunes and a kick in the pants for your work blackout. Can you make a hit show of it?"

These are the first sentences in Bradford Ropes' novel, "42nd Street," and they color the length of Warner Bros.' new gigantic picture of the same name which comes to the Palace theatre Sunday and Monday, July 30 and 31.

In the picture, the words are addressed to Warner Baxter, who plays the role of a veteran stage director with a hundred hits to his credit. What he does to the three good tunes and the kick in the pants form the basis for "42nd Street."

Beverly Hills, where most film stars make their homes, is the worst town in the world for a taxi driver.

George Raft, playing the role of a cab driver in Vina Delmar's Red Book story, "Pick-Up," in which he is featured with Sylvia Sydney, and which comes to the Palace theatre Tuesday and Wednesday, August 1 and 2, learned that fact from James P. Cagney, Los Angeles caddy, who was hired with his car for atmospheric roles in the picture.

"It's Great To Be Alive," the new musical production from Fox comes for a one-day engagement at the Palace theatre on Thursday, August 3. It is reported as a rollicking romance, with one of the most unusual plots ever unfolded on the screen.

IN ANSWER TO A LADY'S LETTER

A lady writes to say that she does not understand why an 8-cylinder car does not cost more to run than a car with fewer cylinders. She refers to my statement that our Ford V-8 develops more power on a gallon of gas than any car we have made.

The use of 8-cylinders does not mean the addition of two or four extra fuel consumers. It is not, for example, a 4-cylinder engine multiplied by two. Our 8-cylinder engine takes the fuel supply of an ordinary 4-cylinder engine and divides it eight ways. And why?

By reducing four larger explosions into eight smaller ones, we get engine smoothness and quietness. Eight-cylinders indicate the way the gas is used, not the amount. It is just the difference between going upstairs in four long jumps or in eight ordinary steps.

Two things use up gas—bad engine design and useless car weight. Besides having an engine that gets a high percentage of power out of the fuel, the Ford V-8 has a light, strong body and chassis so that no power is wasted in moving excess weight.

The only extravagance about the new Ford V-8 engine is in the building of it. The extravagance is ours—the economy is yours.

The whole question of car economy needs clearing up. An economical car gives economy all round. Price, operation, upkeep, all play their part. If what you save on gas you lose elsewhere, that is not economy.

As to upkeep, our dealers say that in recent years the improved quality of Ford cars has cut down their repair business 50 per cent.

As to price with quality,—judge for yourself.

As to economy, here is the record of a stock car three weeks out of shop in Oklahoma:

On a run of 10,054 miles at the rate of 1,000 miles a day—the Ford V-8 gave 18.8 miles per gallon of gas. Not a drop of water was added to the radiator. The oil was changed once in 1,000 miles.

That should answer a lot of questions.

Boys' and Girls' Club Camp at Gaylord Next Week

The biggest event of the boys' and girls' club year is scheduled for next week beginning Monday, July 31, when the annual club camp at Gaylord takes place. Many of the club members are not in a position to spend the entire week but will spend from one to three days, which enables them to enjoy the activities connected with this event to the fullest extent.

The camp will include members from 21 counties in Northern Michigan. Representatives from the state club department of the Michigan State college as well as many local leaders, will supervise all activities. Each day is filled with useful and practical information. Last year they had it all work, several hours of recreation are indulged in by the camps such as ball games, golf, golf, races, etc. Needless to add, among the big features of the week are the demonstration and judging contests which are participated in by representative teams from each of the counties. It is expected that the winners of their various demonstrations will receive recognition, free trips to either the state fair or the Michigan State college. Charlevoix county has always won its share of awards and it is expected that this year will be no different than previous years.

All club members should send their enrollment cards to the county agricultural agent at Boyne City as soon as possible so that plans may be made for transportation. Any boy or girl can enjoy the full week for as little as $3.50. Can you think of a more enjoyable and profitable vacation than this?

Six Charlevoix County Farmers Raising Certified Seed Potatoes

From a recent announcement from H. C. Moore, chief of potato inspection and certification, there are only six farmers in this county who have applied for inspection of seed potatoes this year. The decided decrease has been largely due to unsatisfactory prices the last three years and also heavy rejection of seed this last spring. This is quite a change from several years back when we had over thirty raising certified seed in one year. A heavy decrease has taken place throughout the state as this year there is approximately 2,100 acres grown for certified seed while last year there was 3,188 and the year before 3,487.

Who knows but what certified seed will be a very profitable enterprise with the increase of buying power, more wage earners and a decided shrink in acreage. However, table stock producers will improve the quality as most of those who raised certified seed in the past are still raising the same acreage of potatoes and will put into effect many of the same practices that certified seed producers demand.

The following farmers are raising certified seed this year: John Addis, East Jordan, 2.5 acres, R.R.; H. C. Stephens, Charlevoix, 8.4 acres, R.R.; Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix, 6.4 acres, R.R., 5 acres, I. C.; Frank A. Behling, Boyne City, 4.5 acres, R.R., 1.4 acre, I. C., 1/4 acre, Kat.; Edw. Jensen, Walloon Lake, 9 acres, R.R.; August Knop, Boyne City, 5 acres, R.R.

"Truth" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 23.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Luke 12:32): "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p.238): "Truth often remains unsought, until we seek this remedy for human woe because we suffer severely from error."

He who leaves all for Christ forsakes popularity and gains Christianity.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX NEWS COLUMN
Edited by
VINCENT ARNOLD

The climax of the first four weeks of camp life at Charlevoix will be reached next Saturday, July 29, when Dads' day is to be celebrated. On this day the dads go through the regular activities of their respective boys in the morning, participate in the baseball game against the campers in the afternoon, form an integral part of the great banquet in the evening, and this year will witness a marionette show in place of the usual council ring ceremony, which in past years has brought the busy day to a memorable close. The reason for the change in the program was mentioned here last week. Our opinion still stands unaltered.

Handicraft at Camp Charlevoix may be divided into three principal headings: metal work, leather work and archery. Under the first comes brass, copper and silver work, with such articles as plates, trays, bookends, bowls, picture frames, letter openers, blotter corners, rings, pins and bracelets included in the possibilities. Belts, purses, book-marks and moccasins are the articles best representative of the work done in leather. Archery of course presents opportunities for making bows, arrows and targets.

There is also some instruction in model boat building with emphasis on sail boats, and work in jig saw puzzle construction has been made possible by the installation of a jig saw in the shop.

An exhibit of some of the best in handicraft is to be shown in town next week at one of the stores. There our readers may get a better idea of what the above paragraphs have been trying to convey.

Last Wednesday evening the counselor accepted a challenge from a group of farmers to play a game of baseball and the entire camp journeyed over to the Wightman farm for the contest. After the customary business of capering about for fifteen minutes trying to get accustomed to the ball, the field, the sky, and in general, to the game of baseball (since we play soft ball most of the time, our team was a good deal "greener" than our opponent—not an excuse, understand, but merely a plain statement of fact), the game of the century was called. It was called a great many things before long, because in the very first inning rain began to fall. The players manfully waded through two full chukkers, but were forced to discontinue when the sky opened up and let loose the last two months' rain all in one lump. The score when this happened was 11 to 3 in our favor.

Now the cards are shifted. The counselors are doing the challenging this time, a bit under their collective breaths, perhaps, but nevertheless have gained some measure of confidence. Another game will decide whether or not that confidence is justified.

The boys attended the First Congregational church last Sunday in a body.

Next week will see everyone out of camp except a director, his wife, and two cooks! One group of approximately fifteen is going to the World's fair at Chicago; another, consisting of about six, will spend the week in Canada; the remainder is to travel to Beaver Island for five days, leaving on Tuesday, August 1. All of the wanderers will return to camp on Saturday, August 5.

NEW LOANS ARE MADE ON FAIR FARM VALUE

Based on Appraisals Which Do Not Reflect Temporary Conditions

Federal Land Bank loans to Michigan farmers will be made upon the basis of the normal values of land and buildings and the appraisals for loans will not follow fluctuations of values caused by booms or depressions, according to Albert S. Goss, commissioner for this district recently appointed to succeed Paul Bestor, who resigned.

Land bank loans are made upon a long term basis and upon farms which will be subjected to changing conditions during the term of the loans so the land appraisals are made on sound values rather than upon price changes caused by temporary conditions.

The money used in making loans is obtained from the investing public and the need for protecting these investments forbids the making of unsound farm mortgages. The Federal Land bank can not make all loans requested. The security offered must be adequate before it will be accepted as a mortgage risk.

DISPELS MYSTERY OF BANK BUSINESS

Country Banker Gives Simplified Picture of How a Bank Works to Help Other People's Business

A COUNTRY banker recently prepared the following simplified statement for his neighbors on just how a bank goes about helping them: "It is the most important part of a bank's business to lend money. Of all the money deposited in a bank, the law requires that a certain percentage be kept on hand as a reserve to meet the demands of depositors. It is the business of its officers to lend the balance conservatively and safely.

"The loans of a properly managed bank are invariably made to those it believes are able to repay, and always on condition that they be repaid at a stipulated time.

"The promise of an individual to repay a loan to a bank on a certain date is as sacredly inviolable as the promise of a bank to repay its depositors on demand, or, in the case of a certificate of deposit, on the date it falls due. When it comes to be known of an individual that he 'always pays' his credit is established and his bank is always glad to extend him needed accommodations.

"A well managed bank never capitalizes industries. That is, it does not place its loans in fixed form, but puts them where they are to be used for temporary requirements, and where they will be taken up at the time specified.

How a Bank Lends

"It is not the function of a bank to become a partner in industries, nor could it be legitimately done with the money of depositors. Its loans must be kept in 'liquid' form,—that is, repayable in cash at stated intervals.

"A bank must use the greatest discrimination in making loans. A stranger cannot expect accommodations. It is customary for the borrower to make a statement of his financial affairs, which is kept in the bank's records. It is a punishable offense to make a false statement for the purpose of borrowing funds.

"Naturally, in their dealing with the regular depositors of the bank, its officers become well acquainted with their characters and their resources and are thus in a position to determine how large a line of credit each one is entitled to. That is one of the great advantages of being a bank depositor.

"The man who knows how to get into debt wisely, that is, who borrows money with which to make more money through legitimate enterprise, is the borrower whom the bank is looking for. By the frank interchange of opinion and a free discussion of various projects, the borrower is often guided and helped by his banker.

"In order to procure a line of credit at a bank three things are important:

"1. A statement of assets showing a basis of credit in the way of invested capital, or collateral of sufficient value to cover amount of loan, or

"2. An endorser whose credit is established at the bank; and

"3. Average deposits of a sufficient amount to justify the extension of the desired accommodation."

Alfalfa Favored as Superior Legume Hay

Contains Most Protein and Lime, Says Expert.

Good legume hays are excellent feeds, because they contain a high percentage of protein and lime, says E. F. Reed, extension specialist in soils and crops at the Ohio State university.

A ton of alfalfa, he points out, contains 212 pounds of crude digestible protein and 51 pounds of lime. A ton of red clover contains 152 pounds of digestible crude protein and 432 pounds of lime; a ton of sweet clover, 200 pounds of digestible crude protein and 512 pounds of lime, and a ton of timothy contains only 60 pounds of digestible crude protein and 1 pound of lime.

The most practical method of making hay in Ohio, Reed believes, is found in the windrow method. After the hay is cut, it should be left in the swath until well wilted. It is then raked into small windrows with a side delivery rake. The small windrow permits uniform drying of both stems and leaves and there is a minimum loss of leaf.

To complete the curing process, the windrow should be turned at least once each day until dry enough for storage. As the top of the windrow dries, turn it over on dry ground so that the under surface is exposed. If the hay becomes wet from rain, the same process of curing and drying is recommended, except that the turning should be more frequent.

When the hay is sufficiently dry it is most efficiently taken up with a web hay loader rather than the push arm type which knocks off many of the leaves.

Lime and Sweet Clover
Will Increase Yields

Is liming worthwhile? Frank Moore, Clay county, Illinois, contends the man who is farming sour soil will be doing something else ten years from now if he doesn't lime. He has been a lime and legume convert ever since he moved to that flat land farm in the central part of the state 13 years ago. At that time he harvested 10 to 20 bushels of corn to the acre. Now his

CHERRY FESTIVAL A SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Traverse City Extends Appreciation for Fine Cooperation

Despite the depression, the cherry festival at Traverse City last week turned out to be the most successful of the six cherry festivals that have been held, both as to program and attendance. The three days were filled with a greater variety of events than ever, and the crowds were obviously the largest yet.

The Courier has been asked by Harry L. Weaver, president of the Traverse City chamber of commerce, to thank the people of Charlevoix and vicinity for their cooperation in making the festival a success.

"It was by no means through Traverse City's own effort that the cherry festival was successful," Mr. Weaver said. "It was through the cooperation of this entire section of the state, and I want everyone to know that Traverse City is deeply appreciative of this cooperation."

No permit to carry a gun during the closed hunting seasons will be issued by the department of conservation unless the applicant has an unexpired small game hunting license. This restriction is provided in the general game laws as amended by the 1933 session of the state legislature. Small game hunting licenses, to cost $1 to residents this year, are issued as of October 1, expiring September 30, 1934.

Increasing prices offered for shells is reviving Michigan's clam industry, according to the department of conservation. The price offered for shells is now in the vicinity of $35 for first grade shells as compared with from $15 to $20 mid year ago. The higher market is being directly reflected by the sale of clam licenses, the department said. So far this year 225 such licenses have been issued as compared with 190 licenses issued for the same period in 1931.

Carl Kohler had on display Thursday, three German brown trout taken last Wednesday evening in the power pond at Bellaire. The largest fish weighed 4½ pounds dressed and the other two would go close to 3 pounds each. They were the largest taken by any local angler from Bellaire pond this season. Carl was fishing with Dan Soule, formerly superintendent of the electric light and water department here and now in charge of the Charlevoix hydro-electric plant at Bellaire.

The highway through the Grand Traverse bay cherry region much resembled a cypress swamp Sunday, as the numerous small camps of cherry pickers spent a part of the day "cleaning up" camp. Hundreds of cherry pickers are coming along the highways, some in individual family camps and others in group camps comprising from three to a half dozen families. The cherry harvest is now well under way and moving along with great speed. Most of the pickers come from points south.

Chief of Police John Blacken of Traverse City, estimates that at least $1,000 was the toll taken of National Cherry festival visitors and local people by a "mob" of pickpockets who worked the crowds. It is believed the pickpockets stayed at a local hotel as several rifled wallets were found and discarded and the men left without paying their board bill. One resort is reported to have lost $285, another $157 and the rest was in smaller amounts. None of the victims can remember when their pockets were picked.

Warren Shapton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shapton of this city, has returned from Traverse City, where he spent four days at the Interlochen National music camp. Warren was recently awarded second chair in the baritone section of the All-state orchestra which furnished one of the features of the annual cherry festival which closed Friday. Warren is the second local youth to gain membership in this organization. Miss Marian Tyler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Tyler, also is a member. She was awarded a scholarship at the camp for the summer at the North Central band and orchestra meeting this spring in Grand Rapids.

Harbor Springs and Bangor, situated in the northern and southern sections of the lower peninsula, have forgotten their recession worries. A cash balance of $25,000 appeared in the books for Harbor Springs at the beginning of the new fiscal year July 1. The tax assessment was cut from $18,000 in 1932 to $12,000 this year. In addition, the city owns its electric and water plants. In Bangor teachers' salaries were paid in full for the entire school year which closed last June. A $3,000 school fund balance remained. A total of $35,000 was spent in the last year for a sewage disposal plant and $15,000 for new street pavements.

Officials of 55 cities and villages in 17 counties will gather at the Cadillac city hall Wednesday afternoon, July 26, to discuss the Federal Industrial Recovery act as a means of financing necessary public works and providing work relief. It is one of a series held in the state; another being scheduled at Grand Rapids Wednesday and a third at Alma Friday. By order of Police Department, Charles Jefferies, Police Chief.

THE FIGHT AGAINST CRIME

That the federal government has been forced to step in and assume the commonest of all local responsibilities, that of safeguarding the life and property of our citizens, is not the fault of Uncle Sam. While the average citizen does not relish the spectacle of this gradual encroachment upon the preserves of municipalities, the fact remains that local government in many instances has broken down in its fight against organized crime and that federal intervention has become necessary. Gangsters and racketeers have taken their places as fixtures in the community. So firmly are they entrenched it would look as if they were above the law. They must be driven from their strongholds if government endures, for when crime can flourish as a business government ceases. It is a case of anarchy and order. One must give way. Both cannot live together.

PAYING THE DOCTOR

It has long been a standing joke that the last bill to be paid were those of the doctor. Invariably he rendered his service with cheerful promptness, only to be forced to wait with much patience for his pay. During the years of the depression his lot has been much worse than the average. He was lucky to collect 50 per cent of his outstanding accounts. In addition he was called upon to donate a small part of his work among the sick and afflicted. This he has done cheerfully.

Now a semi-socialistic system of public health insurance is being proposed, the costs to be equally divided between the community and the individual subscriber. If the doctors are in favor of such a plan it should be put into effect. They have been patient through a most trying period and are entitled to better treatment.

MICHIGAN'S FINEST

For years the northwest mounted police of Canada have furnished the background for many a stirring tale of frontier deeds of daring. "They" was always got their man," spoken of them, has become symbols of police efficiency wherever wrongdoers are being hunted throughout the world.

Now the northwest boys have a rival—our own Michigan state police. In his two stories recently published in the Saturday Evening Post the well known fiction writer, Carl Ditzler, has chosen members of the Michigan organization to play the leading roles under assumed names. Ditzler also selects his own northern part of the state in which to lay the scenes of his tales of trooper heroism and sagacity. Both the police and vacationland are coming in for some ideal publicity, something that could not be purchased in any other way.

ton Schwab, was a thoroughly amusing and likeable character. So, too, were the roles essayed by Grace Ryerson and William Titus. One of the most amusing characters in the play was deftly handled by Donald Kellogg, that of Col. Krehl, the dumb but willing chief of police.

"Olympia" was presented last Monday evening at the Belvedere casino before an appreciative audience. This presentation, the first of a series of plays, got off to a difficult start. Due to the inadequacies of the casino stage it was impossible to give the production full justice. However, the audience was quite willing to accept the limitations imposed upon the actors and technicians and in such spirit thoroughly enjoyed the program.

Next week the Ironton players will present a drama entitled "Summer Resort." It will be a decided change from the bills offered heretofore. Slightly melodramatic in quality, "Summer Resort" tells the story of a boy's mother and her struggle to save her son from an adventure that would ruin his entire life. The action of the play is laid on a sea coast near Cape Cod.

There will be several new faces in next week's show and there is great activity at the theatre in anticipation of increased attendance.

It is interesting to note that the roads to Ironton are being used with greater frequency. Theatre parties are being made up from the surrounding towns and many of the guests at the theatre arrive early in order to enjoy the sunsets for which Lake Charlevoix is noted. A trip to Ironton is well worth while. The slo-lan emanating from those who have seen the productions seems to be an optimistic one. "Have you had your Ironton night?"

CHANGE ST. IGNACE DOCK PLANS AGAIN

Furnace Site Considered in Michigan Relief Program

Construction of a new state ferry dock at St. Ignace on Furnace site which will cut several miles from each trip of vessels operating on the Straits of Mackinac will be given consideration in Michigan's work relief program, Governor Comstock has announced.

The Furnace site was decided upon during the administration of former Governor Fred W. Green, but was discarded when business men of St. Ignace objected to the routing of the tourist away from their streets. Comstock said that he was aware that there will be objections again but that if the project proves to be an boon in the operation of ferries, he will recommend that it be carried out.

In the Green administration the old ferry dock was remodelled after the Furnace project was discarded.

Michigan Forest Fire Losses

Forest fire losses in Michigan so far this year have been practically the same as in 1932, the state department of conservation reports. Approximately 21,000 acres have been burned to date this season. About the same acreage was destroyed last year for the corresponding period. Fire wardens have informed the department that the public is exercising extreme care in preventing blazes. With the 9,000 conservation workers in the 45 camps scattered throughout Michigan, Geo. R. Hogarth, director of conservation, feels that this year's loss will be lower than that of 1932. Last season the state had the fewest number of fires in recent years.

FOREST FIRE LOSS IS EQUAL TO LAST YEAR

Over Thousand Fires Reported in Michigan So Far

With 1,224 forest fires reported in Michigan so far this year the number of fires and the reported damage is running neck and neck with last year's records according to the division of field administration of the department of conservation. So far this season slightly more than 21,000 acres have been burned over, equaling the figures contained in a report issued the same week in 1932.

The department is hopeful that 1933 will see Michigan with a minimum of damage from fires. Fire wardens are reporting unusual care on the part of the public with fire in the woods and the presence of 9,000 conservation workers in 45 camps through the northern part of the state during the summer is expected to result in rapidly halted blazes.

As was true last year, Dickinson, Marquette and Iron counties have felt the brunt of the fires.

ALL OF STATE PARKS WILL BE KEPT OPEN

Plan to Operate System As Long As Funds Hold Out

All state parks under the supervision of the department of conservation will be operated this summer as long as funds for the purpose last, George R. Hogarth, director, announced Saturday.

He said that after a conference with Governor Comstock this course has been selected rather than the alternate proposal that some parks be operated the full season and others be closed at once. The director said that unless funds are provided to supplement appropriations by the legislature the park season will end in August.

The appropriation for this purpose was slashed from $93,000 last year to $58,000 for each of the next two years.

THE OPPORTUNITIES, to which we refer, are the daily bargains to be found in every shopping area. Some people find them quite by chance . . . stumble over them blindly . . . and acquire them with astonishment. Others never seem to be in the right store at the right time: If there's a 25% marked-down sale of shoes at Smith's, they are buying at Brown & Co. If a grocer three blocks away is clearing out his canned goods at half-price, they are at the corner store making routine purchases.

But — there are some people who always find these opportunities. Their money buys them more — and better — merchandise than their neighbors'. Why? Not through good luck, you may be sure; but simply because these people read the advertisements in their weekly newspaper.

WHEN THE EVENING SHADOWS FALL

CHARLEVOIX WILL SEND YOUTHS TO CONFERENCE

Judging Teams from 4-H Clubs to Enter District Contests

Camp Gay-Gug-Lun at Gaylord will open its gates Monday, July 31, to more than 300 4-H club boys and girls from all counties in the Top O'Michigan district. From Monday to Friday noon, August 4, camp activities will be in full swing.

In the past years Charlevoix county club members have been well represented, and many are making plans to attend this year. B. E. Mellen, county agricultural agent, reports that letters and registration cards for the camp are being sent to the county club members this week. To be eligible to attend delegates must be 12 years of age or older and honor members of winter clubs, or if in a summer project, must be doing satisfactory work.

It is at Gaylord camp that the club members of the various counties vie with one another for district honors. Demonstration and judging contests are held for all branches of 4-H work including crops, dairy, poultry and animal husbandry; and clothing, canning and handicraft. Emmet county will have demonstration teams competing in the crops, dairy, canning and clothing demonstration contests and will also be represented in the judging contests for these projects. Besides taking part in these competitive events, the club members enjoy a week of supervised recreation, fine programs and other educational activities.

State club leaders are in direct charge and are assisted by county agricultural agents and local leaders. Specialists from Michigan State college assist in the daily class work conducted in accord with the varied interests of the club members.

Among the bands invited, not association members, are Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, East Jordan and Cadillac. Dr. G. O. Searle of Petoskey is association president.

LOCAL OFFICIALS TO SPEED WELFARE WORK

Lack of Organization Holding Up Aid—Seeking County Set-Up

All benefit from funds of the Federal Emergency Relief commission with the exception of money being spent for direct relief through the county poor commission, is at a standstill in Charlevoix county at the present time.

This condition, according to County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow, is due to the lack of a set-up for this county under the commission's new plan of operation. While numerous projects have been outlined for the expenditure of federal funds for labor, no action can be taken until an agent of the commission can be brought here to organize the three-man county committee, determine the county's needs and approve projects to be undertaken. It appears the most urgent problem is a definite determination of the actual needs in the county, for funds are allotted on this basis almost entirely.

Organization of county set-ups has been allotted to F. A. Regan, field representative of the Federal Emergency Relief commission. He has completed this task in several counties of his district and is pressing the work as rapidly as possible. Local officials are making every effort to bring Mr. Regan to Charlevoix at the earliest possible date, so that the county may be organized and provide projects to furnish work for the unemployed.

NORTHMEN "9" LOST TO IRONTON 15 TO 12

Late Inning Rally Produced Winning Runs for Ironton

The Northmen baseball team was defeated last Sunday by the Ironton nine on the Legion diamond. The final score was 15 to 12. The team's standing for the season is six games won and seven lost.

The game was even at the end of the first, second, and third innings. Ironton led at the end of the fourth. Charlevoix had the lead at the end of the fifth, 9 to 8. The locals added another in the sixth, and neither team scored in the seventh. Ironton was aided by a flock of errors in the eighth, and scored seven runs. Charlevoix scored two more in the ninth, but that was not enough. Johnston and Thomas formed the winning battery, with Dixon, John and Swanson working for the locals. Russell and Nasson scored three runs each for Ironton. None of the locals made over two. William led both teams at bat with three hits out of four.

COMSTOCK RECALL PETITIONS CIRCULATED

Charge Michigan Executive Broke Faith With Voters

Petitions for the recall of Governor William A. Comstock were printed at Jackson, Thursday, at the order of H. J. Bowersox, Jackson business man and Democrat. Bowersox disclosed.

Bowersox said the petitions will be placed in circulation over the state within the next few days.

The Jackson business man listed a number of charges against the Governor as reasons for his action in ordering the petitions printed. He said Comstock's veto of the small loan bill and milk price fixing, together with his handling of patronage, are sufficient cause to warrant his recall.

"The petitions are my own idea," he said. "I am not affiliated with any party group in my action."

TEN COUNTIES WILL DROP NORMAL SCHOOLS

Ten county normal colleges are planning to close their teacher training schools and several others are contemplating similar action as a means of reducing the oversupply of instructors and increasing salary schedules, the department of public instruction has announced.

The counties which will discontinue their training schools are: Branch, Chippewa, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Leelanau, Livingston, Manistee, Mecosta, Newaygo and Saginaw.

for living quarters. The remainder include the administration building containing offices, stockroom, store, and photographic rooms on one floor and the dining room and kitchen on the other; clubhouse; library; aquarium, garages; and harbor building. The station has water and sanitary systems, and gets its electricity for light and power from the power line crossing the tract.

SEEKING COMMERCIAL CODE FOR FISHERMEN

Proposed Plan Will Be Acted Upon at Chicago Convention

A proposed code for the fishing industry has been formulated by the Fishermen's Co-operative association, with offices in Chicago. It is to be read and approved at the national convention of the organization at Chicago on July 25 and 26.

It provides that every commercial fisherman must have a license and that licenses will be issued only to those who were engaged in the industry prior to this year.

The fishermen will elect an executive committee to maintain fisheries and to replenish fish where necessary. A price control committee is planned to study the market, fishing and shipping conditions, and decide upon prices to be paid in the Chicago, New York, and other markets, and also the price to be paid by the public.

Payment would be made daily on receipt of arrival of the fish.

No person would be allowed to operate more than one establishment as wholesaler or distributor of fish; and no person would be allowed to be interested in more than one firm in any one city in any activity concerning the fishing industry.

All fish wholesalers, distributors, and commission merchants must get the consent of the association to engage in business.

All firms engaged in marketing, wholesaling, or distributing of fish would have to post bond for $10,000 to guarantee the shipper fisherman any money due or which may become due for shipments.

ASK REFERENDUM ON LOAN INTEREST RATE

Petitions Asking Vote in November, 1934, Have Been Filed

Referendum petitions proposing a small loan interest rate amendment to the state constitution to be submitted to the voters in November, 1934, were filed with Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald Saturday by Harry F. Little, Lansing attorney.

The secretary of state must certify the petitions, as to their technical correctness before they can be circulated.

The amendment would limit the interest rate on loans of less than $100 to 10 per cent per year which would be five-sixths of one per cent per month. The present maximum rate is 3 1/2 per cent per month.

The 1933 legislature passed the Grajewski bill which would have lowered the rate to 1 1/4 per cent per month. Governor Comstock vetoed it, however. The executive obtained the promise though from personal finance companies that they would not charge more than 3 per cent per month on loans of $100 and under and 2 1/2 per cent on those ranging from $100 to $300.

HOW TO APPLY TAX ON SALES EXPLAINED

Amount Must Not Be Levied on Separate Articles in Purchase

A supplementary ruling holding that Michigan's three per cent sales tax must be applied against the aggregate amount of the customer's purchase and not on individual articles was issued recently by the state board of tax administration.

The ruling holds, that for instance, a customer going into a grocery must be required to pay the levy on the sum total of the purchase, and not, for instance, separate taxes upon a pound of butter, a pound of coffee, a loaf of bread, and so forth.

Another new ruling of the board is that merchants in handling out sales slips must state exactly how much the tax item is and the levy so posted must be exactly three per cent of the sale. This means that on purchases of less than 33 1/3 cents, the merchant must state that the tax is a fraction of a cent even though he may actually collect a full cent.

For example, a restaurant may validly charge six cents for a cup of coffee provided the additional one cent is a part of the selling price and is not separately itemized and termed "tax," the board ruled. "But he is misrepresenting the amount of the tax if he charges five cents for coffee and one cent as 'tax'."

FAMOUS SPEAKERS ARE COMING TO THIS REGION

Local people will be interested in knowing that perhaps the most sought-after man in the whole religious world—E. Stanley Jones—at this time, Dr. E. Stanley Jones, is coming to this community; also Bishop Edgar Beake.

Dr. Jones, famous for his books on "The Indian Road," etc., speaks at Bay View, and Bishop Beake in the Charlevoix Methodist church next Sunday at 8 o'clock. Dr. Jones speaks Friday and Saturday evenings, August 4 and 5, and the following Sunday, August 6th, at the Bay View auditorium.

RELIEF HIGHWAY WORK IS RENEWED

MANY PROJECTS STARTED IN COUNTY MONDAY MORNING

F. A. Regan, Field Representative of Federal Emergency Relief Commission, Outlined Program

Highway projects to give employment to welfare dependents were launched Monday in various parts of Charlevoix county.

This action followed as closely as possible a meeting at the court house last Friday evening, at which F. A.
Regan, field representative and organizer of the Federal Emergency Relief commission, outlined to Charlevoix county welfare officers, road commissioners, poor commissioners and city and county officials, the procedure under which this county may provide employment for its welfare dependents as long as a need exists.

Among the projects undertaken was Charlevoix's proposed 11-mile scenic highway along Lake Michigan to Norwood. At the present time camps of men are brushing out a right-of-way west to Lake Michigan along the township highway intersecting former US-31 at McKenzie corner. In case those sponsoring the project are unable to obtain the necessary right-of-way to continue the highway south from the present lake shore drive around South Point, the route mentioned above will be made permanent. In any event, the present plan offered an opportunity to start work at once and bring relief to those needing it.

The work will be under supervision of the county road commission, by whose direction work in various points in the county was started simultaneously with the scenic drive project.

In his talk last Friday evening,
Mr. Regan stated that the three-man county commission which will direct relief work in Charlevoix county under the new federal and state set-up would be named by Governor Comstock within ten days. In the meantime, projects could be authorized and carried on by direction of the welfare committees and groups of officials who handled welfare relief under the old R. F. C. system which has now been succeeded by the Federal Emergency Relief commission.

Mr. Regan made it very plain that the projects undertaken, for which federal funds are available to pay labor at the rate of 25¢ per hour, were strictly for relief and not a method of increasing employment nor providing money for those who could not show actual need. Dependents unable to work will be taken care of through direct relief, but able-bodied dependents are expected to work on projects provided. Only those actually in need are eligible for employment, and relief funds will be available only as long as need exists.

When the three-man county commission is named, it will replace present welfare officers, working without compensation in conjunction with field workers who will check very thoroughly all applicants for relief.
Relief projects may be authorized to an extent which will absorb all dependents.

Projects undertaken must be of permanent benefit to the county at large and cannot benefit private interests.

In view of the fact work has been started again, county welfare officials are asking for a re-registration of all those needing relief. At Charlevoix, men may file their applications at the information bureau on Bridge street with F. V. Tyler, who will place them in proper hands.

FAMOUS TRIO APPEAR SOON AT INN HOTEL

Heerman Trio to Give Concert Program Sunday, August 13

On Sunday evening, August 13, the famous Heerman Trio of Cincinnati, will present an evening of music at The Inn.

This musical organization has been in existence for ten years and is composed of Emil Heerman, violinist, concert master of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, and Walter Heermann, a leading cellist of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra, both of whom are members of the faculty of the National Music camp at Interlochen, Michigan, and Miss Miriam Otto, the brilliant young pianist.

The playing of the trio has been repeated by many appearances throughout the middle west, east and south. One of their recent successful performances was at the Library of Congress in Washington in April, when they played a memorial program on the second anniversary of the death of the late Nicholas Longworth, who was himself an excellent violinist and a personal friend of the Heermans.

The trio will play a program of wide musical appeal, charming alike to the general public as well as to the trained musician.

There will be no charge for admission. A collection will be taken at the close of the program.

FEDERAL HATCHERY INTERESTING PLACE

ACQUARIUM CONTAINS NINE SPECIES NATIVE FISH

Improvements on Grounds, Exterior and Interior Make Hatchery One of City's Show Places

Nine varieties of game fish native to this region furnish an interesting display in the aquarium at the U. S. federal hatchery here.

The aquarium is located in the west end of the hatchery facing Lake Michigan. The room is neatly decorated and pleasant. In the various tanks, in which have been placed native water plants to add to the natural appearance are blue gills, red-eared sunfish, rainbow, brook and German brown trout, Pacific coast salmon, rock bass or goggle-eyed bass, small mouth black bass and yellow perch.

E. R. Widmyer, hatchery superintendent, has extended a cordial invitation to local and summer residents to visit the hatchery. Hours are between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. daily.

In addition to the hatchery acquarium, which has much of interest to offer, the grounds surrounding the building have been greatly beautified during the summer. Construction of cement sidewalks has been completed and much of the grounds, formerly a barren sand lot, have been sodded.
A foundation has been placed under the superintendent's dwelling at the rear of the hatchery building and, in addition to a broad concrete driveway, a concrete ash pit has been constructed adjoining the boiler room.

While all the above exterior work has been done, the interior of the hatchery has not escaped attention.
In preparation for the spawn fishing season, all trays and hatching equipment has been overhauled, repainted and otherwise placed in shape; engines, pumping equipment and other mechanical appliances overhauled.
The hatchery force of four men has been kept constantly busy, and the numerous improvements attest to the results of their efforts.

SYMPHONY GROUP WILL APPEAR HERE MONDAY

Bay View Orchestra in Second Program at Belvedere Casino

While Sunday's intense heat kept down the attendance, it did not effect the quality of the program given by the American Symphony orchestra at the Belvedere casino. The organization upheld its splendid reputation for fine music and those present were given a rare treat.

The orchestra, coming from Bay View with Alexander Schuster as conductor, will appear in another program at the casino next Monday evening, August 7th, at 8 o'clock.
The concert will be composed of six selections from famous composers.

Weigh some people and they will be found wanting in everything except weight.

RIVIERA TENNIS TOURNAMENT MONDAY

8TH ANNUAL CHAMPIONSHIPS
AT THE INN COURTS

Usual Field of Outstanding Tennis Stars Are Entering Play in All Divisions

Play in the 8th annual Michigan
Riviera tennis championships, Char-levoix's major summer entertainment feature, will open Monday, August 7th, at The Inn clay courts.

Considered one of the outstanding tennis events of Michigan, the Riviera will again this year draw a field of prominent tennis stars. Due to the fact the tournament this year does not conflict with any other major tournaments in nearby states, the entry is expected to exceed that of a year ago in quality and probably in number.

Entries have been coming in at a good rate the past week, indicating a large field. Heading the list of nationally known players will be Wilbur Hess, 1933 Texas state champion, and "Doc" Barr, runner-up in many important tournaments throughout the country and 1932 winner of the Western, Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia state doubles titles.
These young Texans are among the country's outstanding tennis performers.

Jack Harris, 1932 Riviera men's singles champion, will return to defend his title, heading a contingent of Chicagoans which will include numerous ranking players of the Western association. Ted Joslyn, prominent in Grand Rapids tennis circles and officials of the Western Michigan Tennis association, will act as official referee.

Mrs. Ruth Riese of Saginaw, former Riviera women's singles champion and recently winner of the Michigan State open title at Saginaw, heads the list of women which will include Mrs. Wm. B. McIlvaine
Jr., Chicago, 1932 champion. Mrs.
Riese's performance in defeating Katherine Wolff, first ranking Western association player to win the Michigan open crown, stamps her as a player of exceptional ability.

No word has been heard from George Burroughs, Flint, 1932 junior champion, but it is anticipated he will defend his title against practically the same field of Detroit junior stars which last year furnished the class of play in the local tournament. Among the Detroit juniors will be Lester Kaplan, who last year teamed with Jack Harris to annex the Riviera doubles title.

Harbor Springs, Bay View, Traverse City and the many boys' camps of Northern Michigan are expected to furnish their usual quota of players.

Entries for the tournament will close Monday noon, August 7th, and the draw will be made immediately afterwards. It is quite probable play will be started Monday afternoon.

CAR GOES OVER BLUFF. TWO OCCUPANTS ESCAPE

A sedan occupied by Misses Inez
King and Alice Vaughn, both of Lansing, went over the 50-foot embankment at the west end of Dixon avenue near the Beach hotel, Saturday afternoon, dropping to Lake Michigan beach. Both girls escaped before the car jumped the curb. The car, which was damaged badly, uprooted trees and shrubbery in the drop.

HALF MILLION RAG WEED GATHERED

CAMPAIGN FAR EXCEEDED ALL EXPECTATIONS

City Scoured to Extent of 668,980
Weeds in Few Days Following Inauguration of Campaign

City Treasurer Robert E. Rife issued vouchers totaling $496.17 last Saturday in payment for rag weed plants gathered since the city council inaugurated a campaign to rid the city of the weed last Monday night.

This amount fell short by $172.81 of paying for the total number of orders issued to gatherers by Amos Webster, city street commissioner, who had charge of the campaign.
Figuring at the rate of 1¢ for each bundle of ten weeds, the staggering sum of $668.98 represents a total of 668,980 plants.

Results of the campaign assumed a proportion far in excess of any anticipations. The matter of adopting this method of gathering rag weed was discussed informally last Monday night and, meeting with unanimous approval as a worth while project, was adopted in the same manner without even going on official record or by vote of the council necessary on matters of financial nature. The trend of discussion on the subject indicated the aldermen believed $50 or $75 would cover completely the cost of the campaign.

In this respect, however, opinion was wrong, for before mid-week thousands of the weeds had been gathered and turned in and by settlement time Saturday had reached the figures given above. Through misunderstanding, many thousand weeds were gathered outside the city limits, but in such cases no payment was allowed, compensation being given only for that gathered inside the city.

While the campaign may appear to have been ill-advised in view of the financial position of the city at the present time, it is a move which should have been taken many years ago. No city can honestly advertise itself as a haven for hay fever sufferers, when within its very limits grow thousands of the weeds which cause the dreaded disease. The campaign resulted in a very thorough scouring of the city for rag weed, and another year a similar move could be undertaken at a much smaller cost.

Payment of orders has been dis-
manently, and no further action taken until the council meets again.

LARGE AUDIENCE HEAR SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

A large and appreciative audience heard the American Symphony orchestra from the American Band camp at Bay View, in a program at the Belvedere casino Sunday afternoon. Local patrons were given a real surprise in the size of the orchestra and the quality of music presented. Alexander Schuster was conductor of the program.

SUNDAY VISITORS' DAY AT BIOLOGICAL CAMP

Thousands Will Go to Douglas Lake for Annual Event

versity of Michigan extends a cordial invitation to all to be present at its annual visitors' day, Sunday after-eastern standard time. Many interesting exhibits of animals and plants, samples of class work, and investigations on scientific problems will be displayed. There will be help in parking, lots of parking space, and guide service. Everything is free.

The biological station is located on Douglas lake, 13 miles southwest of Cheboygan. Roads from Cheboygan, Topinabee, Brutus and Pellston will be posted with biological station signs. Follow the arrows.

Please cut out and preserve this notice and remember the day and hours. There will be no other visitors' day this year.

INDIANS WON "RUBBER" FROM KEGOMIC BALL "9"

The Charlevoix Indians handed a decisive defeat to the Kegomic team of the Emmet county league at south side diamond Thursday evening, winning by a 15 to 1 score. The contest, "rubber" of a series of three games between the two teams, saw Amos John pitching one of his best games of the present season.

BEER LICENSE CASE WAS HEARD FRIDAY

ATTORNEYS GIVEN TEN DAYS
DAYS TO PREPARE BRIEF

Decision on Case Will Be Given by Judge Gilbert Later—Probably Go to Higher Court

It is highly probable that the matter of forcing cities to approve applications of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company for licenses to sell beer will come to final settlement in the supreme court of the state, following presentation of the case in circuit court at Traverse City last Friday.

Throughout the arguments in the case before Judge Gilbert it seemed evident that both sides were simply getting their cases in shape to be carried to the state supreme court for final decision.

The A. & P. company is seeking to force, by mandamus, the village of Elk Rapids and the cities of Charlevoix and Traverse City, all of whom have refused to approve their applications, for retail beer licenses, to approve the applications.

"Refusal of the governing bodies of these communities to approve the
A. & P. beer license applications, constitutes an abuse of their power," attorneys for the chain store organization stated. "The only discretionary power vested in the municipal governing bodies is to inquire into the character of the applicant.
There is no question but that these bodies are attempting to keep the A.
& P. company from selling beer in order to protect those who already have licenses. We maintain that, as long as the applicant furnishes proof of his right to be granted a license as far as the status of the company in the state and residence in the state is concerned, the council or village board must approve the application."

Judge Gilbert has asked attorneys for both sides to submit written briefs within ten days and he will render his decision after studying these briefs.

Charlevoix's case was presented by Attorney John M. Harris of Boyne City. Attending the hearings were Mayor L. S. See, Oakley J. Hammond, deputy city clerk, and Aldermen F. J. Fessenden and E. J. Kibbe.

BARNARD GAVE NORTH- MEN ANOTHER DEFEAT

Won Last Sunday Afternoon's Contest by 10 to 2 Score

Charlevoix's Northmen were defeated 10 to 2 by Barnard's hard-hitting baseball team last Sunday afternoon.

Barnard scored three runs off Alvin John in the initial inning, and nicked "Bud" Potter, who relieves him, for one in the second, two in the third and four in the sixth. Potter, playing his first game for the North-men, struck out 12 men.

The Northmen play Bay Shore at the north side diamond at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon.

URGE NRA PLEDGES BE SIGNED AT ONCE

ONE LOCAL CONCERN OPERAT-ING UNDER NEW CODE

Endorsement of President Roosevelt's Recovery Program Is Expected
From All Local Employers

The Charlevoix branch of the Northern Auto Company, is this week displaying its NRA insignia — the first local concern, insofar as we have been able to ascertain—to conform with President Roosevelt's National Industrial Recovery act.

A 40-hour week has been adopted.
One man has been added to the mechanical force and through application of the "stagger" system, each man is working 40 hours. The mechanic will receive not less than $18 per week, and helpers not less than $12.

While it is assumed other business places will accede voluntarily to the prescribed limitation of working hours, no organized nor concerted plan has been adopted as yet. Inasmuch as no meeting of employers has been called to work out a plan, it might be suggested this method be adopted.

Postmaster Clarence B. Meggison has received blank pledge forms and has others available for any who might not have received one. He urged that local employers sign and return them to the postoffice at once.
Signing of these pledges will show willingness of employers to conform with the President's hour and wage scale pending adoption of a code covering each individual industry.

In adoption of the 40-hour work week plan locally, many individual problems will have to be met. Without question the month of August is the busiest of the summer for Charlevoix merchants and, due to this fact, it is not anticipated any general plan will be placed in operation until August 31st, the date set for compliance in the President's proclamation.

It is understood that in most cases arrangement will be only temporary, pending the time when each industry will have adopted a code governing working conditions and wages in that specific industry. This code will supersede the temporary agreements now being prepared.

Local harbors have met to work out a code, but have reached no unanimous agreement as yet. The Courier has joined other members of the Michigan Press Association in acceptance of the National Editorial Association agreement calling for a maximum 40-hour week, although the Michigan association is asking reservations be inserted to cover emergencies, pointing out that in small communities the 40 hour limit would be impractical because of the impossibility of hiring additional skilled labor. Other industries will have similar problems.

It appears the present procedure to follow is to sign the pledges aland others were on for special singing at the M. E. church at Ellsworth last Sunday evening. Misses Mary and Dorothy Smith of Barnard, rendered a beautiful song with mandolin accompaniment, at Barnard church last Sunday.

The Wrights, who put on the play at the Pearl resort at Eastport, are up here for the summer again. Mr. Balls and Mr. Post are also here.

G. A. and C. H. Morse were business visitors at Alba, at the Osborne farm, where they have some trial radish crops sown. It has been rather dry for them.

Mrs. Fred Brooks of Antrim City, fell last Friday, fracturing a bone in her arm. She came to Central Lake where she had the fracture reduced and is getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances. She has been assisting in the Sunday school recently organized at that place by Rev. Weaver.

C. H. Morse and Lester Dawson went down to Ann Arbor Sunday with Lester's car to bring back Victor Dawson and mother. Victor fell last week Tuesday from top of stairs to casement floor below, striking his head. Dr. Duffie advised that he be immediately rushed to the hospital.

X-ray pictures were taken by hospital authorities, but no bones found broken, or any internal injuries. A light concussion of the brain and high blood pressure was noticeable, but he now seems to be on the road to recovery.

Henry Syers had to be taken to the hospital again Monday, this time to have his left arm amputated just below the shoulder. Previously he had his thumb amputated. Now it has been found that his hand is dead, causing the removal of his arm. Several weeks ago he got a splinter under his thumb nail which he did not care for immediately, causing blood poisoning, from which he has suffered since. He was brought home from the hospital to his farm where he has been taken. Last week he got up and walked to a chair and it had been thought that he was much improved.

Bills are being distributed this week for the big Sunday school picnic and rally at Twin Bridges picnic grounds three miles north of Mancelona and 14 miles south of East Jordan. It will be held Wednesday, August 9th. Every rural Sunday school has been asked to assist by a number on the program. This has been an annual event of the Union Sunday schools for 29 years, sponsored by Rev. G. A. Weaver, missionary, of Petoskey. He has decorated the grounds and stream with articles of his handicraft, and given as he will this year, a free ice cream cone to each child under 12 years of age who attend the event, and same to those over 70 years of age. Swings, merry-go-rounds, and other things for amusing the children, besides a good program by the Sunday school children, will be enjoyed. There are other sessions of Sunday school workers in which mostly grown-ups take part, but this is a really and truly children's event. Everybody should come.

The young ladies' class of the church had the affair in hand under the direction of Mrs. Datus Dean. A program of games, music and a short sketch were enjoyed, after which all retired to the basement, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. STANDARD PUTTING NEW WINE-COLORED GASOLINE ON MARKET

To feature a new, wine-colored superfuel to sell at the regular grade price Standard Oil Company has started an advertising and sales campaign.

The new gasoline will contain an anti-knock compound which will give it the highest octane rating of gasoline of comparable grade and price. In anti-knock qualities, company officials state, the new product will be as good a gasoline as some premium gasolines today and as good as the best premium gasolines were a few years ago.

Advantage of the high anti-knock quality is only one of several new claims that will be put forward.

Although the product is new in qualities and color it will bear the company's established name for medium-priced brand, Standard Red Crown. The new gasoline has been manufactured at the company's refineries for some time, and supplies are already in the field ready for distribution.

Elm Given Rank Above Pine as National Tree

Historical sentiment rather than first-hand regard must have guided voters in the balloting, up to the present, on selection of a national tree. The American elm now leads, and the pine is second, in the contest conducted by the National Life Conservation society. The election continues till next January.

Many voters must have remembered the Washington elm, of Cambridge, under which the Great General is said to have stood when he first drew his sword as commander of the army. Others, says the Philadelphia Bulletin, may have thought of another elm prominent in the scenery of American history—the elm that marked the place of William Penn's treaty with the Indians.

But the American elm, though it is the largest and most widely distributed of the six elms native to the United States, has a range from Newfoundland to the Great Lakes and the eastern base of the Rockies in Alberta south to Florida and Texas. Of the five other species, one is common from Quebec to Florida, one is northern, three are southern. But there are no native elms west of the Rockies.

The pine, oldest living representative of the trees of the ancient world, needs an insect pest to extend its domain, and depending only upon the winds, has saved itself over the world. There are 39 species native to the United States and some can be found in every section except the central basin of the Mississippi.

Rod-Riding Family Gets Diet of Worms

Toronto.—Officials of the Canadian National take care of "guests" who ride the rods.

J. F. Pringle, general superintendent of transportation, received the following message from the station agent at Peterborough: "Car No. 403,102 has 'Hollins' ast on rods stop. Please arrange for supply of worms at terminals stop. The mother is in charge."

Yardmasters at the various terminals had a supply of worms ready to feed the robins.

Wailing Room Is Popular in This Movie Theater

Detroit.—The Hollywood theater here reported a record crowd in its "wailing room" during the showing of a war film recently.

Sixteen mothers required to the room to quiet 16 wailing babies. But they were not deprived the pleasure of listening to and watching the picture.

The wailing room, referred to in more dignified terms as the "sound-proof nursery," is located in the rear of the theater. A glass panel allows the mother to watch the film being shown out front. Although the room is soundproof, a loud speaker brings the screen voices inside.

The management of the theater reports the room is always occupied during picture presentation hours.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS SHOW DROP IN 1932

Motor Vehicles Still Lead as Mortality Cause.

Chicago.—Accidental deaths numbered 88,000 in the United States during 1932, thus registering a decline for the second successive year, according to "Accident Facts," just issued by the National Safety Council. The total for 1930 was 95,000 and for 1931, 97,415. Last year's total, therefore, was 10 per cent under 1931 and 11.5 per cent under 1930, the all-time maximum. The 1932 total is also smaller than in any year since 1924, when 85,684 persons were killed in accidents.

Motor vehicles still lead as a cause of accidental death. Automobile accidents took 25,500 lives last year, home accidents claimed 23,000, public fatalities (not involving motor vehicles) 18,000, and occupational accidents 15,000. About 2,500 occupational deaths also involved a motor vehicle and this duplication must be eliminated to arrive at the 88,000 total.

There were approximately 8,400,000 accidental injuries last year and the wage loss, medical expense and overhead insurance cost involved in injuries and deaths totaled $2,000,000,000.

Fewer Motor Accidents.
Last year witnessed the first drop ever recorded in motor vehicle accidents. The total of 25,500 deaths may be contrasted with 33,675 in 1931, 32,929 in 1930, 31,215 in 1929 and 27,996 in 1928. The percentage decrease last year was about double the decrease in motor vehicle travel as reflected in gasoline consumption.

About 44 per cent of all traffic accident fatalities involved pedestrians. In addition to the 25,500 motor vehicle deaths last year there were approximately 1,035,000 non-fatal injuries of which about 85,000 were permanent in character. The cost of these accidents, not including property damage, is estimated at $625,000,000.

Speed Not Always Factor.
In about 43 per cent of the fatal accidents reported, the driver had been drinking. In less than 1 per cent were poor eyesight or other physical defects noted. Thus 95 per cent of the victims had no apparent physical or mental defect which should have prevented the efficient operation of the vehicle.

Miss Kathleen Lawler, twenty-one-year-old graduate of the University of Washington music department, can sing an octave and five tones above high C, which is an accomplishment not even the greatest of modern sopranos has been able to equal, according to Prof. August Werner, her teacher.

vehicles which they were piloting. Although the importance of speed is an accident fact which cannot be ignored, most of the fatal accidents in cities occurred when the vehicles were traveling at a rate of between 20 and 25 miles per hour.

Occupational accidents took 15,000 lives last year. This compares with 17,500 in 1931, 19,000 in 1930 and 20,000 in 1929. In addition, there were approximately 1,200,000 non-fatal injuries.

Tobacco, laundry, cement, and the printing and publishing industries are the "safest" industries as far as the relative frequency of accidents per man-hour worked is concerned. The lumbering, mining and construction industries have the worst records, both in frequency and severity.

Fatalities in Home.
Home accidents claimed 23,000 lives last year, only 1,500 less than motor vehicles. They also caused about 4,395,000 non-fatal injuries.

While domestic fatalities dropped slightly from the preceding year, the decline is smaller than in any of the other principal classes.

Approximately 43 per cent of all home fatalities are the result of falls and another 19 per cent are chargeable to burns, scalds and explosions. The kitchen seems to be the most dangerous spot in the house, for 34 per cent of the fatalities occur there. Another 27 per cent occur on stairs and in halls.

Deaths caused by public accidents (not motor vehicle) dropped to 18,000 in 1932 and non-fatal injuries are estimated at 2,100,000.

Drownings and firearms played the largest part in this toll.

Fight for Estate of Murdered Man

Three Wives to Stage Heated Contest for Wealth.

Philadelphia.—The three women who at one time or another were wives of John H. Fell, noted sportsman, will stage a heated contest for the $100,000 estate he left when he died of a mysterious knife thrust in Java last February.

The latest to join in the battle is his second wife, Mrs. Mildred Sundry Fell, who claims to have documents proving her entitled to the bulk of the estate.

The third wife, Martha Ederton Fell, formerly of the Follies, seeks more than an income of $15,000 a year from a trust fund.

Tells Odd Fish Story; Shows Fish to Prove It
Tillamook, Ore.—Here's a Paul Buryan yarn told by Jack Moors, who swears it is true. Using clam neck for bait, Moors hooked a 12-inch kelpie. As he hauled it near the surface, a 2-foot line and snapper at the kelpie, swallowing it. Before he could land his double catch, a 4-foot-long cod swallowed about half the length of his smaller brother. A bystander helped him gaff the triple-header. The largest fish weighed 55 pounds and was put on display in a downtown window as proof of his fish story.

Woman Clerk May Sign for President Roosevelt

Washington.—The only person who may sign the name of President Roosevelt to state documents, besides himself, is Mrs. Leona E. Diez, a clerk in the United States land office, who affixes the Executive's signature to the patents of homesteaders on United States land. The law prescribes that this substitute signer must be a woman, of whom six have held the honor since President Andrew Jackson's administration.

General 10% Reduction Made in '32 State Costs

Chicago.—Costs of the majority of state governments were reduced by approximately 10 per cent in 1932, according to a survey by the national organization to reduce public expenditures.

In seventeen scattered states, whose total operating expense was $807,324,888 in 1932, the organization now says there is reason to believe the combined expenditures will be $815,580,530, or a drop of almost $100,000,000.

Three of the seventeen states considered, however, show their expenses had risen in the last six months. They are Indiana, Pennsylvania and New Hampshire. Both Delaware and Pennsylvania expect tremendous cuts in expenses for the coming year, members of the reduction body said. Delaware will reduce expenditures by $5,000,000, while Pennsylvania's costs are expected to drop more than $27,000,000.

States included in the survey are Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Women Are Instructed in Mechanics of Auto

Hartford, Conn.—Believing that women should contribute their share in keeping up the family automobile, the Hartford Automobile club has instituted a course in tire changing, lubrication, wheel alignment, brake adjustment, valve grinding and general repair work, for women only.

Dog Adopts Kitten

Ogden, Utah.—Queenie, pet dog at the Volunteers of America headquarters here, is fond of children, so when the stork didn't bring her enough—only three—she went out and returned with a baby kitten in her mouth, which she is nursing along with her puppies.

Apparently bent on fighting for a larger share of the estate, the former Martha Ederton has engaged Attorney Joseph Sharfstein to represent her.

The widow, in striving for a more equal division, will lay claim to the $50,000 worth of jewelry and the lavish household furnishings of her husband. It is understood.

Fell, a grandson of the late Anthony Drexel, was married secretly to Martha Ederton, short girl and dress-shop owner, in January, 1932. She was touring the East Indies with him when he met death, which authorities termed accidental.

Mule Deer Become Tame Under Care of Ranchman
Lindsay, Calif.—J. W. Stiner, Cedarville rancher, claims credit for doing what old-time livestock men said was impossible.

He has a herd of domesticated, ranch-reared mule deer, apparently contented in his place.

He started the herd, which now numbers nine, several years ago, when one of his cowboys found a deserted and starving fawn.

Grocer Pays Taxi Fare With Goods From Store

Current Wit and Humor

A MEATIER MEAL

He was a thin, ragged urchin and he had crawled in under the circus tent. The manager rubbed him. "Do you know what we do with boys like you?" he thundered. "We make meat of them for the lions. Here, Carl, throw him into the lions cage."

The youngster looked up at him and said, "Oh, mister, let me see the show for nothing and I'll have the fattest boys in the place crawling under the tent tomorrow."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Right and Wrong

"Now Arthur," said the primary teacher, "if I put 11 plums in your hand and you eat four, how many will you have?"

"Eleven," said Arthur.

"But can that be true if you've eaten four? Think again."

"I'd have 11," said the boy, "four inside and seven outside."

PROOF

The lecturer was getting warmed up to his subject. "And, friends," he said impressively, "I tell you once again, medicine never did anyone any good." "That's not true," came a voice from the back of the hall. "Not true?" echoed the lecturer. "What do you mean?" "Medicine did my family a lot of good," went on the heckler. "But, my friend," said the lecturer, "you have no way of proving that statement." "Oh, yes, I have," replied the heckler, "my father owns a drug store."

DRAMATIC CAMP OFFERED FIRST DRAMA

"SUMMER RESORT" FOURTH PLAY OF SUMMER

Audiences Express Appreciation With Choice of Plays—Attendance Showing Increase

On July 26, 27 and 28, the National Dramatic Camp presented "Summer Resort," Martha Stanley's ever popular play of mother-love. This drama is the first serious melodramatic play to be given by the Ironton players, their three previous plays being comedies.

The story of "Summer Resort" is a simple, homely little story. The action takes place on the coast off Cape Cod during the vacation season. The time is the present.

Ana Silva, a Portuguese, runs a little store down near the beach. Her son, a handsome, restless lad has become popular at one of the summer hotels which dot the coast. He is teaching some of the people to dance and has been taken up by many. This has led to his meeting a certain Betty Smith, a wild flapper eager for adventure. He steals for her, a valuable chain belonging to her mother. He is discovered by his mother and in the end is slipped aboard a boat which is to be gone on a two year cruise. An old sea captain assists in the shanghai job. We are left with the hope that in following the footsteps of his father, a sea-faring man, the son will reclaim himself and come back to Ana Silva, a man worth while.

There are a number of interesting characters in this human little play. Of course the character of Ana Silva, the Portuguese mother, is an appealing figure. In the hands of Elsie Shields we were given an insight into the hopes and fears of a mother who feels her son slipping away from her arms to the arms of another woman—a woman who can neither love him very long nor protect him. Miss Shields is a new member of the Ironton players and we hope to see her in future productions.

The boy, Ana Silva's son, was in the hands of Harry Young, the young juvenile, whose popularity grows from week to week. As the restless, love-struck dancing boy he certainly turned in a splendid performance. This same commendation includes Dorothy Fritz as the girl who vamps the son and causes all the trouble of which there is a plenty.

Two newcomers made their appearance in "Summer Resort"—Miss Mary Camilla Boone and Naseeb Damoose. Miss Boone played the role of Hattie Smith, a summer resort. Mr. Damoose made himself a popular figure with the audience as Filipe, the suitor of Ana Silva. We hope that both of these new players will again appear in future shows.

Donald Kellogg, who, by the way, plays the lead in next week's play, "There's Always Juliet," gave a good performance as the detective. A casual, menacing figure who added much to the suspense and interest of the play.

Gerhardus Lindemulder played the old sea captain in hearty style. Mary Morrison made the most of her role of Rosa Pina, the little girl who tries to save the son for herself.

"Juliet" Next Week
"There's Always Juliet," John Van Druten's delightful little intimate comedy success of last season will be offered for three nights, August 2, 3, 4 at the Ironton theatre.

Donald Kellogg and Elvera Baker head the cast which includes Gerhardus Lindemulder and Miss Freda McMillan.

Mr. Lindemulder will be remembered for his delightful work in the comedy "Dirty Hands" presented three weeks ago.

Freda McMillan is the daughter of Doctor McMillan of Charlevoix. Miss McMillan has had a great deal of experience and her addition to the company will be of definite value to the production.

"There's Always Juliet" will be presented next Monday evening at Walloon Lake, prior to its presentation at the National Dramatic Camp theatre, Ironton.

The showing of this charming play is an opportunity to see one of the best Broadway comedies of last season and in the hands of the Ironton players there is every reason to believe that it will be excellently staged and acted.

It is interesting to observe the fact that "Have You Had Your Ironton-night" is getting to be a fad among the resorters. More and more cars are making the short drive out to the theatre by the lake. There seems to be a disposition to "put the theatre across" on the part of Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City people, as well as the many summer visitors from other adjacent towns. Good work! We need an organization that we can be proud of. The National Dramatic Camp seems to be the answer to that need.

EXPECT NO EXTENSION OF AUTO PLATE LIMIT

Unless all reports fail auto owners will be obliged to buy the other half of their year's license right now or put up their cars after August 1st, the time that the first half is expected to expire. We imagine the state will stick closely to that rule because they need the money, and that is about the only visible source of revenue any more, the auto, through the weight and gas tax.

Not Compulsory Insurance
Michigan's new motor vehicle operators' "financial responsibility" law is not a compulsory insurance law but is intended to restrain careless, irresponsible drivers who have no regard for the safety of other highway users. Upon receipt of certification that a judgment of $300 or more has not been satisfied, the secretary of state, under the law, is required to suspend the operator's license and use of license plates. These can only be reinstated by furnishing proof that the judgment has been met and by establishing future financial responsibility up to $10,000 in case of two deaths from traffic accidents and $1,000 responsibility for property damage. This responsibility can be established in four ways—by depositing $10,000 with the state treasurer; by adequate motor liability insurance; by surety bond; or by a personal bond with two sureties who each own sufficient Michigan property to meet the bond.

THE PUBLIC CAN HELP

It is encouraging to note the eagerness with which almost everybody wants to be helpful to NRA, our new national sweetheart. In this connection we might mention one line of endeavor that will need the support of the public in bringing about a readjustment to meet the requirements of the national code—the home town merchant. Custom has always decreed that he work long hours. Now the working day and week must be shortened. Perhaps this can be done by cutting off a part of each end of the working day. Whatever adjustment is made the public should conform to it with the least possible fault finding. National recovery depends upon everybody hearing a portion of the burden. How we meet this new situation will be a good test of citizenship. America has yet to fail in anything it has undertaken. We will not fail in this.

Notice to the Public!
Motorists are hereby warned that the practice of following the city fire truck to the scene of fires following alarm is strictly and positively forbidden.

Isn't it possible that fifteen or twenty thousand dollars dumped into the late political campaign of Gov. Bulky digests of fishing laws that had been growing in size every year as laws and regulations multiplied, have been replaced by a four page folder this year by the fish division of the department of conservation. The division believes that the more economical folder will efficiently replace the larger digests and contains all the information essential to the average angler. Because of the lateness of the date of legislative adjournment the new folders have just been issued that they might contain any changes in the inland fishing laws adopted by the 1933 legislature.

* MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE * WEEKLY NEWS *

The mortgage and land contract "moratorium" acts adopted by the Michigan legislature are to be tested in court. These laws provide that circuit judges under proper safeguards may delay foreclosures until March 1, 1935. Attorneys for the Union Joint Stock Land bank of Detroit, a federal loan organization, indicated in a suit filed in Macomb county, that they will seek to have the acts declared unconstitutional, claiming that both national and state constitutions are violated.

Coleman C. Vaughan, director of the building and loan division of the department of state, pointed out that court action can be avoided, if both borrower and mortgage holder understand the new laws. "If the borrower is able to make the rental payments required by the court, the building and loan associations should be glad to withhold foreclosure proceedings as long as sufficient income is received to protect the mortgage security," Mr. Vaughan informed the Michigan associations.

FUNDS DEPLETED, NO JURY FOR AUGUST COURT TERM

Due to depletion of county funds, no jury will be drawn for the August term of circuit court which convenes here the 14th. This move was taken on permission of Judge Parm C. Gilbert, following mutual agreement between attorneys interested in cases on the docket. All cases requiring a jury will be continued to the October term. It is anticipated the August court session will be completed in two days.

Party Frocks for the Younger Set

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

COMES now the season which calls youth to go partying in frocks which time to flowers and birds and sunshine and twinkling stars set in silks of blue and all such benighted things which go to make a summer. Well, here they are in the picture, three charming frocks, just such as are sure to win their way into the heart of every young girl who sees them.

Airy-fairy creations are they, made of chiffon, of tulle and of net, these being materials which fashion stresses with emphasis this summer, when it comes to favorite media for the younger set's party frocks.

It is said in regard to favorite colors that this is a "pastel season" and the trio of lovely dresses illustrated goes far to prove it so. Together, they look as if a bit of a rainbow must have been coaxed to lend some of its coloring to the scene, in that the first gown, on the cunning little dancing figure, is of chiffon in a delicate blue, while pale pink tulle is the choice of the smiling maiden centered in the group, the tall girl to the right wearing a love-of-a-gown of green silk net in a delicious cool green.

A significant feature about two of these models is the fact that the skirts are formed of tiers of ruffles. This styling is very popular this season, so much so that even dresses for grown-ups are fashioned in this wise, with this difference, however, that for adults the skirts are fitted decidedly snug, the ruffle-upon-ruffle movement beginning just above the knees.

"EEL GRAY" TONE IS LATEST SHOE COLOR

Schlappeil's "eel gray" has been adopted by the shoe world. Fashion mongers believe that it will be the high style shoe gray of fall and winter. It will make a shoe that can be worn with all other lighter tones of gray, with navy, red and even with black or brown. A problem thus has been solved for the boot-maker.

Another important kid leather shoe color is to be "taupe" for fall. As its name indicates it is the shade of the little field mole, a brown with just sufficient gray to conform to the gray vogue.

Predictions for the future include a new "faun brown" as splendid for combinations. It should harmonize well with all the browns on the fashion bill of fare, and it is very smart combined with black kid—in the latest half and half type of shoe.

Permanent Wave or Curls Now Attained in Comfort

Many a girl who started life as an ugly duckling is an attractive woman today. Modern science has given her many charms that nature failed to provide. Take curly hair, for instance. Today it's as easy to transform straight hair into a mass of natural looking curls as it is to keep your nails trim. With the new machineless method of permanent waving, you can sit back comfortably throughout the waving process, and read a book or go ahead with your knitting. You aren't "attached" to any electricity. A clean odorless vapor is applied to your hair, and in less time than you'd think it possible, you have a lovely head of curls.

Crocheted Fabrics Are Being Employed on Hats

A new hat has come out on the Paris boulevards, evidently to replace now-dead Chechias. It consists of nothing more than a square piece of knitted or crocheted fabric—or string done in a fish net weave—the corners of which are stitched in a rounded manner so that when the envelope, as it were, is opened and the head inserted, the hat fits like a cap and the "ears" stand up stiffly at each corner.

PARIS STYLES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Just off the steamer are these two Schlappeil models. Their simple, conservative styling gives them distinction. Interest also centers about the materials of which they are fashioned, for fabrics are always important in this versatile couturier's collections. The evening gown is made of a bright blue lacquered net which is not only wonderfully good looking for summer wear, but is ideally cool. The clever handling of a single broad strap over one shoulder with a tiny cape sleeve over the other is intriguing. The sports dress is of white artificial canvas, a new material which has created a sensation. The belt is of brown and white luster ribbon.

White for Evening

White in tailored cut is promoted as usual for summer wear, and frothy white styles for evening. One outstanding is of organza with six graduated ruffles which begin at the knees and fall to the floor.

Giving the Home That Cool Look

Decorations Can Do Much, Through Suggestion, to Help Out.

The homemaker who expects the family to remain at home during part of the summer at least, can do much to introduce a cool element in the rooms by following the suggestions offered here. Some of the methods lessen the heat through coolness realized through sight and lowered temperature. All are conducive to comfort.

One essential element in the decorative scheme is coolness of touch. To attain this there is no textile so perfect as linen. The next best is cotton goods with linen finish. A glazed or satin goods or finish is also cool feeling. Glass and metal are cool to the touch, as are also china, pottery and ceramics of high glaze and those of luster finishes. Whatever the home decorator has which can be used correctly in her rooms should be featured.

A second essential is coolness through appearance. For example a light-colored material is cooler to look at than a dark one. Therefore, when considering materials to cover furniture remember that the light-toned ones will foster the cool look. Of late, furniture covers of rich and gay colors have been popular, which is in accord with the brilliant color schemes which were the natural reaction from the all-too-summer schemes just preceding the present riot of color in decoration. In summertime, however, if you would have your rooms appear cool, use delicate colored furniture covering textiles.

A memory of the coolness of atmosphere created by oyster white patterned weaves linen covers on furniture and carpeted floors in a Philadelphia residence still lingers with me. I was but a child and Philadelphia was preternaturally hot, when stopping there between trains I called on a friend of my mother's. Just to enter the shaded coolness of the drawing room was a relief. To sit on the linen-covered chairs and touch the cool textile was refreshing. The homemaker has succeeded today in creating the desired cool atmosphere if her rooms give such a welcome impression of relief from torrid heat.

Accessories which strengthen the impression of coolness are grateful in summer time. For example, a clear glass bowl, brimming with water in which goldfish disport themselves, is such a necessary. Fronds of ivy trailing from a glass jar suspended in a window create a pleasing impression of crystal coolness and shady dells. A silver vase filled with flowers suggests the coolness of shimmering moonlight in a flower-filled garden.

Whatever by sight or touch recalls to the imagination things or impressions of coolness should be featured in summer decoration. Such things put persons in the mood to react to such measures as can be taken to actually lower temperatures, such as dimming sunlight, creating draughts through open windows, etc.

Safe Railway Travel

Fewer lives were lost in accidents at railroad grade crossings last year than in any year since 1916, according to reports by the American Railway association. The number of such deaths last year was 1,925. It was the third consecutive year in which there was a reduction in casualties at grade crossings. Modern highways and the elimination of grade crossings in building such thoroughfares are, of course, one factor in the improved showing.

AS AN ADDED ATTRACTION To Our Annual AUGUST FURNITURE SALE

We have an Extensive Showing of Colonial Furniture

We're mighty enthusiastic about this wonderful display of New England Colonial furniture which we have in our store. We have every reason to be proud of this showing because it came from the Conant-Ball Company of Boston, the world's foremost makers of this type of furniture.

While we were in Grand Rapids, two weeks ago, attending the furniture show we were so overcome with the rare beauty of this sturdily constructed furniture and with the modest prices that we purchased the entire sample line which Conant-Ball had there.

We have hundreds of pieces for every room in the home or cottage—all are made from Rock Maple or Birch and are most unique in their styling. This furniture will add a note of distinction to your home or cottage for many years to come and you'll never tire of seeing it.

SERIES OF INFANT CLINICS TO BE HELD

NINE MEETINGS WILL BE HELD DURING COMING WEEK

Dr. Carleton Dean Outlines Benefits of Clinics in Announcing Series for Charlevoix County

A series of nine infant and preschool clinics will be held in Charlevoix county next week, beginning Monday, August 7th, and continuing through August 11th.

Dr. Carleton Dean, who has recently returned from John Hopkins University after a year of post graduate work, will be the examining physician.

In announcing the clinics, Dr. Dean made the following statement in regard to this part of the District Health Unit work:

"Many of the ills most common in childhood have their beginnings in the pre-school period. Defects which are found most frequently in children of this age include diseased teeth, poor nutrition, diseased or enlarged tonsils or adenoids and poor posture. These defects begin developing in babyhood and by the time the child is ready to begin school, many of them have become serious. The earlier in the pre-school period that the child is reached, the more readily his defects yield to treatment. For instance, cross eyes can often be readily corrected in very young children, but if neglected until the child is ready for school, it may be difficult to correct the defect with glasses and it may be even necessary to resort to surgery.

"Crippled conditions due to rickets in babyhood and congenital conditions, such as club feet or spastic paralysis, depend greatly upon early treatment for complete correction. Very young children with bow legs or evidence of soft bone structure when placed under a doctor's care are greatly benefited. When these children are older, corrections are more difficult and sometimes impossible. Many children who fail in school must repeat grades because of the presence of some physical defect which hinders the learning process.

"The earlier correction of defects is not only important to the child itself, but also to the community, for it prevents a waste of educational effort and thereby saves public money."

Following is the schedule of meetings:

August 7—East Jordan in the music room of the central school, at 1:00 p. m.
August 8—Clarion, at the Grange hall, at 9:30 a. m.; Boyne City, at the public library, at 1:00 p. m.
August 9—Charlevoix, at the District Health Unit office, at 9:30 a. m.; Hayes, at the Hayes township Grange hall at 1:00 p. m.
August 10—Knop, at the Grange hall at 9:30 a. m.; Boyne Falls in the community hall at 1:00 p. m.
August 11—Marion at the Grange hall at 9:30 a. m.; Ironton, at the Ironton school at 1:00 p. m.

The issue for July 20 stated that in the week ending July 16, 7,734 people crossed on the state ferries, which operate between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace.

INDIANS RALLY TO DEFEAT BOYNE CITY TEAM

Trailing 5-0 at the Seventh, Stage
Comeback to Win 6 and 5

The Charlevoix Indians overcame a five-run lead to defeat Boyne City 6 and 5 in a Charlevoix-Antrim league game at south side diamond Sunday afternoon.

Boyer scored five runs in the first seven innings off Yeager, who pitched until the third, and Denemy, who finished the game. The Indians knocked Peters, Boyne hurler, from the box in the seventh, and coasted through to victory.

Cashing in on local errors, East Jordan defeated the Indians 16 to 2 in a twilight game here Tuesday evening.

The Indians go to Petoskey for a contest Thursday evening and Sunday play another league game at Bellaire.

STATE PAYS PORTION OF HIGHWAY MONIES

County Gets McNitt and Part of Maintenance Account

Remittance of highway funds owing to the county of Charlevoix was forwarded Friday to the county treasurer from the state highway department in the amount of $5,780.87. This remittance covers the amount due to the county as a refund, under the McNitt act, and represents the third quarter of the total amount due to the county, under this act, for the year 1933.

Because of the serious financial situation, created for the state by heavy real estate tax delinquencies of the past, delays have been experienced in forwarding to the several counties the monies due from the state highway funds. The new state highway administration consequently found large arrearages in the accounts owing to the several county governments.

State Highway Commissioner Van Wagener, in cooperation with the auditor general and the state treasurer, has been able to secure release of the third quarter of the McNitt money, as well as other sums, due to the counties, and these remittances have now been forwarded.

At the same time remittances have been made to county treasurers on sums owing for maintenance work on the state highway system. The amount remittance due Charlevoix county is $1,094.33. Added to this, is the sum of $7.90 which has been owing under miscellaneous account and release of which has been secured by Commissioner Van Wagener.

BLUE EAGLES APPEAR AS MANY SIGN PLEDGES

Barbers Adopted Code of Working Hours and Many Individuals Are Falling in Line

The N. R. A. in Charlevoix has swept forward in the past week as firms and individuals band in their signed agreements at the local post-office and, shortly after noon today, 32 persons or firms had qualified to display the Blue Eagle.

Among the groups to reach agreement as to working hours and conditions was the local barbers, who Monday commenced operating on a schedule agreed to last week. The service week for this trade has been reduced from 74 to 62 hours and the working week of employees to 50 hours. An increase of 5% on commission to employees was agreed and hours week days set from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m., and on Saturdays from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. A standard price was set for services. Those signing the agreement were Tim Whitley, S. M. Rose, T. L. Pearl, H. C. Pearl and C. H. Sternberg.

At a meeting in the council chambers last Thursday evening, a group of grocery and meat dealers formed a tentative code of hours which later did not materialize. The schedule, limiting employees to a 48-hour week, would have provided a 52-hour service week with opening hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. on week days, and from 8:30 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. on Saturdays. Circulation of the agreement Friday resulted in but two signatures.

At the present time the two local chain stores, Kroger and A. & P. have adopted codes. The former, with addition of one full-time and three part-time employees, is operating between 6:30 a. m. and 7:00 p. m. week days, and from 6:30 a. m. to 12 m. on Saturdays. No employee works over 48 hours a week.

At the A. & P. store, two extra employees have been added in the grocery and one in the meat department. The hours on week days from 7:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., and on Saturdays from 7:30 a. m. to 10:00 p. m.

As fast as employers signify their compliance with the President's agreement and present their card of compliance at the postoffice, they are given the Blue Eagle NRA emblem. Employers then send another agreement form to the Department of Commerce. This department notifies Postmaster Clarence B. McGinnis, who then lists the employers' names on the honor roll in the postoffice.

SCHOOLS WILL GET PRIMARY FUND AID

Approximately $9.50 Per Census Child Released in September

According to the auditor general's report, approximately $12,750,000 will be distributed to the schools of the state September 1 from the primary school and interest fund, and a second installment will be paid December 15. The first makes an approximate $9.50 per census child, while in December the per census rate will be $4.00.

The utility companies, chief contributors to the primary fund, were allowed to pay their 1932 taxes in two installments. They have gladly cooperated in paying $6,000,000 the remainder to be paid in December.

Educators have asked for $15,000,000 additional state aid, basing their estimates upon the schools' receiving the same primary money this year as in 1932. However, the per census rate is approximately 18 per cent lower than that of last year. The supplementary aid is aimed to restore in part the decrease in revenue caused by the 15 mill limitation amendment.

ANNUAL OPEN NET MEET ANNOUNCED

CHARLEVOIX OPEN TOURNEY TO BE HELD AUGUST 15-21

Annual Tennis Event at The Inn Courts Will Follow Michigan Riviera Now in Progress

Tennis will continue next week to provide the major entertainment for both local and summer residents.

Following closely completion of the annual Michigan Riviera championships, which this year has drawn the largest tournament entry in the mid-west, the Charlevoix Tennis Club will stage the annual Charlevoix Open tournament at The Inn clay courts.

Play will open Tuesday, August 15th, and continue through Sunday, August 20th, and possibly the following day, depending upon the entry.

The open tournament has in previous years been held in advance of the Riviera, but rather than discontinue the event, officers of the local tennis club are conforming to numerous requests by holding the tournament on the dates above mentioned.

The Charlevoix open has always drawn a large entry of summer and local residents from this as well as other resort cities of the Northern Michigan region. While the field has never contained any players of national ranking, this fact has added to the closeness of competition by a more evenly matched entry.

Last year's winners were George Dinwiddie, New Orleans, men's singles; Mrs. H. S. Lian of Cincinnati, O., women's singles; Frederick Burdick, Midland, junior singles; Dick Siddle, Detroit, boys 13 to 15 years; Dick Barstow, Midland, boys under 13 years; Helen Bryan, St. Louis, Mo., junior girls' singles; Mrs. H. S. Lian and Nancy Jo-enb, Cincinnati, Ohio, women's doubles; George Dinwiddie and Walker Sullivan, New Orleans, men's doubles; Boyd Carr and Frederick Burdick, Midland, junior doubles.

The same schedule of events as last year will be held again. Entries may be made at The Inn hotel. The fee will be 50c, entrants to furnish balls.

IRONTON PLAYERS GIVE "YOU AND I"

PHILIP BARRY COMEDY OPENS WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Freda McMillan Appeared in Cast of "There's Always Juliet," Presented Last Week

Last week the National Dramatic Camp at Ironton presented John Van Druen's sparkling comedy, "There's Always Juliet." This hit of last season on Broadway is being presented throughout the East by practically every summer theatre group and has met with unbounded success. The Ironton players gave a delightful performance of this four character show—kept it moving, lively, and filled with all the witty lines and situations for which this splendid play is noted.

Miss Elvyn Baker showed her versatility in the difficult part of Leonora Perryvoste, the young girl who loses her heart and head to a casual easy going American. Inasmuch as the cast consisted of but four people it is a tribute to her talents as an actress to be able to carry her audience so easily through three acts.

Among the players was Miss Freda McMillan of Charlevoix, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. F. McMillan. It was an agreeable surprise to see her and certainly she was a credit to the production. Miss McMillan gave a professional performance in the role of Florence, the spinsterish, watchful maid, who is so concerned and worried over her young mistress. It is hoped that we shall again see her behind the footlights in future productions to be given by the group at Ironton.

Don Kellogg, as the young American, had his first opportunity of season in a straight leading role and gave a charming performance. Heretofore, Mr. Kellogg has been cast in character roles and his worth as a leading man has not previously been shown to advantage.

NORTHERN MICHIGAN GRANGE RALLY AUG. 19

All Day Program Will Be Held at Maple Grove Grange Hall

The annual Northern Michigan grange rally will attract hundreds to the Maple Grove grange hall on Saturday, August 19th.

The day's program will open with a home economics committee conference at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Dora Stockman, chairman of the Michigan State Grange home economics committee, will have charge. Every subordinate grange should plan to have their committee present at this conference and other granges are welcome to attend.

A big basket picnic dinner will be held at noon in the grove adjoining the grange hall.

The afternoon program will be furnished by the various counties taking part in the rally. Mrs. Stockman will bring some very interesting facts about grange work and other interesting topics.

A cooperative supper will be served between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, to be followed by Pomona grange meeting in the evening. Barvard fifth degree team will initiate a class at this time.

It is hoped that every grange in the surrounding counties will be well represented at both meetings. Visitors are welcome at the afternoon session.

COUNTY FARMERS TO SHARE WHEAT MONEY

EIGHTY-NINE ELIGIBLE UNDER FEDERAL CONTROL PLAN

Approximately $1,100 Available to County Farmers—County-Wide Meeting Thursday Night

(By B. C. Mellenkamp.)

Cash payments to 89 Charlevoix county farmers of approximately $1,100.00 will be made by the U. S. department of agriculture before the next wheat harvest if all the farmers of this county cooperate with the government plan of obtaining a stabilized wheat industry, according to B. C. Mellenkamp, county agricultural agent, Boyne City, who has just received reports of the amount of wheat allotted to this county.

On account of the nearness of the time to sow this fall's wheat and the fact that this program should be in operation immediately, a big county wide meeting of all wheat growers is scheduled for Thursday night, August 10, upstairs in the federal building, Boyne City. At this time, county agent Mellenkamp will carefully outline the details of the program and if those present feel that our county will gain by participating in this program, a board of directors will be chosen and the machinery set up to operate this huge plan. It is hoped that each wheat grower in the county will make a special effort to attend as the business can be transacted in one meeting rather than having many smaller meetings throughout the county.

The Charlevoix county money will be paid in two installments, two-thirds about this fall and one-third next spring when it can be determined that the farmer has fulfilled his part of the plan to reduce wheat.

PETOSKEY NIGHT TENNIS OPENS NEXT WEEK

Third Annual Tournament Scheduled at Municipal Courts

Night tennis, an unusual angle of the sport, will again draw the interest of fans and players in Northern Michigan when the third annual Petoskey tennis championships are staged in the resort city during the week of August 12 to 22.

The popular meet is expected to attract a large field of netters from this region and from out-state localities, bringing as it has previously, prominent players from Louisiana, Georgia, Kentucky, New York, Pennsylvania and other states.

Played entirely at night, under huge floodlights, the Petoskey meet is the only tournament of its kind in the state, and one of the few such meets being staged in the United States.

The tournament was inaugurated in 1931, constituting an innovation in tennis, and is sponsored by the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce as part of its summer program.

Competition will be held in men's singles and doubles and junior singles and doubles. Eighteen years is the age limit for the junior field, players under and including that age being classed in that division. There will be no play in women's and girls' fields this year.

An elaborate layout of trophies and awards form one of the attractive features of the tournament. Entries will close at midnight on Saturday, August 12th.

DEER BAN LIFTED IN SEVEN NEW COUNTIES

Hunting Allowed in Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet This Year

Three western Michigan counties and four eastern Michigan counties will be open to deer hunting this fall for the first time in many years as a result of action taken by the state conservation commission in its August meeting in Detroit, Tuesday.

The counties where deer hunting will be permitted are Antrim, Emmet, Charlevoix, Gladwin, Arenac, Midland and Bay.

The action was taken under the discretionary power act. This season was opened because of the increase of deer in the territory to the extent that the commission believed an open season justified.

Entry of One Hundred Ten Players Surpassed All Expectations—Results of Play

After delay of a day because of rain, play in the 8th annual Michigan Riviera tennis championships got under way Tuesday afternoon at The Inn clay courts.

The entry totaling 110 players, the largest in the past three years, surpassed all earlier expectations. The field is evenly balanced in all divisions, promising close-fought matches in the quarter and semi-finals.

Hayes, Chicagoans, Carl Fischer, 1932 Detroit city champion, and Max Gurman, Western State Teachers' college star, are seeking the men's singles crown held by Harris. These four are seeded in the draw.

Several outstanding players have entered women's singles. Catherine Wolf, Elkhart, Ind., Western Association champion; Helen Grawn, Detroit; United States indoor girl champion; Ruth Riese, Saginaw; Michigan open champion, and Lois Jacques, Chicago, are seeded in this division. CHARLEVOIX WINS AT GAYLORD CAMP

WIN SEVERAL FIRST AWARDS IN 4-H CLUB INTERESTS

Dairy Club, Canning Club Teams Winners—Gwendon Hott in Crops Judging Competition

(By B. C. Mellenkamp.)

Charlevoix county was represented by approximately 40 club members and leaders at the northern Michigan 4-H club encampment held at Gaylord last week. Of local interest are the accomplishments of several of our leading club members.

The Barnard group of dairy club members again was successful in having their dairy demonstration team chosen to represent northern Michigan in the state finals. This has been such a common occurrence that it is the expected result. This year the team is composed of David Matchett and Clayton Smith, who gave a demonstration of the "value of the Babcock test." This team was coached by Carleton Smith, their club leader, and makes the fourth or fifth team from this community. Not to be outdone by the west end of the county, the Boyne Falls section showed their ability by having a canning demonstration team also win trips. The two girls in this team are Violet Russell and Annyll's Detcher who demonstrated "How to Can Chicken and Greens." This community has also been successful in sending several teams to the state contest.

Another outstanding accomplishment was the work of Gwendon Hott, East Jordan, in the crops judging contest. Out of 27 contestants, he had high score, having 559 out of a possible 600 points. Last year, Gwendon was on our crops judging team, so his winning this year was not unexpected. He has been one of our outstanding club members for several years and only last year had a sample of his notable place, second in national competition at Chicago. There is still the result of the judging contest to be announced.

The camp this year far exceeded expectations. On Thursday night, 406 club members, club leaders and visitors sat down for this enjoyable event. At least 350 club members were in attendance at various times during the week. Each day was spent in lessons, instructions, demonstrations and recreation and amusement features.

Of the boys, Gwendon Hott spent the entire week. The following spent three days: David Matchett, Clayton Smith, Bobby Strave, Clare McGhan, and Carleton Smith. The following spent two days: Ralph Shephard, Wilbur McDonald and Howard McDonald. The following spent one day: Charles Griffin, Billy Thayer, Elvin Gardner, Alvin Gardner and George Russell. Of the girls, Shirley Barnett, Archella Mahr and Elsie Hilton spent the entire week. The following spent four days: Irene Brintnall, Ruth Gilmore, June Davis and Lorena Brintnall. The following spent three days: Annyll's Detcher, Violet Russell, Lura Detcher, Cora Matchett. The following spent two days: Margaret Behling and Eleanor Behling. The following spent one day: Jeanette Urmay, Annyll Thayer, Ruth Slate, Josephine Proulx, Eloise Gaunt, Esther Mathers, Elva Gould, Alta Mathers, Marjorie Scott, Gladys Staley. In addition to the club members the following leaders were in attendance for a short time: Mrs. Belle Gaunt, Mrs. Ray March, Mrs. Leden Brintnall and Mrs. Robert Russell.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45. Wednesday evening at 7:45. Subject, "Soul."

Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend our services and use our reading room.

"Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 6.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (1 Cor. 2:12): "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are fully given to us of God."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 265): "Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual,—they must near the broader interpretations of being; and gain some proper sense of the infinite,—in order that sin and mortality may be put off."

UNTIL WE LEARNED BETTER

Until we learned better, we used to mix wood and steel in our car bodies and wheels.

It was the best way to make bodies—then. But the state of the art has advanced.

Of course, it is more expensive to make an all-steel body than to make a wooden frame and nail steel panels on to it. The better way involves an initial expenditure of several millions of dollars for new dies, which renders a change very costly. Cars, especially large expensive cars which are produced in small volume, cannot afford this, because the dies cost as much for one car as for a million. That alone explains why all-steel bodies are not used in all cars.

But our basic policy from the beginning is to make a good car better, regardless of cost.

For example, when we discarded wood-steel body construction, it was not because we lacked wood. We still have some thousands of acres of the best hard wood in America. Economy would urge us to use up the wood first, and then adopt the better all-steel body. But we decided that quality was more important than expense.

We weighed the reasons, for and against, before we made the change. We could see only one reason for retaining a mixed wood-and-steel body—nailing the metal on, instead of welding an all-steel body into a strong one-piece whole. That reason was, it would be cheaper—for us.

Our reasons for adopting an all-steel body were these: A wood-steel body is not much stronger structurally than its wooden frame. In all American climates, wood construction weakens with age. Every used car lot gives evidence of this. Rain seeps in between joints and the wood decays. A car may have a metal surface, and yet not be of steel construction. Under extreme shock or stress the steel body remains intact—dented perhaps, but not crushed.

Steel does not need wood for strength or protection. Wood is fine for furniture, but not for the high speed vehicles of 1933.

In the Ford body there are no joints to squeak, no seams to crack or leak.

The all-steel body is more expensive—to us, but not to you.

By all odds, then, steel bodies seem preferable.

Wheels also have become all-steel. No one argues that an electrically welded one-piece steel wheel, such as the Ford wheel, needs to be "strengthened" by adding wood to it.

The one-piece all-steel body is the strongest, safest, quietest, most durable body made. That is our only reason for making them.

Our Part in Government

TODAY men of all nations are evidencing deep interest in the affairs of their respective governments. This progressive attitude has undoubtedly resulted from the ceaseless, though not always recognized, influence of the wonderful Christian teaching that in the sight of God all men are equal. This does not mean that every person as a citizen can have assigned to him a special public duty. However, to everyone comes the privilege, as well as the duty, of being a supporter of right government, and this is indeed a high office. To each citizen come opportunities to support a righteous government through intelligent thinking. Through the cultivation and exercise of such qualities of thought as are implied by the words understanding, charity, citizenship, and prayer, the individual can prepare himself to be a useful citizen in his community.

Christian Science enables one to regard these subjects in their true light. As men begin to grasp the truth concerning God's government, and to prove their understanding by bettering individual thinking, they find themselves willing and ready to accept the responsibilities of useful citizenship.

Many opportunities are thus made available by spiritual understanding. This understanding includes intelligent comprehension, enlightenment, alertness. One who through Christian Science seeks to understand his government, its purposes, methods, and aims, has an intelligent standard whereby to measure its acts. He is not misled by false propaganda or by personal influence. He casts his ballot on the side of integrity, sound sense, and progress. In this way he rises above the limitations of a merely material sense of government and begins to demonstrate the truth concerning real government, for he has learned the spiritual nature of man as an intelligent son of an all-wise God, the perfect Mind.

Charity, too, is an open door to opportunities for serving. It may be described as a true sense of love. Charity is the attitude which rejoices in the certainty of the ultimate triumph of Truth, even when evil seems threatening. To charity, evil is only a deceiving false sense which may be progressively replaced with the true sense of being as spiritual. When charity governs thought, the citizen may look critically upon his government in a helpful way. He may turn the searchlight of critical inspection on the nation's functionings, and by keeping aglow in his own thought the light of wisdom, fairness, patience, and love he will be able to see not only the errors to be eradicated, but the good already accomplished.

EDITORIALS

THE WAR IS ON

Striking without warning, United States Department of Justice agents acting simultaneously in different parts of the country arrested a number of known enemies to society in the first major movement of the government's fight against crime. Uncle Sam is determined it will be a fight to the finish. Unrelenting, patient, but never for a single hour will the battle be allowed to cease until these organized gangs have been broken up and the leaders sent to prison. Criminals faced with federal court charges will find that escaping through the meshes of the law will be something different from the immunity which they have apparently enjoyed in the local courts. Where local government proves inadequate we can expect federal interference. Public opinion will be squarely back of the government in stamping out this threat of free government, have no fear about that. If Missouri wants to hang a kidnaper it will meet with the approval of the better citizens of the nation—the day of dealing gently with the criminal classes has passed—crime in America is facing the sun-

Many doors to service are opened by the qualities expressed in the word "citizenship." Citizenship, as a way of living, has to do with such opportunities as come to the thinker in the usual walks of life, in the home, the school, or the shop. Citizenship means bringing to bear upon these activities the influence of a high idealism. It means practicing Jesus' Golden Rule: "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." For the student of Christian Science to be a good citizen he must practice the truth discovered and founded by Mary Baker Eddy. That this religion is the Science of Jesus' teachings has been proved many times by the works which its students have done and are doing through the spiritual understanding of God's law. He who practices Christian Science, in ways small or great, is well prepared to take his place as a servant of mankind. Speaking of "a knowledge of the Science of being," Mrs. Eddy says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 128), "It raises the thinker into his native air of insight and perspicacity." Surely, one so equipped can furnish strong support to the right activities of civic government. The doorway to the highest service is opened through the power for good in true prayer. Prayer, founded thought on the divinely substantial Rock, Christ, the true idea of God, the strong foundation for the superstructure of harmonious living. True prayer avails, and the Christian Scientist learns to pray availingly not alone for the good of himself, but for the whole world. In Christian Science, prayer is fervent, fervent aspiration; it is spiritual vision. Prayer is that mental attitude which rests on the conviction that God, Love, is the only cause and creator, and that every real effect is Godlike. Prayer breaks the mesmerism of beguiling material sense, and through the mist it reveals God's man, governed by God. Through prayer consciousness is filled with the holy facts of being; greed is replaced with unselfish love, hatred with brotherhood, lust with peace, and ignorance with wisdom.

"Are we benefited by praying?" asks Mrs. Eddy on page 2 of Science and Health, and her immediate answer is, "Yes, the desire which goes forth hungering after righteousness is blessed of our Father, and it does not return unto us void." As men universally learn so to pray, the mental atmosphere of the whole world will be suffused with loving-kindness, and all can then echo the angelic rejoicing, recorded by the Revelator, "The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever."—The Christian Science Monitor.

set. With state and federal government united in the work of extermination, we are assured of victory.

AN EASY TASK

While the national administration is engaged in repealing the old law of supply and demand, to the benefit of he that hath, and the tragedy of he that hath not, it might also try its hand at reversing the well-known law of gravity which compels impounded waters to seek a natural level.

Engineers on the site of the proposed Cove Creek dam have discovered a number of caves in the Tennessee hills and unless Congress does something about it the mountains may groan with agony and be rent asunder as in Biblical times. But then, a little job like plugging up a few holes in the mountainside should not bother our national lawmakers—that is, not if they are able to plug up some of the present leaks in the national treasury.

TIME OF DISEASE "TAKES"

We once saw a movie in which a character came into contact with leprosy and immediately his hand became leprosy. Everyone knows better than that. We do not break out with diseases the moment we make contact. There is a period of "incubation" in which they grow in our bodies before manifestation. This period differs greatly with different diseases. Leprosy is a disease of slow growth that may take years to show itself whereas scarlet fever incubates at high speed and will develop in the exposed child in from two to seven days. The germ of tuberculosis may be present for years in a child's body without development of a diseased condition.

It must be understood that there is no such thing as an absolutely fixed and definite time for a disease to incubate. Many factors cause variation. Even such things as the season of the year or age of the patient may make a difference. One cannot be much more definite, the Michigan Tuberculosis association states, than to say that smallpox has an incubation period of 12 to 15 days; chickenpox 14 to 21 days; measles 8 to 15 days; whooping cough 14 days; mumps 10 to 18 days; typhoid fever 7 to 23 days; infantile paralysis 3 to 10 days; and diphtheria 2 to 5 days.

THOSE WHO BUY

The time is coming when those who buy goods over the counters of the nation will be asking some new questions. Not only will they inquire about the quality and price, which is important, but they will also want to know something about the conditions under which the goods were produced.

If an article was manufactured in a factory where working conditions were poor, where men and women are paid starvation wages, where children wear out their lives, the consumer will know these things. If clothing was made in a sweat shop there may be some way of branding it. If the store which sells goods do not pay decent wages, maybe that fact will become known.

It is important that farmers get a fair price for their products. We all admit that. It is just as important that those who labor get fair wages. That is not only humane, decent, right, but it is to the advantage of every person in the nation. If people earn they can live and spend. If they do not, the depression continues. The United States will some day be upon a foundation of happiness and prosperity.

SMALL CROPS

We seem to be living in a strange world. In former years information that the farmers had harvested big crops of wheat, corn, cotton and other staples, was the best kind of news. The sun of prosperity was considered to be shining high when those great harvests were gathered in. The nation rejoiced over the bounty of nature, people began to spend more money and an impulse of new prosperity was felt in every village.

But today, what a contrast exists! We are now told that the crops have been more seriously damaged than at any time for the past 50 years. And yet this is considered good news. The more the crops fall off, the higher the prices of stocks and bonds go and the more confidence the country feels. We are not yet ready to admit that all of the old standards by which we formerly measured the prosperity of the nation are obsolete and should be scrapped. We should make haste slowly, examining each change with care, lest we awaken some morn to discover we have gone a long way past the corner where prosperity is said to have gone into hiding.

YOU and the World

You can sit in your room and turn through the advertising pages—demand any portion of the world before you to come to you, and it will come! You can summon an ounce of French garden in a perfume vial; intricate pieces of Switzerland in a tiny wristwatch; a corner of California packed in an orange; a handful of Virginia to stuff in your pipe; sunny Seville in olives; a taste of Ceylon in tea.

Advertisements tell you the desirable portions of the world you can buy. How most quickly to call them to you. How much you will like them when yours. Grown on a far island—dug from a mine—if it's advertised and you ask for it, it's yours. If you ask it to do what it's advertised to do, it will. If you ask others who have used it what they found out about it, they will repeat facts advertised about that product. Advertisements are your surest, quickest means of enjoying the world. They help you obtain the best the world offers, at a price which wide use has made low.

"PLAYS" COLOR AND LIGHT WITH MUSIC.

A new kind of show, synchronizing color, light and music as a prelude and setting for motion pictures is Standard Oil's contribution to A Century of Progress Exposition.

Through operation of special projection machines in a giant red crown in the center of the dome of the Travel and Transport Building, interior walls of the dome become a cyclorama of whirling light patterns and colors. At the same time the building is filled with special modern music in which sounds of industry at work are a dominating theme.

The motion pictures, which are also thrown from the red crown on four large screens at once tell the story of oil, described by a poet in one of the inscriptions as "the power that moves the wheels of tractors, turbines, automobiles." The complicated electrical equipment by which the show is developed is operated almost without human action by the playing of a single record in a controlophone system. The record gives the cue to each piece of equipment as its turn is reached and cuts it out when it has played its part.

TREAT HIM FAIR

While petitions seeking the recall of Governor Comstock were quite liberally signed when first presented to the man in the street, it is not likely that the movement will reach alarming proportions once the sentiment of sober-thinking people is allowed to be felt. Perhaps it may be true that the governor has failed in some things—something that is likely to happen whenever the element of human equation is involved—but not by any stretch of the imagination has he failed to the extent where he should be subjected to the ignominy of recall.

All good citizens, regardless of party affiliations should register an emphatic protest against this unwise and unfair attempt to remove him from office. We should treat the governor fair until he has had ample opportunity to work out the program he has in mind. A legislative committee to revise state government and bring about needed reforms was appointed by the last legislature. A special session will be called at the beginning of the year to study their report. If, following that, the people believe the governor has failed in his executive capacity, there will be ample opportunity to register that belief in orderly-fashion at the polls. We don't need any recall, with its consequent bitterness, in Michigan.

BOOSTING VACATIONLAND

The advertising department of the Michigan Bell Telephone company is deserving of much praise. For several weeks, with much vision and foresight, this company has been stressing in all of its advertising matter the advantages of Michigan as the ideal summer vacation spot of the entire country. It would be hard to estimate the value to the state of such a campaign, but with their advertising appearing regularly in practically every Michigan publication, it is safe to say that thousands of extra visitors have been induced to spend their vacation period on the banks of Michigan's lakes and streams. It is principally due to campaigns of this nature that the summer tourist business in recent years has become one of our greatest commercial assets. There are countless other business enterprises in the state that might well follow the excellent example set by the Bell company.

* MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS *

Definite knowledge of the amount of emergency welfare relief funds will be available to the various counties from the $12,000,000 appropriation in the sales tax act, will be available some time next week, according to members of the finance committee of the state administrative board.

First reports and applications for license must be filed with the board of tax administration by August 15. Several days must elapse before these figures are tabulated. If the first month's proceeds exceed $2,600,000 the additional amount will be set aside for the use of primary schools which were given a supplementary appropriation of $15,000,000 if the sales tax collections will bear that burden.

The Michigan Department of State is the first state department in Michigan to fall in line with President Roosevelt's National Industrial Recovery program. In a telegram to the President, Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald said:

"The Michigan Department of State will do everything possible in aiding NRA to success."

Salaries and wages at the present time come under NRA provisions for "white collar" workers and additional jobs will be created by a more extensive use of the department's system of staggered employment.

The department of state will not add a single employee to its payroll for the administration of the new "chain store" tax.

The average person estimates there are five or six chains of stores operating in the state. Already the department has received applications for licenses from more than 50 chains.

Motorists entering Michigan to establish residence or accept employment must purchase Michigan license plates, according to rulings by the attorney general and the department of state.

The state law permits the use of plates from other states for not more than 90 days. This provision is designed to encourage tourists and visitors. When persons living in neighboring states and commute into Michigan daily to make their livelihood here, however, they are not classed as tourists and must pay the Michigan license fee. The same rule applies to those coming into the state to reside. "The department of state gives such owners ten days to comply."

GOVERNOR COMSTOCK CONSIDERING NEW PROPOSAL

Tuberculosis Sanatorium for Northern Michigan Possible Through Federal Loan, Claim

Governor William A. Comstock has under consideration at the present time the proposal of the state sanatorium commission that the Northern State Tuberculosis sanatorium be built with funds available under the National Recovery act.

The commission has recommended construction of a 200-bed institution at a cost of $600,000. Dr. E. J. O'Brien, chairman of the commission, and Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis association, compose a special committee appointed by the commission to confer with Governor Comstock on the recommendation.

The committee, according to Dr. O'Brien, is awaiting the Governor's decision before presenting the proposal to the NRA regional board.

"While the Northern sanatorium has been under discussion in two sessions of the legislature and for some time has demanded the attention of persons and organizations interested in the eradication of tuberculosis, it probably would be of interest and value to the Governor to hear directly from the people in the district how they feel in the matter," stated Dr. O'Brien.

"This project is one that promises benefits to this section of the state both in the form of unemployment relief and in the form of protection against tuberculosis. It should have the support of every thoughtful person who is aware of the tremendous costs of tuberculosis in preventable sickness and unnecessary, disease-caused poverty."

Built under the National Recovery act, 30 per cent of the sanatorium's cost will be met by federal funds. The remaining 70 per cent will take the form of a self-liquidating loan.

In the case of the Northern sanatorium, repayment of this loan may be made when tax revenues that now are being used temporarily for other purposes are returned to the Northern Sanatorium building fund.

CHRISTMAS TREE INSPECTION IS CHANGED

Only Swamps Need Be Inspected Where Trees Are Dug Up

Christmas tree swamps and evergreen boughs are no longer required to be inspected and certified before trees or boughs are sold according to a new law passed by the legislature, unless the swamps are used as a source of trees to be sold with the roots attached.

Requested inspections which were made for Christmas trees and evergreen boughs will not be made by the state department of agriculture. People desiring to sell evergreen trees with roots attached should apply by September 1 for inspection to E. C. Mandenberg, who has charge of orchard and nursery inspection for the department of agriculture at Lansing.

MRS. L. B. BRECHEISEN IS TAKEN BY DEATH
Bay Shore Pioneer Woman Passes Unexpectedly at Home Thursday

Mrs. Lelia B. Brecheisen, wife of William Brecheisen, resident of the Bay Shore region all her life, died at her home there very unexpectedly Thursday morning. She was about 63 years of age and well known and greatly loved in that region.

Mrs. Brecheisen was born at LaPeer, October 6, 1870, and came to Northern Michigan with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Long. She married William Brecheisen, April 27, 1892, at Petoskey and since has made her home at the Brecheisen farm.

She was active in community life of the region and a member and worker of the Bay Shore Presbyterian church.

Surviving besides the husband are one son, Lee, and one daughter, Merle, at home; two daughters, Mrs. Paul Hayward, South Boardman, and Mrs. Walter Crandall, Bellaire.

The funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Bay Shore Presbyterian church with Rev. E. P. Linnell, Petoskey, the church pastor, in charge.

NRA PROGRESSING IN CHARLEVOIX

All branches of the Northern Creamery Company, including the Charlevoix branch, went on a 48-hour code this week, adding a large list of employees to the present payroll.

Samuel E. Rogers represented the Charlevoix county road commission at a meeting of state highway commissioners last week at Holland. The subject of bringing all road workers of the state under the N. E. A. was discussed and plans formulated. Mr. Rogers goes Thursday to a similar meeting at Lansing, and upon his return it is understood a special meeting will be called to bring the Charlevoix county commission under the code.

Other groups and individual firms are working out agreements to cover their specific business or else awaiting the adoption of a code by the industry with which they are affiliated. In the meantime the number of Blue Eagles being displayed is growing rapidly and it is anticipated Charlevoix will soon be enlisted under this banner 100 per cent.

ALFALFA SEED GROWERS SEE BIG PRICES
Increased Demand for New Planting Is Anticipated

Legume seeds of all varieties will be in great demand this fall and next spring, the farm crops department at Michigan State college predicts.

Alfalfa and red clover seed particularly will sell for high prices, officials of the department believe. The normal demand for clover and alfalfa seeds will be supplemented, they said, by increased plantings on land which in past years has grown other crops.

Neighboring states are also anticipating larger legume acreages next year, they said, and will probably look to Michigan for seed as in previous seasons.

MACKINAC MAN, MISTAKEN FOR DEER, IS KILLED

Henry Haney, 70, of Garfield township, Mackinac county, was fatally shot by his son, Otto, 46, Thursday afternoon as the two and William St. Denis, a neighbor, were hunting deer near their home, according to word from Newberry. Otto confessed he fired at his father when he saw a movement in the underbrush. He is held on suspicion of homicide and game law violation. He and St. Denis carried the elder Haney's body three miles through the woods to bring it to Newberry.

MERMASH Makes Good Pullets

These are the weeks in which to produce heavy bodied pullets that produce eggs cheaply and steadily when eggs count for the most.

Give your pullets on range free access to Mermash 16% and hard grains, both in hoppers if possible. If they seem to be maturing too rapidly close the mash hoppers for a portion of the day. Pullets should be well developed as to size and weight before they come into production.

Mermash 16% protein is a starting, growing and laying mash for chickens, ducks and turkeys. It provides in ocean kelp and fish meal food iodine and other essential minerals lacking in Michigan crops and soils. Poultry responds to low cost Mermash with splendid growth and production. WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX NEWS COLUMN
VINCENT ARNOLD

We are forced to acknowledge an error in last week's column, much as it grieves us to do so. However, you can blame it on the government. Last week the statement was made that the Beaver Island trip left in the morning. That is only partly true, for just as the boys were preparing to board the Marold II, up popped the law and boomed out that a limit of 25 deck passengers imposed on the boat would permit only part of the group to go at that time. So the poor down-trodden Charlevoix had divided into two parties, with the second one arriving at the camp-site on the island about 9:30 p. m. Despite its rather unattractive start, the trip was quite a successful one.

Monday night the boys were given a chance to recount some of their experiences on their respective trips. Of course, the Country of Progress fellows had the most to tell, and no doubt could have kept the fire going all night had the opportunity been given. Macaulay Whiting made up a little joke of his own in Chicago, so we'll pass it on: "When the cow jumped over the moon, the moon asked how much it was getting for performing such a feat. Said cow named the sum of $50, and the moon immediately demanded a fifty-fifty split. Upon reaching terra firma once more, the cow wanted to know how it was going to be able to split fifty-fifty when it had only $50!"

The athletic program at camp includes instruction in playground ball, baseball, tennis, volleyball, touch football, and track. The boys are given various opportunities to play and thus improve their skill in such events as all-camp baseball games, tournaments, etc. One of the biggest athletic events of the season is the battle for the brown jug, the annual flag rush. More about that will come next week.

Sorry to announce that our annual carnival, originally scheduled for August 19, has been called off. The final banquet comes on the 24th, and it is thought that the two dates are too close together for such important events. As a sort of filler, next Saturday night will see the performance of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," by the counselors, and the representation of the play "Trouble Brewing" by Tom Boothby and Bob Bennett. The latter was given on Dad's day. Camp Kairphree will be the guests of Charlevoix for the evening. There won't be many dirty necks in camp on that night, you can be sure.

The week's best story: The truck driver on Beaver Island handed his bill to business manager Schiller, and the latter noticed one item headed, "Bridge, $50." Finding it difficult to believe that the man had stopped along the way to indulge in a little game of contract, Bill asked for an explanation.

"Oh, I came to a bridge where I must pay money to cross. Fifty cents they charge me, see?" "I understand," Bill replied. "That was probably a toll bridge."

"Yah, it was a pretty good sized bridge, that was," answered the native.

If a young man sows wild oats mixed with old rye he is reasonably sure to raise a disturbance.

The Detroit banks appear to have been afflicted with too many vice presidents.

BAY SHORE WINNERS
OVER NORTHMEN '9'

Copped Sunday Tilt by 15 to 5 Score —Play Ellsworth Friday

(By Harold Newman.)
With Art Yahr in the box for Bay Shore, some of the Northmen figured they might as well not play, so a remnant of the original team, bolstered up by a couple bystanders, engaged in a contest last Sunday on the north side diamond. Bay Shore won, 15 to 5. Only nine locals reached first, and only two extra base hits were allowed. Two runs came in the third and three in the sixth for Charlevoix.

Bay Shore scored four in the first, two in the second and four more in the third with Parsons hurling. Potter did another fine job of relief work by holding Bay Shore scoreless for four straight innings. Those who should know figure this boy has the makings of a good pitcher if not rushed too rapidly at first. He will earn a starting place if his work holds good.

The Northmen will play the Ellsworth Independents Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the deciding game of a three-game series. Each team won on its own diamond and the Legion field will be the scene of this rubber game. A close game is expected.

Next Sunday morning the Northmen will play the American Legion team. Each team expects to lose.

AT THE MOVIES

Edward G. Robinson First Earned Notice Reciting "Gunga Din"

Edward G. Robinson, star of "The Little Giant," a First National picture showing at the Palace theatre Friday and Saturday, played his first dramatic role at the age of fourteen. He played the part of an old man of eighty and the whole affair was complicated by the fact that he fell in love with the leading lady, who appeared as his daughter. At the same time, he developed a boil on his neck.

"Adorable" Has a Brand New Songhit

"Adorable," a song written by Richard Whiting and George Marion, Jr., for the new Fox Film romantic comedy of that title, seems by all advance tests destined for a "best seller" when it is released.

Prop boys, electricians, assistants and everyone else connected with the production of "Adorable," costar will be seen at the Palace theatre Sunday and Monday, constantly whistled and hummed the hitting waltz tune during production.

Baby Supplies New Interest for Chevalier

Maurice Chevalier, debonair as ever, plays a new kind of role in his latest picture, "A Bedtime Story," which comes to the Palace theatre Tuesday.

Maurice is the same Paris playboy, carefree and irresponsible, but the "baby" he pursues is a real, genuine one-year-old, and not the 20-year, blonde, feminine type of the past.

Grant Ignores Medical Advice to Take Role

Between hospitals and cameras, Cary Grant, dark, husky young English movie star, has little time to himself.

Grant went from a hospital, where he was convalescing from an operation, into the cast of "The Eagle and The Hawk," picture which comes to the Palace theatre Wednesday. He is co-starred in it with Fredric March, and though at the time his physicians advised against work, Grant refused to give up the role, which he considered the finest to which he had been assigned since entering the movies.

STATE BOARD REDUCED PROPERTY VALUATIONS

Charlevoix County Cut of 6.2 Is Not in Proportion With Total

Tentative estimates by the state tax commission on property valuations in Michigan reveal that Charlevoix county will bear a larger share of the state tax than last year.

The commission slashed the total valuation of the state from $6,614,308,000 to $5,830,784,000, a reduction of 11.8 per cent. Charlevoix county's valuation was reduced from $8,368,000 to $7,848,000, a cut of 6.2 per cent.

Because of the substitution of the sales tax for the general state property tax, the amount to be levied by the state this year is insignificant as compared to past years. Only eight-tenths of a mill was reserved by the state from the 15 mills which may be levied on property under the tax limitation amendment.

Charlevoix and the surrounding counties suffered together under the valuations as fixed by the board. None received a reduction proportionate to the cut in the entire state. Extreme southern and extreme northern counties received more than the proportionate reduction.

IRONTON PLAYERS GIVE "YOU AND I"

Gerhardus Lindemulder again came through as the stolid love-sick Englishman. Although he appeared in but one scene, and that in the third act, Mr. Lindemulder gave us a very definite characterization and the third act took on new life under his comedy touch.

Next Week—"You and I"

A new face will be seen in the Philip Barry comedy of American family life to be given next week. Miss Mary V. Wilson, who is vacationing on Lake Charlevoix, will appear in the role of Etta, the society-conscious maid whose portrait becomes famous for a soap advertisement. Miss Wilson has distinct talent for comedy parts (as we have observed during the past week's rehearsals) and she will have ample opportunity to show what she can do in "You and I."

"You and I" is the play that made Philip Barry a playwright of note. It is a play that won a prize and started Barry on the road to success and to the writing of such later plays as "Holiday," "Paris Bound," and "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

We are promised a finished production of this very human comedy of family life.

The response to our editorially inclined story of last week—urging local residents and vacationers to reserve a Wednesday, Thursday or Friday of each week for attendance at the Ironton theatre seems to be meeting with success. The reports of the audiences have been gratifying and enthusiastic. They seem to enjoy the short ride out to Ironton, the plays and the entire atmosphere of the camp, Michigan, particularly this section of the state, can well afford to support a venture of this type. Aside from a cultural angle the practical business side of the entire proposition should warrant the support of everybody interested in making Michigan a vacationists' playground.

LOCAL BALL TEAM LOST TO ATWOOD

Newly Organized Team Lost First Game—Return Game Saturday

(By Harold Newman.)

The Charlevoix All-Stars, a newly organized baseball team, lost their first game Tuesday evening at Atwood. The Atwood team was reinforced by members of the Charlevoix Indians and Ellsworth Packers, but two genuine Atwood boys walked off with major honors. Ernie Brown did a nice piece of work in pitching, while Frank Brown led in batting and scoring.

The Charlevoix team was composed of the best players residing in this city, but three regulars could not go and their substitutes lost the game on errors. Ike Denney pitched a no-hit game for five innings, but three runs were scored on errors. Atwood got the winning run in the sixth inning, when three clean hits were oiled with two errors for the seventh and winning run. Amos John relieved him to retire the side. John Walker led the locals on attack by scoring two of the six runs.

The same teams will play this Saturday on the Legion diamond at 2 o'clock p. m. The locals will be strengthened in at least two departments and they hope to win this game.

LOCAL BASEBALL TEAM LOSE LAST TWO TILTS

Dropped Decisions to Petoskey and Bellaire—Shake-Up Promised

According to Glenn Rose, manager of the Charlevoix Indians, a shake-up in the personnel of the team has been made following two successive losses in as many games the past week.

After leading until the 5th inning, the Indians were defeated Thursday evening by Petoskey, 7 to 3. Petoskey's victory was largely due to Charlevoix errors.

The second loss was Sunday to Bellaire in a Charlevoix-Antrim league contest at Bellaire. The count was 12 to 10.

The Indians meet Alden in a league game at the Legion diamond Sunday afternoon. Manager Rose intimated at least two and possibly more new players would appear in the line-up.

production. Payments to be made in this county are determined by multiplying 54 per cent of the past five years' average wheat production by 26 or 27 cents. Fifty-four per cent of the nation's wheat crop is used for human food and the farmers are paid adjustments only on the portion used for bread or other foods.

Charlevoix county grows an average of 7,500 bushels of wheat from 293 acres. The number of wheat growers in the county is 89 and each of these men will receive an adjustment check from federal funds derived from the processing tax if he agrees to reduce his wheat acreage this fall by the amount asked by Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture.

Work has already been started in this county to find out how many wheat growers want to share in the federal plan. The preliminary organization work and the explanation of the plan's details are under the direction of B. C. Mellenkamp, county agricultural agent.

The purpose of the wheat production allotment plan is to insure the farmer a price for his wheat which is equal in purchasing power to that of the 1914 wheat crop. This can only be obtained by reducing the production of wheat to a point that guarantees a generous supply of the needs of the people of the United States, but that does not create an enormous over supply to demoralize the domestic and the world wheat markets.

The plan to cut the wheat crop is entirely voluntary. Those who sign contracts will receive adjustment payments. Those who prefer to act individually, get no payments. Both will dispose of their wheat crops in any way they wish. They can be sold, fed to livestock, used for seed, or in any other way that will be most profitable for the farmer.

Do not forget that Thursday night, August 10, at 8 o'clock, in the new federal building, Boyne City, will be your opportunity to hear what the plan is and make your decision in regard to participating in this national wheat control plan.

JACK HARRIS STILL RIVIERA CHAMPION

CHICAGOAN RETAINED TITLE IN FINALS SUNDAY

Catherina Wolf, Elkhart, Ind., and H. Gordon Wood, Detroit, Win Women's and Junior Crowns

Jack Harris, dusky Chicagoan, defeated Carl Fischer, Detroit, to retain his Michigan Riviera men's singles tennis title at The Inn courts Sunday afternoon.

The finals match, the hardest fought and most dramatic ever witnessed in local tennis history, was a fitting climax to the 8th annual Riviera tournament. Closeness of the contest between two evenly matched players and the intersectional aspect of the match, created a tenseness in the gallery never before witnessed at Charlevoix.

Harris Came From Behind

With the sets even at 2-all and Fischer leading 4-2 in games in the fifth, Harris rallied to win four straight and the match. The turning point in what appeared to be a certain victory for the Detroit, came when Fischer was forced to rest from a leg injury following a fall. The match scores after four hours of grueling play were 6-0, 10-8, 4-6, 4-6, 6-4.

Catherine Wolf Wins

Catherine Wolf, Elkhart, Ind., western association champion, is the new Riviera women's singles champion. She defeated Ruth Riese, Saginaw, Michigan open title holder, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-1. Miss Wolf's accurate net game and superior court generalship, was the deciding factor in a match closer than the score indicates.

H. Gordon Wood, Detroit, came from behind to win the junior title. After dropping two sets to Pat Ratterman, Bay View champion, Wood ran out the next three to win by scores of 5-7, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1. Wood holds the Bay View junior title.

In a match which ended in the waning hours of daylight, Holbrod Wrobel and Max Gurnm, Detroiters, defeated Walter T. Hayes and Jack Harris, Chicagoans, for the men's doubles title. The scores were 6-1, 9-7.

The women's doubles crown went to Mrs. Ruth Riese and Lucille Dailey of Saginaw, winner over Catherine Wolf and Lois Jaques of Chicago, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3.

H. Gordon Wood, the junior champion, teamed with C. H. Haberkorn of Detroit, to defeat the Indianapolis team of Jack Appel and Robert Elliot for the junior doubles title. The scores were 6-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Success marked the efforts of local tennis officials in staging the Riviera meet this year. The entry was the largest of any mid-west tournament this season. Over one hundred contestants entered the event and both local and summer residents were present daily in large numbers to witness the matches.

6,000 ADVANCED TROUT WERE PLANTED SATURDAY

Six thousand advanced brook trout, ranging in length from 4 to 6 inches were received Saturday by the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club from the federal hatchery at Northville. The consignment was divided between Stover, Horton and Monroe creeks.

NORMAL DISCONTINUED; DATE SCHOOL OPENING DEPENDS ON FINANCES

Definite announcement has been made by the board of education that due to financial uncertainty, the Charlevoix county normal will be discontinued.

School officials have delayed decision on the normal matter until certain that finances would not be available to allow operation of this department of the local school system. Discontinuance of the normal will provide class rooms in the new grade building for the junior high school. The junior high building will be closed. Mrs. Gertrude Dick, former normal critic, will succeed Mrs. Carl Erber (Margaret Fitch) as third grade instructor.

The date of opening schools is still undecided, depending entirely upon state aid and receipt of local tax money. According to school officials, the matter of finances is at the present time too uncertain to make any prediction other than that schools will be opened as soon as possible.

U. S. FUNDS TO FINISH M-131 RELOCATION JOB

Charlevoix County Project Listed on U. S. Relief Program

Completion of the new route of M-131 in Charlevoix and Emmet counties is included in a list of projects to be financed under the national public works program, it was revealed when a partial list of the approved works was made public.

The list includes an appropriation of $50,000 to Emmet and Charlevoix counties for a 21-foot gravel or macadam highway for the new road eight and one-half miles north of Boyne Falls.

According to business men who conferred with representatives of the highway department at Lansing last week, it planned to lay the gravel base this fall and then, after several months of use, to apply the black top surface.

The total projects approved in the partial list amount to $3,215,490. The state was authorized to place the works under contract immediately. These projects are only part of those to be financed in the public works program. Michigan's entire allocation is $12,736,227.

LISLE SHANAHAN IS PNEUMONIA VICTIM

DIED LAST FRIDAY AFTER ILLNESS OF TEN WEEKS

Prominent in Northern Michigan Legal and Political Circles—Held Many Public Offices

This city and northern Michigan suffered a distinct loss last Friday in the death at 1:30 o'clock of Lisle Shanahan, Charlevoix city attorney and one of this region's most brilliant lawyers. His death resulted from pneumonia, which developed following an illness of ten weeks.

Mr. Shanahan was born September 28, 1875, at Edwardsburg, Cass county, Michigan, the son of Kim and Alice Shanahan, who made their home in what is now Cass county while Michigan was still a territory. He graduated from Edwardsburg high school and from University of Michigan law school, class of 1899.

Coming to Charlevoix in 1900, Mr. Shanahan was united in marriage a year later to Mary Dunham, then a teacher in Charlevoix schools. To this union were born two sons, Lieut. Edward Shanahan, U. S. N., and Norman of Edwardsburg, who survive besides their mother, Mr. Shanahan's aged father and four grandchildren.

Mr. Shanahan served as city attorney under several past administrations and held that office at his death. He was prosecuting attorney for several months in the absence of Attorney Rollie L. Lewis during the World War, and had been circuit court commissioner many years up to the time of his death. His legal practice took him into every court circuit of northern Michigan. He was local counsel for the Pere Marquette Railway company and other large corporations, chairman of the county Republican committee, and his associations in local civic enterprises were numerous.

Private funeral services, conducted by Rev. G. R. Parker, were held Monday afternoon from the residence on Clinton street. Members of the city council acted as pall bearers. Members of the Charlevoix County Bar association, county officers and circuit court officials including Judge Parm C. Gilbert, who adjourned the present circuit court session for the funeral, attended in addition to relatives and close friends of the family. Interment was at Brookside cemetery.

EAST JORDAN FIREMAN KILLED BY LIVE WIRE

Electrocuted Monday Afternoon Fighting Basement Fire

Matthew Swafford, former fire chief at East Jordan, was electrocuted late Monday afternoon while assisting in extinguishing a fire in the basement of the brick block occupied by Hipps' clothing store.

Charles Strehl, who was working with Swafford, said death came when Swafford, standing in 8 inches of water on the basement floor, touched a 110-volt alternating current wire from which the insulation had been burned.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR COUNTY FAIR

48TH ANNUAL EXHIBIT SEPT. 11-14 AT EAST JORDAN

Premium List for Certain Divisions Re-Arranged—Usual Attractions Are Being Offered

The 48th annual exhibit of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society will be held September 11-14, inclusive, at the fair grounds in East Jordan.

Frank Crowell, secretary of the Society, is placing in circulation the premium list, containing rules and regulations and prizes to be awarded winners in the various divisions of display.

Several important changes have been made in the premium list this year. In the grange, Gleaner or community exhibits, the purse has been split six ways. In the fruit division, directed by L. R. Taft of Eveline Orchard, the entire list has been rearranged and many of the obsolete types of fruit eliminated entirely.

A new division for boys' and girls' 4-H clubs has been added with B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent, as superintendent. This exhibit, formerly displayed at the county Labor day picnic at Whiting park, will be worthy of careful inspection, as the club youth of the county have been preparing for the display for some time.

Among the attractions arranged for the fair this year are field sports for men, women, boys and girls, day and night band music, horse racing, boxing matches, parade of livestock and the usual concessions. The admission price has been reduced to 25c for adults.

Last year, despite many handicaps, the fair was a success from a standpoint of exhibits, entertainment and finances. Under the same able management it is expected the 1933 exhibit will exceed that of last year.

Officers of the Society for 1933 are: president, Harry Behling, Boyne City; vice-president, Jesse Smith, Charlevoix; secretary, Frank H. Crowell, East Jordan; treasurer, R. M. Milstein, East Jordan; marshal, Sam Colter, East Jordan.

Directors for 1933 are: John Noble, Rev. James Leitch, L. R. Taft, Earl Dansforth, E. H. Clark, L. G. Cornell, Ed. Nemecek, F. H. Crowell, C. W. Bowman, Elmer Murray, B. M. Milstein, George Nelson, Sam Colter, John F. Kenny, East Jordan; J. N. Foster, George Meggison, Dr. C. J. Winder, Ralph Price, Ralph Bacot, Jesse Smith, Charlevoix; Harry Behling, F. O. Barden, Boyne City; Jas. Elzinga, Ellsworth.

RE-VAMPED INDIANS TRIM ALDEN SUNDAY

Win 13 to 12 in Close Contest—Play Central Lake Sunday

The re-vamped Charlevoix Indians gave a good account of themselves by trouncing Alden last Sunday in a league contest 13 to 12.

Trailing 4-0 at the end of third inning, the Indians scored in all remaining stanzas. Alden made a serious threat in the 7th when they counted eight runs in a belated rally. Arne, new Indian outfielder, was the batting star of the game with a single, double and home run. Kitchen of Alden, also connected with a circuit club.

The Indians play away from home Sunday, going to Central Lake for another league contest.

ROAD COMMISSION ADOPTS NRA CODE

INCREASE WAGES AND REDUCE WORKING HOURS

County Road Workers Now on 40 Hour Basis—Maximum on Welfare Projects Set at 35 Hours

All Charlevoix county highway workers, whether employed on county or welfare road projects, have come under hour and wage provisions of the National Recovery act.

At a recent meeting the county road commission voted to comply with NRA codes to the letter and the "new deal" went into effect Monday.

County road workers are employed a maximum of 40 hours a week at 30c per hour for common labor. Employees on welfare projects work a maximum of 35 hours at the same wage scale. The former rate was 25c per hour.

Scenic Drive Progressing

The Charlevoix welfare committee, directing the selection of workmen from this district for welfare relief projects until the county commission is set up, has for the last three weeks provided crews for construction of a township highway leading from the McKenzie corner on old US-31 west to Lake Michigan on Bell's Bay. This road is intended as the initial step in a proposed scenic highway from Charlevoix to Norwood.

Progress since the project was undertaken has been very satisfactory. The right-of-way has been cleared to the lake and workmen are now engaged pulling stumps and roots. As fast as a stretch is cleared, it is gone over with a grader and now practically a mile has been put in fair shape for automobile travel. It is hoped that when this road is completed to furnish access to Lake Michigan, right-of-ways may be obtained to connect with the south end of the present scenic drive around South Point.

Completion of the project will furnish access to some of the most desirable and beautiful lake frontage near Charlevoix. Bell's Bay has a clean, sandy bathing beach second to none in this vicinity. That resort development and building will follow construction of a road providing access to the lake frontage between Bell's Bay and Norwood is a certainty, as inquiries for building sites have already been received by property owners.

The project will be continued as long as welfare labor is available.

NEW MOTOR INSURANCE RESPONSIBILITY LAW

Aimed to Check Carelessness of Irresponsible Auto Drivers

Michigan's new motor vehicle operators "financial responsibility" law is not a compulsory insurance law but is intended to restrain careless, irresponsible drivers who have no regard for the safety of other highway users.

Upon receipt of certification that a judgment of $200 or more has not been satisfied, the secretary of state, under the law, is required to suspend the operator's license and use of license plates. These can only be reinstated by furnishing proof that the judgment has been met and by establishing future financial responsibility up to $10,000 in case of two deaths from traffic accidents and $1,000 responsibility for property damage.

This responsibility can be established in four ways, by depositing $10,000 with the state treasurer; by adequate motor liability insurance, by surety bond, or by a personal bond with two sureties who each own sufficient Michigan property to meet the bond.

ANNUAL HOSPITAL TAG DAY SATURDAY

AUXILIARY BEHIND DRIVE FOR NEEDED FUNDS

Belvedere Bridge Party Monday Night Netted Substantial Amount—Appeal for Assistance

The annual Tag Day drive for the benefit of Charlevoix hospital, will be held Saturday, August 19th, according to plans announced by the Hospital Woman's Auxiliary, sponsors of the event.

It is planned to follow the customary procedure of enlisting local and summer children into groups of tag sellers to cover the various districts of the city. Headquarters will be at the Benjamin Brown store on Bridge street. Children desiring to sell tags are requested to report there at 8 o'clock.

As heretofore, prizes which have been generously donated by local merchants, will be awarded those turning in the largest amount from sales. Both boys and girls will be enlisted. Prizes will be on display at the campaign headquarters previously designated.

Mrs. Laura Courier and Mrs. Helen Cook are in charge of the drive.

The local hospital is in dire need of finances if it is to be continued and those in charge of the drive make the usual appeal to Charlevoix local and summer residents to give to the extent of their ability.

Benefit Bridge Party Given

Between $325 and $350 for the hospital was netted Monday evening at the annual benefit bridge party given in the solarium of the Belvedere hotel. The above amount represents the receipts from admissions and quite a number of generous donations. Mrs. W. B. Stewart, Belvedere Club summer resident, was chairman of the committee sponsoring the benefit bridge party, which has been an annual Belvedere affair for several years.

BELVEDERE ENTERTAINMENT TUESDAY EVENING

Combine Children's Fancy Dress Ball and Adult Masquerade Party

One of the outstanding entertainment events of the summer season at the Belvedere Club will be presented next Tuesday evening, August 22nd, at the casino, under the direction of Miss Calla Travis.

The annual children's fancy dress ball and the annual masquerade party are being combined into one feature, with the usual delightful entertainment program. Featured in special numbers will be pupils of Miss Travis' summer dancing classes, which include local as well as children of summer residents. In addition, Miss Travis plans to present several artists from her Grand Rapids classes.

Members of the Chicago Club will be guests at the affair and, if the previous ingenuity of this group may be taken as an indication, they will present the unusual feature of the evening's program.

FARMERS ACCEPT NEW WHEAT DEAL

JOINED FEDERAL SET-UP AT COUNTY-WIDE MEETING

Board of Directors and Allotment Committee Named—Will Sign Membership at Once

(By B. C. Mellencamp.) Local farmers at a county-wide wheat meeting held last Thursday night decided that our county should join in the domestic allotment plan. Over thirty wheat growers attended this meeting and heard the program presented by Paul Road, representative from Michigan State college, and B. C. Mellencamp, county agricultural agent. Mr. Road will be the supervisor of the district of which Charlevoix county is a part.

By means of charts it was forcibly brought home to those present that the wheat situation is more serious than at first thought. In the first place, we cannot hope to export a large quantity of wheat to other countries as they are already producing as much as is necessary for their local needs. Second, foreign countries have raised their tariffs to such a point that we cannot hope to sell to them. Third, if we continue to raise the same acreage as we have in the past, we will have a surplus which will force prices down. Fourth, some curtailment of wheat acreage is necessary to maintain a profitable price on wheat.

At the conclusion of the discussion it was decided to perfect the county-wide organization and get the program under headway at once. The following are the board of directors: president, V. A. Orvis, East Jordan; D. E. Ingalls, Charlevoix; Arla Wickersham, Charlevoix; Joe Leu, East Jordan, and Tom Willis, Boyne City. The board of directors immediately appointed the allotment committee which will decide the allotment for each farmer and who will be the administrative group for the county. The allotment committee consists of V. A. Orvis, D. E. Ingalls and Tom Willis.

It is expected that by the time this announcement reaches the public that each committee man will have membership applications which all wheat growers must sign before they can participate in the cash allotment. After signing the membership agreement, each co-operator will be furnished with a contract, which when signed, makes the agreement binding for the next two crop years of 1934 and 1935. A representative will be (Continued on page 8.)

AUGUST COURT TERM IS NOW IN SESSION

Non-Jury Cases Being Heard Before Judge Parm C. Gilbert

The August term of circuit court, convening Monday before Judge Parm C. Gilbert, is still in session as we go to press Wednesday afternoon.

After arraignment of the docket Monday morning, court adjourned Monday afternoon to allow officials to attend the funeral of the late Attorney Lisle Shanahan.

Tuesday was occupied with the foreclosure case of the Detroit Trust Company vs. Doris VonDolcke, et al. A decree of foreclosure was granted plaintiff.

In the case of Eugene Kurchinski vs. George Jacquays, trespass on the case, a judgment was granted plaintiff in the sum of $700; $500 for damages and $200 for malice. The case was the result of slanderous remarks Jacquays made against Kurchinski.

COUNCIL DEADLOCK ON APPOINTMENT OF FITCH AS CITY ATTY.

Charlevoix will be without a city attorney to succeed the late Lisle Shanahan until next Monday night, at least, as a result of council action at the regular meeting Monday night.

If the three-to-three tie vote may be taken as an indication, the council did not agree to Mayor L. S. See's appointment of Arthur L. Fitch, present county prosecutor, as city attorney. Voting in favor of confirmation were Aldermen Fessenden, Higman and Ranger. Voting nay were Aldermen Carey, Kibbe and Webster. Mayor See could not legally vote on his own appointment.

The council adjourned until Monday evening, August 21st, when, it is understood, the matter will be brought up again.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

SIX PEOPLE EXPRESS THEIR OPINIONS ON THE VALUE OF TELEPHONE SERVICE

Each day, a metropolitan newspaper asks several persons a question and publishes their answers. Recently, six were asked, "Do you consider a telephone in your home a luxury or a necessity?" Each answered, "It's a necessity!"

A MERCHANT said: "The other day our youngster had an accident, and my wife immediately called a doctor and me. That one call was worth the cost of the service for a year."

A MUSICIAN said: "I get many contacts over my telephone that I would not get otherwise."

A SALESMAN said that he could economize on many things, but not on his telephone, as in emergencies it might be worth its cost for years.

ANOTHER SALESMAN replied that he and his wife cancelled their telephone service to save money, but after a month of inconvenience decided a telephone was an absolute necessity.

A MANUFACTURER referred to the value of a telephone in emergencies.

A MANAGER regarded the telephone as worth more to his wife than its cost, by saving her time and trouble.

Our Government —How It Operates

By William Bruckart

INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

THIS government of ours has become such a gigantic thing that only those who have daily contact with it in all of its forms readily recognize its magnitude. Consequently, there has developed throughout the country a feeling on the part of thousands that there are a lot of government agencies whose existence is not justified. There are others who are not certain the government ought to be as big as it is, but they retain an unquestioning faith in those they elect to represent them.

There is plenty of ground for the feeling in each instance. The government certainly is doing a lot of things that the Fathers of the Country did not contemplate, but which assure politicians since have conceived. Many of these functions ought never have been started; vast numbers of them might be done away with now, but the law of averages has worked again and some of the things the government is now doing represent services which the country needs and which its citizenry finds of value in one manner or another.

In the course of examining the governmental structure in detail as I have had to do in preparing these discussions, I located a total of 53 agencies operating independently of the established departments over which cabinet members preside. They spend a total of about $20,000,000 each year, exclusive of the vast sum—$985,000,000—paid out by the veterans' administration which has been discussed separately. So it would seem that there was sufficient reason for that Tennessee woman who, having read criticisms of the great number of bureaus, boards and commissions, wrote to the President, saying that she could use one of the "useless bureaus" and would be willing to pay the freight charges on it if it were shipped to her.

Most of these independent offices spend less than a million dollars a year apiece. Some of them cost only a few thousand a year, but there are some whose annual cost to the taxpayers range much higher. Surely, none questions the value of the radio commission in these days when we all enjoy extracting things from the air, nor is there a question as to the principles actuating creation of the federal power commission. The board of tax appeals amounts to a court and serves taxpayers and the government alike.

But there is the shipping board and the United States tariff commission and the federal trade commission and the bureau of efficiency, two or three commissions to adjust disputes growing out of boundary questions between the United States and its neighbors, the national survey thread commission, any number of memorial and battle monument commissions, boards for this and boards for that. The tariff commission was created on the theory that the tariff question would be taken out of politics, but politicians did not want that to happen. The federal trade commission was established to protect the little fellow against the octopus of business, but there is a school of thought that believes it started nowhere and continues on that course.

There are such groups as the civil service commission who, if politicians kept hands off, might establish a federal service that would contain only satisfactory workers eventually, and the joint committee on printing that would hold down government costs of printing except that the government departments and members of the house and senate are continually clamoring to stock the country with printed material.

A board of mediation was set up to settle railway labor disputes, but there is little doubt that it could be dispensed with along with two scores of other agencies.

Maintenance of such organizations as the Smithsonian institution is accepted as a normal function of government, for it preserves to posterity a physical record of what has happened and is educational, purely. At the other side of the Mall from the Smithsonian in Washington, however, is a beautiful building that serves as headquarters of the Pan-American union.

It is supposed to knit the nations of the two Americas. It has accomplished some things, but it has failed in many.

Then, there are several agencies representing a wartime hangover, such as the alien property custodian, the War Finance corporation, the railroad administration. They are existing because all of this time has been required, and more, to wind up their affairs. There are the new agencies, too, the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Federal Home Loan bank board, the first strictly an emergency relief corporation and the second a permanent addition to the nation's financing staff. Good undoubtedly has come from the first and the establishment of the Home Loan bank system is generally recognized as a move in the right direction, and it must be remembered respecting these two that, theoretically at least, neither is to result in added burdens for the taxpayers for the money they pay out is in the form of loans and is repayable.

Indians Find Gold in Labrador

Possibilities of Region Are Little Known.

Washington.—Rich gold ore was recently reported to have been brought out of Labrador by Indians.

It is one of many such reports that have been made through the centuries, but still the truth as to Labrador's possibilities as a source of precious metals is unknown, says a bulletin from the National Geographic society. It is for other resources that the country is best known, the bulletin points out.

"Labrador spreads like a rough triangle from Hudson strait to Blanc Sablon, on the Strait of Belle Isle, and from the Atlantic coast inland to the Height of Land," continues the bulletin. "With an area of at least 1,100,000 square miles, it is almost three times the size of Newfoundland. Its boundaries embrace a fringe of coastal settlements, fur trading posts, and Grenfell and Moravian mission stations; romantic fjords and naked cliffs like those of Norway; rocky islands and narrow 'fjords' (channels); ancient mountains, valleys, and falls; 30-mile lakes and rushing rivers swarming rat—rank next in importance to cod. The part white, part Eskimo trappers do little cod fishing, for the 'furring grounds' lie miles away from the coast, and the winter hunt, when pelts are prime, keeps the men away from home for weeks at a time.

"Hills long goodly by as crones pull out into midstream to begin the long trip upriver to the 'fur paths' or hunting grounds. When a trapper chooses a certain area, he blazes trails, sets out perhaps 300 traps, and builds 'tilts' (log huts) at intervals of a day's walk apart. Thereafter, this land is his alone to hunt over, and no other trapper thinks of poaching on it.

"The trapper's day is long, work at the traps hard. Storms may overtake him, and 20 below zero cold. Yet he stops only once or twice to prepare a mug of tea and to take a bite of bread. For supper, cooked on the tilt's stove, he stews a partridge with rice and salt pork; or perhaps some beaver or porcupine, whose meat is good eating. If he has time, he bakes 'rose bread' (yeast-raised), or if not, soggy bannock. Then he skins his pelts and stretches them to dry on the fur boards. Frequently he finds that mice have ruined the pelt by chewing away patches of hair. "Furring over, he piles the pelts on a sled, and starts homeward over river ice and snow. At the end of his trail, perhaps 200 miles away, is home and family, a wood fire roaring in the stove, potatoes bubbling in the pot, and sleep—sleep—and more sleep."

Birthplace of Christ

Boasts Deep Sea Port

Haifa, Palestine.—The Holy Land, birthplace of Jesus Christ, has been increased in size by 100 acres.

This is due to reclamation in connection with the building of Haifa's new harbor, now nearly complete. Some of the reclaimed land will be used for harbor and customs purposes. The remainder is intended for a modern town planning scheme.

The new harbor, which is expected to be opened in October, has cost $5,250,000. The construction was begun in October, 1929. The main breakwater is approximately one and a half miles long and consists of 76,000 square meters of stone. The lee breakwater is, roughly, half a mile long.

Orneriest Rodeo Horse

Expires in Shame at 24

Billings, Mont.—Old Buttery, "the orneriest, pitching horse that ever came out of a chute," is dead.

For 15 years Old Buttery scattered riders over rodeo fields. He was nine years old when he discovered that it was easier to throw a rider from the saddle than to work, and for seven years he was never ridden.

Last fall he made his farewell appearance. Twenty-four years old, he squealed with rage as cowboys easily stuck to the saddle. His owner, Leo Cremer, attributed his death to brooding over this shame.

For inclusion in the Atlantic seaboard tabulation, according to Doctor Hoffman, only buildings at least one hundred years old will be considered. No structure built later than 1850 is to be included in the survey for any part of the country.

"In foreign nations, where architecture is of national importance, historic monuments are listed and cared for by the state," said Doctor Hoffman. "Here, where democracy leaves cultural affairs largely to public whim, it is proper for architects organized in a national body to assume the leadership of popular interest in preserving important monuments of our past."

Not Guilty, Says Drunk,

Actions Lead to Jail

Houston, Texas.—Arrested on charges of drunkenness, two men were jailed before Police Judge Turner here.

"Guilty or not guilty?" the judge inquired.

"Not guilty," replied Defendant No. 1.

"Not guilty," echoed Defendant No. 2—but as he spoke he suddenly mistook the corner of the judge's desk for a lamp post and lunged it in the conventional manner of the inebriate.

Without further testimony both men were remanded to jail.

Movement Is on Foot to

New York.—A movement to preserve this country's historically and architecturally important buildings has been started by the American Institute of Architects with the opening of a national survey of these structures.

The institute's committee on the preservation of historic buildings, headed by Leicester B. Holland, chairman, is compiling a list of such buildings. This list will be subdivided into lists

White Friars Back in England

Were Ousted 400 Years Ago by King Henry VIII.

London.—After an absence of nearly 400 years the Carmelite monks, known as White Friars, return to an established place among monastic orders in Great Britain.

The White Friars, so called because of a white mantle worn over the brown habit, held wide influence and power in Great Britain until 1538, when Henry VIII ordered their headquarters in London to be razed to the ground. Their chapel and buildings stood between Fleet street and the Thames, adjoining the temple, which was founded by the Templars.

Whitefriars street still bears the name of the order, and a newspaper office in the district is called Carmelite house. But the monks have been gone for nearly four centuries, and were without a home in England until the Catholic bishop of Southwark assigned his churches in Sittlingbourne and Faversham to their care.

The White Friars wore their mantles as a sign that the order was founded in Palestine. It was established on Mount Carmel in 1212 by a Crusader named Heribald. White Friars are not common, however, the two at Sittlingbourne and Faversham being the only ones in England.

When their London monastery was founded during the Crusades the order immediately attracted royal support, and Edward II gave the White Friars great latitude. Their priory and church were rebuilt in 1330, when it was said that several hundred monks lived there, enjoying wide popularity both as preachers and confessors.

An example of their power is found in the fact that almost from the first the order had the right of sanctuary. Any fugitive from justice could take refuge there for forty days unless accused of treason or sacrilege. The right was retained until 1607, long after the monastery and church had disappeared. After the suppression of the monastery the place became a notorious haunt of outcasts.

The White Friars are altogether distinct from the other order of Carmelites founded by St. Teresa in 1502. Members of this group are known as Discalced Carmelites, because they wear sandals instead of shoes and stockings.

WILL FIND A WAY
A gloomy picture of what is going to happen to Michigan's public school system is being drawn. Many schools will be unable to open, others forced to shorten their school year, unless millions of dollars of new school money is made available, we are being told.

Frankly, we have faith in the resourcefulness of those in direct charge of our public schools. Somehow, they will find a way to carry on despite a greatly diminished school income. It may be that some schools will have to undergo a drastic curtailment of former activities in order to meet present conditions, but we doubt very much if the situation is as serious as has been painted.

So far we do not know of a single school that will remain closed because of a lack of finances. There may be a few, but we have not heard about them. On the other hand we are inclined to the belief that schools getting under way at the beginning of the school year will discover some way to weather the storm. The national government has indicated it will not be adverse to the diversion of a certain amount of national highway funds for educational purposes. The new sales tax may eventually provide something in the way of relief. The state moratorium on tax penalties will expire November 1. Millions of delinquent taxes will be paid prior to that time, and a generous portion of that will go into educational coffers. On the whole we see no reason for alarm. In the meantime if our educators have learned the lesson of economy it will be good for both the schools and the taxpayer.

DEPRESSION RECEDES
Business recovery is now going forward in this country at the most rapid rate ever reached in our economic history. Activity in business is increasing more than twice as swiftly as it has done in any previous upturn from depression conditions, and at a pace about five times as rapid as that attained in 1915 when the huge war orders poured in from Europe.

It is not now possible to judge whether or not so rapid an advance will prove to be undesirably swift, for there is no similar previous case with which to make comparisons. We do know that the spectacular recovery in 1838 was largely based on speculation and so-called wildcat money, and that it was followed by another period of depression. Nevertheless conditions obtaining then were so different from those existing now that the earlier instance may be of little value as a guide.

There can be no doubt that much of the recent sudden demand for goods has been caused by fear that our money will be progressively less valuable in the months ahead. In large measure people have been demanding goods to make up accumulated shortages, but in some considerable degree they are exchanging hoarded money for goods that they may hoard instead. Perhaps we could wisely moderate temporarily our efforts to stimulate business still further.

PATIENCE NEEDED
Many distressed home owners have buoyed up in recent months by the hope of getting governmental aid in preventing the loss of their homes. Real help is on the way, we are constantly assured. Time is needed in getting the government relief agency in working order. State appraisers have been appointed and are now in the field. Homes on which foreclosure has already taken place will be first to be considered. If foreclosures do not date back for a period of more than two years, former owners may regain possession of their property if their indebtedness does not exceed 80 per cent of its present value. Gradually all requests for loans will be given attention. That will take time. Meanwhile the public is asked to be patient.

BACK TO SCHOOL
Michigan farmers are going back to school these days. They are learning how they can participate in the administration's wheat adjustment plan. Those who agree to the government stipulation to reduce wheat acreage another year will be rewarded through a process tax on each bushel. In several Michigan counties this reward to agriculture will be in excess of $100,000.

Most farmers favor the wheat adjustment movement. Exports of American wheat have fallen from an annual average of over 200 million bushels to 40 million bushels at the present time. European wheat production has increased 300 million bushels in the last ten years. Per capita consumption in this country has fallen from 5.02 bushels to 4.08 during the last twenty years. The market that we had for wheat a few years ago simply does not exist. The farmer has learned from experience that wheat production for a non-existent market is not profitable. That is why so many of them are signing up to go along with Uncle Sam.

AS A LAST RESORT
Writing legislative acts into the constitution through a referendum vote of the people is not always a good practice, but sometimes such action becomes necessary when the legislature fails to express in legislation the plain mandates of the people.

In California in order to secure relief for the small borrower, the question of lower interest rates was submitted to a state-wide vote. In defiance of this legislature passed a 42 per cent law, but the attorney general ruled that any law contrary to the decision in a referendum was unconstitutional. Unless those who are opposed to even a reasonable reduction in the interest rates on small loans can see the handwriting on the wall, California's example may be followed in Michigan.

STRAITS BRIDGE SPAN IS AGAIN CONSIDERED
Sponsors Would Use Federal Relief Funds for Construction

Rep. Prentiss M. Brown of St. Ignace, is in Washington to confer with federal officials concerning the Straits of Mackinac $21,000,000 bridge project. This announcement was made by Rep. Ned Fenlon of Hessel, Mich., who declared the project "is expected to be started in the near future."

Rep. Fenlon, speaking for Rep. Brown at a Democratic rally, said tentative plans have been drawn for "the biggest project in the upper peninsula since the construction of the Sault locks." He said plans were made and soundings taken by one of the largest bridge construction companies in the world.

Rep. Brown seeks to use a part of the $165,000,000 to be allotted to Michigan for federal relief projects for the bridge construction. Horatio J. Abbott, national Democratic committeeman from Michigan, was in Washington with Brown.

STRUCK BY CAR, WOMAN IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Mrs. Ray Kinner, East Jordan, Victim of Mishap Sunday

Mrs. Effie Kinner, wife of Ray Kinner, farmer residing near East Jordan, was seriously injured Sunday afternoon when struck by a car driven by B. T. Smith, Mackinaw City, on US-31 at Bay Shore.

According to Mr. Kinner, the accident occurred when his wife left their parked machine to enter the Burnett store across the highway. The Smith car, coming from the north, struck her with terrific force when she was over half way across the pavement.

Mrs. Kinner was brought to Charlevoix hospital. Her condition was too serious Monday to allow examination to ascertain the extent of injury.

OLD AGE PENSION IS CLAIMED UNWORKABLE

Will Not Take Effect Oct. 16 Because of Conflicting Provisions

The Michigan old age pension law is not "workable" in its present form, according to Welfare Director Wm. S. Carpenter, and he intends to study old age pension laws in other states before the next session of the legislature.

Because of conflicting provisions of the law, old age pensions will not start on October 16, the date upon which the law becomes effective. The law makes no provision for collection of funds through the imposition of a head tax of $2 per person until next March.

Mr. Carpenter estimates that the present law would cost the State of Michigan $60,194,000 a year while total revenue under the head tax would be approximately $5,537,000.

Students make reservations for board and room at 409 Petoskey avenue. Will take farm products.—Adv. 3312.

CHILD LABOR ENDED

One of the dark pages in American history was the exploitation of child workers by industry. It was akin to that of slavery days. Now a change has been brought about. No longer will it be possible for unscrupulous employers to prey upon the unfortunate young.

Michigan can be credited with having the decency to declare itself against child labor before the adoption of the industrial code made an amendment to the federal constitution unnecessary so long as it remains in operation. By the single stroke of the pen we have accomplished more for the youth of this country than England has been able to accomplish in 85 years of continued effort in that direction. Every loyal American should rejoice that this long time blot on our national escutcheon has been wiped away.

Plans for the extension of the state's activities in the propagation of inland lake fish, chiefly bass and bluegills, are being made by the fish division of the department of conservation with the inauguration of the general rod license. Just how much development will result, will depend to some extent upon the income derived from the sale of the fishing licenses, Director George R. Hogarth said. So far it has been impossible to determine this because there are no records showing the number of fishermen of license age in Michigan.

A fall down the 200-foot embankment on the shore drive near Petoskey resulted in only minor injuries to Miss Rachel Glacieux, 24, an employee at Camp Sherwood on Walloon lake. Miss Glacieux was participating in an outing attended by members of the camp staff when she lost her footing at the top of the embankment, dropped 15 feet and then tumbled the remaining 185 feet to the lake edge. Taken to Petoskey hospital the young woman, who is from Detroit, was found to have suffered only cuts and bruises and a severe shaking up.

GRAIN PRICES URGE FERTILIZER

"I believe that $24 worth of fertilizer has made $100 worth of wheat on this field," observes a farmer correspondent of the Michigan Farmer in its July 22 edition.

We recommend Farm Bureau Fertilizers to you for your fall grains. Their nitrogen is not less than 95% water soluble as against 70% required by State law. That means nitrogen promptly available to the young plant when it needs it most for a vigorous start. Our phosphorous and potash carriers are the very best. Farm Bureau fertilizers are extra dry, granular and easy to regulate. Heavy yields count for something now. Crops following fertilized wheat show large increases in yield.

We will have a supply for your fall grains.

Ski Jumping on Straw in Michigan

In Brighton, Mich., they recently held a ski meet that was unique. Tightly packed straw was used instead of snow, and jumps of better than 70 feet were recorded by the daring performers, among whom were such noted ski jumpers as the Hall brothers and Johnna Kolstad, woman champion of Norway. Miss Kolstad is shown taking off from the straw slide for a leap of 65 feet.

Housekeeping as Fine Art

Present-Day Conditions, in This Writer's Opinion, Offer Excellent Chance to Recreate the "Perfect Housewife."

Writing in the New York World-Telegram, Gretta Palmer, woman's page editor, has this to say of the "dignity of housekeeping":

"It is too bad that there cannot be friendship between the generations who are divided by a century or so of time. Think, if your great-grandmother were able to drop out of the skies to spend the day with you, what a tremendous, eighteenth century kick she would get out of the improvement which science has contributed to the noble art of housekeeping."

"Imagine her delighted appreciation of the mechanical refrigerator, the stove with its oven regulator, fired by a turn of your wrist, the pots and pans which require no more scouring than so many bits of porcelain. You might not seem a domestic improvement to your great-grandmother, but she would love your kitchen."

"For it is one of the enigmas of women's history that as soon as housekeeping became reasonably easy, on the physical side, they very largely lost interest in its artistic possibilities, and that today, if we wish to find a housewife who is ready to pour her soul into the perfection of a soufflé, we must go to those countries where the copper pots and pans still require energetic polishing, where the water must be lugged up from the well and the stove kept going with coal or wood. The peasant women of France, Italy and Germany look upon housekeeping as a pursuit every bit as serious and honorable as the efforts of their husbands to raise the best grapes in the district, or the finest cows. The middle and upper class women of Europe feel that the ordering of a gracious household is as dignified and difficult an accomplishment as those their husbands claim in the professional and business worlds. What is more, their husbands think so, too."

"But in America and, to some extent, in England the woman whose primary interest in life is her home is often regarded with pity. She doesn't win tournaments at bridge. She doesn't run a dress shop at a slight loss. She doesn't sit on committees. She merely counts the linen and fills the house with flowers and sees that her family and guests are served the most savory meals for miles around."

"Why this type of woman should be rated lower than her sister who goes in for politics is one of the mysteries of the Anglo-Saxon or Teutonic mind. But she is."

"And it is just possible that the cool contempt with which other women view her may be traced to the fact that it was in these countries—England and America—that the feminist movements were most successful. Our perfect housewife represents a survival from an age upon which modern women cannot look—even now—without a faint sense of alarm."

"Here is the serene, well-defined life against which American women only recently most fiercely rebelled. She is the wife whose contentment with her lot established a norm for the whole sex, so that the occasional Bohemian, the rebel, the woman with a flair for other activities, was forced to submit painfully to an order which insisted that every woman be a homemaker. The perfect housewife was a menace to the pioneers who first insisted that all women were not contented as they were."

"But she is a menace no longer. The women who are fitted to struggle outside the home have established their right so to do so firmly that no one is apt to dislodge them. 'Couldn't the rest, at this late date, take the risk of restoring proficiency and art to the home? Isn't it safe to admit now that for most women housekeeping would be the greatest of adventures if they would simply let themselves fall into their great-grandmother's mold?'"

Longevity in Knowing

Just What Not to Eat

It is found that most of the reported miraculous cures of persons reaching the age of one hundred and twenty-five arise from an inability to keep accurate tab. And they occur in strange lands, where statistics are rarely reliable. In America, most of the examples of extreme old age are authentic; and it is almost unheard of that anyone passes the one hundred and fiftieth birthday; but we believe the number of instances is rapidly multiplying. Centenarians are more numerous than ever before.

As Americans learn how to live, how to diet and conserve their vitality, they make their old bodies go on functioning for decades after the thirtieth three score and ten. That three score and ten has been definitely raised to four score in thousands of examples. You eat your spinach—or whatever it is—and rejoice in your years. We haven't thoroughly found out, yet, just what it is that we ought to eat, but praise be, we now know most of the things we shouldn't. When we can over the world dishes that medieval man used to consume, we are not surprised that he soon passed out and went to his medieval Paradise.—F. H. Collier, in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD

Marvels of Human Eye

Almost Beyond Belief

No camera has the adaptability of the human eye. A man may walk out on a moonlit night and see things so distinctly that he will exclaim: "Why, it seems as bright as day." He would scarcely believe that sunlight is almost half a million times brighter than the best moonlight. Yet if he tried to photograph the scene with the best camera, he would have to make an exposure of at least half an hour. The same picture by day would take a fraction of a second. The working range of the human eye is almost unbelievable. Man can see the glow of a star of the second magnitude on a piece of white paper and can look at the piece of paper illuminated by sunlight, which is three hundred thousand million times brighter.

Again, in the field of color contrast the eye is markedly more efficient than the camera. On a violet ground, to which the eye is relatively insensitive, it requires an exposure of a minute to photograph a line visible to a man at a glance. For green light photography it takes an exposure of 30 hours to record a line visible to the eye in a fraction of a second. In red and yellow the eye shows little advantage, but an exposure of 15 minutes is necessary for blue light visible at once to the eye. Dark lines on a black background are far more easily recorded by the eye.—Washington Post.

WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX NEWS COLUMN

Edited by
VINCENT ARNOLD

Three trips starting Wednesday feature the closing days of camp at Charlevoix for 1933. One, under the guidance of Jack Hogan and Mr. John H. Law, will take a selected group of about six boys through in touch of nearby lakes, finishing in Torch lake. The rest of the seniors and intermediates will spend three days at Pine Point, a favorite camping spot. The juniors are to stay at Whiting State park for their camp-out. All will return to camp Saturday, August 19.

Campers' day was held last Monday. After a spirited campaign, in which the Pleezing party under the leadership of Howard Carnothers, and the Midland Republicans, led by Frank (F. Stanton) Carrie fought bitterly but fairly (we wonder), the boys were chosen who were to run the camp for the day. Mr. Reimann's coveted position was won by Carriethers himself, and Currie replaced Bill Schiller, the camp business manager. As a result, Mr. Reimann and the honorable Mr. Schiller became dining room boys for the day, with all the attendant duties, including setting tables, scrubbing tables, sweeping the floor and doing a little window washing on the side. Gordon Wells was elected to fill Mrs. Reimann's place.

We will not attempt to list the successful candidates. The entire day was well carried out and will not soon be forgotten.

The annual camp day rush was held on Tuesday, August 8, and ended in a tie. John Swisher "generalissimo" the Reds, and Guy Ackerman the Blacks. The former were victorious in the junior battle, and Ackerman's men came through in the combined intermediate and senior frays.

Wendell Gates and his group are scheduled to give a puppet show in Traverse City on Thursday, August 17, and another at the Belvedere on Monday, August 21. Gordon Wells, Bob Sadler, Guy Ackerman and Rowland McLaughlin comprise the group.

"YOU AND I" COM- EDY AT IRONTON

PHILIP BARRY PLAY MEETS APPROVAL AT DRAMATIC CAMP.

Increased Attendance Indicates Iron-ton Productions Worth Seeing — "Anna Christie" Aug. 16, 17, 18

Again the National Dramatic Camp has come through with a fine play—this time, "You And I," the Philip Barry prize play of a few seasons ago. The audiences who saw this delightful comedy of love and family life were delighted. The attendance at the camp at Iron-ton has grown steadily from week to week—a certain indication that the good work of the players, the intelligent selection of plays, and the painstaking methods of production have not been wasted.

"You And I" concerns a husband and wife, married some twenty years ago, with a son who wants to have his cake and eat it too. The boy has talent as an architect and plans to let his career go hang while he marries the girl next door. He is, as we learn, merely following in his dad's footsteps. But father objects—all to no good. The father also takes up painting, after a leave of absence from the soap business. He paints a portrait and dreams of winning acclaim. It is purchased however by the president of a soap company for advertising purposes. And in the end, all is well—the father returning to business and the son having both his career and the girl.

Miss Mary Morrison again made her appearance in the cast, as did Harry Young and William Titus. Miss Morrison played with a charming touch the role of the girl next door, while Mr. Young was the young son with artistic leanings. Mr. Titus gave his usual thoughtful characterization. Elvera Baker delighted all with her deft handling of the part of the wife. After her excellent work in "There's Always Juliet" it was doubtful if she would top it with another role as good. But she did and this rendition was equally enjoyed.

Don Kellogg also handled the role of the father in fine style. He too, gave a great performance in last week's show and again came through this week with a snare, restrained characterization.

The work of Mary V. Wilson, who is vacationing on Lake Charlevoix, proved to be one of the high spots of each performance. Miss Wilson has a real sense of comedy and a lovely voice. As the society-struck maid with the grand manner and the dust cloth, she was immense. At no time were we aware of the fact that Miss Wilson was an amateur. May we again see more of this young lady in future Iron-ton shows.

Gerhardus Lindemulder, who will play the difficult role of Old Chris, in next week's show, "Anna Christie," again gave one of his energetic comedy performances as the soap king.

"Anna Christie" Next Week

Eugene O'Neill's dramatic masterpiece, "Anna Christie" has been chosen as the seventh production and the exacting role of Anna has been entrusted with Miss Dorothy Fritz. Miss Fritz has been turning in splendid performances each week and "Anna Christie" will be her opportunity to give the best that is in her. We feel sure that with Miss Fritz and Mr. Lindemulder in the cast of this play, a real sincere, effective production will be achieved.

Elsie Shields, whose great popularity was won as Anna Silva of "Summer Resort" a few weeks back, will also appear in the production, as will Don Kellogg and Harry Young.

A word to the vacationers is sufficient. If you want to see something worth while—something that is a credit to Michigan and deserving of your most enthusiastic support—go out to Iron-ton on Route 66 and see what the National Dramatic Camp has to offer. You will be agreeably surprised and you'll become an Iron-ton fan.

4-H Club Members Attend Dairy Day at Lake City

A small delegation of club members consisting of David Matchett, Clayton Smith, Carleton Smith, Clare McGhan and Adolph Ecklund, all of Charlevoix represented Charlevoix county in the northern Michigan 4-H club judging contest held in connection with the big dairy day at Lake City, August 10.

As usual, these young dairymen gave a good account of themselves in the competition. Nine counties were represented in the judging contest with 37 entrants. When the smoke of battle had rolled away and the announcement was made by A. C.

Baltzer, extension specialist, it was found that Adolph Ecklund had won second place and that Clayton Smith stood fourth. The prize for the high score was a beautiful Guernsey bull calf donated by the Lake City experimental farm. Adolph says that if it had been a Holstein, he would have made that little extra effort that it takes to win first place. One of the most pleasing features of the program was the demonstration given by David Matchett and Clayton Smith. This demonstration was the same one given by the boys at the Gaylord club camp. Many comments were heard upon the value of club work as a result of this demonstration. The boys heard Dean E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture, Michigan State college, and Jack Nisbet, assistant editor of Hoad's Dairyman, gave excellent dairy talks.

O. I. Gregg, Landscape Specialist, Visits County

O. I. Gregg, landscape specialist from Michigan State college, spent a busy day last Wednesday in visiting eight farmers and in outlining landscaping plans. The following people are making plans to beautify their home surroundings in the very near future: Charles Crouterfield, George Blue, Oakley Saunders, Charlevoix; Vernon Vance, Archie Howe, E. P. Dunlap, G. A. Lisk, East Jordan, and Deer Lake grange hall.

Every year more inquiries come into the office in regard to this project. On account of the fact that there are more demands than can be taken care of in one day, a schedule is being drawn up to permit the entire public to listen to a series of three lectures to be given by Mr. Gregg this fall and next spring. With this program outlined, we are glad to announce that we can take care of seven more plans which means that fifteen homes can be beautified next spring.

If you are interested in having Mr. Gregg make a landscape plan for your home, get in touch with your county agent before the fifteen places are spoken for. Remember, eight have already indicated their desire to receive plans so put in your request early and be one of the seven yet to be accepted.

TRUTH ABOUT PRICES WILL BE PUBLISHED

Show Who Gets Money If Sellers Use Higher Cost As Excuse

Consumers of farm products are to be furnished, in the near future, with weekly reports from the government on the reasons for any commodity price increases, and with information on who is getting the additional money, according to the economics department of Michigan State college.

Field workers of the United States department of labor and the United States department of agriculture are to gather and report price figures, while the Washington agencies tabulate and analyze them. Dr. Frederic C. Howe, consumers' counsel for the agricultural administration, has announced. Doctor Howe intends to release the information on prices through the press, radio, and special reports to groups and individuals.

The field staffs of the two departments will gather retail prices on bread, milk, meat, and other foods, in 50 cities and from more than 1,000 stores. In the department offices at Washington the prices will be checked and the portion that the farmer is receiving for raw materials will be determined.

The reports will also cover any price increases resulting from the payment of higher wages and new employment, and will include any changes in prices of manufactured or other commodities that farmers buy. The latter item will provide an index of the buying power of the farmer.

"Farmers have too long been getting a small return for their labor in feeding us," Doctor Howe declared. "We are trying to increase their pay. At the same time we are going to do what we can to see that the consumers are protected at a time when the administration is trying to pull farmers and workers of what President Roosevelt has called the 'economic hell' they have been living in for four years."

"Many manufacturers and distributors have declared their readiness to play fairly and squarely with the administration in its efforts, while consumers are beginning to organize to ensure fair dealing. In scores of cities in the last couple of weeks, consumers' councils have been formed, in many instances at the suggestion of the mayors. They are non-political and reflect consumers' interests. With these representative groups we will cooperate to the utmost."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45. Wednesday evening at 7:45. Subject, "Mind."

Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend our services and use our reading room. "Soul" was the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 13.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Lev. 24:11,12): "And I will let my inebriation among you; and my soul shall not abhor you. And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye shall be my people."

U. P. HUNTERS CAN TRAIN DOGS AFTER SEPTEMBER 1

MICHIGAN'S CROPS POOREST IN YEARS

LIGHTEST SINCE DROUGHT OF 1930 IS REPORT

Potato Crop Condition Is Lowest Since 1921—Late Rains Needed for Improvement

Unless future weather conditions are unusually favorable, crop yields in Michigan this season will probably average even less than in the drought year of 1930. According to officials of the Michigan Cooperative Reporting Service, the composite index of yields of the leading field and fruit crops was only 63 per cent on August 1 as against 66 per cent for July 1 this year and 76 per cent for August 1, 1932. From the standpoint of growing conditions up to August 1, the present season has been even more unfavorable than the previous low record year of 1921. The rains of August 2 and 3 were quite general over the state and benefited late crops and pastures considerably, but more moisture is now needed in a good many areas.

Michigan bean prospects have declined sharply since July 1. Many of the late fields have made poor growth and prospects on these are very uncertain. However, the crop has benefited from good rains the first week of August.

Potato stands are thin and uneven in many fields in southern and central Michigan and vine growth has been weak. Yields of early potatoes in these counties have been very poor. In the northern commercial areas conditions are reported somewhat better, but final production depends to a large extent upon later weather. The condition of the Michigan crop, reported at only 59 per cent for August 1, is the lowest for that date since 1921.

The state's winter wheat crop is yielding in line with earlier indications, the total production being estimated at 12,720,000 bushels or an average return of 16.9 bushels per acre. This is 3.5 bushels below the ten-year average yield. Complaints of shrunken grain are quite numerous.

Prospects for oats and barley continued to decline during July. Many fields were too short and too poor to warrant harvesting and threshing and were either pastured or cut for hay. Oat production for the state is estimated at 21,831,000 bushels. If this figure is not exceeded, it will be the smallest Michigan oat crop since 1881. The condition of the Michigan barley crop on August 1 was only 49 per cent of normal, indicating a prospective crop of 3,766,000 bushels which compares with 6,560,000 bushels harvested last year.

While corn varies widely in condition and growth of fodder has been less than usual, the crop has withstood the drought and heat fairly well. The August 1 condition of 73 per cent is only 3 points below the ten-year average for that date and suggests a total production of 38,902,000 bushels as against 45,969,000 bushels in 1932.

Matches Completed Tuesday

Play in the eighth annual Charlevoix open tennis tournament, sponsored by The Inn and the Charlevoix Tennis club, opened Tuesday afternoon at The Inn courts.

Four first round matches in men's singles were completed Tuesday afternoon and, unless ruin interferes, play in all divisions was expected to start Wednesday afternoon.

Three of Tuesday's matches went into three sets. H. J. Scherck of St. Louis, Mo., eliminated Austin Leland, also of St. Louis, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4. Other results were: Walter Freiberg, Cincinnati, d. George Higman, Charlevoix, 7-5, 5-7, 7-5; Charles Lazarus, Chicago, d. J. Singer Jr., St. Louis, Mo., 4-6, 8-6, 6-2; Arthur Joseph, Sidney, Australia, d. W. Stix, Cincinnati, 6-2, 7-5.

OPEN TENNIS MEET NEARS COMPLETION

CHAMPS IN FOUR DIVISIONS CROWNED TUESDAY

Ralph Ellis, Winnetka, Men's and Junior Winner, Z. Reynolds in Boys, Leland-Fox in Doubles

Tuesday afternoon brought the conclusion of four finals matches in the 8th annual Charlevoix open tennis tournament, which will be completed in all divisions at the Inn courts this afternoon. Intermittent rains during the past week slowed up progress of the meet.

Ralph Ellis, Winnetka, Ill., captain of the Yale college tennis team and winner of the recent night tournament at Petoskey, walked off with two titles in the masterly fashion which characterized his play and stamped him the favorite throughout the tournament.

Dropping but seven games in his straight set victories for the men's and junior singles titles, Ellis defeated Charles Lazarus, Columbus, O., 6-1, 6-3, to win the senior crown and, after a few minutes rest, disposed of James Talman, Detroit, 6-1, 6-2, in the junior division. The Yale star's play was by far the class of a large, strong field throughout the tournament. Through his victories, Ellis succeeds George Dinwiddie, New Orleans, La., as champion of the men's division, and Frederick Burdick, Midland, as junior champion.

Z. Reynolds, Atlanta, Ga., won the title for boys under fifteen years of age. In the finals Tuesday he defeated George Wells, Chicago, in straight sets by scores of 6-1, 6-0. Reynolds dominated the boys' division from the first round, by his strong play.

The St. Louis team of Austin Leland and Charles Fox, defeated George Hixman and Robert Miles, Charlevoix, in three straight sets for the doubles crown. The match scores were 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

Finals matches in women's singles and mixed doubles will be played Wednesday afternoon to conclude the tournament. In the former division, Ann Ellis, Winnetka, sister of the men's and junior champion, and semi-finalist in the recent Riviera tournament, meets Eleanor B. Smith, also of Winnetka.

NRA MASS MEETING IS SET FOR FRIDAY NIGHT

Organization Meeting Slated at Court House at Eight o'Clock

A meeting of all Charlevoix employers, business and professional men, has been called for Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the court house for the purpose of organizing this city 100 per cent behind the National Recovery act.

This move is sponsored by officers of the local Association of Commerce, cooperating with Postmaster Clarence B. Meggison, at the request of Hugh S. Johnson, director of the National Recovery administration.

While a majority of local employers have signed the pledge of compliance, many have not adopted a code of hours and wages as set forth in provisions of the Act, it has been pointed out. In numerous cases this failure has been due to misunderstanding and lack of information as to the proper course to follow. Also individual problems of various businesses have interfered.

Thus the purpose of Friday night's gathering will be to aid those needing information, iron out difficulties and arrange, if possible, a uniform procedure. It is understood a president and secretary will be named for the local organization, the latter to handle correspondence and provide a source of information.

A full attendance of all local business representatives is desired.

SPORTSMEN MOVE TO PROTECT DEER

ASK ORDER OPENING COUNTY THIS FALL BE CHANGED

Petitions Now in Circulation Available to All Interested Persons—Movement Widespread Widespread disapproval by Charlevoix county sportsmen has followed the conservation department's recent order opening Charlevoix, along with Emmet, Antrim and several other northern Michigan counties to deer hunting this fall.

The result has been that from every county effected by the ruling petitions will be sent the department requesting the order be rescinded. Practically without exception sportsmen are up in arms to protect the few scattered deer which only in recent years have come into this county. At Beaver Island, where a few years ago a deer herd was transferred at considerable expense by the state and a group of interested private individuals, real alarm has been expressed. While the herd has grown appreciably under rigid protection, the island residents do not believe it large enough to warrant hunting.

Standing out prominently in all the effected counties as a reason why the season should not be opened, is the attraction deer provide as tourist interest. A few years ago it was a very rare sight to see a deer while motoring, but today it is common and tourists will go miles off the main highways to get a glimpse at the elusive white-tail. As a result, the importance of wild life as a tourist attraction has increased year by year.

In Charlevoix county deer were virtually exterminated the last time the season opened. There were very few deer to commence with, and the first year wiped them out. Local sportsmen do not wish to see a repetition of the slaughter, and therefore request every interested person to sign one of the many petitions which are now in circulation. The movement is a county-wide effort and petitions may be found in all hardware stores as well as numerous other places.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served to twenty-six guests at the Ikens home on Antrim street.

The bride is a graduate of Charlevoix high school and of the National Kindergarten School at Evanston, Ill. For the past two years she has been a member of the teaching staff of Pellston schools. Mr. McCrea is a Pellston high school graduate and attended Albion college two years.

Following a honeymoon trip through the upper peninsula and Wisconsin, the young couple will go to Chicago to make their future home.

THIS COUNTY SHARE FEDERAL FUNDS ANNOUNCED

Van Wagoner Distributes Money But Allocates Only $3,000,000 to Specific Projects

Charlevoix county will receive $68,222 as its share of the federal government's $12,800,000 highway relief program in Michigan, it has been revealed by Murray H. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner.

Earlier announcements by Van Wagoner declared that allocation of $50,000 to completion of M-131 north of Boyne Falls has been approved as one of the first projects to be financed by the federal funds.

Project approved total $3,215,000. The remainder of the $12,800,000 has been allocated to the county but specific projects have not yet been approved. Van Wagoner said. For the M-131 construction Charlevoix and Emmet counties will receive $50,000 under the present plan, which call for either a gravel or black top surface. Van Wagoner has declared that the Emmet and Charlevoix allocation is not sufficient to finance a cement highway.

Emmet county was allocated $72,400; Cheboygan, $96,513; Alpena, $84,550; Kalkaska, $65,250; Mackinac, $133,077; Antrim, $82,014; and Wayne $2,212,331.

The distribution, Van Wagoner said, is made on the same basis as that employed by Washington authorities in dividing the national appropriation among the states.

Population, areas and highway mileage are the three considerations guiding distribution, each factor being given equal consideration, according to the commissioner, "to forestall any possibility of political or personal consideration in the allocation of funds."

He said that while figures probably will be closely followed, some departures may be made if some counties find they have insufficient projects to qualify under the federal regulations.

Commencement of construction will depend upon final agreement with the federal authorities on the type of surfacing to be used in the different projects. Van Wagoner said. A further factor will be the ability of the department to secure needed right of way gratis or as cheaply as possible.

LOCAL YOUTH, PAROL BREAKER, SENTENCED

Stanley Withers Sent to Ionia—Farmer and Grafenstein to Jail

A campaign of slot-machine hijacking, which three young men believed permissible because the machines were being operated illegally, came to an abrupt close in circuit court last Thursday.

Stanley Withers, whom, through his participation, violated probation from a car theft conviction, was sentenced by Judge Parm C. Gilbert to serve from 14 months to 10 years at Ionia state reformatory.

Richard Farmer and Wm. F. Grafenstein, other members of the trio, received jail sentences of 20 days, costs of $50 each, and were placed on probation to the October court term.

FITZGERALD SUGGESTS LOWERED AUTO LICENSE

Would Fix Rate According to Size of the Automobile

Abolition of the present type of automobile taxation and substitution of flat rate taxes of $3, $6 and $9 rates was urged by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald speaking before the first annual meeting of County Service clubs at Three Rivers.

Fitzgerald asserted such a schedule of taxes would raise $15,000,000 which would provide four million for sinking fund, five million dollars for maintenance and six millions for new construction annually.

Present auto taxes are nearly confiscatory, he said.

Only the top has been touched by Democrats in driving toward state economy, he charged. Abandonment of numerous commissions and bureaus will even further reduce the operating cost of the state government, he believes.

Fitzgerald urged hearty support for President Roosevelt in his rehabilitation program.

LAKE SHORE DRIVE WORK PROGRESSING

APPROACH TO LAKE MICHIGAN ALMOST COMPLETED

With Necessary Right-of-Way Procured, Project Continued North to Present Shore Drive

Charlevoix residents will soon see the completion of the first step towards construction of a scenic drive along Lake Michigan to Norwood.

All but a few rods of the township highway west from the McKenzie corner to Lake Michigan has been cleared, graded and placed in fairly good condition for automobile travel. With almost unbelievable progress accomplished since the project was started three weeks ago, only the most westerly portion of the highway needs completion. At this point, where sand ridges were encountered, the work of grading, widening, etc., is nearing the final stage. This stretch, now impassable because of the sand road bed, will soon receive a covering of gravel placed along the right of way, thus placing it in condition for travel the entire route to its intersection of Lake Michigan on Bell's bay.

It is understood the project will be continued northward to connect with the present shore drive around South Point. After lengthy negotiations, right-of-way necessary for this connecting link has been procured. Survey of the route is now in progress and, upon its completion, the work of clearing will be started at once. With continued receipt of relief funds, a few weeks should see the entire circuit from Charlevoix along Lake Michigan to Bell's bay and thence east to join the former trunk line US-31 at McKenzie corner completed.

Credit for the rapid progress of the project may be given to members of the local welfare committee who have given generously of their own time and worked diligently to keep the machinery moving. The workmen, taken from the list of welfare dependents, are under the direction of R. T. Davis, county highway maintenance superintendent.

SCHOOL OFFICERS IN URGENT APPEAL

ASK TAXES BE PAID SO SCHOOLS MAY BE OPENED

Cite Tax Delinquency As Reason for Present Financial Difficulty—Outline Economies

The difficulties of the Board of Education in solving Charlevoix's serious educational problem were, in a manner, placed upon the shoulders of the taxpayer as a result of Monday night's school board meeting.

Citing tax delinquency as the prime reason for present financial shortage and subsequent uncertainty of opening schools on schedule, the Board of Education has made a direct appeal to local citizens to meet their taxes so that the schools may be continued. The following statement, in part, was issued for publication:

"At the close of the last school year, the Board of Education found it necessary to borrow money and issue scrip to meet current obligations. It was the expectation that money from tax payments during the summer would take care of this indebtedness. However, extension of the tax penalty limit practically stopped collections.

"As a result of this condition the advance primary money being paid in September, and all other funds known to be available in September, will not be sufficient to meet these notes and scrip payment and pay interest on bonds and other items amounting to about $14,000.

"No other money is anticipated except from tax payments. This money may be paid without penalty until October 31st. As the opening of schools is dependent upon this income, it is hoped that taxes will be met sooner. School was scheduled to open September 11th, but due to financial conditions, a later date, depending entirely upon receipt of necessary funds, will have to be selected. Therefore an appeal is made to all to meet their taxes as soon as possible. If funds are available, schools will be operated the full term. Otherwise it would be desirable to close them during the cold months as an economy measure."

Some of the policies to be followed in case schools are opened were outlined Monday evening. Kindergarten will be conducted with the age limit for hexenniers set at five years at the date school opens. This step has been taken as an economy measure, due to the fact that the kindergarten teacher will have to assist in the over-crowded first grade.

Other economies include the introduction of fees for certain courses in high school where use of material and equipment causes extra expense. Chemistry students will be assessed one dollar, manual training students a similar amount, and typewriting students fifty cents.

Requirements for graduation will be reduced to 15 units instead of 16 as formerly, and algebra and geometry will be removed from the list of required subjects. Seven hours of class work will take the place of eight in junior and senior high schools.

CHERRY QUEEN ENTERING BATHING BEAUTY CONTEST

Miss Murella Olafson, Charlevoix, queen of the recent National Cherry festival held at Traverse City, has been entered in the bathing beauty contest of the big aquatic day of the Petoskey Days program this week. Aquatic day will be on Thursday, August 24, at Hiawatha beach, Round lake, just north of the city. The program is a highly entertaining one intended to keep the big crowd thrilled all afternoon.

HIT-RUN-DRIVER HALTED WHEN VICTIM TOOK KEYS AND PREVENTED ESCAPE

When a car driven north on US-31 by Irving Smith, St. Ignace, state ferry employee, was struck Thursday night by Edgar Lusk, local citizen, Smith jumped onto the running board of the Lusk car as the driver attempted to leave the accident, taking the keys to prevent his escape.

Officers were called and Lusk agreed to pay the damage to Smith's car. Although the St. Ignace man was struck several times to dislodge him from the running board of Lusk's car, no charges were instituted. The accident occurred near the George Eagleton farm.

THOUGHTS and THINGS

THE business of living, when hoiled down and all the froth skimmed off, is just a matter of thinking.

Each of us is continually thinking ideas of our own and swapping them for the ideas of others. If there is a famine of outside ideas we shrivel up ourselves. Children with "nobody to play with" are unhappy and unmanageable.

From thinking with our heads to doing with our hands is but a little step and then our thoughts become things.

It is because men of America are so unfettered in their thinking and doing that this country is such a fine place to live in. It is also because these thoughts are freely radiated and spread broadcast, in the distribution of manufactured things and in the distribution of the facts about them (advertising), that this country is such a fine place to live in.

The originator of an idea is not much better off than before he originated it till he gets someone else to absorb it and enjoy it and benefit by it.

The man or woman surrounded by better thoughts and things but who pays not the slightest attention to them is not much better off than the one with "nobody to play with."

The advertisements in the papers are thoughts — telling you about the things that other men and women have created for your happiness. Read the ads. They are the voices from hundreds of thousands of looms, shops, foundries, studios, laboratories where millions of minds are turning pleasant thoughts into worth-while things for your comfort.

TUBERCULOSIS INCREASE IN NORTH

Any person, be he a farmer, business executive, hand laborer, or office clerk, recognizes that how much work he gets down usually approximates quite closely the amount of his effort. He gets out just about as much as he puts in.

The same natural law of cause and effect applies to the eradication of human tuberculosis. The disease will decline just about in exact proportion to the amount of effort put into its combat. If no effort is made, an increase may be expected.

A five-year analysis made by the Michigan Tuberculosis association of tuberculosis deaths in four sections of Michigan strikingly bears out this axiom. In the first section, consisting of Wayne county, the number of tuberculosis deaths has shown a gradual and steady drop over the period. The same condition holds true in 13 other industrial counties, each of which operates, as does Wayne county, a local tuberculosis sanatorium. It likewise and to the same extent holds for 31 other counties, practically all of which are in the southern part of the lower peninsula and therefore readily accessible to Michigan State sanatorium.

Only one section of the state, comprising 28 north-central counties, fails to share in the general decrease. Its deaths from tuberculosis rose from 187 in 1931 to 211 in 1932, an increase of 13 per cent. This section incidentally is the only area of Michigan not now provided with a tuberculosis sanatorium or located reasonably close to one.

The logic of the situation is obvious to any thoughtful person. Tuberculosis does not leave a community until it is virtually pushed out. Sanatoriums are a prime requisite in forcing its departure. Give Northern Michigan a sanatorium, and it will not lag behind the rest of Michigan in putting out tuberculosis. National Recovery Act funds can be used to no better purpose than in immediate construction of this regional institution.

DECENT LOAN COMPANIES

There are a number of home-owned small loan companies doing business in Michigan, who render a real service to the small borrowers in their community. These companies should not be confused with the loan shark trust, whose reprehensible lobbying tactics during the last session of the legislature brought shame to Michigan's legislative hall.

These home-owned companies have their own state association. As an association they refused to contribute to the loan shark slush fund, nor in other ways did they subscribe to the disgraceful methods used to defeat small loan legislation. Some of these home companies loan money as low as two per cent a month, are under careful supervision and maintain a sympathetic attitude towards their clients. Companies of this nature should be encouraged and the leeches driven out of the state.

TOO MANY LAWS

Editor Elton R. Eaton discusses in the Plymouth Mail the reason why so many people are having to tell it to the judge these days. He says:

"Nearly everyone tries to obey the law. That is, the average individual, wants to comply with all legal requirements. But how can he? The legislature that just adjourned added 263 new laws to Michigan's statute books. In 1931 there were 336 new laws passed. How can any man know all the provisions of all the thousands of laws that the legislature has passed for people to obey? May be some day the fond hope of the vast majority of people that we elect a legislature that will unmake laws instead of making new ones, will come true. But surrounded as we are with thousands of laws, it is doubtful if any individual goes through the day without in some way breaking some of the regulations imposed by the state."

IT MUST NOT FAIL

Now comes a sort of whispering campaign: "Wonder if the Industrial Recovery campaign is going to work out? Maybe it will, but I doubt it."

That is not the American spirit with which to face this gigantic battle of the ages. Either we are going to win this fight, or America and the whole world with it, is going to plunge to depths unheard of and undreamed.

This is no time for "Doubting Thomases." Discourage them whenever one puts in an appearance. Point out that all our inhibitions, all our old doubts, our fears, our misgivings, must go into the discard. We are far out at sea in a new and untried boat. We have a calm and courageous captain at the wheel. If we have the faith of a sturdy people, we will arrive at the haven of safety. But get this firmly fixed in your mind: If the boat goes down—all on board must perish. There will be no saving of the few.

TRAINING THE GENERALS

Gradually official Washington is ironing out the "bugs" which threatened for a time to slow down the initial speed of the NRA and ARA relief programs. This delay probably came from lack of technical knowledge by those entrusted with the job of putting the two plans understandingly before the American people. Unification of the numerous governmental agencies charged with this responsibility has become necessary. Washington realizes that to assure success there must be no conflicting information, advice, or discrepancies in guidance. The nation is in a receptive mood, millions are clamoring to join the vast army of assault on depression, but they have no desire to engage in a losing battle because of uninformed leadership.

OBSOLETE ALREADY

According to reports coming our way, the farm mortgage refinancing proposition of the government is not taking so well. Mortgage holders are being asked to take a 30 per cent write down and at the same time accept a lower rate of interest. A few months ago before the currency was inflated such a scheme might have been well received. Now, however, conditions are different. The government has officially gone off the gold standard—how far nobody yet knows—and prices are rising rapidly. Under such circumstances mortgage holders are going to think twice before they accept a 30 per cent loss in principal to say nothing of lower interest rates. The plan is obsolete.—Hastings Banner.

BEWARE THE FIXER

Whenever government aid is promised the people in any form there immediately springs up a horde of unscrupulous leeches, who hope to gain through somebody's ignorance. The Home Owner's Loan corporation have made it clear that so-called expert help is not needed in order to secure a loan. Those who desire to negotiate a loan need only to secure an application blank, fill in the simple information required and mail to the address designated on the questionnaire. If, on examination, it appears there is sufficient value to warrant a loan, it will be forthcoming. Anybody claiming to have "inside" information or influence is a fake and should be promptly exposed. Beware the fixer.

PLAYING THE GAME

Win the battle against depression in spite of human greed and avarice! That, in a word describes the present temper of the American public. In all great conflicts for the good of humanity, man has encountered the same set of circumstances. The present situation discloses nothing new. There will be those who will be more influenced in their actions through hope of personal gain, than in their desire for the ultimate salvation of their fellowmen. They must be eliminated. Unless every citizen patriotically contributes his or her share to the common good there can be no victory. We are engaged in a struggle akin to war. Patriots will be honored and slackers punished. We have no other choice.

In the 17th and early 18th centuries family Bibles were kept in oak boxes made especially for that purpose. Many of the boxes were elaborately carved.

A BANK REFLECTS THE LIFE ABOUT IT

Loans and Investments on Which Condition of a Bank Depends Determined by the Kind of Business Surrounding It

POLITICAL and popular misapprehensions toward banking are due to little else than failure to realize that it is what the people themselves do that the condition of banking reflects, and that banking cannot of itself reflect events and conditions other than those that actually originate from surrounding circumstances. Francis H. Sisson, President of the American Bankers Association, says in an article in Forum Magazine.

The character of an institution's notes and investments indicates whether it is in the farm regions, a manufacturing center, a mercantile neighborhood or a great financial district, he says, and furthermore, besides identifying the institution as to its locality, a study of its notes will equally clearly indicate the economic conditions surrounding it.

"If a farm district bank's note history shows that its loans rise and fall with the normal cycle of production and marketing of the products of the region, it may be taken as an index of economic good health for the locality," he says. "But if, over a period, the loan volume shows a declining trend it may mean a region that is losing ground—becoming exhausted or being robbed of business by another community. Or if a large proportion of the loans are not paid at maturity but are chronically renewed, or if stocks or bonds or real estate have to be taken as additional security, these too have economic significance, reflecting perhaps crop failures, over-production or inefficient, high cost farming methods in a highly competitive national or world market, such as wheat. Inevitably all these facts are reflected in the condition of the local banks."

City Banks Too

"If the loans of a bank in a manufacturing or merchandising field show a smoothly running coordination with production and distribution they, too, mirror a healthy economic situation. Or there may be here also signs that reflect growing unfavorable conditions, such as excessive loan renewals, over-enthusiasm and therefore over-expansion of credit extended to makers or dealers in particular products, and similar circumstances. Similar conditions apply to banks engaged in financing the activities of the securities markets."

"The foregoing is merely suggestive of the infinite aspects of the life outwardly surrounding the banks which form and control their internal conditions. Although these facts seem obvious enough, the discussions and criticisms that have raged about the banks often appear to set them apart as some now separate from the lives of our people, existing forth a malignant influence upon agriculture, industry and trade from forces generated wholly within themselves."

"The truth of the matter is that the fate of the banks is inseparably interwoven with the fate of the rest of the people and of the nation. What happened to the country happened to the banks and what happened to the banks is in no way different or detached from what happened to the people. They are all part of the same pattern, of the same continuous stream of events. No one element in that stream can be called the cause of business depression."

"If the banks caused trouble to some of our people it was because they were irresistibly forced to pass on troubles that came to them from other people. These troubles impaired the values of their securities and customers' notes—and rendered some unable, in turn, to pay back to other customers their deposits that had been properly used to create these loans and investments. Unless these truths are kept continually in mind there is no such thing as approaching an understanding of the banking problem or of properly safeguarding the very heavy stake of the public in that problem."

The Bank as a Rebuilder

IN place of a 3 per cent loss on an investment of $40,000 a large New York savings bank is now getting 6 per cent profit on an investment of $80,000, because it had the good business judgment to spend $40,000 in modernizing a group of 40-year-old tenement houses on the lower East Side which it was forced to take over on mortgage foreclosure, says an article in the American Bankers Association Journal. 7 year or two ago the owner, who had always kept up his mortgage payments, began to neglect the property. It became run down and the tenants began to leave.

The bank remodelled the buildings completely, putting in an oil-burning heating plant, incinerators and other modern changes. With the result the buildings are now entirely rented, and there is $11,000 a year coming in instead of several thousand going out. At that rate the improvements will pay for themselves in three years.

This same bank has done 15 other renovation jobs similar to this, and all have proved profitable. The bank has its own architects and is employing moving painters who are kept busy continuously.

ALL-STAR WIN SUN- DAY FROM BAY SHORE

Take Third Consecutive Victory By 7 to 1 Score

The Charlevoix All-Stars handed Bay Shore a neat trimming at the south side diamond Sunday afternoon-taking a 7 to 1 verdict in a decisive manner.

Issue Denemy and Guy John formed the winning battery, the former striking out eight batters, and John featuring with his alertness in picking off Bay Shore runners attempting to steal bases. John was credited with three put-outs and five assists.

Lockridge of Petoskey, worked on the mound for Bay Shore. He equaled Denemy's record of eight strike-outs.

Bay Shore's errors in the eighth inning gave the All-Stars four runs and contributed largely to their winning for the third consecutive time. The All-Star management is attempting to schedule a game with Walloon Lake for next Sunday.

BANDS TO MEET AT MIO IN 1934

Northern Michigan's musical organization, the Northern Michigan Band association, held its second gathering of the year at Petoskey Sunday. Twelve bands from all parts of the northern tip of the lower peninsula were at the meeting, which was conducted at the park near the Elks temple. Free coffee and "trimmings" were served to bandmen and their families during the noon hour.

As each band arrived it registered and followed a rotation in individual concerts, while the names of their selections were announced to a crowd of several thousand people through an amplifying system. After the individual concerts, each band paraded through the business section to a given point and then all the bands formed en masse and marched back to the park playing John Phillip Sousa's "El Capitan." At the park, the bands, still en masse played a concert of 11 numbers, each one of which was directed by one of the conductors of the visiting bands.

During this concert a business session was held as is the usual custom, and the next meeting which will be in June of 1934, was chosen to be held at Mio.

MAN MAY OWN LAKE— STATE OWNS THE FISH

Brady Ray of Excelsior township, county of Kalkaska, has appealed his conviction in justice court to the circuit court, contending that the fish he caught during a closed season out of Lake Five was by permission of the owners of the land surrounding the lake, and, that the lake was a private lake and he was within his rights.

The justice said that no matter who owns the water the fish belong to the state of Michigan and subject to the fishing laws of the state.

ANNUAL BELVEDERE MASQUERADE CLIMAX SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Climaxing social activities at the Belvedere Club for the 1933 summer season was the combined children's fancy dress ball and adult masquerade party, presented Tuesday evening at the casino under the competent direction of Calla Travis of Grand Rapids.

A colorful grand march, with nearly a hundred children in a varied assortment of cleverly comic and beautiful costumes, opening the program. Subsequent numbers included a tap duet by Irene and Jane Burad of East Jordan. These talented children also took part in the Piriot and tap dance ensembles with Nancy Price, Henrietta Dow, Margie Edwards and Ardis Usher, led by Miss Jane Thomson of Cincinnati, Ohio. A group of six boys in varied costumes, presented a tap eccentric, with mouth organ accompaniment by George Medsker. In the group were "Cappy" Hooker and Buddy Kohler, this city, Sam and Russell Lortz, St. Louis, Mo., and Jimmy Tramel and David Jones of Chicago. Presented as night club dancers in exquisite costumes were Shirley Hollingsworth of Jackson, and Sam Lortz. The number was repeated three times in answer to generous applause.

The artist of the evening on the children's program, was Louise Ann Usher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Usher of Grand Rapids, and pupil in Miss Travis' Grand Rapids school. She presented three numbers, a military tap in costume, a slow waltz acrobatic, which was later repeated, and the Harlem "dance to the music of "Going, Going, Gone," with Dwight Thomson as the song soloist and the children joining in the march. Her performance was near professional.

Visiting artists were Helen Gillespie and Winifred VanKuelen, graduates and associated directors of the Calla Travis Dancing school in Grand Rapids. Miss Gillespie presented the fiesta, an eccentric tap number and a difficult tap dance, and Miss VanKuelen a Spanish waltz. Both were exquisitely costumed.

A group of seven from the National Dramatic camp, including Elvera Baker, Dorothy Fritz, Mary Morrison, Don Kellogg, Harry Young, Gerhardus Lindemulder and Bill Titus, gave three very clever black-outs in a marvelous presentation.

The two stunt numbers of the evening brought the house down with their cleverness and originality. In the first a Belvedere group of six led by George Shwab of Nashville, Tenn., portrayed the resurrection of Rasputin, and the Chicago Club representation of thirty-nine, presented a German band and group of bar maids. The girls were dressed as boys and the boys as girls in clever costumes. A toast to the Belvedere was unique and created great amusement.

This annual party, this year with the most extensive program ever attempted, will go down on the record as one of the most successful and enjoyable Belvedere events.

LEGION ACTIVITIES

* * * * *

Don't miss the trip to Benver Island next Sunday, on the steamer "Marold II" (see advertisement elsewhere in this issue for details). Legion excursions always mean a good time for everybody.

Beginning shortly after the first of September, steps will be taken to reorganize the bugle and drum corps and some attractive propositions will be made to those members who will turn out and help to make the corps a success. There will be an election of officers of the corps and the matter of securing instructors for both the drum and bugle sections will be taken up. We want to have the corps ready for the next district meeting in Bellaire, on Sunday, September 17, and next year—according to reports from the department convention at Grand Rapids—Traverse City will be host to the Legionnaires of the state and we'll simply have to be there and do our stuff right.

All three posts of the county will have their separate concessions at the Charlevoix county picnic at Whiting park on Labor day. Every Legionnaire who possibly can should be there, ready to do his share to relieve the details told of for the concessions so that no man will have to work all day. Bring your families and help to make this picnic one long to be remembered.

The recent carnival at the Legion home was attended by about two hundred and thirty-five people and netted a small profit to the post.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS By B. C. Mollenkamp

Barnard Junior Dairyman Win New Honors

Not content with having a demonstration team win first place in the demonstration contest at the recent Gaylord club encampment, the same boys, with Clare McGhan, had the highest judging score in the dairy judging contest. This means that Clayton Smith, David Matchett and Clare McGhan, all of Charlevoix, will represent Northern Michigan in the judging work.

It is quite an accomplishment for two boys to win in the demonstration contest but then to come along later and also win in the judging contest is really something to boast of.

It has not yet been determined where the state contest will be held, but it is quite probable that it will be at the Michigan State college. In the past the 4-H club elimination contests were held in connection with the Michigan state fair at Detroit, but satisfactory arrangements were not possible this year so a change has been made necessary.

County Wide T. B. Campaign Starts in County

According to recent correspondence, Charlevoix county will have a complete, county wide T. B. test conducted beginning Monday, August 21. This time the test will be handled entirely by the state which means that Charlevoix county taxpayers do not have to stand the heavy expense necessary in testing some 10,000 head of cattle. In the past, the local board of supervisors has appropriated between $2,000 and $3,000 to handle the test. At the present time, the state is handling the situation as they see fit.

Some three years ago, only twelve head of re-actors were found in the county which is sufficient evidence that the T. B. in cattle is being controlled to a great extent. However, there are many cattle now owned on farms that were not tested during the last campaign, therefore, all dairy-men will be pleased to have their cattle again tested.

Dr. Pomeroy is already at work in the county and at various times during the rest of the season will have another veterinary to help. Kindly cooperate with Dr. Pomeroy in having your cattle close by at the time he expects to visit your farm. He will make out his own schedule and inform each dairyman accordingly.

Eleventh Annual County Picnic

Elaborate plans are being made for your entertainment on Labor day, September 4th, when the business and rural interests of Charlevoix county will unite in putting on the eleventh annual Charlevoix county picnic.

There will be something doing every minute of the day. In the afternoon, sports and running races will be conducted including several new races that will be great fun. Shortly after, two red hot baseball games will be announced. Names of the teams to participate will be withheld until next week. With many farm and grange teams in the county, there is no end to baseball material. All through the season, these teams have been fighting for supremacy. There will also be music furnished by one of the bands in the county which will add to the enjoyment of the day. The American Legion posts of the county will be on hand to quench your thirst and satisfy your appetite. A picnic dinner will be enjoyed at noon.

Wednesday evening at 7:45.

Subject, "Christ Jesus."

Reading room: Tuesday and Saturday, 3:00 to 5:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend our services and use our reading room.

"Mind" was the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 20.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Ex. 23:20): "Behold, I send an Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared."

FARM STOCK

TON-LITTERS IN 1927 NUMBER 752

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

The 1927 hog-raising contest, in which swine growers in 29 states competed, was won by Pennsylvania with 124 litters that reached a weight of a ton or more each in 180 days, according to Dr. C. D. Lowe, extension animal husbandman of the United States Department of Agriculture. Indiana and Tennessee tied for second place with 80 ton-litters each. Illinois produced 23, Texas 16, Kentucky 13, and Minnesota 10.

Wisconsin produced the heaviest litter reported, 12 pigs that weighed 3,908 pounds at six months of age. Pennsylvania is credited with the largest litter, one of 18 pigs. A total of 752 ton-litters were produced in the 29 states.

This year's results again demonstrated the value of well-bred hogs for pork production, for no litter in which pure breeding did not predominate reached the goal of a ton at six months of age. The selection of sows having the ability to farrow large litters, as well as the application of improved practices to save every pig farrowed, was also an important factor in the production of these ton-litters, most of which consisted of ten pigs or more.

Feeding tests long have indicated that pigs make the cheapest gains when "crowded" from the time they begin to eat until ready for market. The shorter feeding period lessens the food required for maintenance and reduces the disease hazard. Another reason for the practice of feeding pigs within six months is that March pigs will be ready for market before the seasonal drop in prices which usually comes about September.

The experience of the 1927 ton-litter producers not only proved the advantages of a short feeding period for securing cheap gains and in reducing disease, but also demonstrated the distinct advantages of having the pigs ready for early marketing. Hog prices "broke" from $2.50 to $3.50 a hundredweight between September and December, causing reduced returns and in some cases heavy losses to growers whose hogs were not ready for market before this period.

Although the 1927 contest produced 56 fewer ton-litters than were produced in 1926, this falling off, according to Doctor Lowe, is partly because of the fact that many farmers sold their large litters before they began to drop in late September. The fact that four of the leading hog-producing states are now giving more attention to the so-called pig crop contests than to single litters is another factor responsible for the fewer ton-litters this year. Pig crop contests are becoming popular as a natural way of improving work in improving pork production and have for their objective the production of a maximum amount of pork from every sow in the herd.

Live Stock Hints

Alfalfa hay is the key to success with fall pigs.

One of the chief disadvantages with pigs is that it is difficult to pasture during wet weather.

Alfalfa hay will do wonders for brood sows because it is a protein feed, contains plenty of mineral and is bulky.

A sound program of care combined with the right kind of feed will bring most of the pigs through in good shape and put them on the market at least expense.

Any normal pig which has shed one or more ruptured pigs should be discarded. Such a loss will transmit several herds in his offspring, and hence tend to ruin the herd.

In 1927, 1,000,000 pigs were slaughtered in the United States, 1,000,000 more than in 1926. One was slaughtered every 11th second.

About one-third of the best cattle types are being shipped to the feed lots of the Corn Belt as stockers and feeders.

These sheep or cattle often may be used at the busy season as carcasses. Hogging down even is easier and often more profitable than husking and feeding in the lot.

Advertising Mistakes

A QUESTION before many of us is what chance of advertising policy, if any, should be made in view of present financial and business conditions. It is perfectly natural for us to give consideration to some degree of retrenchment, but it is dangerous to let reduction in expenditure be such as to bring about a real gap in the continuity of the advertising. It is a common mistake for some advertisers to think that they can turn advertising on and off, like water from a faucet, and expect it to become immediately effective whenever they are prepared to resume operations. Advertising does not work that way. Temporary conditions should not induce us to make too severe inroads on the program of advertising, which can be wisely conceived only on a long term basis. Frank H. Sloan, President American Business Association.

When trouble occurs it is in the first place, a lack of water on the left side. If not too far advanced, relief may be obtained by the formaline treatment. With cattle, a quart of a 14 per cent solution of formaline should be given as a drench, one-half ounce of formaline in a quart of water gives a solution of the 72.5 strength. A round stick should be tied in the animal's mouth to keep its jaws open.

In severe cases, the animal must be tapped immediately at a point equally distant from the last rib, hip bone and the backbone. The operation should be made with a trocar and cannula, but a pocketknife may be used in an emergency. The tube of the trocar should be left in the opening so the gas can escape readily. The wound will heal better if it is washed with an antiseptic solution after the rumen has been removed.

Animals that have bled have been dangerously sick and they should be bled accordingly. As soon as the pain is relieved, it is advisable to give a dose of one to one and one-half pounds of epsom salts. They should be fed lightly and should have good care.

Sheep are more susceptible to blood than cattle, and for this reason they need closer attention. A pint of fresh cow's milk is an excellent drench or formaline, prepared as for cattle, may be used except that smaller doses must be given. Sheep should be bled only as a last resort for they recover slowly from such operations or injuries.

Dehorning Calves With Caustic Potash Is Easy

One of the best methods of dehorning cattle is the use of either caustic soda or caustic potash. These are in sticks about half pencil size and may be obtained at any drug store. The best results are obtained if the operation is performed when the calf is from four to ten days old. The undeveloped horns or buttons are only loosely attached to the skull and break almost like parts of sticks at this age, writes George W. Westcott in the Iowa Homestead.

Clip the hair over and around the horns. Apply caustic around the edge of the horn to prevent the caustic from spreading and burning sides around the horn. Then slightly moisten the skin of caustic and rub it on each horn three or four times. Let each application dry before the next is applied.

The operator should wrap the caustic stick in paper with one end exposed to prevent burning his hands. Do not let any of the caustic run down the side of the calf's head. Keep the calf under shelter if there is any possibility of rain. Should the caustic become wet it might run into the calf's hair and eyes and cause severe burns and blindness.

FARM FACTS

Shear sheep only when the wool is dry. Damp wool will spoil.

Sodium chlorate applications for killing weeds have proven most effective in August.

Oats ground and sifted makes an excellent feed for young calves and pigs. Soaking is not advisable.

Summer fallow land will need just enough cultivation during the summer to keep down weed growth.

Once it required three hours of work to produce a bushel of wheat, now it takes only ten minutes.

Tomato growers should be on the lookout for leaf spot, especially if their plants were not grown from treated seed.

Asparagus thrives on sandy loam soils, but contrary to popular belief also does well on heavy soils if they are well fertilized.

Oats will not flow out through cracks and knotholes where wheat would trickle out and waste. Almost any sort of farm storage will do.

FARM FACTS

Shear sheep only when the wool is dry. Damp wool will spoil.

Sodium chlorate applications for killing weeds have proven most effective in August.

Oats ground and sifted makes an excellent feed for young calves and pigs. Soaking is not advisable.

Summer fallow land will need just enough cultivation during the summer to keep down weed growth.

Once it required three hours of work to produce a bushel of wheat, now it takes only ten minutes.

Tomato growers should be on the lookout for leaf spot, especially if their plants were not grown from treated seed.

Asparagus thrives on sandy loam soils, but contrary to popular belief also does well on heavy soils if they are well fertilized.

Oats will not flow out through cracks and knotholes where wheat would trickle out and waste. Almost any sort of farm storage will do.

"KIDS" — THE DOG CATCHER —
WEEKLY CAMP CHARLEVOIX NEWS COLUMN
 Edited by
VINCENT ARNOLD

The 1933 camping season for Camp Charlevoix comes to a close this Thursday evening, August 24, with the final banquet as a fitting climax to a very busy summer.

Probably a dissertation on the great benefits which the boys have received from their eight weeks' stay at the camp is now in order. Unfortunately we do not feel moved to speak in that vein. Please do not misunderstand. The benefits are quite evident to anyone who will take the trouble to seek them out, and thus it is unnecessary, in our opinion, to set them down here. What is important is that the campers have had a good time and have had experiences which they will not quickly forget.

The final council ring ceremony was held last night and the awards for the year given out.

The entire camp went over to Petoskey last Monday night to see a show—"Tugboat Annie," to be explicit. The boys evidently enjoyed it, to say nothing of the counselors!

With four boys already signed up for next year, the outlook for 1934 is promising. Yes, it won't be long before the Charlevoix campers will be trekking back to Oyster Bay for another happy eight weeks. The only drawback is that you will have to read this drivel again when that time rolls around. Perhaps we flatter ourselves that it is read at all now!

Thanks for your indulgence this season. See you next year.

Ventriloquism, the practice of making the voice come from a particular point, is believed to have played an important part in the magic and ceremonial rites of early peoples.

Of this collection, license sales have contributed $1,077,828. Stamp revenue has been $558,187. Ninety-five per cent of the $1,566,016 will be allocated to the counties and political subdivisions within them on or before September 1.

AT THE MOVIES

Gambling War Raging on Sea at Three-Mile Limit

Cary Grant, Benita Hume, Jack LaRue, Glenda Farrell and Roscoe Karns play the leading roles in "Gambling Ship," a thrill-packed melodrama of life aboard a floating gambling palace, which comes on Friday and Saturday, August 25 and 26, to the Palace theatre.

"College Humor" Shows Life As It Ought To Be—Melodic Comedy

"College Humor," Paramount's boisterous words-and-music version of college life as it ought to be, opens at the Palace theatre August 27 and 28.

"College Humor" boasts an all-star cast, a fast-moving story, a top-notch chorus, and music that already has proved successful on the radio and dance programs.

In its cast are Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, Jack Oakie, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Lona Andre and Mary Kornman. The Ox Road Co-Eds, a chorus of stunning youngsters, provide the dancing. Its music—"Learn to Croon," "Mama's Tune," and "The Old Ox Road," is three hit tunes—was written by Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnston.

Dietrich Role Uncovers New Acting Power

A new Marlene Dietrich, different than her millions of screen admirers have ever glimpsed in her previous pictures, will be seen in "The Song of Songs," her new Paramount picture, coming to the Palace theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, August 29 and 30.

Miss Dietrich, who, hitherto has appeared as a sophisticated, worldly woman, is revealed in her new production as an innocent young country girl of rare beauty, who goes to Berlin, and, jilted by a handsome young sculptor, runs the gamut of tragic experience.

"She Had to Say Yes" Lays Bare Practice of Customers' Girls

The movies lay bare another racket in "She Had to Say Yes," a First National production which comes to the Palace theatre Thursday for a one-day engagement. This picture with its all-star cast headed by Loretta Young, Lyle Talbot, Regis Toomey and Winnie Lightner, reveals the adventures of "customers' girls," which is always a pretty, though lightly principled lure used by certain firms of big business to extract orders from out-of-town buyers.

When Austen Chamberlain was installed as Lord Rector of Glasgow University, 2,000 of the students wore monocles in his honor.

Select Potatoes
for Best Chips

Test for Soluble Sugars Is Key to Secret of Qualities.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture—WNS Service.)
 Specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture have devised a simple method for selecting storage potatoes which will make good chips or french fries. A test for the soluble sugars in potatoes is the key that unlocks the secret of their culinary qualities, since an excessive amount of these sugars produces a discoloration in french fries and chips and a sweetness in baked or boiled potatoes that is distasteful to some people.

Accumulate Sugars.
 Potatoes stored at temperatures ranging from 32 degrees to 45 degrees F. accumulate certain soluble sugars as a result of the breakdown of starch. In general, the lower the storage temperature the greater the amount of soluble sugars and the darker the color of the chips.

To make the test, a sample from the center of the potato is placed in a yellow solution of picric acid and sodium carbonate in a small test tube and heated over the flame of an alcohol lamp until it boils for one-half minute. Samples from potatoes that have not been stored at too low temperatures change the color of the solution to an orange yellow, but the excessive amount of sugars in tubers stored at low temperatures changes the color to a deep red or brown.

Test Satisfactory.
 This test has proved satisfactory in selecting potatoes for chip making, french frying, baking, and under certain conditions for boiling. It was devised especially for chip manufacturers, who must have potatoes with a low content of soluble sugars. The test is so simple, since it involves only a small portable outfit, that it can be used by buyers for hotels and restaurants where there is a demand for high-grade meals cooked potatoes, free from a sweetish taste and discoloration.

Chayote Favored as Vegetable for Table

Delicate in Flavor and Resembles Summer Squash.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture—WNS Service.)

A "new" vegetable for the American table but one which has been a staple food for centuries in some Central American countries is the chayote, sometimes called vegetable pear, mango squash, or mirliton. In the last few years there has been increasing interest in the growing of chayotes for home use and local markets in the lower South, the United States Department of Agriculture reports, and chayotes are now appearing in season in northern as well as southern markets.

The adaptability of the chayote as a table vegetable is one of its outstanding characteristics. It may be eaten plain boiled, mashed, fried, stuffed and baked, used cold in salads, in fritters, or made into sweet pickle. Unlike most squash, the chayote holds its form perfectly after being cooked. Its flavor is delicate and resembles summer squash. To some people it tastes like stewed oysters. The root, which becomes tuberlike after the first season, is starchy and may be boiled and eaten.

Botanically the chayote is related to the squashes and cucumbers. It usually fruits in the fall, though when early vine growth from old roots is not injured by spring frost it may produce a crop in the spring. The fruits of different varieties of chayote vary in weight from three ounces to three pounds.

Lime Phosphate Profitable to Use on Legume Crops

Lime phosphate may be used for growing either legume crops or grain crops. When used for grain crops, some thought must be given to the liberation of phosphorus by the acids in plants or by those formed in the decomposition of organic matter. When there is enough decomposition in a soil to provide more nitrogen than is needed in proportion to phosphorus, lime phosphate will be beneficial when applied without fresh organic matter. There is not much land in this condition, however, as most soils are in need of some fresh organic matter occasionally for the purpose of liberating various kinds of plant food; and it is best to use lime phosphate in connection with active organic matter, such as legumes or manure.

Strong Smelling Mixture Will Repel Bot Flies

To protect our horses from bot flies we use a mixture of equal parts of turpentine, kerosene and linseed oil, applied with a cloth to all parts of the horses when the flies lay their eggs. One application usually will keep the bot flies away for from 48 to 72 hours. However, if applied lightly each morning it is a protection against other bothersome flies as well. Writes R. E. Grubbs of Brown county, Indiana, in Capper's Farmer.

It is not necessary to use a large amount of this oil, just enough to moisten the ends of the hairs. This mixture has a strong odor which seems to be disliked by flies.

Important That Sows Be Kept in Condition

Sows which raise two litters a year, should not be allowed to become too thin during the summer. It is important that they make the required gain in flesh, most of which should be put on in the last half of the summer. Beginning at this time and continuing until they farrow, the bred sows will ordinarily need some grain or other concentrated feeds. With legume forage crops, these should be largely home-grown. With ordinary pastures, a small amount of some protein feed like tankage, linseed-oil meal, shorts or middlings should be fed with the corn or other grains. The amount of grain to feed, or the necessity of feeding grain at all, will depend entirely on conditions, and will be shown by the condition of flesh the sows are in. The judgment of the feeder, consequently, must always be relied on to determine how much to feed at any time.

Supplement Wet Mash During Summer Months

"Feeding a supplemental wet mash to chickens during the summer months has paid me a big return this year," said Louis Welner, St. Louis county, Missouri.

"Feeding wet mash to poultry is recommended by Harold Canfield, poultry extension specialist of the Missouri College of Agriculture, to keep up hot weather production of the flock and to prevent early moulting.

"Each day at noon I took some of my regular dry mash mixture, moistened it with water and fed it to my birds in a long trough. I gave them about what they would consume in 15 or 20 minutes.

"My summer egg production was at least a third greater than last year, my flock continued laying well into September and only a few birds molted early. I am looking forward to more eggs this winter than I received in previous years."

Honey Has Odd Method of Protecting Itself

Honey, unlike many foods which decompose easily as a result of bacterial action, has a unique method of protecting itself from spoilage by literally drying the organisms to death.

A. P. Sturtevant, bee specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture, says honey has the peculiar and distinctive property of absorbing moisture from anything that comes in contact with it. A certain amount of moisture is necessary to maintain life in all living organisms, so when bacteria comes in contact with honey and this vital amount of moisture is withdrawn, the organism dies.

Docking and Castrating Lambs Increases Price

One of the surest and easiest ways to make money on lambs is to dock and castrate them properly, says W. E. Morris, extension live stock specialist, University farm, St. Paul, Minn. These operations, he says, are simple and the risk is negligible when performed on lambs ten days to two weeks of age.

Correctly docked lambs bring from 25 cents to $1.50 a hundred pounds more on the market at present prices than long-tailed lambs. Thin, long-tailed lambs are classified as end feeder lambs and suffer the largest cut in price.

Urging the importance of locating highways properly, an engineer points out that thousands of lives have been lost at grade crossings, culverts and other hazardous points that might have been avoided when the highway was planned.

That means nitrogen promptly available to the young plant when it needs it most for a vigorous start. Our phosphorous and potash carriers are the very best. O'NEILL AND HAIL GREET CAMP GOERS

"ANNA CHRISTIE" THRILLS AT IRONTON DURING STORM

"Her Sons" Is Comedy Offering for August 23, 24 and 25—Season
Draws Near Close

Eugene O'Neill in the guise of his famous masterpiece, "Anna Christie," arrived at Ironton last week but he was properly put in his place by a furious hail storm which by now is Michigan history.

We attended the Thursday night performance of the O'Neill play and were entertained thoroughly in spite of the terrific fusillade of hail stones which deafened the stage show and forced a brief halt in the performance.

Dorothy Fritz, as Anna, had the opportunity of the season to do some great acting in this exciting role. That she did a good and thorough job, in dialect, is about the finest praise we can give. Miss Fritz has been cramped with character parts which, in the past, did not give her a chance to really come through with a complete individual performance.

Those who missed her work in "Anna Christie" were missing a real treat. Gerhardus Lindemulder as Old Chris, Anna's father, had a difficult assignment requiring Swedish dialect and restrained acting and Mr. Lindemulder gave a careful, well-rounded, intelligent performance. After all, to play a variety of older roles is an exacting job in itself. But as Old Chris Mr. Lindemulder topped his previous work in every way.

Harry Young essayed the difficult role of the boasting stoker with the thick Irish brogue—Matt Burke. Mr. Young did what he could with this thankless part and made it as real and as likeable as it was possible to do. His Irish tongue was accurate and such comedy lines as he had to deliver were put across with gusto.

The remainder of the cast—whose appearance was in the first act only—handled their parts with ease. Elsie Shields played the frowsy, blowsy wharf woman in convincing style. Fay Bradley, of Charlevoix, played the role of Larry the bartender and we believed him. Don Kellogg, Camillo D'Amico, Vaughan Ogden and others also appeared briefly.

This play was the first Ironton show to boast of three settings. It was an agreeable change and showed what the National Dramatic players could do with new scenery and lighting. The first act was in the water front saloon of Johnny-the-Priest. The second act, on board the barge during a fog, and the last two acts showed us the interior of the barge cabin. All effective and interesting and in the spirit of the play.

"Her Sons" This Week

A rather interesting combination will be offered at Ironton this week. Elsie Shields, who made such a hit in the play of a few weeks ago (Summer Resort) will appear in the leading role of a comedy drama entitled "Her Sons." Judging from the advance news concerning this production, Miss Shields is particularly suited to the part as are the other members of the company. The play and the characters are "a natural" for the Ironton cast. It will be worth while to make the trip to the theatre by the lake on Route 66 and see what has been accomplished with this drama of selfish mother love. The story concerns the efforts of a mother to hold her sons' love. How she succeeds—and fails—makes "Her Sons" an absorbing play filled with comedy and tense dramatic situations.

The schedule of the National Dramatic Camp is drawing near its close and for those who have not paid this institution a visit there is no time like the present. A visit to Ironton to see the theatre, the grounds and the type of plays and players, is worth your while. Michigan needs a summer theatre of this type and should patronize it and spread the word of what's doing.

So get up a theatre party and drive out to the theatre—near the Ironton ferry—and you will become an Ironton fan.

ALL-STAR COLLECT THREE WINS IN ROW

Defeated Bay Shore 7-1 Behind
Denemy's Consistent Pitching

The Charlevoix All-Stars picked up their third straight victory last Sunday afternoon on the north side diamond. They defeated Bay Shore 7 to 1, but the game was not as lopsided as the score indicates.

With Denemy on the mound for the locals and Guy John behind the plate, Bay Shore barely averted a shutout when two errors in the third inning and one clean hit gave them a run. Denemy allowed five hits during the day. He issued no free passes and struck out eight. Guy John put out four on foul lines and threw out four who tried to steal.

Lockridge of Petoskey, who pitched for Bay Shore, also struck out eight men, but he was guilty of issuing four walks, and he did not get the good support that Denemy did. Charlevoix scored once in the first and then was blanked until the fifth when one more came in. The locals gathered another in the seventh to make it 3-1. Then they made sure of victory in the eighth. The All-Stars batted around to score four runs. This was more the fault of the Bay Shore fielders than of the pitcher. Denemy scored two of the runs and Stan Smith scored two more. Curt Dixon, Joe Shores and Sam Mitchell each scored one. The game was umpired by Charlie Marshall and Ray Murray and played in less than two hours.

Uniformed teams desiring September games with the All-Stars should make arrangements with the manager, Harold Newman.

BEER TAX BECOMES BIG INCOME SOURCE

Taxes on the manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer has become the third largest source of revenue for the United States government, internal revenue figures reveal.

A total of $16,644,957 was collected by the government from this source during the month of July, the figures revealed. This amount showed a substantial increase of the June total, $13,753,794.

Income and cigarette taxes were the only items yielding larger receipts during July.

* CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH *

Summer Schedule
Sunday school, 10:00.
Morning worship, 11:00.
Ladies Aid society first Wednesday of month.
Missionary society third Wednesday.

Mrs. Mildred MacArthur will sing at the Sunday service.

Next Sunday our service will be quite unique. The auditorium will be decorated with literally hundreds of gladioli. These blooms will be given away at the close of the service, our summer guests having first consideration. This service will not smack of the sensational. In a former parish the pastor adopted this type of service which still continues to grow in popularity. The guest speaker will be Rev. Albert L. Linder, pastor of the Trinity Baptist church of Dayton, Ohio. His subject will be "Each Day As It Comes." We cannot announce with certainty, but we have many reasons to believe that the Belvedere trio will be with us again.

In the evening at 8 o'clock we will have an Oxford group meeting in the church. This meeting will be under the direction of Mrs. William Talman of Detroit. Mrs. Talman has been quite active in the Oxford movement in Detroit this last winter and has attended several house parties in connection. Miss Jean Barker of Louisville, Ky., who has just returned from a house party given at Oxford, England, will be present to give a report of that meeting. Other young people interested in this movement will be present. The service is open to the public and the young people of our community are especially invited.

CIVIC PROJECTS AIM OF COUNCIL

SEEK AID THROUGH FEDERAL RELIEF CHANNELS

Mayor, Clerk Told to Take Option on Wilbur Property for Sewage Plant—Petition for Bridge

Meeting in regular session Monday night, the Charlevoix city council took definite steps through federal relief channels to bring about two sorely needed civic projects.

The first and probably most important, is to bring to successful conclusion plans for a municipal sewage treatment plant. Preliminary action on this project had been taken previously on at least two occasions to the extent that plans had been prepared, but the matter was dropped when confronted with financial and other obstacles.

With federal aid now available in the form of unemployment relief, covering the item of labor, the council is preparing to present the project to proper sources for approval. The important matter of a site for the proposed plant was discussed of Monday night when the council, by resolution, authorized the mayor and clerk to obtain a 60-day option on the O. E. Wilbur property on Round lake harbor. The property, an ideal location, has approximately 240-foot lake frontage and includes a 34-foot lot intersection Bridge street between the Meyers and Musalem buildings. The purchase price has been set at $10,000.00, a very reasonable figure.

In addition to the desirability of this site for the sewage treatment plant, the city would be in a position to improve the dock, provide warehouse facilities for boat traffic and maintain suitable dockage for boat lines touching this port.

The engineering details in connection with the project have been turned over to the Chicago engineering firm of Pearce, Greeley & Hansen, whose representative, Wm. E. Stanley, met with the council at a special session last Wednesday. Completed plans will be presented probably during the present week for approval. City Attorney Rollie L. Lewis has taken over the legal details and is preparing to make formal application to the Federal Relief Commission at once. Charlevoix has been tentatively allotted $75,000.00 for such a project.

A second resolution Monday night, petitions the state highway department for construction of a new bridge across the channel between Round lake and Lake Michigan on U. S. 31. The resolution sets forth the importance of this link, a statement of its condition and the benefits this city would derive through widening of the channel and subsequent passage of larger ships in case a jack-knife type structure was built. At the present time the channel narrows

HEALTH RECORDS FAIL TO REVEAL SLEEPING SICKNESS IN DISTRICT

The three different types of true sleeping sickness, says Dr. Dean of the district health department, are caused by a trypanosome. This disease must not be confused with encephalitis lethargica, also popularly but improperly called sleeping sickness. For the most part sleeping sickness has been found in Africa and South America.

The two types found in Africa are caused by the Trypanosoma gambiense and the Trypanosoma rhodesiense and are transmitted by the tsetse flies Glossina palpalis and Glossina morsitans respectively. The important species of the tsetse fly are not much larger than a house fly but some of the rare and less important ones are considerably larger. These species are identified chiefly by their proboscis and by their wings which are long and in life are laid flat, on above the other, when the fly is at rest. They project considerably beyond the tip of the abdomen.

The South American type of the disease caused by the Trypanosoma cruzi, commonly called Chagas' disease, is transmitted by a bug called the Triatoma magista. It is a large insect that often attacks the face.

Records of the public health department fail to show that this disease has ever been present in this territory and it is very doubtful if it ever will be. So far there has not been any cases reported throughout this district.

at the bridge to allow for the under structure, thus preventing larger vessels access to this port. The bridge should also be of the most dependable type because of its importance in maintaining traffic on U. S. 31. Through their action Monday night the council took very definite steps to tap federal sources to bring about these very important improvements, and every effort will be made to bring about their approval.

REGULAR RESORT TRAIN SERVICE OFF NEXT WEEK

Post Season Trains to Be Operated
As Late As September 24th

Next week will see the discontinuance of regular summer train service over the Pere Marquette railway. Post season trains, however, will be operated to care for resort travelers as late as September 24th. According to a recently issued bulletin, the last "Resort Special" operates northbound on Friday, September 8th, and southbound on Sunday, September 10th. Northbound post season trains with extra sleepers for Traverse City and Bay View will be operated from Chicago, September 12, 15 and 22, and from Detroit on September 15 and 22.

Additional service to Detroit is being offered September 4th for Labor Day travelers.

RE-EMPLOYMENT SET-UP IS MADE

COMMITTEE OF THREE-NAMED AS COUNTY UNIT

Arthur Bergeon, Charlevoix; F. O. Barden, Boyne City; John Porter, East Jordan, Committee

Personnel of the committee which will handle all re-employment service in the administration of federal relief projects in Charlevoix county was revealed last week in letters from Clarence E. Weiss, state director of re-employment.

The members of the committee are: Arthur Bergeon, this city; F. O. Barden, Boyne City, and John Porter, East Jordan.

Function of the group is to cooperate with Mr. Weiss in determining the nature and extent of the local re-employment service required for public works and public roads in the county; securing necessary space and equipment for the service; selecting a manager to handle details; and acting in an administrative capacity regarding all operations of the national re-employment service in the county.

The committee will be in active charge of local expenditures of federal relief funds. At present there are two sources of federal relief: the welfare funds allocated to the state to be matched two for one by the state; and the $3,300,000,000 public works program.

Under the first source of funds local communities are given outright grants of money for projects such as the building of the new route of M-131 north of Boyne Falls. Other funds from the same source can be used for direct relief. Under the second source public works projects will be financed. The City of Charlevoix has asked money to construct a municipal sewage disposal plant. Bonds would be issued and purchased by the federal government.

The road work will be carried out by the Charlevoix county road commission, but laborers will be chosen by the re-employment committee from the lists of the needy. These lists will be compiled by expert case investigators working from the state headquarters. Families will be put on a budget fixed according to the size of the family and its resources. Only enough work will be allotted to the family to allow the men to earn the amount of the fixed budget.

SANITARY INSPECTOR JOINS DIST. HEALTH UNIT STAFF

A. R. Renwick, Dr. P. H., has assumed his duties as sanitary inspector with the Northern Michigan district health unit, whose offices are located on Petoskey avenue, this city. Mr. Renwick comes to this district from the upper peninsula, where he has been connected with the demonstration unit of the Michigan Children's Fund. His addition to the local unit completes the personnel of the staff.

CHARLEVOIX NRA FORCES MOBILIZE

ORGANIZATION MEETING AT COURT HOUSE FRIDAY

Officers and Ward Captains Chosen; House to House Campaign
Under Way This Week

One hundred per cent compliance with the National Recovery Act in Charlevoix was the goal set for employers and consumers alike at an N. R. A. mass meeting held at the court house Friday evening.

With James B. Balch, Kalamazoo, Charlevoix summer resident and member of the Michigan N. R. A. committee, presiding, nearly every local employer able to attend was present at the enthusiastic session.

An organization to conduct the local campaign of compliance was formed with Alonzo Powers as president, and Walker A. Miles as secretary. The city was divided into districts with E. E. Cross captain of the first ward; Milton Block in the second ward; and William E. Parmelee in the third.

At a meeting Sunday morning, these officers and captains selected committees to cooperate in a drive which got under way Monday morning on a house-to-house and business place-to-business place basis. All employers will be contacted, those who have not already done so, urged to sign a pledge and come under a code as quickly as their particular problems can be surmounted. The house-to-house campaign will pledge consumers to patronize only local concerns that are qualified to display the Blue Eagle insignia of the N. R. A. Thus, while the gesture still remains a patriotic one, for the first time locally a semblance of "teeth" will be injected into this noble recovery experiment.

In his talk before the gathering Friday night, Mr. Balch, who is a member of the state N. R. A. committee, urged all local employers and citizens alike to get behind the campaign. He did not state that various local businesses were obligated to come under state or national codes, but rather that they work out codes applicable to local conditions. He did, however, stress the importance of the spirit of the act and mentioned that those who violate the terms of their agreement once adopted will have the Blue Eagle taken away forever and the ire of a patriotic citizenry to deal with. He reiterated the warnings of national officials that the Blue Eagle is not to be trifled with.

In view of the fact the meeting voted to pledge 100% compliance, and displayed an eager willingness to cooperate in every detail, no difficulty is anticipated locally.

forcement in This Region

Called by Prosecuting Attorney A. L. Fitch with the aim of coordinating law enforcement activities against major crime in northwestern Michigan, sheriffs and prosecutors of nine counties in this region formed an association here Friday afternoon.

Lieut. Earl Hathaway of the Traverse City state police post, cooperated at the meeting.

The next conference, at which committees appointed Friday will report, was set for September 15 at Gaylord.

DEATH CLOSES ACTIVE CAREER

N. A. SHORES VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK TUESDAY

Charlevoix's Last Civil War Veteran —Famous in Region As Hunting and Fishing Guide

Charlevoix lost its last Civil War veteran Tuesday evening in the death at 7:45 o'clock of Nicholas A. Shores, Norwood pioneer and noted guide and woodman. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Shores was born at Ellensburg, N. A. A. E. September 17, 1846. At the age of 16 years he joined the Union navy at the outbreak of the Civil War, serving until the close of the conflict on a gunboat patrolling the Mississippi river. He was discharged in 1865 and a year later came to Grand Haven and the next spring to Norwood. He worked as a lumberman for the old Charlevoix Lumber Company, both in this vicinity and in the upper peninsula.

Early in his residence at Norwood, Mr. Shores became famed as a fishing and hunting guide, and as such his services were in great demand even up until a few years ago. His skill as a woodman and trapper was well known, as were also the stories of his experiences in the outdoors.

Few of Charlevoix's older summer residents have not enjoyed "Nick's" companionship and counsel on fishing and hunting trips.

Mr. Shores was married in 1870 to Miss Mary Wagner of Norwood. Their only child, a daughter, May, died in 1903. In addition to the widow and grandson, Dr. J. S. Supernaw of Madison, Wis., two sisters and a brother survive, viz: Mrs. Mima McIntosh of Stanton, Mrs. Bell Carter of Detroit, and Joe Shores of this city.

Maasonic funeral services will be conducted from Brookside chapel at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon with Rev. G. R. Parker officiating. The American Legion will participate in the service.

NO EXTENSION OF CITY TAX PENALTY DEADLINE

Four Per Cent Will Be Added After September Fifteenth

By authority of the common council City Treasurer Robt. E. Rife has announced there will be no extension of the penalty limit for city taxes. The deadline for this tax, which is now due, is September 15, after which a 4% collection charge will be assessed.

It has been brought to attention that many citizens are confusing the city tax with the state and county tax which would be delinquent since last January 1, had not the state, through legislative action, extended the penalty limit to November 1. It was due to delinquency in the state and county taxes, which also include the school tax, that the board of education last week made a plea for payment so that schools might open on schedule this fall.

The city tax has no hearing upon the school situation at all.

11TH ANNUAL COUNTY PICNIC

TO BE HELD LABOR DAY AT WHITING PARK

Running Races, Boxing Matches, Ball Games Are Among Entertainment Features Planned

(By B. C. Mellenkamp)

All roads lead to Whiting County Park on Monday, September 4, where the eleventh annual Charlevoix county picnic will be held. Everyone cordially invited whether old or young. Something doing every minute of the day. Come early and stay late. Forget your troubles, meet your friends you haven't seen for some time and enjoy the wonderful facilities that abound on all sides at Whiting Park.

At 1:00 sports and running races will feature the program. There will be several new races that will be greatly enjoyed. Of course, a tug-of-war between the city and country will be included.

Baseball

At 1:00 comes the first of two baseball games. This game presents the Barnard and Peninsula teams who have already opposed each other twice and are all set for the third encounter. These teams will present their regular community line-up and it will be a nip and tuck affair from start to finish. The second game starts at 3:30 between Maple Grove and Ironston. These teams have not met before this season so you will see a hotly contested game. These teams are sponsored by the various granges in the county and the players are well known in the various communities. From latest information the young athletes (some not so young) are primed for these grueling encounters.

Boxing

Now here comes the big feature of the day. Starting promptly at 2:30, at the conclusion of the first ball game, there will be staged five thrilling boxing matches between the best that Charlevoix county has, opposed to some of the Springvale conservation camp boys. Perhaps, you have been in the audience of some 2000 to 4000 people who have seen and enjoyed the boxing matches held at the conservation camp. If you have, you will again enjoy seeing some of the same boys perform on Labor Day. If you haven't, this will be your opportunity to see these mitt-slingers. Joe Smith and Wm. Wood of the Charlevoix coast guards, Frankie Winnick, "Hardrock" Ager, and "Chief" Crampton, all from Charlevoix, as well as possibly others in the county will oppose the conservation boys. Nothing more needs to be said. You certainly will want to see these boxing matches.

Here is another surprise. Rod Hamman, leader of the notorious East Jordan German band will bring his troupe to Whiting Park and entertain you. These boys have been to Traverse City and other points and are noted for their funny antics. Muma states that these boys are apt to pop up anywhere at any time during the day with their music.

If you are hungry or thirsty, don't forget the various American Legion posts in the county will be ready to serve you with their wares. A picnic dinner will be enjoyed at noon. Bring your lunch basket well filled. Whiting Park has wonderful water, fine bathing beach and facilities and most cordially invites you to enjoy its beauty on this occasion.

A fine meeting of pastors and Sunday school superintendents was held at Bellaire last week Monday evening. Several talks on the Sunday school work were given by Rev. Carroll, John DeYoung, president, M. S. Short, and Roxa Morrow. Mrs. Morrow is the secretary of the Bellaire Sunday school of about 200 members, and is faithful in looking after absent members, so could give us some good ideas on her work. Mrs. Short said that a leader in the Sunday school should be a Christian and set an example that young people should follow. It was decided to have a Sunday school rally in all Sunday schools of the county for September 24 to October 1.

Lloyd Morse is back from Crystal Lake where he has been holding riding school for Mrs. Mattison's girls' camp. He reports quite a successful year. There has been a pretty good crowd of girls this year from all parts of the country. Mrs. Mattison is an expert at this kind of work. Besides conducting the riding school at Crystal Lake, Mr. Morse has held several horse shows. He acted as judge at a camp near Rex Terrace last Saturday. MICHIGAN FARMERS GET DIRECT LOANS

Federal Land Bank Approves Applications for $12,600

Six Michigan farmers received direct loans from the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul in July, which would have been impossible until the recent new legislation, the Emergency Farm Mortgage act. Four of these farmers were allowed their applications in full, and two were reduced, the total allowed to the six being $12,600.

For the entire seventh land bank district, which, besides Michigan, embraces Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota, there were only eleven direct loans made by the land bank, the total including Michigan, being $22,200. These direct loans are in addition to the regular loans, and constitute a beginning of this additional service.

This new feature of the Federal Land bank procedure was enacted for the purpose of extending the facilities of the bank to those borrowers who live where there is no functioning National Farm Loan association. The interest rate on these direct loans is 5 per cent, but it will be reduced to 4½ per cent as soon as there are 10 or more borrowers with applications for $20,000 in the same neighborhood, who unite to form a Farm Loan association.

No direct loans have been made prior to July. Both direct and association loans will increase from this time forward, as there is now a large force of men being trained in Michigan, as elsewhere, to appraise farms of applicants.

MICHIGAN CROPS GOOD COMPARED WITH NATION

Outlook Better in This State Than Other Farming Sections

Despite the poor outlook for crop production this year, Michigan growers are likely to fare somewhat better than those for the country as a whole, the Michigan co-operative crop reporting service has announced.

In comparison with United States figures, Michigan prospects are more than 20 points better than the U. S. average for one-third of 22 crops listed, and more than 50 points better for alfalfa hay and commercial apples. Only four of the state's crops show a smaller pointage than the United States figures. They are oats, field beans, peaches and pears.

Michigan has three important crops, corn, sugar beets and apples, on which more than average production is expected this year.

On August 1 only one of 18 leading crops in the United States showed a better than average production. Sugar beets was the single exception. They were estimated to be 29 per cent above the five-year average. This is due to the unusually large acreage and the fact that drought in western states has been sidetracked with an irrigation system.

RELEASE HALF MILLION FOR MICHIGAN SCHOOLS

Sum Represents Fifteen Per Cent of Turner Bill Money

The finance committee of the state administrative board Thursday morning released slightly more than one-half million dollars to be applied on the state's indebtedness to local school districts.

The largest item is $210,000 which represents 15 per cent of the $1,400,000 owing under the Turner "poor school district" bill. Similar payment will be made in September.

Other releases include 15 per cent of $367,000 due for special class instruction; 50 per cent of the $292,000 owing to rural agricultural schools; all of the $35,000 balance due on the poor district account; and amounts owing the counties which operate county normal schools.

According to the committee the payment to the rural agricultural schools will enable 95 such institutions with 16,000 pupils to open on schedule next month.

THOUGHTS and THINGS

THE business of living, when boiled down and all the froth skimmed off, is just a matter of thinking.

Each of us is continually thinking ideas of our own and swapping them for the ideas of others. If there is a famine of outside ideas we shrivel up ourselves. Children with "nobody to play with" are unhappy and unmanageable.

From thinking with our heads to doing with our hands is but a little step and then our thoughts become things.

It is because men of America are so unfettered in their thinking and doing that this country is such a fine place to live in. It is also because these thoughts are freely radiated and spread broadcast, in the distribution of manufactured things and in the distribution of the facts about them (advertising), that this country is such a fine place to live in.

The originator of an idea is not much better off than before he originated it till he gets someone else to absorb it and enjoy it and benefit by it.

The man or woman surrounded by better thoughts and things but who pays not the slightest attention to them is not much better off than the one with "nobody to play with."

The advertisements in the papers are thoughts — telling you about the things that other men and women have created for your happiness. Read the ads. They are the voices from hundreds of thousands of looms, shops, foundries, studios, laboratories where millions of minds are turning pleasant thoughts into worth-while things for your comfort.

DIFFERENCES IN CHILDREN

An article by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association comments on the differences observable in visits to homes where there are children in grade school. In some, when evening comes, the youngsters are bundled off to bed punctually on a given hour. In others, they are permitted to stay up as long as visitors remain. They may become unmanageable and ill-tempered, or they may fall asleep in uncomfortable, upright positions in sharply lighted, poorly ventilated rooms. Yet their parents apparently never realize that any harm is being done.

It does not take long for the realization to come, however, to the children's teacher. Within a week or two from the time school opens, a teacher can pretty well determine from the behavior of her charges just how much a bedtime hour means in their homes. Those who become nervous, restless, and unmanageable long before the school day is done can pretty well be put in the insufficient sleep class. The quality of school work, of course, varies accordingly.

When children before long go back to their school desks how well prepared to learn they will be will depend in good measure on their parents. In some cases, for reasons beyond parental control—a deformity that inadequate resources forbids remedying, or a diet that can be made more adequate because of a slim family pocketbook—a child may be unprepared to do good school work. But in the great majority of cases, the extent of the preparation is limited only by the intelligence and the interest of the parents.

As far as sleep goes, right now is a good time to get Sally and Jimmy in the eight or nine o'clock bedtime habit. When school begins, you'll see results aplenty—and they won't cost anything more than the effort necessary to impose a sensible amount of discipline.

SOME DAY A PAY DAY

The apparently startling discovery has been made, that for every dollar borrowed there is bound to come a pay day. For years our political subdivisions have been wandering about in a mental haze, borrowing money to indulge in spending oracles unparalleled in the history of this country. It ought to be patent to everybody by this time that neither individuals nor tax-raising units of government can borrow themselves out of debt. Already a refunding process is under way. States, counties, townships and municipalities are calling in their obligations, and forcing their creditors to accept replacement bonds at lower interest rates. They call it refunding, but actually it is wenching of the worst sort. It is an admission that we have been laboring under the wrong kind of government.

Only self-liquidating loans, which can be retired within a reasonable length of time, and then only to meet a dire necessity, should be made. We have no right to go on heaping burdens on the future that we may enjoy temporary or artificial relief. The American taxpayer long ago reached the limit of his ability to pay, yet we find governmental heads continuing the uneconomic practice of piling up debts under the misdirected fallacy that providing a few extra jobs will hasten a revival of prosperity. They must be halted.

BEST AND BIGGEST CIGAR VALUE

L. Lewis Cigar Mfg. Co., Mpls., Newark, N. J.

The American people have almost dispaired of ever getting lower cost of government, but gradually our national consciousness is being aroused to a point where we may hope for some sort of permanent relief. Either that or chaos. Which will you have?

NOT NEEDED NOW!

Request by NRA officials that complaints regarding violations of temporary or permanent Industrial Code agreements be sent to Detroit headquarters under promise of secrecy seems pretty much out of place, especially at a time when the industrial trade recovery program is just getting under way. Such a request will do much to encourage a system of espionage which is distasteful to every American citizen. Not only is such a course distasteful, but it is likely to arouse a spirit of resentment that will work injury to the entire movement. Encouraging neighborhood spies ought to have gone out with the end of the World War. It is not hard to recall that many worthy citizens during that period were unjustly accused as being pro-German by the very shockers themselves, who brought false accusations in order to distract public attention away from themselves. The success of the gigantic battle against depression largely depends upon patriotic fellowship, not misinformation and misguided leadership. Whoever was responsible for that complaint request was certainly a poor judge of human nature.

A NATIONAL ASSET

We believe the statement attributed to a Detroit "smart alec" that this country would be better off if the small business institutions of the nation were absorbed by their larger competitors, has already been given too much serious comment. It was too silly and insane to warrant a reply.

Statistics will reveal that the greater share of the mercantile burden of the United States is still carried on the shoulders of the small business man. It would be a dark day in our country's history if the small retailer were to be driven out of our economic picture. In spite of the gloomy days he has faced since the beginning of the depression he still continues the backbone of Main street everywhere. In him we find represented the good and wholesome things in community life and progress. Without the small business man, schools, churches and all civic undertakings would enter a period of decay. Any program for industrial recovery that does not recognize the worth of our small business institutions is unworthy to be associated with the name Americanism.

SUCKER MONEY

A prominent state official, careful to see that everybody is looking, reaches around to pat himself lovingly on the back because Michigan has just entered into a lease of the state fair grounds at Detroit, which promises to pour hundreds of thousands of dollars into state coffers during the lifetime of the lease. Part of this money, he says, will go towards educating the young people of the state.

Horse racing, pari-mutuel betting, slot machines, beer, all are expected to produce this huge amount of money, besides netting a substantial profit for the promoters. One wonders if this is an economical venture that should receive state sanction at a time when we are being tossed hither and thither by financial storms. Detroit and Michigan will be called upon to pay most of the bill. Sucker money will be attracted from city streets and country lanes, and whenever a dollar of this kind of money finds its way into a gambler's pocket, some municipality or some individual suffers. We doubt the wisdom of the great state of Michigan entering into such a partnership.

SWAT!!!

In the past few weeks, every corporation has received notice of the new tax law imposed by the last congress. The money to be thus extracted from the corporations is to pay that 3 billion, 3 hundred million public works program, it appears. There's tax of one dollar for every thousand dollars of capital stock. Then there's a 5 per cent tax on every dividend declared and another 5 per cent excess profits tax over 12 1/2 per cent. These last two provisions are not bothering any corporations at present, we opine. But the question arises as to why the corporations are socked while partnerships and individual owners are exempted?

There's no reason in the world why the few should be forced to pay the expenses of the many. No more reason, in fact, than to make the automobile driver pay an exorbitant gasoline tax for the benefit of the fellow who doesn't drive a car. Or for visible real estate to be heavily taxed and the holder of tax exempt securities go scot free.

It all simmers down to the necessity or justice of forcing everybody who enjoys the benefits of this country to pay something toward its upkeep. The general sales tax appears to us to be the most equitable.—Storm Lake (Iowa) Pilot-Tribune.

PROTECTING WITNESSES

A New York prosecutor was forced to abandon the trial of a gangster—four of the state's witnesses having been brutally slain to prevent them giving evidence in court. Chicago prosecutors have experienced great difficulty in securing testimony on which to base indictments, because of the blind fear of witnesses. If this country expects to win its battle against crime it will see to it that those who are relied upon to furnish evidence against the underworld are amply protected before and after giving their testimony. Sacrificing one's life in the cause of good government may be a noble gesture, but rarely is it indulged in except in time of war. Protect the witness and win the fight, should be the slogan of those in charge of the forces of society engaged in this titanic struggle.

THE POWER TO DESTROY

There was a time when it could truly be said that a profit was not without honor in this glorious country of ours. But that day seems to be past, at least for the small business man. And if our legislative bodies, state and national, continue to devise new and heavier forms of taxation the day will soon be here when big business, public utilities, large corporations will be in the same boat. When taxation reaches the point where there is no money for either jobs or dividends and profits. When you put the privately-owned firms out of business with taxation, which the tax-exempt government-owned enterprise now escapes, who will furnish the revenues for government?—Herman Roe in the Northville (Minn.) News.

EDUCATING THE YOUNG

A statistical report calls attention to the 700,000 Michigan school children now being educated through taxes paid by the railroads. This is interesting information to the taxpayer public at a time when our school system is being seriously threatened because of diminished incomes. Whether or not the average citizen makes use of the railroads in his private or business life, he is deeply concerned in their failure or success. Unfair competition to our transportation lines by trucks and buses racing up and down on highways built by the taxpayer's money, has already brought about drastic lowering of the amounts annually paid into school coffers by the railroads. It is a problem that demands our most earnest thought.

HOARDED FUNDS

Apparently more than a billion dollars of idle currency is still being hoarded in this country. Two years ago, in June of 1931, business activity was at about the same level as it is now. At that time the practice of hoarding was almost unknown, and the amount of currency in circulation, other than small coins, amounted to about four and a half billion dollars. At the present time the amount is approximately a billion dollars greater than it was then, and since price levels are lower, and wages less, and business activity no greater, it seems clear that the amount of currency being hoarded is still between a billion and a billion and a half dollars.

POLITICAL SHIFTS DUE

Despite emphatic denials in administration circles it is being freely speculated that Secretary Woodin will retire from the presidential cabinet by September 15. Who will be selected to take his place is also speculative. Governor Lehman, of New York, is unlikely because his Wall Street connections would be regarded as antagonistic to the liberal wing of the Democratic party. From a number of sources the selection of Senator Couzens is predicted. What effect his appointment would have on the political picture in Michigan is already causing some of the boys to lie awake nights. Anyway, another month should tell the story.

SIGNED UP, BUT—

The government issued $50,000,000 in bonds not long ago. They were sold to investors in one day.

That's the best evidence obtainable that citizens of this country have faith in their government. It likewise is an indication that there's plenty of money available for investments in which the public has confidence.

But it doesn't augur any too well for the taxpayers who see only another "wad" going into tax exempt securities. Neither does it indicate that those who dug up this money and hoarded the bonds have any desire to put it into payrolls or the expansion of business enterprise.

That statesman with the studious expression is the great dictator, to whom the king is explaining the theory of divine right.

GAMBLING WITH SAFETY

When things go wrong it is human nature to look around for something on which to pin the blame. When we have done that we seem to feel better over our mistakes. During boom times many millions of people gambled in stocks. Whatever was offered for sale found a ready market. People were only interested in high interest returns. During such a period even the "cats and dogs" of the security world find themselves salable; the "come on" boys are busy and there is a sucker waiting to be plucked at every stopping place.

Finally the bubble burst and the value of all securities—good and bad—sank to the vanishing point. Faith in the investment field was shattered and money went into hiding. Those who had lost their savings set up a great wail. Something should be done about it, they cried—the sucker should be protected against his greediness and bad judgment. In Michigan there was a cry to abolish the Securities Commission.

Then Uncle Sam was appealed to and we now have a national securities law. If the new law works as intended, people may gamble with comparative safety. It has a retroactive section that reaches back to everybody even remotely connected with a stock issue. To protect the foolish and imprudent we have adopted a policy that will make it almost impossible for expanding industry to finance itself. Reputable investment houses are closing their doors, refusing to take the chances involved. We may wake up some morning to find that we have traded our birthright for something that we do not want.

WHEN HOPE DIES

It begins to look as if a ghastly mistake had been made by the sponsors of Michigan's old age pension law. From Lansing we are advised that the law as now written is "unworkable." A delay of another year or more is forecast. Meanwhile thousands of Michigan's elderly citizens, who have looked forward to receiving aid under the law, are doomed to bitter disappointment. Better to have awaited the framing of a workable measure, than to have raised false hopes in the breasts of old people in distress.

WHAT BANKING WENT THROUGH

By JOHN H. PUELICHER

Banking in its long career has been compelled to withstand many serious shocks, but it ran into the most perplexing entanglement of its whole history since the general breakdown of values in 1929. The commercial structure of the entire world seemed to have been shaken from its foundations and the marvel is that the banker, with everything breaking down all around him, was able to come through as he has.

General business failures, agricultural stagnation, income losses, capital losses, inability to meet debts and therefore insabilities of bankers to pay back depositors when loans were not paid, were the reasons. In most instances, for the bank failure.

No profession, no department of life is without its weaker elements, but had proper consideration been given to the relatively few instances in banking, had exaggerated and startling headlines been kept in true proportion, had banking not been used as a target for political self-seeking and with vote-seeking motives, had unfounded rumors not been spread the people's confidence might have been retained and far less serious would have been their financial losses, for many bank failures were caused that need not have happened.

There were factors in our banking experience which every earnest banker deplores—factors which many had worked years to eliminate, which it was fearfully recognized would aggravate any difficult days which might arise. One of the worst of these was due to political regulation which characterized many banks that should never have been chartered.

That there have been incompetence and dishonesty in banking is admitted. That the instances that did occur were used grossly to increase fear in the public mind, we affirm. We shall continue to strive for higher attainments in our profession and strive for laws that require competence and ability in management. That we cannot legislate honesty and unselishness into either a banker or a borrower must be conceded, but dishonesty, wherever found, should be punished. It is as true in banking as elsewhere that no matter how good the law, dishonest and incompetent men can make it ineffective. Good laws are essential. We must strive for ever better ones, but their enforcement will come only as the public recognizes that it is a matter not of laws or codes alone but of the men who administer them.

The Public's Part

Our people must be brought to realize that the welfare of our country depends upon its banking system, that the strength of the banking system depends upon the public's faith and understanding and the vast majority of banks, because of faithful service rendered, even through the whole of this general breakdown, had the right to expect the trust and confidence of the people.

In every great catastrophe, no matter what its nature, no matter what its cause, someone must be crucified. The banker was this time selected. In the late 90's, political agitation started a trade against the railroads. Some railroads may have done reprehensible things, but the agitation became so general and so violent as almost to destroy one of the fundamental factors in the progress of a country. Today the same thing has been done to the banker. In spite of all that has happened, the fact remains that even most of the banks which failed are paying out infinitely better than are investments in almost anything else.

Bankers Aiding Agriculture

State associations of bankers in many agricultural states are giving time and financial support in encourage practices among their farmers that will bring about better farm results.

The major activities reported from one state to the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association which is nationally active in promoting this line of cooperation are as follows:

1. Drought relief work: Local banks have played a vital part in this work, being represented on the county committees for passing on all seed loans. These committees met practically every day during the spring to pass on the loans in order to get as quick action as possible. A total of 914 applications were received and handled by one committee, 833 being granted.

2. Four-H Club work: Bankers helped stimulate 4-H Club work, financing many members who otherwise could not have enrolled. They also helped finance fifteen 4-H Club delegates to the state club convention.

3. Livestock feeding: The banks cooperated with the Extension Service in the state and the railroads in increasing the amount of livestock feeding. Assistance was given the feeders in securing finances for their feeding operations.

4. Crop improvement: The bankers took part in the crop standardization program of the Extension Service and encouraged the farmers to use seed and in many cases made loans for this purpose.

Live Stock Items

Many deficiency ailments are remedied by including forage crops in the hog's ration.

Sows should be in good condition and gaining slightly in weight when breeding season begins.

Meat brine or too much salt will kill pigs, also old hogs. Watch where you throw even the water from boiling a salted ham.

Close observations of sows and pigs have many times indicated that animals on self-feeders look better and are more thrifty than those that are hand fed.

A number of sows may be kept in one house, but they should be in small enough groups so they will not crowd and pile up.

Servicability, durability, convenience, sanitation, comfort and safety are the features to be sought in a movable hog house.

The addition of skim milk to a swine ration does not make up for the deficiency of the fat-soluble vitamins in white corn, which should be supplemented with linseed or meat meal.

SCHOOLS WILL BATTLE FOR ADDITIONAL FUNDS

Plan County Campaign for Special Legislative Session

Plans for a drive to secure a definite appropriation of at least $15,000,000 to assist local school units to keep their doors open this winter have been unfolded by Dr. Henry Cook of Flint, chairman of the "Committee of 17" named to enlist support for the campaign.

Dr. Cook said that county organizations will be formed throughout the state to demand that Governor Comstock call the legislature into special session in October.

The legislature last winter adjourned after giving the schools only whatever collections of the new three per cent sales tax are available above $32,000,000 and since the year's total is estimated at $36,000,000 the educational units will get only about $4,000,000.

Early responses to a questionnaire sent to the 1,700 school districts in the state has shown that only a few will be able to operate the full year unless assisted by the state, Dr. Cook said.

MAY MERGE TAX COLLECTION DEPARTMENTS

Present Set-Up Too Expensive Is Belief of Officials

As soon as the sales tax collection force is organized and familiar with its work it should be given the job of enforcing the beer law, Auditor General Stack believes.

He said that the State Liquor Control Commission is "spending entirely too much money" in handling the beer act and that it should be eventually abolished.

Stack's proposal was covered by Governor Comstock in his address last week at Ionia when he said he would work for consolidation of many of the state's numerous commissions.

Stack pointed out that it is costing the state $450,000 to collect a beer tax which will appropriate $3,250,000 while the sales tax board will spend only about $400,000 to collect about $35,000,000.

Farmers Keeping Account Books

Visited Last Week

Forty Charlevoix county farmers now know exactly the results of their 1932 farming operations. These farmers do not guess, they know. These farm account books that are being kept indicate very clearly their progress. The summary which is presented to each co-operator at the close of the year is comprehensive and contains much detailed information that is of great help to the co-operators. These books not only keep a record of the farm receipts and farm expenses but consider the depreciation which takes place each year, decrease and increase in inventory, unpaid family labor, operator's wage and interest on the investment.

The reports clearly indicate how difficult it has been during the last two or three years to make a profit out of farming. In fact, throughout the state of Michigan, never 85% of those who kept farm accounts failed to make money.

To prove this point, a comparison of four years' records on farms in the area of which Charlevoix county is a portion, are submitted. In 1929, the operator's labor and management wage was $1,005.00. In 1930, it was negative $75.00 (a shrinkage of $1,080.00 in just one year's time). In 1931, negative $382.00 (another shrink of $307.00), while in 1932 a negative $307.00 (an increase of $75.00). Thus far, the books for 1933 show an increase in farm receipts so we anticipate that the year of 1933 will show the farmers in an improved position.

These farm account books are scattered throughout the county and give an excellent cross section view of agricultural conditions. There is no other project in the county that gives the direct benefits that farmers are securing from this project.

The 1933 farm account book will close Feb. 28, 1934, so that further developments will have an important effect on the results. Any farmer in the county desiring to know the facts about the situation should start keeping records the first of March, 1934. Would be glad to include anyone interested in this project for another year.

Three More Meetings on Wheat Allotment Program

All wheat producers of Charlevoix county, state of Michigan, are hereby notified that on the following dates, time and places, meetings will be held:

Bozette City, County Agent's office, 8:00 Wednesday, August 30.
Marion Center, Grange Hall, 8:00 Thursday, August 31.
East Jordan, Library, 8:00 Friday, September 1.

These meetings are organization meetings of the wheat producers of the above named community and are for the purpose of electing a representative or representatives of the community to serve as members of the board of directors of the wheat production control association of Charlevoix county and as chairman of the community committee, and to elect two additional members of the community committee, if advisable.

Proceedings will be conducted in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, United States Department of Agriculture.

Only producers who have signed applications to enter into wheat allotment contracts shall have the right to vote. Producers who have not already filed their applications with the county campaign committee or the county agent can make out their application at these meetings as evidence of their right to vote.

P. S.—It is assumed that wheat producers who do not attend their nearest meeting are not interested in this program. The larger wheat producer will receive more benefit than the smaller, depending on their production.

ROCK ELM

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Danforth and children are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Danforth.

Frank Lawton repaired car top for two East Jordan parties recently. The beer revenue looks large but it would be interesting to know what it cost to collect it.

Mr. and Mrs. George Metz and sister, Mrs. Thomas Cox, and niece, Gertrude Barnhill, who have been spending a few weeks at the L. Jensen home, left Monday for Flint where they will visit their sister, Mrs. Elwin Sundstead, for a few days before going on to Chicago to visit Edward Metz and take in the world fair.

* MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS *

A new system of checking applications for gasoline tax refunds has reduced the refunds for the first seven months of 1933 41 per cent below the refunds for the same period in 1932. With more than 25,000 gasoline dealers, drivers and other individuals making applications for refunds, there are many chances for honest error although a large number of "refund racketeering" cases have come to light in recent weeks.

The law provides that the state tax shall be refunded where the purchaser uses the gasoline for purposes other than propelling vehicles on public highways. This includes motor boats, farm tractors, and stationary engines. For the first seven months of this year $417,857 was refunded against $746,340 for the same period in 1932.

Vacation time has greatly increased the number of applications to the Department of State for duplicate motor vehicle operators' licenses. In July 1,494 applications for duplicates were received and the first 25 days of August brought in 1,124. The increase is due to the fact that many motorists did not discover their licenses had been lost until they started upon vacation trips.

The first move toward nationwide uniformity of traffic and automobile operator laws will be made in Chicago in October during the 22nd annual National Safety Congress. At that time, a national conference of motor vehicle administrators is to be formed. The Department of State participates in this work by direction of the legislature.

A complete survey of weight taxes paid by trucks, buses, trailers and taxicabs in Michigan is being made by the Federal Department of Public Roads. In requesting permission to use Department of State records, the federal government did not disclose to what use the statistics are to be put.

Unless the new election law is made inoperative by the filing of 81,000 signatures on referendum petitions, Michigan's 1933 fall elections will be the first since 1915 to be conducted by partisan election boards.

Since 1915 Michigan has conducted elections under the Scott-Flowers law which removed election boards from partisan politics. Under the 1933 law, even cities which have non-partisan elections will have election boards selected on a party basis. Efforts now are being made to secure signatures on referendum petitions, the department of state has been informed.

Since 3.2 beer became legal in Michigan, the number of licensed malt manufacturers has dropped from 38 to 9, department of state records show. Of the nine licensed manufacturers, two have already ceased selling malt and two others have announced that they will stop in a few weeks.

Michigan, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana have agreed that trucks, properly equipped in their home states, will not be molested in the other states. At the present time, the laws of the three states vary greatly in the type of lights required on the rear of trucks. This reciprocity was agreed upon at a meeting in Indianapolis. At the same time the three states agreed to make residence of the owner and not his place of employment the determining factor in the purchase of license plates. Thus a man living in Michigan and working in Ohio or Indiana, or Illinois, will purchase Michigan license plates.

Although 14 chain-store companies have filed suit to test the legality of the chain-store license law, 24 companies operating 219 stores already have applied for licenses.

"Shanghai Madness" with Spencer Tracy Due Here Friday

"Shanghai Madness," the new Fox Film production, with Spencer Tracy in the stellar role, comes to the Palace Theatre on Friday, September 1, to remain for an engagement of one day. It is a romance of white people against an ever-changing background of modern China.

"Voltaire" Affords George Arliss Role He Sought 20 Years

For many years George Arliss has searched for a satisfactory play based on the life of Voltaire, often called the father of the French revolution. Now, after twenty years of gradual preparation, he brings this most famous of all Frenchmen to life on the talking screen in Warner Bros. picture "Voltaire," which opens Sunday and Monday at the Palace Theatre, September 3 and 4.

James Dunn Gets Call of the Wild—on Broadway

James Dunn would rather act in motion pictures than do anything else he can think of and he believes Hollywood is the best place in which to make them. BUT—every once in a while he simply must board a train for Broadway.

Dunn left Hollywood for New York on the day that he finished work in "Arizona to Broadway," a comedy of confidence men, which also features Joan Bennett, Herbert Mundin, Merna Kennedy and Sammie Cohen.

The original story was written by William Conselman and Henry Johnson. James Tinsling directed the picture, coming Tuesday and Wednesday, September 5 and 6 to the Palace Theatre.

Barnum, Harry Joe Brown agrees, was right. Or maybe he underestimated the case.

Brown got the figures from the National Better Business Bureau as he set under way the filming of "I Love That Man," story of a woman's devotion to a man she knew was a swindler. The picture comes to the Palace Theatre Thursday, September 7. Edmund Lowe and Nancy Carroll are featured in the film, which was produced for Paramount by Charles R. Rogers.

A Kiss in the Moonlight; Then Death

An article revealing the grim experience of a beauty-contest winner who suddenly felt rude hands tear her from her racketeer lover's arms as machine-guns and pistols rattled and 12 bullets met in his brain, will appear next Sunday in The American Weekly, distributed with The Detroit Sunday Times.

Skillful Inbreeding Is Useful in Improvement

Inbreeding of animals, in the opinion of experts in the United States Department of Agriculture, is one of the most effective practices in the improvement of live stock. However, unless directed with skill and understanding and followed by intelligent selection of the progeny, inbreeding may have undesirable consequences. Inbreeding should be practiced only by the most skillful breeders, and by them only when they have definite knowledge of the ancestry of the animals involved. The purchaser of inbred males, however, need have no fear of using them if they are superior representatives of the breed. As a matter of fact he should prefer inbred males to others, especially if they are not related to his females, because they are more nearly pure in their hereditary make-up, and for that reason are more likely to reproduce themselves with uniformity. They should be sold under a guarantee of replacement if they do not breed. It is a general rule that inbred animals when bred to unrelated ones, even though the latter are themselves inbred, produce offspring larger and more vigorous than either parent.

Practical Reasons Why Small Lambs Sell Best

The reason generally given by the packing companies for the higher price paid for the smaller lambs is that the butcher shops and housewives demand the small cuts when they buy lamb. A lamb carcass divides naturally into several cuts, such as the leg of mutton, the hind chops, and the shoulder, neck, or stew. The leg of lamb and the shoulder cannot be cut up into smaller pieces very satisfactorily, so they are usually sold as one piece. When these pieces get a little too heavy, the consumer feels seriously and will not buy them at as high a price as the smaller pieces. The packing companies naturally must buy accordingly in buying the live fat is on the market. There is usually a slight advantage in quality of meat in favor of the smaller lamb carcasses also.

Retarding Fence Post Rot

Fence posts give considerable trouble owing to the rapidity with which the lumber rots in the moist ground. Many expensive fences have been completely destroyed because of this condition. If proper precaution had been taken they would have lasted for many years.

The posts rot off at the point where they enter the ground. Considerable success has resulted from a treatment of creosote or asphaltum palur application and then covering to a depth of about twelve inches below the surface and six inches above. This prevents the moisture from attacking the posts at this point.

Real Estate Holds Up

While other holdings declined in 1932 the total assessed value of real estate in 12 American cities climbed to modest heights, the National Association of Real Estate Boards states in the ninety-fifth of its series of articles for the public.

Even though increased assessed values mean higher taxes, such rises make a good case for realty investment, says the association, because realty transactions continue to be recorded from day to day, and owners are taking their profits while other fields are stagnant. And in places where real estate activity is slow, these values will be there when markets are resumed.

Importance of Gardens

One of the best things this community does is to plant the cultural seed of love for flowers in the minds and hearts of children.

This is done to make their lives to bloom and blossom with happiness, refinement and constructive citizenship. The State Register cannot place too much stress upon the importance of this phase of community development. It means not only a more beautiful but a better city. It means a happier and healthier people and a finer citizenship.—Springfield (Ill.) State Register.

Soybeans Immune

Fortunately the soybean, together with all other legumes, is immune from chinch bug attacks. If land next to bug-infested wheat is not planted it would be well to put in soybeans. The beans likely will be at least as profitable as corn.

While it is profitable and practical to construct a barrier to protect corn and sorghum crops from chinch bugs yet this barrier will require considerable time and some expense.

NEXT IRONTON BILLNational Dramatic Camp Players to Present "The Second Man" on Stay-Over Week Program

Last week the National Dramatic Camp at Ironton staged the difficult play, "Her Sons"—a comedy-drama of selfish mother love. The leading role was taken by Elsie Shields who made this her second appearance of the season at the theatre by the lake. Miss Shields' previous appearance was as the mother in "Summer Resort." She was again in a mother role in "Her Sons" but a far more difficult one.

The story of "Her Sons" deals with the efforts of a mother, blindly selfish and possessive, to retain her nprion-string hold on her two grown sons. One son has met and married a charming scientist. He brings her home. The second, younger son, a doubting Thomas, has become engaged.

The mother tricks the younger son into believing that he does not love the girl. She gets him to jilt her. The older son's wife takes up the sword in defense of the jilted girl. Then she demands a show-down between herself, the mother and the son she married.

The play has a strong story and a stronger moral to point out. We viewed with pleasure the capacity audience of Friday night. Now that the season at Ironton draws near its close people are beginning to make the Ironton playhouse a weekly habit. When strong, well-acted plays such as "Her Sons" are presented, we can heartily recommend a visit to Ironton.

The cast for "Her Sons" was effective, and as we predicted last week, this play was what many theatrical people would call a "natural." In addition to Elsie Shields, who gave a restrained and careful performance as the selfish mother, the remainder of the cast were unusually well-chosen for their respective roles.

Donald Kellogg and Harry Young played the older and younger brothers. Dorothy Fritz gave a remarkable performance as the young wife. Elvera Baker played the part of the jilted girl in grand style and Miss Margaret Coon's brief appearance as the maid was quite satisfactory.

"Baby Daze" Next Week

Be prepared to laugh at impossible freakish situations this week, for the Ironton players are offering a furious, impossible farce called "Baby Daze." This is the first farce they have billed and it is a scream from start to finish. The play concerns the efforts of a doctor to test his Elixir of Youth on an old man. The mistakes that ensue are quite as crazy as are the players and the setting. You will have a delightful and amusing evening at Ironton this week and we urge you to drive out to the theatre by the lake and get a good old fashioned laugh. It's vacation tonic.

Request Week Planned to do "The Second Man"

With the close of "Baby Daze" the Ironton season is really at an end but so many requests have come in for an additional show that the players have decided to stay over one more week and give "The Second Man."

This comedy success of last season has never been presented in the middle west and only through special arrangement with S. N. Behrman, the author, is it to be staged. This is quite a feather in the Ironton's player's cap and it is to be hoped that the many vacationists will avail themselves to the opportunity of seeing this smart sophisticated comedy of wise men and wiser women.

THE PRICE OF BUSINESS SPEED*Banking Institute Speaker Says That Bank Failures Followed Business Failures

CHICAGO, Ill.—Many appear to think that failures occur only to banks, but the complete story of business shows that failures of American banks have followed the failure of business enterprises, and have not been a cause of those failures, Dr. Harold Stoner, National Educational Director of the American Bankers Association, declared in a recent address here before the American Institute of Banking.

"It is true that we have had more failures in our banks than in the banks of a number of other countries," he said. "It is also true that we have had more failures in drug stores, grocery stores, railroads, and in every other type of business enterprise. At the same time, it must be said that we still have left after all our failures, more drug stores, more grocery stores, more railroads, and more banks than any other country."

People do not realize, he said, that we have in excess of 168 banks which have been in existence over a century and we have more than 2,000 banks which have been in existence over 50 years.

"In other words, we have more banks over 100 years of age than any other country—we have more banks over 50 years of age than any country in the world," he declared. "The American banking system has not fallen down—it is not in danger of decay. Such failures as it has experienced are due to the price we pay for too rapid development of business enterprises, but that is the American spirit."

U. S. GOVERNMENT GREATEST BANKER*Runs Fifty-two Financing Institutions With Investment of Two Billion Dollars—Thirty-nine Agricultural

AMERICA'S biggest banker today is the Federal Government, which is now operating fifty-two financing institutions, says Professor John Hanna of Columbia University in the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Forty of these are owned entirely by the Government," he says. "In twelve more the Government has already a two-thirds interest. Thirty-seven are intended to be permanent. Twenty-five of the permanent ones and fourteen of the temporary ones are agricultural."

"The capital stock held by the United States in these banks has a par value of $1,350,000,000. The Government's total investment is nearly $2,000,000,000. Resources of these institutions exceed $3,000,000,000. In addition the Government has detailed supervision over fifty-one mortgage banks, operating under Federal charter."

"The Government also supervises 4,600 local agricultural loan associations with Federal charters. All this takes no account of the relations of the Government to the twelve Federal Reserve banks, nor of the authority recently given to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy preferred stock in national and state commercial banks."

The President has ordered the consolidation of the agricultural credit agencies into the new Farm Credit Administration, says Professor Hanna. He expresses the opinion that before the consolidation of the agricultural financing agencies too much machinery had been created to administer the financing institutions which the Government either owns or supervises.

"Existing institutions represent a considerable differentiation of function and any consolidation should be preceded by a careful survey of the actual activities of the various institutions," he continues. "The only consolidation the Administration has announced is that of the agricultural credit agencies in the Farm Credit Administration. As a permanent solution this arrangement is too closely bound up with politics."

"A better scheme would be to create a finance corporation under Federal charter to take over either the agricultural finance activities of the Government or all its lending agencies."

"The Government's financing and banking activities should be kept severally apart from subsidy and other schemes for raising the prices of farm products. One is business, the other is major political policy. The advantages of the corporation over bureau control for the business functions are real and significant."

Railroad Legislation

A RECENT state legislative bill provided that a track man carrying a bell by day and a lantern by night should lead all railroad trains across grade crossings; that conductors must smile when answering questions; that it would be a misdemeanor to serve eggs more than one day old on Pullman cars; that trains be required to stop at any time when tagged by hitch-hikers, and that trains crossing rivers wider than twenty-five feet be equipped with lifeboats and life preservers. This one did not pass.

MINOR CHANGES IN 1933 HUNTING LAWS

ENTIRE STATE NOW OPEN TO HUNT PRAIRIE CHICKEN

Season, Limits and Fees Remain the Same for Trappers—Water Fowl Regulations the Same

The orders prohibiting deer hunting in seven counties were not renewed; portions of state and national forests were opened to beaver trapping; prairie chicken hunting throughout the state was permitted; and blanket authority was given the director by the conservation commission at its August meeting to have state regulations conform with any federal regulations for the 1933 waterfowl hunting season.

The seven additional counties in which commission orders prohibiting deer hunting expire next November are: Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Gladwin, Arenac, Midland and Bay. In all of these counties the number of deer in good cover, compares favorably with the number in many of the counties which have been open to hunting, the commission declared.

Since only bucks may be killed, legal hunting should not endanger the herds in these counties, the Wilderness Park in Emmet county to the north and closed counties to the southeast are a further safeguard to insure a continuous deer supply in the western portion.

The commission also established a large game refuge on the Molasses river in Gladwin county to insure continuous breeding stock in that area. The refuge would be included within the boundaries of the Ogemaw State Forest. The Gladwin and Midland refuges are in the area which will be opened.

All counties lying south of Township 12 and all of the "thumb" were closed for two years as well as Oceana, Oshtemo, Mecosta, Isabella, Leelanau, Benzie and Grand Traverse counties north of the line, because of the scarcity of deer or because they injoin counties closed to deer hunting by legislative action.

All counties north of the Kalamazoo-Crawford county line except Keweenaw, Houghton, Bureau, Ontonagon and Gogebic counties will be open to beaver trapping next fall. Trapping will also be permitted on all state and national forest areas and the Escanaba river tract, except on refuges where all trapping is prohibited. Season, limits and fees remain as in 1932 except that trappers are granted seven instead of five days after the close of the season for sealing pelts.

Last year the commission prohibited prairie chicken hunting in the two southern tiers of counties in the lower peninsula. Next fall the entire state with no counties excepted will be open for hunting this bird. There will be no change in the length of the season or the bag limit.

No changes were made in the muskrat trapping seasons or regulations for 1933. While most conservation officers, according to the commission, have reported a scarcity of muskrats and a closed season would be justified, the commission voted an open season again because of present economic conditions and the fact that large number of people are partly or entirely dependent for a livelihood on their trapping activities. Mink may be trapped only during the open season for trapping muskrats.

No changes were made in the season of bag limit for ruffed grouse although conservation officers generally have indicated a constant increase in the number of these birds. While no official statement of the federal waterfowl regulations have been received, it is anticipated that comparatively few changes will be made this year.

No Hungarian Partridge hunting will be permitted in Michigan before 1938. The commission, on recommendation of the Game Division extended its closing order on "hunkie" hunting for another five years.

The commission renewed its order prohibiting waterfowl hunting on Houghton and Mackinac lakes after 2 p. m.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45. Wednesday evening at 7:45. Subject, "Man."

Reading room Tuesday and Saturday, 3:30 to 5:00 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend our services and use our reading room. "Christ Jesus" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, August 27.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (1 Cor. 3:11): "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

INDIANS DEFEATED ALL-STARS 7 TO 1

First Game for City Championship Goes to Rosemen

(By Harold Newman)

The first game of the three-game series for the city baseball championship was won by Glen Rose's Indians by the score of 7 to 1. John Colby pitched very effective ball after the first inning and Leo Tokolo's catching was O. K. after the opener. Walker, who led off for the All-Stars, connected with a single and then stole second. Denmy advanced him to third and then he went home on Tokolo's error. After that the All-Stars made no scores, although they loaded the bases twice and had two on one other time. Colby's pitching was one of his best performances and he struck out twelve in six innings.

Denmy pitched just as well as Colby but his support was not so good. Guy John, regular catcher for the All-Stars, was unable to play, and his place was shared by Smith and Cogswell. The catching was the weak spot on the team, and this threw some of the other off their best game. The Indians did not score in either of the first two innings, but they made four runs on two hits in the third, and then three more in the fifth. Mitchell scored twice.

It had been thought the game would be closer than it finally turned out. Some of the best men from the Indians are now playing with the All-Stars, and the All-Stars have more Indians on the team than the Indians have. And from the score of the game, it seems that the Indians did not present exactly the same line-up as they had in their two previous games, as Manager Rose did everything possible to strengthen his team.

The All-Stars have challenged the Indians to a Labor Day game and they will play if suitable arrangements can be made. With more strength behind the bat and at one or two other positions, the All-Stars expect to make a better game of it.

RACCOON HUNTERS GET A FOUR-WEEK SEASON

Opens November 1 in Upper Half of Lower Peninsula

Lower peninsula raccoon hunters will be granted a four weeks' hunting season this year. Director George R. Hogarth of the Department of Conservation has announced action of the commission which granted a two weeks' extension in the season for hunting raccoons and an additional 15 days for trapping raccoons in the northern half of the lower peninsula.

The 1933 raccoon hunting season will extend from November 1 to November 30 in the lower peninsula. North of the north line of Town 16 and west of Saginaw Bay the raccoon trapping season will be November 15 to December 15. South of that line and including the "thumb" the trapping season will be December 1 to December 15, inclusive.

There will be no open raccoon hunting or trapping season in the upper peninsula.

LOCAL GIRL WINS PETOSKEY BEAUTY AWARD

Byrnee Lamphear Selected Out of Field of 12 Last Thursday

Miss Byrnee Lamphear, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lamphear, Mason street, was last Thursday awarded a beautiful silver cup as winner of the beauty contest which featured the Petoskey aquatic day program at Hiawatha Beach on Round lake.

Byrnee added to her honors by handily winning the 75-yard swim in the astonishing time of 51 1-5 seconds, which is within one second of the national record.

Twelve girls participated in the beauty contest, which was based on swimming and diving ability as well as personal appearance. Each of the contestants paraded down the long dock, dived and swam before the judges. The race was close with less than 100 points separating the first three places.

FIRES DESTROY MUCH ISLAND GAME COVER

Hints of Incendiary Origin Made—All Under Control Now

Forest fires which destroyed valuable hardwood timber and considerable game cover on Beaver Island have been brought under control, according to reports received Wednesday morning.

Six bad fires scattered on the north half of the island were noticeable from the mainland Sunday. This number had increased the following day and, due to the suspicious regularity in which fires started upwind at scattered points, hints of incendiary origin were rampant.

Michigan State college, founded in 1857, is the oldest agricultural college in the country.

SET MARKET PRICES FOR CERTAIN SWINE

Michigan Farmers Offered Premium In Try to Improve Future Market

Michigan farmers who have increased the number of hogs in this state 42 per cent while prices were dropping 57 per cent in the period from 1931 to 1933 can get some relief from this trouble by accepting the fixed prices of the government for light pigs and sows due to farrow soon.

The natural inclination of the farmer to increase his production when prices are dropping in order to obtain the amount of money needed to pay taxes, interest, and other expenses finally results in such over-supplies that the market is driven to ruinous levels. This has occurred in the hog market and the government is attempting to remedy the trouble.

This can be done by removing from future supplies pigs not yet ready for market and sows which would produce litters of full pigs. To get these animals out of future markets, the government will pay 9 1/2 cents per pound for pigs weighing 25 to 30 pounds and a price of 6 cents per pound for those weighing 96 to 100 pounds. Each five pound increase in weight from the 30 pound mark cuts the price 25 cents a hundredweight. Pigs over 100 pounds sell at the market price.

Straight cash premiums of $1.00 per head will be paid in addition to the day's market on sows due to farrow within three weeks and weighing not less than 275 pounds. These animals will not be docked the usual 40 pounds per animal so the farmer will actually receive more than the $4.00 extra.

Hogs for which the fixed prices will be paid can be sold just the same as any other animals going to terminal markets. They can be sold to buyers, shipped through cooperative marketing associations, or consigned to commission firms.

Fixed prices on these types of swine will continue until one million sows and four million pigs have been bought or until Oct. 1. Shippers should query their usual market to find if there is a glut of this type of stock which would make it impossible to handle any more for a short time.

Stock sold must be normal and will be inspected by federal inspectors before it is accepted as meeting the fixed prices.

SALES TAX REVENUE HIT THREE MILLION

With July Returns at $2,500,000. Expect That Goal in September

While harassed clerks sought to check and tabulate tardy returns, the July collections of the state sales tax has mounted to the $2,000,000 mark and advanced toward the $2,500,000 estimate made Friday by James E. Morgan, director of the tax board.

As the board's offices completed work Friday night the first month's collection reports had reached $1,960,000 with more than 2,500 returns yet to be examined and with that list being added to steadily by delinquent filers.

"There is no doubt but that the $2,500,000 mark will be reached for July," Morgan predicted, "and you can count on at least $3,000,000 a month thereafter."

State officials, from Governor Comstock down, breathed more freely as their most optimistic hopes of what the returns would amount to were reached. With the success of the new levy, much of the demand for a supplemental revenue measure to be imposed at next spring's special session of the legislature is diminishing.

A monthly collection of even $3,000,000 would mean an annual tax of $36,000,000, which is $4,000,000 more than what was appropriated by the legislature out of the fund.

SPRAGUE FAVORS A. & P. IN BEER CASE RULING

In a notable decision affecting local option powers of local governing bodies, Circuit Judge Victor D. Sprague ruled Saturday that the St. Ignace city council was without right in rejecting the application of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. to sell beer in its St. Ignace store. The St. Ignace council opposed the application because it feared the store would cut the price of beer and undersell the other stores.

LOCAL SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 18

SCHOOL BOARD DECIDES DATE TUESDAY NIGHT

Financial Situation Is Still Very Uncertain—Parochial Schools Open Monday, Sept. 11

Charlevoix public schools will open Monday, September 18th, for the 1933-34 term. This announcement was made Wednesday morning by Supt. O. P. North, following a meeting the previous evening of the board of education, at which the date was decided.

While Tuesday night's action has definitely set the beginning of the term and put to rest the uncertainty in the minds of school patrons on this important matter, it has not ended the stress of financial difficulties which beset the school board. In fact, the financial status at the present time does not warrant the action taken.

Several factors, however, led to the decision. In view of the possibility schools may not be operated the entire term, it was deemed best to open them during the fall months, and then, if necessary, close during mid-winter to save fuel, lights and operating expenses. If funds are later available, it might be possible to continue again in the spring. There is a bare possibility that schools may be operated the full term. Another deciding factor was the excellent cooperation offered by the teaching staff, whom, without exception, have volunteered to begin their duties at once and take their chances with the board of education on finances.

Many curtailments are being made to cut expenses and this effort is reflected in the fact the tentative budget calls for an expenditure of only $37,000 as compared with $69,000 last year. As previously announced, the domestic science, music and physical education departments are being eliminated, ungraded room and county normal discontinued. Small charges will be made for course requiring equipment, age limit of beginners set at five years, number of points for graduation decreased, certain subjects taken from the list required for graduation, and hours of classes reduced.

The school board Tuesday evening set the tuition for students outside the district at $25 per semester in advance. Post graduate students will be required to pay a tuition charge of $2.50 per semester for each course. Gymnasium rental was set at $10 per night to all users and $1 per night for rehearsals. These charges are made to cover lights and heat, which the board feels they are no longer able to assume.

Further announcements as to the time for registration and classification of pupils will be announced as soon as information is available.

Charlevoix parochial schools will open Monday, September 11th, one week earlier than the public schools. The enrollment is expected to be around 65, slightly in excess of the previous year.

Federal approval has been given 113 highway projects which will be constructed in Michigan out of the $12,736,000 allocation of public recovery funds for highway purposes in the state, the state highway department announced Saturday.

Forty-nine of the projects will be secondary or feeder roads. It is estimated that they will cost $1,885,000. Sixty-four projects are within municipalities and will cost approximately $1,905,000.

The projects include improvements on the swing bridge across the channel between Round Lake and Lake Michigan on U. S. 31. The allotment for this purpose is $6,000.00.

BEAVER ISLAND FIRES ARE UNDER CONTROL

County Fortune While State Faces Worst Situation in 25 Years

While practically every up-state county is fighting forest fires which have brought destruction to thousands of acres of timber, timely showers early Wednesday morning provided relief to this district.

Information from the district fire headquarters at Boyne City revealed Tuesday that this county had but two fires, those at Beaver Island and another in Bear Creek swamp east of Walloon Lake village.

Conservation Officer C. W. Bonney, who has taken charge of the situation at Beaver Island, reported in a letter received here Wednesday that damage was confined mostly to grazing lands and marshes. He stated all fires under control and no new blazes had been reported since his arrival.

Charlevoix county appears fortunate, however, for the fire situation in other lower peninsula and many upper peninsula counties was the most grave in 25 years.

TO URGE LIMITS ON DEER SEASON

HOGARTH WILL ASK COMMISSION TO CLOSE BEAVERS

Investigation Proves Deer Not Numerous Enough to Hunt—Will Establish Several Refuges

Director of conservation George R. Hogarth will recommend to the commission at its next meeting that part of Midland county be closed to deer hunting because of the danger incident to the oil and gas development, he said today.

Hogarth will ask the commission to close by order under the discretionary power act all that part of the county west of M30 and south-west of US10.

"At our recent commission meeting we did not take into consideration the great danger of hunters roaming around the oil fields of Midland county," Hogarth says. "It would be too great a hazard to life and property if steps were not taken to keep hunters out of that territory."

Hogarth also will recommend that the commission issue an order closing the Beaver Island group in Lake Michigan to deer hunting. The Beavers are part of Charlevoix county, which the commission recently decided should be opened to deer hunting this fall. Further investigation has shown that the deer herd on Beaver, Garden and other large islands of this group is not yet sufficiently large to warrant an open season, the director says, and accordingly he will ask the commission to clamp the lid down.

Opening the deer season this fall in three northwestern counties, Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim, has brought many protests from that section of the state. From the section comprising Arenac, Gladwin, Midland and Bay counties in northeastern Michigan complaints also are coming to the department.

Says Deer Plentiful

These counties have been closed for several years under the discretionary power act. The orders closing them expire this year and the commission at its August meeting did not act to renew the orders.

In a reply to those complaints coming from northwestern Michigan the department contends the deer herds are sufficiently large to permit hunting and the deer census indicates stock that compares favorably with the population in northeastern Michigan, which has carried the heavy concentration of deer hunters for many years.

Use of the discretionary power act to restrict hunting is limited to occasions when the game actually is in danger, of extermination or serious depletion, the commission points out. These conditions do not now obtain in the seven counties.

The commission adds it seems much more appropriate to use the deer while they are available than to permit them to increase to a point where they overabound the winter yards or become subject to serious epidemics which threaten the existence of the herds.

Considering the situation from all angles, department officials feel certain it was not the best policy to renew the closing orders which expire this fall.

DRAMA CAMP PLAYERS EXTENDING REPERTORY

Many Outside Engagements Attest Popularity of Productions

The National Dramatic Camp officially closed its summer season of repertory plays last week with the screamingly funny farce "Baby Daze." However because of the great interest in the productions this summer, and because of the prolonged resort season, the company will produce by special permission of the author, S. N. Behrman, "The Second Man" on the regular nights of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 6, 7 and 8.

Another indication of the great popularity of the players is evidenced by the number of outside engagements that they have given under various local auspices. They will remain in camp until September 14 as they are to produce "The Silver Cord" by Sidney Howard on September 12 for the benefit of the hospital in Charlevoix, and on September 13 under the auspices of the Federation of Women's Clubs in Petoskey.

PROBATE JUDGES IN CONVENTION HERE

37TH ANNUAL MEETING AT BELVEDERE HOTEL

Forty-Six Michigan Counties Represented at Instructive Meeting—Adjourn Thursday

With forty-six members from as many counties in attendance, the Association of Probate Judges of Michigan convened for their 37th annual convention at the Belvedere hotel, Tuesday. The meeting comes to a close Thursday with the final business sessions and election of officers.

Tuesday morning was devoted to registration and assignments and the afternoon to reports of officers, motions, petitions and other business. Addresses on subjects instructive to the members were given by Judge John L. Hollander, Kalamazoo; Judge Henry S. Hulbert, Detroit, and Judge Wm. E. Rasmussen of Stanton. At the evening session an official welcome to Charlevoix was extended by Rev. G. E. Parker, and for the county by J. M. Harris of Boyne City. Response was given by Judge Ruth Thompson of Muskegon. An informal discussion closed the day's program.

At the Wednesday morning meeting, the visiting judges were addressed by Judge Ralph E. Hughes, assistant attorney general, Lansing, and Judge Willis L. Lyons of Howell. The former confined his subject to new legislative acts effecting Michigan probate courts, and Judge Lyons explained recent Supreme court decisions touching the work and proceedings of probate courts. A discussion led by Judge Henry S. Hulbert of Detroit, closed the morning session.

A question box, one of the highly instructive features of the convention, occupied the early hours of the afternoon, led by Judge John L. Hollander. A boat ride on Lake Michigan.

McMILLAN FAMILY IN JURED IN PLANE CRASH

Five Members of Local Physician's Family in Chicago Hosiotal

A visit to the World Fair in Chicago ended Saturday afternoon with the serious injury and near escape from death for the entire family of Dr. F. F. McMillan, well known local physician.

As a climax to their vacation trip, Dr. McMillan, his wife and three children, Freida, Lila and Albert, had chartered a plane for an hour's ride. Just as the plane was about to land at Palwaukee airport, Evanston, it was buffeted by a cross wind, swung half around into a tree and "pancaked" to the ground.

While it has been difficult to obtain details as to the injuries of the party, early reports stated Dr. McMillan suffered a broken shoulder and severe bruises. Mrs. McMillan similar injuries, and Lila a fractured skull. Her condition still remains serious at Presbyterian hospital, Chicago, where they were taken following the mishap. Freida and Albert received severe cuts and bruises.

An Associated Press dispatch Wednesday stated all were improving, although it will be several weeks before they may be removed from the hospital.

5TH ANNUAL PICNIC A GREAT SUCCESS

FOUR THOUSAND AT WHITING PARK MONDAY

Ideal Weather and Varied Entertainment Features Combine to Make Event Ideal

(By B. C. Mellencamp)

With weather 100 per cent perfect and everyone seemingly enjoying themselves the 11th annual picnic proved to be one of the most successful ever conducted. By 3:00 it just seemed that the entire grounds were packed with pleasure seeking people from all sections of the county.

On the east side of the field the three American Legion posts were doing a big business satisfying the thirst and hunger of hundreds. At the same time, on the west end of the field, the two baseball games attracted their share of attention. On the north side the boxing program attracted a still larger number and not to be outdone the lake front and woods immediately back were patronized all through the afternoon.

Promptly at 1:00 the sports started. This included running races for the youngsters from 6 to 20, both girls and boys. The tug of war between the city and country was won by the city who made up their lack of size by brute strength. The first baseball game between Barnard and Peninsula Grange teams was won handily by Barnard who whitewashed their opponents 13 to 0. The second game between Maple Grove and Ironton was hotly contested. After going into the seventh inning three runs behind, the Maple Grove aggregation shoved over three runs and tied up the score. At the end of the eighth inning each team made one run and going into the ninth, after two were down, Ironton pushed in three runs which could not be over-come by Maple Grove. The score was 11 to 9 in favor of Ironton.

While the boxing program had to be completely changed owing to the fact that the conservation camp boys had to fight fire and couldn't come, nevertheless, local boys did their stuff to the pleasure of the huge attendance. When it was known that the conservation boys couldn't come, many of the scheduled boxers failed to appear which made it necessary to use local talent entirely.

The Little German Band from East Jordan certainly added the comedy touch that was necessary to make it a real day. Although arriving somewhat late, they immediately got into action and did their share.

Many people said they thought this was the largest picnic ever held. It is hard to estimate the number of families that brought their lunches, but every available place was used. This is about the only time in the entire year that everyone in the county may enjoy themselves together without expense and judging from the favorable comments heard on all sides, it would seem that this annual picnic is an occasion that should be continued from year to year.

FARMERS AND MANUFACTURERS WIN EXEMPTION

Newest Ruling Taken After Urgent Request by Sec. of State

The state board of tax administration has completely reversed itself and exempted manufacturers, farmers and other producers from paying the three per cent sales tax on materials purchased for use in any product which may ultimately be sold at retail.

By unanimous vote, the four members of the board late Wednesday rescinded their action of three weeks ago when they demanded strict enforcement of the sales tax act. The resolution applies primarily to industrialists and agricultural interests.

* MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS *

The automobile business in Michigan showed a 62 per cent increase for the last two weeks of August over the corresponding period in 1932.

For the two-week period ending August 26, 1933, a total of 23,588 automobiles were sold, according to Department of State records. Of this number, 4,485 were new cars. For the same period in 1932, 14,542 car sales were reported of which 2,509 were new automobiles.

Local acts passed by the 1933 legislature will not be printed separately but will be included in the Public Acts of 1933. In previous years the acts adopted by the legislatures have been published in two volumes. The Department of State will save approximately $3,000 in binding and distribution costs because of the consolidation. The Public Acts of 1933 will be ready for distribution about October 1. Only six local acts were adopted this year.

More than 300,000 Michigan motorists have been enabled to use their automobiles the entire year of 1933 by the law which permitted the use of 1932 license plates until August 1 when accompanied by a windshield half-price permit. This law was adopted by the 1933 legislature upon recommendation of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald.

Slightly more than 415,000 windshield permits were issued and department records to date show that over 300,000 motorists who used the stickers have now purchased 1933 license plates.

Written leases are to be demanded by the Department of State in all cases where "governmental" license plates are issued for privately-owned automobiles. These plates are issued upon application of county, township and municipal authorities but investment

Odd Things Happening in This World of Ours

These are the unappealing times. They tell us the country has had hard sledding before. But you can't find anybody who went through other tough periods pushing the depression out of which we are now emerging. If slowly.

Many are in a state of mind to sympathize with R. H. L. of the Chicago Tribune, who has been shell-shocked and topsy-turvy by the dynamic revelation that kept us upst. Note this catastrophe uttering:

"The sky has fallen! The world is crumbling under our feet since we have discovered that some of the wealthiest men in the country have not been paying their income taxes. Right now we are simply dazed! Does two and two make four? We don't know. Is the Atlantic ocean on the east of the United States and the Pacific on the west? We've no idea. Is this the year 1933? We doubt it. What are the names of the 12 months? Never heard of 'em."

The man has echoed the astonishment of many. Who is sure of himself? While nature seems to be functioning in true response to the season, startling things may be happening to the human. Men thought to be wealthy are in the lower brackets with the man who has a wife and seven little exemptions. —Tolito Blade.

ADVERTISING PRINTING

WHILE few roadside or farm markets do enough business to warrant continued advertising unless it be small classified space, the value of advertising printing as a follow-up to newspaper publicity should not be overlooked.

Cards, folders, dodgers, blotters, labels, stickers, food charts, recipes and other such material tie in very well with newspaper advertising, to say nothing of helping to make new customers which come from the recommendation of satisfied buyers.

The kind of printed material to use depends upon the market, what is sold and where it is located. In the past few years operators of roadside and farm markets which are off the main highway or a bit difficult to find, are including maps in their printing and advertising to guide prospective customers.

Recipes are well liked; in fact, directions on cooking will help sales, especially of new crops. When broccoli first made its appearance on the roadside market, which we patronize, my wife didn't know how to cook it. The farmer told her. And Italian squash makes a delicious dish when stuffed with meat. It, too, was prepared according to the advice of the vegetable grower. A poultry farmer who sells dressed chicken direct wishes he could obtain recipes which would guide his customers. He advocates different weights and ages for certain purposes—than is, roasting, stewing, etc., but when housewives do not follow directions and don't get the desired results, they often blame the chicken.

One of the best pieces of printed advertising I have seen is a so-called health chart. It was used by roadside market owners in Cook county, Illinois. The heading: "For Those Who Are Healthy and Those Who Would Like to Be." The chart, made up of three columns, listed the minerals and vitamins essential to body health, told their effect on the system, and then listed the fruits, vegetables, eggs, nuts and other farm produce in which they were contained.

The chart attracted an unusual amount of interest. Doctors commented upon it as being a fine thing to place in the hands of consumers. Not one piece of this literature, which was available in racks hung in front of the markets, was thrown away after first glance.

In Essex county, New Jersey, where roadside markets are grouped in an association, County Agent H. A. Harman helped the farmers draw up a series of four advertising cards. On the front side of each card, which measured 3 1/4 by 5 1/4 inches, was a picture of the association sign or emblem which was on display before all member markets. "Fresh Farm Products," in large heavy type, was the display line on the first card. The second line said "Quality Goods—Honesty Backed." Below was sufficient room to stamp in the name and address of each member. On the reverse side was a little history of the organization telling what it meant to both consumer and farmer, alike.

All of the four cards were seasonal. The second card had "Fresh Vegetables" in large letters on the front side, with recipes for canning tomato juice, making tomato cocktail, stuffed tomatoes, stuffed tomato salad and some information on home canning in general. No. 3 card stressed sweet corn, with recipes and the value of fresh eggs produced by chickens fed balanced rations of feeds rich in vitamins and minerals, and their value in feeding babies and adults as well, was stressed. Recipes on various egg dishes fill the back side of the card.

The cards did a fine job of advertising, said County Agent Harman. "They carried the message of the association and have made customers for the roadside markets displaying the association sign. It was nothing unusual for customers to ask for several of each card. Presumably they keep a set for reference and pass out the others to friends and neighbors."

Printed paper bags are now regarded as fine advertising—and cheap, too, since the printing costs little extra if done at the time the sacks are ordered. John Haley of Centre Groton, Conn., relates the story of a woman telling her friend that she had been in the country, buying vegetables from a farmer, only to have the friend declare she bought from a dealer, pointing out that producer-owned roadside markets in that section used bags on which their names and addresses were printed.

Package inserts are good advertising, especially if they carry messages on future crops. Tapes of new machinery or equipment which produce better fruits or vegetables, aid in making for better quality or cheaper production. The more honest and friendly these messages, the better. Customers realize you are a farmer and not a trained advertising writer. A good example of a package insert is that used by F. H. Dolman, Ohio fruit grower. It says:

FOR 50 CENTS I'll sell you a box of apples. Not the fancy grade. Not the choice, but The best apple on the Ridge for the money.

Life's Plan Not Based on Speed

Each Forward Step Taken Means an Improvement Achieved.

A lesson for those who may be discouraged by the seeming slowness made in the advancement of the world is contained in the following pertinent observations by a noted American woman writer:

"Nine thousand miles a minute. That's the speed the earth is making. Nine thousand miles a minute, scientists tell us now, around the center of its star system."

"Were you overcome when they told you about the air races, where they tried to push past the mark of 300 miles an hour? Compared to 9000 miles a minute that doesn't look so big."

"There are two ways of looking at that. One woman I know would say, 'What's the use? Why put ourselves out—whatever we can achieve is nothing—we may as well take it easy. Silly, those humans, scurrying around like hysterical ants intent each other to something, tearing themselves to pieces, breaking their hearts to achieve something here, improve something there. If you want to know what it all amounts to, just think of those racers breaking their necks to top the record by another mile, when the earth saunters around with no trouble at all at 9000 miles to the minute!'"

"Then there is the woman I know who would smile wisely and say, 'If all men and women had felt that way about it we should still be wearing skins and hunting our food with stones and clubs. The difference between life as it is today and the most primitive existence lies in the countless and almost imperceptible improvements attained at great cost, one after another, by brave and countless men and women who had their eyes on a goal and did not stop until they got there. It is not the isolated gain here or there, but the measure of the whole picture which gives us true perspective in the matter."

"For my part, I am inclined to agree with the woman who says, 'What's the use?'—as far as those are concerned whose life is one of restrained rush, who are in such a hurry to get somewhere that they miss everything that is worth while along the way, who are so intent on success that life passes them by. However, it is not what they are after that is foolish, but the way they are going after it."

"For, as our second friend says, an achievement, no improvement, no forward step is to be despised. That our mile of improvement over the last best record may be more important in the scheme of things than the nine thousand a minute which the earth tosses off with no trouble at all. For it signifies progress, a step forward. And when the efforts of man have had as much time as this old world of ours has had for experiment, who knows how contemptuously we may look upon that record of our universe which now points so proudly to nine thousand trips a minute?"

Originals Long Gone

The American Bible Society knows of no original texts of the Bible. The oldest manuscript of the New Testament dates from the fourth century and, except for a few earlier scraps, the oldest Old Testament manuscripts of the ninth century. These are, of course, copies of copies.

A BIT THICK

The manager of the big business firm stormed into his head clerk's office and bawled a list angrily on his desk.

"Smithers," he cried ominously, "this is outrageous. I distinctly told you you could only take seven clear days' holiday, and here you have at last put in an appearance on the eleventh day. What is the meaning of it?"

"Oh, yes, sir," said Smithers, coolly enough. "I have an explanation. Three of them were foggy." —London Answers.

Want You To Try This Laundry Miracle Next Time You Wash. They Are Offering $10,000 In Cash Simply To Acquaint More Women With A Way To Get Snowy-White Wash Without Boiling or Scrubbing—To Stop Wash-Tub Fade—To Cut Washing Time In Half—To Get Bland, Mild Suds That Are Gentle To Hands

Contest Closes Sept. 9th, 1933. 488 Cash Prizes To Be Awarded For Answering One Simple Question—Read Details Below

WOULD you like to get a check for enough money to put your child through school to earn the loan on your home, to pay for vacation in Europe, or—just to spend for something you've always wanted but felt you couldn't afford?

Then—just write a phrase of a few words giving your opinion of Oxydol soap. You may win a thousand dollars cash, or, if not that, one of 487 other cash prizes.

Here's a description of Oxydol which may help you a lot in working out a phrase. Study it. Then write us a phrase telling in your own words why Oxydol is better for washing clothes than any other soap.

What Oxydol Is

Oxydol is a new-type granulated soap. The latest scientific discovery of Procter & Gamble experts. A discovery that gives sparkling white wash every time—that stops wash-tub fading—cuts washing time in half—and gives bland, mild suds that are gentle to your hands. This is how it acts.

It takes the harshness out of so-called "hard" water; the hardness that makes boiling, extra rubbing and strong soap necessary to get things white and clean.

Then, due to bland, cleansing qualities available in no other soap, flake or powder made, Oxydol dissolves all dirt and grime; breaks it up, looses it, and "suds" it away with rich, creamy suds that last throughout washing time.

Thus you do your wash in water soft and gentle as rain-water. With a bland, mild cleanser. Not with skin eating, harsh, strong soap. With gentle, long-lasting suds that remove grease, dirt and grime. It's made by the makers of Ivory Soap, so you know it's kind to hands. You cut washing time, too—either on board or in washing machine—50% or more.

Consider what this means in saving rubbing and scrubbing, in saving your hands, in saving fine fabrics from soap fade and ruin.

Rules Of The Contest

Nothing could be simpler or easier than this Oxydol Soap Contest. This is all you do.

DON'T THINK YOU CAN'T WIN!

Nearly all the people who ever won the big prizes in a contest of this sort usually started out by believing they didn't have a chance. Then all of a sudden were amazed and surprised when they did.

For instance, a big magazine contest for a name was won by a housewife in a small town outside of Chicago.

The Coca-Cola $10,000 prize was won by a stenographer of Anderson, Indiana. The Liberty Magazine $20,000 contest for a name was won by a commercial artist in Youngstown, Ohio.

You have as big a chance as anyone else to win one of these prizes. Read the description of Oxydol on this page, then get a box top or leaflet—then write anything that comes to your mind about how it's better for washing clothes, and mail your suggestion in. You may win!

HERE ARE EXAMPLES OF WHAT'S WANTED

Use These Phrases As Your Guide. We Want Them Just As Simple As These—Phrases Like Any School Child Can Write. Yet A Few Words Just As Simple Will Win The Grand Prize In This Contest.

- "I never scrub or boil clothes any more. Oxydol dissolves all the dirt out for me."
- "Neighbors envy the way my wash always comes out sweet and clean. Thine would, too, if they used Oxydol."
- "My clothes need lots of rich, lasting suds in this hard water and Oxydol makes them quicker than any other soap."
- "I always wondered how my neighbor got her clothes sparkling white—until Oxydol made mine the whitest line in town."
- "Oxydol goes so far in this hard water. Less than half a box does for my 100 piece washing and I don't need a softener."
- "I'm so glad I changed to Oxydol. My washing's through hours earlier and my hands stay soft and smooth—they've lost that red, swollen wash-day look."

this box top. (If you can't easily obtain Oxydol, a reasonably exact facsimile of the box top will do. You don't have to buy to enter this contest.)

Then write, in your own words, your answer to the question: "If I am Oxydol better than any other soap for washing clothes?"

Send your letter, and the box top or facsimile with your own and your grocer's name and address written on it, to Oxydol, Post Office Box No. 1801, Cincinnati, Ohio. Send it as soon as you can—this contest closes at midnight, September 9th.

Enter Contest Now—Wash With Oxydol

Enter this $10,000 contest now. Remember, a housewife who knows wash day work and good washing results is the one who will win. So only women and college professors won't know how. A phrase written in left hand on toilet paper is just as good as one that's typewritten or on dollar stationery. So write without delay. You may win $10,000 in cash. Or—one of 487 other cash prizes.

And—your friend in Oxydol a far easier, far safer and far surer way of getting perfect laundry results. Its sudsing action in any kind of water, hard or soft, will amaze you. And when your wash is on the line and you see how fresh and white it looks, that alone will make you feel it's worth while asking for Oxydol every time. J. A. S.

GROUNDLESS FEARS

The president of the American Bar association, speaking before the annual convention of that body at Grand Rapids, expressed the dire prediction that the United States was hurtling towards social democracy.

The National Recovery Act, the government's fight against crime, child labor emancipation, which was characterized as communistic, and other usurpation of state's rights were pointed out by the speaker as marking the rapid decline of a Republican form of Government in this country.

We are not inclined to view the situation thus far with much alarm. It is true that many powers formerly exercised by the states have been turned over to Washington, but not irrevocably so. They can be recalled at any time the emergency which caused them to be delegated has passed.

If freeing children from the soul-destroying system of enforced labor is communism, then we should have had that brand of communism a long time ago. If the government's fight against crime is an abridgement of state's rights, it can be remedied the moment each state shows its ability to cope with its local crime situation.

If the powers given Washington by the Trade Recovery Act is indicative of social democracy, it is at least better for the people than the "do nothing" policy which preceded it. America today at the crossroads is meeting its problems courageously. And it will be a wise government at Washington that returns these powers to the people once the need for centralization of government ceases to exist. We had our choice between economic and financial ruin, the rule of the racketeer, the ignominy of child labor, or happiness and prosperity, a crime-controlled nation and the emancipation of the young. Happily we have chosen the latter.

OUR GREATEST NEED

The old cry of less cost in government still continues. We hear many political promises to bring this about but none of them are ever fulfilled. When will public conscience be aroused to the extent of demanding drastic reforms in the archaic system of local government from which the taxpaying public has long suffered? Until this happens we cannot hope for any permanent relief.

President Roosevelt wisely pointed out in his speech to the home folks that cost of government is largely a local problem, although nationwide in scope, but that "some day the people will do something about it." We are now thirteen times nearer any given point than we were at the beginning of the nineteenth century. Without destroying a single bit of efficiency in government it is possible to reduce by half all existing county and township governmental units, and in countless other ways eliminate overlapping and useless units that now have the power to levy taxes in some form. The political party that first has courage to insist these pressing reforms be made will continue long in public confidence.

BEING SENSIBLE

It is the desire of every patriotic citizen to see the National Recovery program succeed. Through it the nation hopes to find its way to new higher levels of both life and living. Already the movement has been welcomed with fervent enthusiasm by fair-minded people everywhere. We have been told that "this is a war in which we are engaged," and we have met the challenge with typical solidarity in the crisis. But in our enthusiasm we must guard against recurrence of "war hysteria" whose cruel and unjust manifestations remain an unpleasant memory to those who lived through the days when America was really at war. This is to be no campaign of intimidation. Let us remember that common sense and good humor will help us to avoid most of the bad effects of the wrong kind of enthusiasm. There is no reason why intelligence should be divorced from enthusiasm, or why, in the face of a common danger, we should turn upon each other and permit rumor and intimidation and unfair pressure to replace the confidence and goodwill without which it is impossible to build a successful community life.

FARMER MUST SHARE

That the recovery program depends upon agricultural rehabilitation is abundantly clear, for the farmer stands in the key position of the entire attempt to bring about better economic conditions. If the effort of the government to establish a balance between the consumption and production of farm products succeeds, and the farmer's buying power is thereby advanced, the success of the recovery program will be enhanced. This means that the prices of farm products must be raised promptly. Unless they are, there is no hope for recovery in the agricultural regions, nor, indeed, in the whole country.

CHattel Loans Available THRU DISCOUNT CHANNELS

Very few instances have occurred in which farmers have sought credit through mortgages upon livestock, crops or farm machinery through the Federal Land Bank system. While the new law permits such loans to be made from the commissioner's fund, this is done only in cases where the land is not sufficient security for the loan needed, and hence the additional chattel security is pledged. However, farmers may make loans based upon their growing crops, feed on hand, livestock, or equipment through the Agricultural Credit Corporations, or through livestock loan companies or other channels, which in turn may discount these notes and mortgages through the Intermediate Credit banks, which are part of the Farm Credit Administration.

HOG CHOLERA IS PREVALENT IN STATE, REPORT

Swine Owners Warned to Prevent Spread of Disease

During the last few weeks, reports reaching the Michigan state department of agriculture indicate a widespread prevalence of hog cholera throughout the state. A large number of the outbreaks have been traced to the feeding of garbage and meat market waste to unvaccinated hogs. This is a dangerous practice, not only endangering the life of the swine to which the garbage is fed, but, in event of an outbreak of hog cholera, endangering the life of hogs belonging to various owners in the surrounding farm area.

When an outbreak of cholera occurs in a community, swine owners in the near vicinity can protect their herds by proper vaccination; but in event that disease appears in a swine herd before vaccination, it is at least advisable to immediately consult a qualified veterinarian. Delay is dangerous!

Sean and Lake Charlevoix on the Marold II was an enjoyable afternoon feature.

The annual banquet was an event of Wednesday evening. The banquet dinner was typical of the excellent cuisine of the Belvedere hotel, and Ralph J. Hyde, ex-judge of Midland county, presided as toastmaster in a humorous and very efficient manner. Rev. G. R. Parker gave the invocation and during the course of the dinner several delightful entertainment numbers were presented. Mrs. Helen Boehmer, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. H. White of Boyne City, gave two vocal selections. Miss Jane Roemer, Belvedere Club summer cottager, favored with a solo. Two exquisite dance numbers were given by the Misses Jane and Irene Bugai of East Jordan, pupils of the Calla Travis dancing school.

Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien of Lansing, gave the address of the evening. His speech, which traced the progress of the United States constitution from its origin, closed with a rousing support of the Democratic administration's "new deal" and more particularly President Roosevelt's National Recovery act. Terming it a measure which will "re-make the face of America," Mr. O'Brien stated we are now on the verge of a planned existence—one which is designed for collective effort to restore prosperity to our country. "Selfish motives and individual effort to the detriment of the people as a whole must be abandoned if we are to survive," he stated. His address left little doubt in the minds of his listeners regarding the intent and purpose of the "new deal." It is with regret we are not able to publish in its entirety his very excellent address.

The banquet came to a close with presentation of a gold pin to the retiring president, Judge Wm. E. Smith of Eagle River.

The convention, termed one of the most instructive in years, will come to a close with the final business session and election of officers Thursday.

"LET US PRAY"

The Alabama Baptist prints the following anecdote, and basing our opinion on conditions locally, it must be true:

A preacher at the close of one of his sermons said: "Let all in the house who are paying their debts stand up." Instantly every man, woman, child, with one exception, rose to their feet.

The preacher seated them, and said: "Now every man not paying his debts stand up." The exception noted, a careworn, hungry looking individual, clothed in a last summer's suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position.

"How is it, my friend," asked the minister, "that you are the only man not to meet his obligation?"

"I run a newspaper," he meekly answered, "and the brethren who stood up are my subscribers, and—" "Let us pray," exclaimed the minister.

Men Liked Jean

By COSMO HAMILTON

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

MEN invariably turned to look at Jean Moffet as they passed through the big outer office to the partitioned rooms of the various executives. Jean was, indeed, an altogether delightful bit of scenery.

Today, as her fingers rattled over the typewriter keys, her eyes constantly sought the clock. She wanted to be sure of finishing her work early; Bud Randall had phoned and asked her to meet him for lunch.

As they smoked over their coffee Bud became oddly silent and fidgety. Jean wondered, "How's the bond business?" she asked. "Been selling any lately?"

"A few," he answered. "But let's not talk about that. Listen, honey. I've got a swell idea—about us. I'm crazy about you, Jean, and you—like me, don't you?"

"You know I do, Bud." "Well, look here," Bud went on, leaning across the table, "we're both free till Monday morning, so what if you say we push off somewhere for the week-end?"

A puzzled expression came over Jean's pretty face. "Don't look shocked," Bud said. "We're both of us old enough to do what we want to."

It was like a slap in the face to Jean. At length she said, "Let me get this straight. You're not asking me to sneek off with you like some cheap little cunnie, are you?"

"Why put it like that, Jean? There's nothing cheap about it. We'd register as Mr. and Mrs. Something or other. Lots of people get away with it—why shouldn't we?"

"Because I'm not that kind. And please don't say another word about it." Bud rubbed out his cigarette and spoke again. "I suppose you don't like me enough," he said. "That's about the size of it."

"Don't be silly, Bud. I like you an awful lot and you know it, but I couldn't fall for that. Think how badly I'd feel about it afterwards! My self-respect would drop to zero and stay there."

"For Pete's sake!" Bud exclaimed. "That's the honey they put in books but I never thought anyone took it seriously."

"Is that how you look at it?" Jean asked. "Sure! Why not?"

"All right," Jean picked up her handbag and rose. "That washes us up." She walked away.

Sunday seemed interminable. On Monday morning the streams of hurrying people on the streets restored Jean almost to normal optimism. It was time to get to the office and hear the noisy chatter of the girls and to receive Mr. Roper's friendly smile as he went past her desk to his office. Jean was Mr. Roper's secretary.

As the weeks went by Jean grew to hate leaving the office at night and to lug back to her room. A bright moment in the monotony of her existence came when Mr. Roper invited her to a theater. She splurged herself to a new dress. It was a great evening.

It rather surprised her when, having taken dictation for an hour two days later, Mr. Roper said, "Oh, Jean, I've got tickets for the horse show tonight—it's the big jumping night. If you're doing nothing else I thought you might care to come with me?"

"I'd adore it," she said. They dined leisurely, then went on and joined the throng of well-dressed people watching splendid horseless in action. Jean was thrilled.

"By the way, Jean," said Roper during the lull in the performance. "I told my Jap to fix us a bite of supper. Would you mind coming back to my apartment—for a few minutes?"

The sparkle died out of Jean's eyes. "What for?" she asked. "Just to talk about something—and have a drink and a bit of food."

"Oh, all right," Jean said after a moment, and looked toward the arena again. But she was seeing nothing there; she was thinking bitterly.

As they stepped into the apartment she caught sight of a table set for two. There were orchids on it, and the gold top of a champagne bottle protruded from a silver bucket. She'd seen that sort of thing in the movies.

Roper took her wrap. They sat down, both ill at ease, and drank the wine while pretending to eat.

Suddenly a violent desire to get out of that place came over Jean. "I must go now," she said.

"Oh, not yet," Roper protested. "I got you to come here for a special purpose—it was the only spot I could think of where we'd be quite alone."

"Well—what is it?" Jean asked wearily. "I wanted to ask you to—marry me."

Jean looked at him with wide surprised eyes. "I'm desperately in love with you, Jean," he went on.

Jean continued to look at him without speaking. "What is it, Jean?" he asked. "Don't you like me?"

Tears came to Jean's eyes and her mouth quivered. Jack Roper took her in his arms and kissed her very tenderly.

"But why the tears just now, sweet-heart?" he asked a few moments later. "Oh, I don't know, dear," she said, smiling and taking his face between her hands. "Women cry about queer things sometimes. You'll learn that."

Ocean Encroaching on "Tight Little Island"

England is gradually sinking into the sea, according to a recently published government "Blue Paper." But keep your seats, please—the rate of the subsidence is estimated at nine inches per hundred years? According to the report, Felixstowe—on the east coast—is suffering from "that sinking feeling." It has sunk nearly two inches in the past fifteen years.

The Bank of England, in the heart of the metropolis, is over six inches lower than in 1850. St. Paul's cathedral, on the other hand, has dropped only three inches in the same period.

That there is a definite movement of the land in relation to the movements of the tide has now been confirmed. A seismograph in the county hall, Westminster, displayed a movement of the building corresponding with high and low tides. Observation on Waterloo bridge revealed that the weight of the water caused the structure to sink at high tide and rise again at low tide. Railway and other tunnels which run beneath the Thames have been found to change their shape at high tide. The circular tunnels are slightly flattened, but return to their normal shape as the tide recedes. —Montreal Herald.

A Mother's Love

A mother's love is indeed the golden link that binds you to age; and he is still but a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek or silvered his brow, who can yet recall with a softened heart the fond devotion of the gentle childhood of the best friend that God ever gave us.—Bovee.

My husband is a steam fitter and I am sure you know what that means when it comes to laundry work. Besides, I have two youngsters. My clothes aren't soiled — but dirty! EASIER washdays—cleaner, whiter clothes—that's what Fels-Naptha Soap can mean to you, too. It brings you extra help—good golden soap and plenty of naptha working together to speed away dirt in jig time.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45. Wednesday evening at 7:45. Subject for Sunday, Sept. 10, is "Substance."

"Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 3.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Luke 7:14, 15): "And he came and touched the hie; and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise. And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother."

GIVEN LATEST NEWS ON REDUCING WHEAT

Nations Cooperating to Bring Order Production World's Bread Crop

Late announcements from Washington on the emergency program for wheat acreage reduction set the percent of acreage to be reduced, give rules on the use of this ground, and state that the four principal wheat producing countries have entered into an agreement to act together in avoiding future destructive overproduction of wheat.

Farmers in the United States will be asked to reduce their average plantings of wheat by 15 per cent. This means that Michigan will be asked to devote approximately 100,000 acres of crop land to other purposes than its ordinary one of growing wheat. That 100,000 acres is almost entirely in 56 counties.

Land taken from wheat production can not be used to grow any crop that moves directly to market or which is used to directly increase the amount of meat or dairy products going to market. It can be left unplanted, summer fallowed, placed in permanent pasture, used for forest tree plantings, or sown to green manure crops to be plowed down. Meadow crops can be sown if that would have been done under a regular plan of crop rotation. Any cultural practices to control weeds can be used on the land.

Canada, United States, Australia, and Argentina are the four countries endeavoring by cooperative action to prevent future recurrence of tremendous oversupplies of wheat and to obtain an orderly reduction of the present huge carry-over. The agreements were entered into at the London Conference.

WHY CALL IT RELIEF?

We do not wish to appear critical. Yet we are wondering what has happened to the government finance plan that was to bring financial relief to the farming industry. Two weeks ago a Minnesota land bank broadcast the news that loans had been made to six Michigan farmers. What a ghastly gesture. Six loans when it should be six thousand.

Here is a typical loan case. Perhaps it will explain why more loans have not been made to distressed agriculture. Several years ago an Ionia county farmer purchased an 80-acre farm for which he paid $4500 cash. He built a modern home which cost $3000. To do this he executed a mortgage for $2600. Taxes and interest on the loan have been promptly paid each year. The bank holding the mortgage wanted the money for its depositors. The mortgagor made application to this same Minnesota land bank to take over his loan. This, they agreed to do, provided:

That the bank scale the mortgage $300, together with the 5 per cent which the farmer must take in land bank stock, and an additional 1 1/2 per cent which goes for expense to the county loan association. There is also a closing fee of approximately $25. The bank in order to get its money must agree to take land bank bonds, which at the present time are quoted at 90, another loss of 10 per cent. Actually the bank would get $1925.50 for the original loan of $2600, or a loss of $674.50.

Out of several hundred applications for loans in Ionia county not a single loan has been reported to date. Home owners desperately in need of loans are wondering why there is to be no scaling down of their mortgage, such as has been asked for agriculture. Why the discrimination? All these and a lot of other things the people are demanding to know. Is it just another case of taking the man's debt to the mountain top to view the promised land—and then shoving him off a steep cliff?

SYMPATHY IS LACKING

We refuse to get all hot and bothered over the agonized squawk that is going up from certain job-holders at Lansing when they are displaced to make room for some deserving member of the dominant party. In most instances they getting no more than they deserve. We realize that there are some jobs that should be held as non-political and those holding them should not be disturbed. But as long as we are a government by political parties there are certain places in public service that can be rightly regarded as party spoils. That is as it should be.

If a party is worthy of public confidence it naturally follows that it wants those friendly to its policies in places of public trust. Recognizing this fact every democratic job-holder in Michigan is being forced to contribute a certain sum each month to the party war chest which will be used to further the interests of the party in the state at a whole. Party responsibility is being made the first line of defense. Quite a contrast to the system that prevailed in Lansing and elsewhere for years, when those holding fat jobs thumbed their noses at party leaders and refused to contribute a single penny for campaign purposes. Not only did most of them refuse to contribute, but actually aided and abetted the enemy. Now they realize their mistake, but like the lost Granada it ill behooves them to wall like women over the things they would not defend like men.

MACHINE DETECTS DEFECTS IN R. R. TRACKS

Picks Up Flaws As It Runs Over
Rails on P. M. System

A machine which detects flaws or other defects in railroad tracks has been leased by the Pere Marquette railroad and is now being used on this division at a cost of $200 per day.

This machine is manufactured and owned by an eastern concern and is one of the seven manufactured by the company, one of which is now in use in Austria and another in France. The other five are in use in this country and the Pere Marquette has leased this particular machine for its entire system.

The machine is housed in a gasoline driven car which is equipped with elaborate instruments. Electric brushes drop down, one on each side of the rail, charged with a heavy electrical current. Whenever a faulty rail, a defect or a flaw is encountered by the flow of electricity, it immediately registers on the instrument board.

Wherever a bad rail is discovered it is marked for immediate replacement, and the rail taken out goes to the scrap heap. The machine travels slowly, not more than six miles per hour, and it will take several days for it to cover this division. The car carries a four-man crew.

Will Establish Refuge
Virtually the same replies go out to complainants from Bay, Midland, Gladwin and Arenac counties, with the exception that the commission makes known its intent to establish a large game refuge within the counties to insure that the breeding stock will be in no serious danger of depletion.

On this subject the commission says, "Arenac, Gladwin, Midland and Bay counties contain a large island of deer country which is surrounded by agricultural lands and in which the deer have increased until the stocking compares favorably with other open counties."

"It is the opinion of local officers and the game division that the interests of the sportsmen could be best served by permitting this area to be opened to hunting. Most of the wild land in the area lies within the Ogemaw state forest and is known as the Molasses river tract.

"The game division has for several years contemplated the establishment of a game refuge in this vicinity and it is planned to establish a refuge of approximately 24,000 acres in the tract if these counties are opened to hunting. The establishment of a refuge seems to meet the approval of local officers and residents and will insure that the breeding stock will be in no serious danger of depletion by open season hunting."

Technical experts and state and federal officials immediately concerned will discuss and be prepared to answer all questions relating to recent federal and state legislation concerning municipalities, the new local-state-national public welfare plan, the NRA public works program, bond refunding and general financial problems, division of Horton act revenues to cities and villages, and such related subjects as may be brought up in the discussions following formal addresses.

LAND BANKS CARRY FARMER LOANS OF $1,118,000,000

The farm mortgage debt of the United States is approximately 8 billion dollars. Of this total amount the 12 Federal Land Banks hold $1,118,000,000. Since the banks were established in 1917 the farmer borrowers have paid back as principal on their mortgages over $158,000,000. The farmers still have mortgages in the 12 Federal Land Banks totaling over $1,118,000,000, upon which interest rates are 4 1/2 per cent, and which will run for 20 to 40 years.

GOOD BOUTS ON BOXING CARD THURSDAY

Affair for Legion Benefit Drew Over Thousand Customers

Upwards of one thousand northern Michigan boxing fans attended a program of bouts given for the Legion benefit at the school gymnasium last Thursday evening.

The feature bout was won by Ray "Big Left" Vegas of Camp Wolverine, who easily outclassed Roy Meyers, local coast guard, whose gameness was equally as apparent as his disadvantage in weight, size and reach. Vegas was awarded the bout by technical knockout in the fourth round.

Chief Crampton of Grand Rapids, and Harry Anderson of Grayling, fought a good draw in the semi-final. Other results were:

Clyde Moore, Ann Arbor, vs. Harvey Eberle, Grand Haven, draw, 3 rounds; George Showman, Petoskey, decision over Bill McGuan, Southern Pines, N. C., 4 rounds; "Hardrock" Ager, Charlevoix, decision over Pat O'Shea, Cadillac, 4 rounds; Frankie Winnick vs. Guy John, both of Charlevoix, draw, 4 rounds; Bill Tryon, Boyne City, decision over Johnny Beer, Petoskey, 3 rounds.

Len W. Powers handled the referee duties satisfactorily. Emerson Hull was time keeper, and Harold Richmond, Petoskey, and Clarence Meggison acted as judges.

COUNTY SHARES IN RELEASE OF HORTON FUNDS

Will Get Several Thousand in Delayed Highway Monies

Return of $3,000,000 in gasoline and automobile weight tax collections under the Horton act and $625,000 for maintenance of township roads through the McNitt law has been ordered by the state administrative board. Charlevoix county will receive several thousand dollars.

The Horton money is one-half of the amount due the counties on April 15. Only $3,000,000 was released by the committee because members decided that only that amount could be paid at the present time. The McNitt revenue is the final quarterly installment due at the end of the state's fiscal year on June 30.

The state still owes the counties $9,000,000 under the Horton act. The Kulp act, passed by the 1933 legislature, stipulates that $6,000,000 of this amount must be disbursed for welfare relief.

A total of $426,400 was released to pay county tuberculosis sanatoria as the state's contribution for the care of indigent patients.

Theodore I. Fry, state treasurer, announced $13,000,000—representing about two-thirds of the primary school money—was available at the present time. He said that it would be paid as soon as the department of public instruction completed allocation work for the distribution.

(By Harold Newman)

One of the best baseball games of the season will be played next Sunday at Barnard at 1:00 p. m. The Barnard Sluggers will be opposed to the Charlevoix All-Stars. Barnard has had one of the county's best teams all summer, losing only two games. Recently it has been strengthened in two or three positions. It is expected that Orlin Cunningham, former C. H. S. pitching star, who has recently been playing professional ball in southern Michigan, will do Barnard's mound work with Ken Ager, catcher. Opposed to him will be Amos John. Guy John will catch for Charlevoix.

INDIANS WINNERS IN FINAL LEAGUE CONTEST

Defeated Bellaire Last Sunday by 11-2 Count—Meet East Jordan

The Charlevoix Indians completed their schedule in the Charlevoix-Antrim league last Sunday with a 11 to 2 victory over Bellaire.

Jim and "Stub" Lord formed the local battery for the first seven innings and Denemy and Tookoly the last two. Lord struck out 10 men, allowed only five hits and gave one base on balls. Mills and K. Allen were the Bellaire battery.

The Indians take on the East Jordan outfit at the Legion diamond next Sunday afternoon, and a week later play at Kegonic.

INCOMPETENT PERSONS INELIGIBLE FOR LOANS

Guardians of incompetent persons cannot borrow funds through the Federal Land Banks or from the commissioner's fund, states John Thorne, general counsel of the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul. So far as the bank is concerned this has been the law for many years, and recently a ruling came from Washington holding the same for applicants for commissioner loans. The reason is that back of every loan must be some person who is responsible in law, and since an incompetent person is not thus responsible, and since a guardian cannot in law make an agreement binding upon his ward, there is no way in which the Federal Land Bank can make a loan to an incompetent person.

Buying Power of Wheat

Articles Farmers Buy

Cost in Terms of Wheat
(Each sack holds 3 bushels)

GIVING wheat the same buying power that it had in the period before the World War is the goal of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. This chart shows how big the problem is. In 1914 8 sacks of wheat would buy a barrel of beer, a chair, and a plow.

In 1925 it took 9 sacks of wheat to buy the same set of articles. In 1930 it took 19 sacks of wheat and early in 1933 it took 22 sacks of wheat. The cause of the low buying power is too great a supply. To remedy the situation, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has begun a campaign asking farmers to reduce their acreage for the 1934 and 1935 crops so that the return from a bushel of wheat will be once more what it was in the pre-war period, its power to buy the goods which farmers need. The goal of the wheat administration is the 1914 basis, on which 8 sacks of wheat would buy the bill of goods pictured here.

CLASSES RESUME STUDIES MONDAY

PLANS FOR OPENING SCHOOLS ARE NOW COMPLETED

Record Enrollment Expected in Senior Class and Two Lower Grades—Period of Operation Uncertain

Vacation days will be over Monday for an indefinite period as Charlevoix public schools open for the 1933-34 term.

Classes the opening day will be run on a half-hour basis for registration and class assignments. Tuesday the entire system will be running in full force and intensive work faces the pupils as teachers are prepared to utilize every minute of the school day because the status of educational finances makes certain no definite period of operation.

According to present plans as announced by Supt. O. P. North, all high school subjects offered in previous years will be available with the exception of music theory and home economics. The list is as follows: four years of English, two years of Latin, two years of French, algebra, geometry, world history, American history, civics, economics, chemistry, general science, manual arts, book-keeping, shorthand, typewriting, junior business training. Physics and biology are not offered this year, but will be alternated with chemistry and general science another year. Algebra and geometry have been taken off the required list and only fifteen credits are now needed to graduate. However, students desiring to prepare for college will be notified of the necessary subjects.

The high school and junior high teaching staffs are as follows: Superintendent, high school principal and chemistry instructor, O. P. North; manual training, Walter Weisenburger; economics and English, Stewart Coleman; mathematics and civics, Ray Kipke; history and civics, Bea Ferneau; commercial, Agnes Anderson; English, Ruth Dowd; junior high principal and history instructor, Harry Bingham; junior high English and geography, Floranz Milner; junior high language and English, Ray Elizabeth Sawyer; mathematics and band, Robert Maurer.

It is anticipated enrollment in the senior class will reach sixty, the largest in local school history.

In the grades, special work in music and physical education has been discontinued, but work in both will be given by the regular teachers. It is expected enrollment in the first grade will reach 60, and 65 in the sixth grade. The latter grade will occupy the two rooms formerly used by the county normal.

The grade teaching staff is as follows: principal and kindergarten, Helen French; first grade, Vera Belding; 2nd grade, Helen Cook; 3rd grade, Gertrude Dick; 4th grade, Sophia Maunson; 5th grade, Clara Dittmer; 6th grade, Elsie Muscott.

There will be no change in text books used this year and the sale of second hand books will be encouraged. Contrary to previous plans, the junior high will remain in the same building used the past five years. It has been found that economies anticipated by this change would be negligible. Instead, the unused rooms in the new school building, as well as the high school buildings, will not be heated nor maintained.

Very little repair work has been done the past summer. In fact, only necessary preparations have been made, employing janitors a week prior to school opening.

Charlevoix school patrons should be appreciative of the strenuous efforts and fine cooperation on the part of the board of education, Supt. O. P. North and the teaching staff, making possible the opening of local schools, even though operation may be only for a limited period. Their work has taken time and much deliberation in face of existing conditions. The public may do its part by lending every cooperation and, even more important, paying delinquent taxes to furnish funds for operation.

WILL START PENSION TAX ON NOVEMBER 15

Machinery to Furnish Old Age Pension Gets Under Way

Registration of the 2,800,000 adults in Michigan who will be expected to pay $2 each next March to finance the operations of the state's old age pension act will be started November 15 despite several legal questions which have been ruled.

Miss Evelyn Mershon, state welfare director, announced Saturday.

The act, passed at the last regular session of the legislature, does not go into effect until October 17 and because it provides that all adults be registered by October 1 of each year it has been contended that no head tax could be collected this year.

Decision to undertake the registration is announced in letters mailed out this week to county clerks who are informed that they will be permitted to retain five cents per name to compensate them for their work.

The work will be undertaken despite the fact that the legislative council already has named a subcommittee which will draft amendments to the present act at next year's special session of the legislature.

RAILROAD SHIFTED SCHEDULE SUNDAY

RESORT TRAINS OFF EXCEPT FOR SPECIAL TRAINS

The Resort Special will be operated southbound on September 13, 17 and 24. These trains will carry complete equipment, the same as regular summer trains. Northbound they will leave terminals on September 12, 15 and 22.

With the change in train time mail schedules also have been altered. Operation of the star mail route between Charlevoix and Potoskey was inaugurated again Monday morning by H. R. Fowler. The bus returns at 8:45 P. M. with the first mail of the day.

DRAMATIC CAMP CLOSES SEASON

ALREADY MAKING PLANS FOR ANOTHER YEAR

Post Season Production of "The Second Man" Was Given Last Friday Evening

The players at the National Dramatic camp at Ironton closed their post season week last Friday night with the concluding performance of "The Second Man," by S. N. Behrman.

This play was the tenth production of the National Dramatic camp, a season that ranged from the furious farce "Baby Daze" to the sordid and dramatic "Anna Christie," from the light brittle pitfall of "There's Always Juliet" to the tense emotions of "Summer Resort." "The Second Man" is a smartly written story of an impoverished intellectual who is pursued by two women. He takes money from the older and kisses from the younger, talks himself in and out of compromising and compromising situations, nearly gets shot by the sweetheart of the younger girl, and ends up by marrying the rich, older woman who offers a life of indolent luxury.

This brief resume does not do justice to the plot by any means, for there is a great deal more to it, but the charm of the play is revealed through the brilliancy of the dialog, the smart philosophy and the well turned truisms, which from the pen of the author become epigrams of excellent flavor.

Appearing in "The Second Man" were Allen Miller, Mary Morrison, Dorothy Fritz and Gertrude Lindemuller. Judging from the reception given it by three substantial audiences this production was acclaimed one of the successes of the season.

In the absence of Mr. Barker, who returned to Chicago with the close of the regular season, the play was ably directed by Mrs. Allen G. Miller, who has been the general manager of the group this season.

Mrs. Miller plans to bring a company to the theatre next June, at which time the further ideals and the purpose of the camp will be expanded. Announcements of the season will be made early.

INDIANS PLAY LEAGUE CHAMPS HERE SUNDAY

East Jordan Comes for Post-Season Tilt—Camp Wolverine Scheduled

Of interest to local baseball fans is the announcement that Sunday afternoon the Charlevoix Indians will meet East Jordan, champions of the Charlevoix-Antrim league, in a game at the Legion diamond.

The East Jordan aggregation comes as a substitute for Kogonic, who withdrew from a game scheduled for the same afternoon. Due to the rating of the visiting team, the contest should be a popular one.

On September 24th, a week from Sunday, the Indians will meet the baseball team from Camp Wolverine. This team has only lost two of 17 games played so far this season.

SHOOTING LIMITED TO TWO MONTHS THIS YEAR

Bag Limit Is Reduced Slightly on Many Species—Shooting of Others Banned Entirely

Amid preparations of local sportsmen for the opening of the fall hunting season, comes an announcement from the department of conservation that shooting of water fowl, coast and jacksnipe will be limited to two months this year as it was last.

The daily bag limit on ducks was reduced from 15 to 12, not more than eight of which may be canvasbacks, redheads, scaup, teal, shovelers or goldeneyes. The possession limit for ducks was reduced from 20 to 24 and on the accepted species, from 20 to 16. The new season in Michigan for ducks (except wood, ruddy and bufflehead), geese and brant is October 1 to November 30. The limit of geese and brant is four in a day and eight in the season. Ross' geese are protected.

Unless the conservation department rules otherwise, the 1933 season for ruffed grouse, rabbit and fox squirrel opens the same day as the duck season in the upper peninsula, but lower Michigan hunters must wait until October 15th.

North of the Straits of Mackinac the season on fox squirrel is limited to ten days. The daily bag limit of squirrels is five, with ten in possession at one time and 15 in the season. The lower peninsula season is 12 days with the same bag limits.

The rabbit season in the upper peninsula opens October 1 and will remain open until January 31. The daily limit is five, with ten in possession at one time and 50 in a season. The rabbit season in the lower peninsula will be 15 days, shorter than in the upper peninsula opening October 15 and closing January 31.

The 12 day open partridge season north of the Straits begins October 1 and closes October 12. The possession limit is five in one day, 10 at any time and 10 in a season. Partridge may not be held in possession more than 10 days after season closes. The lower peninsula partridge season does not open until October 15 to be simultaneous with the open season on other game birds in that part of the state.

LOCAL CHURCH HELD ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING

Methodist Society Hears Reports and Elected New Officers

The annual business session of the local Methodist church was held Thursday evening by Rev. M. E. Reusch of Traverse City, who is the superintendent for this district.

Annual reports came in from the various organizations and special activities in the church. The Abolition society gave a good report, showing a successful year's work. Mrs. Arthur Edwards is the newly elected president. The attendance and interest in the Queen Esther society had been exceptionally good.

The superintendent spoke highly of the pastor's work for the financial system and business methods of the church, and the board voted an expression of appreciation and approval for the work of Rev. and Mrs. Hard, with the request that the bishop return them to the work.

This year the annual conference is in Benton Harbor. Many ministers probably will make short visit to the World Fair at the place, being so near to Chicago.

1934 PROBATE CONVENTION NEWBERRY

JUDGE JOHN E. QUINLAN HEADS STATE ASSOCIATION

1933 Meeting Closed Last Thursday with Praise of Charlevoix As Convention Site

With many expressions of praise for Charlevoix's attraction as a convention city and appreciation for the splendid treatment received locally and from the management at the Belvedere hotel, the convention headquarters, the Association of Probate Judges of Michigan completed their 27th annual meeting last Thursday afternoon.

Newberry was selected for the 1934 convention site. The upper peninsula city was chosen at the invitation of Judge John E. Quinlan of Newberry, who was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. Other officers chosen were: vice-president, Judge Willis L. Lyons of Howell; secretary-treasurer, Judge Ruth Thompson of Muskegon.

In addition to representatives from 45 Michigan counties, many with their families, the 37th annual convention also brought to Charlevoix a galaxy of state officials. Among them were Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien, and Asst. Attorney General Ralph E. Hughes; Dr. Haynes, superintendent of the University hospital, Ann Arbor; Major Marsh, superintendent of the Boys' Industrial school, Lansing; Dr. Ramsey, superintendent of the Coldwater school; Miss McKensie, head of the Adrian school for girls; Dr. H. W. secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Crippled Children's commission; Dr. Zussell, president of the Crippled Children's association; Mrs. Evelyn Mershon, state welfare director; W. S. Carpenter, former state welfare director; and Mr. Hulon of the auditor general's department.

Probate Judge Ervan A. Ruessiger and Mrs. Ruessiger were highly complimented for their efforts in providing entertainment for the convention visitors. In view of the general satisfaction expressed, Charlevoix will likely have an opportunity to be host to the association again in near future years.

COUNTY CHILD HEALTH COMMITTEE WILL MEET

CONTINUE EFFORTS TO FURNISH WORK

SEWAGE DISPOSAL, OTHER PROJECTS ARE SOUGHT

Committee Requests Unemployed Not Registered Since July First to Do So Immediately

Due to the possibility that federal projects to relieve unemployment may be launched within a short time, a movement to bring the registration of those eligible to receive work up to date is being started locally.

Arthur Bergeon, Charlevoix member of the county welfare and unemployment committee, has requested all unemployed who have not registered since July 1st to do so immediately. Registration may be made with F. V. Tyle at the local information bureau, where necessary blank are available.

While a part of federal funds allotted this county for unemployment relief have been allocated, the committee which will have charge of furnishing labor for the projects has so far received no notification when actual work will be started. Charlevoix county, it is understood, is to receive $68,222.00. Of this amount, $20,000 has been allocated for surfacing the roadbed of M-131 north of Boyne Fall, and $8,000 for improvement on the swing bridge over the channel between Round lake and Lake Michigan on US-31 in this city.

Welfare relief locally is being practically confined at the present time to the shore drive project. Clearing of the right-of-way north from the road to Bell's bay to connect with the present shore drive at South Point has been completed, and workmen are now engaged removing stumps and roots in preparation for grading. Crews of men are being alternated after working 24 hours on a basis of an 8-hour day for three days. In this manner a larger rim heretofore receiving employment. Local officials will meet next Tuesday with the state administrative board in an effort to procure a right of way across state lands, allowing continuation of the project south towards Norwood.

Aiming also to relieve the local unemployment situation, city officials are progressing with plans for a sewage treatment system to be financed by federal loan applications, requiring a great amount of clerical work to prepare, are nearly completed and will be forwarded for approval as quickly as possible. The type of disposal system, while tentatively agreed upon, will be decided definitely at a special meeting of the council this afternoon, when a representative of the engineering firm of Peoria, Grooley & Hanson will present completed plans for approval. The site on the Wilbur property on Round lake has been definitely decided. The five new beds a 60 day course in the project.

STATE'S BEER REVENUE IS NEARLY TWO MILLION

Ninety-five Per cent of Revenue Returned to Municipalities

A total of $1,800,760 has been collected in revenue from beer store licenses in Michigan four months ago, the state liquor control commission has announced.

The sum is $247,745 more than was reported on August 11. It represents $742,266 in stamp collections and $1,057,528 in license sales. Ninety-five per cent of the latter is returned to municipalities, while the stamp money is retained by the state.

Sale of licenses is rapidly declining while stamp purchases are on the constant upgrade. In the last month from August 11 to September 11 only $74,660 was collected from beer stores, while stamps contributed $144,070. The $33,684 is in contrast to the $61,000 shortage in during the first month from permits.

It was reported that between 8,000 and 10,000 barrels of beer—mostly institute—are being stamped daily.

Charles Hamlin of Charlevoix is building a new cottage on his lake frontage near New York point, just south of Norwood. The cottage is built of logs with a very attractive fire place built of stone, carefully selected. From the living room one has a gorgeous view of a beautiful creek meandering its way down over moss-covered rocks, which fall several feet below the level of the cottage, with trees of cedar, spruce and hemlock, which are very attractive the year around. Also, there is a broad view of the bay and the steamer line farther out in Lake Michigan. Further south a few rods, where Joseph Foster of Charlevoix, has selected a building spot for a cottage, is a flowing well 200 feet deep which was drilled many years ago and is widely known for its pure, cold water, which flows continually, sending water bubbling over the bank. Just north of the Hamlin cottage a few rods Glenn See of Charlevoix, has selected and has started work to build a cottage among the white birch, which has a beautiful view of the lake. A road leading to this colony also is one of beautiful scenery with bridges crossing small creeks and colorful trees, where birds build their nests and squirrels store away their winter food.

Mrs. Dan Haddock is able to be back at the telephone booth again. Dan and son, Carl, left for Detroit.

The nice rain (about one and a half inches) that fell Friday has helped the pasture land and, perhaps, late potatoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and children came up from Flint Monday to visit at the Rinestein home, opposite the Ed. Yettaw place. They tell us that the rain laid the fires at Midland oil fields and that times are picking up at Flint.

There were 34 in attendance at Bay View Sunday school last Sunday, 46 at Green River and 22 at Antrim City. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mason attended Sunday school at Antrim City last Sunday. Versil attended at Bay View.

not yet moved to where the children can attend school.

Frank Blakely and wife have been enjoying a visit from his sister, who used to reside at Eastport. Several old residents have been here this summer, among them Mrs. Cora Larnhee, Wilber Campbell, Arthur Williams, Grant and Earl Mudge, Atha Boice and daughters, Mary and Genevieve, Glen Blakely of Kentucky, and Charles Dawson of Detroit.

The full gospel meetings at the Pentecostal Tabernacle here are increasing in interest. Rev. Hayes, with Rev. Baynes of East Jordan, conducted big meetings here Labor day with baptismal services announced. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, with Mr. Fitzpatrick, have sung several times and several musical instruments are employed.

Harold Lamb, son of the former Dr. Lamb who was dentist here, has moved from Torch Lake here, so as to be nearer his work. He is now welfare administrator for Antrim county and is kept busy these days. With Supervisor Vendenberg and Dick DeYoung he has secured workers on the M-66 and M-31 road project where the road is being widened and leveled.

School began a week ago Monday here with an enrollment of 214 students. There are 112 students in the high school grade. Superintendent Alexander has been kept quite busy the first few days classifying students, looking after sale of books, etc. From reports from Lansing it looks as though we would soon have some help on finances. It is said that this year's primary money can be used for this year's teacher's wages.

Sponsored by Mr. Kataliky, state worker, there is a big "booster" meeting scheduled for this Monday evening to make plans for getting a government loan to help banks of the county to re-open. The sponsor says we can just as well have help as the big Hawes bank in Chicago, which secured a $20,000,000 loan. A big Sunday school meeting is also set for the same evening to be held at the North Holland church. Which to attend, is the question.

Rev. G. A. Weaver, missionary, and wife from Petoskey, were present at Bay View Sunday school last Sunday forenoon. Rev. Weaver preached a timely sermon on "Sir, We Would See Jesus." He said if all the world would follow the advice of the text there would be a much better world. If Christian people had followed it we would have a wet nation. He lays the blame of a wet nation on the so-called Christian people. He said if the Christian people had voted with other dries, the nation would have been so dry that one could see the dust. He said that not much was gained by women suffrage. At his own town last spring 1200 women voted wet. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver have just returned from the World Fair and a trip around Lake Michigan back to Petoskey.

RUN THE HOMES, WHY NOT NATION?

Woman Sure Her Sex Would Make Economy Record.

[Mrs. Walter Ferguson, in the New York World-Telegram.]

"Director of the Mint" is a month's title, especially for a woman. Nevertheless we have one. Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross is in charge of all the gold, silver and copper coins in this country and supervises the assay offices to which the metal is taken for its conversion into money.

There's progress, if you ask me. And when we become really intelligent, financially speaking, we shall put women in complete charge of national collections and disbursements. We'll regulate our large expenditures as we do those at home—by giving men an allowance on which to run things. And will they be run?

In spite of the idea prevalent in many quarters that we know nothing about money, and if given a free hand would be reckless spendthrifts, most of the actual saving accomplished in any country is done by the women. We are, in fact, Benjamin Franklins in petticoats and can do things around that thrifty gentleman in the matter of economizing.

A woman can always make a dollar go twice as far as a man. She is the shopper superlative and can get more for her money. She is a just master at the art of haggling, and if it wasn't for this feminine talent, hundreds of thousands of families in America right now wouldn't be getting along at all.

We girls got a bad reputation for spending, but we were using somebody else's money at the time, you must remember. We all know how to hang on to our own. I dare say, if our sex had been in charge of all affairs in 1911, a great deal more of our cash would still be at home and a great deal less in Europe.

Women are fitted both by nature and circumstance for economy. She has had a raw deal from nature and lived through the ages when she worked without pay. Everything she got for a long time had to be obtained by stowing nickels away in cracked tin cans and in sliding pen knives from the family budget. She scrimped and contrived to get a few extras for her children, and has run her home on a pittance.

If practice makes perfect, women ought to be able to run the country on one-tenth of what the men have to have.

Canada's "Mounties" Now Sixty Years Old

Efficient Police Force Observes Its Anniversary.

Washington. — Canada's romantic and efficient police force—the Royal Canadian mounted police—is observing, this year, its sixtieth anniversary. A band of men, small in number, but strong in courage, experience, and hard training, have maintained law and order over a vast territory, reaching from the great plains north into the Yukon, and across the Arctic to Hudson Bay and Baffin Island.

In 1870, when the government of Canada gained control over the unexplored lands of the great Northwest, it was confronted with the problem of protecting pioneer settlers, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society. "Warfare between powerful Indian tribes roving the plains, disorganized the westward march of the white man. Whisky runners whose expeditions crazed the Indians also disturbed peaceful progress of intrepid pioneers. Two tin cups full of 'fire-water' brought a buffalo robe, and three gallons a good horse."

Covered Vast Territory.
"It was in answer to the need for curbing these marauding elements that the Northwest mounted police was organized in 1873 at Stone Fort, just south of Lake Winnipeg. An official bulletin issued to the first recruits tersely stated that the government will make use of any person connected with the force if any work that may be considered desirable."

The government has kept this promise through the years. "After only a year's training, 300 members of the police marched over 2,000 miles of unknown territory, restoring law and order from the Red River to the Rocky mountains. Treaties were made with the Indians, horse stealers and murderers brought to swift justice, and Fort Whop-Up, stronghold of whisky traders, razed. Winter caught the 'Mounties' before they could make a return march, so a permanent camp was set up at Macleod, oldest town in southern Alberta. Calgary, another fort which they founded that year, has grown to be one of the most important towns of western Canada."

"As the work of the force increased, it became evident that a central station was necessary. An uninhabited strip of prairie along 'Pile of Bones Creek' was selected and appropriately named Regina. For over half a century Regina served as headquarters for the Northwest mounted police. It was also for years the capital of the Northwest territories; and today, as the capital of Saskatchewan, is one of the most important industrial centers of middle western Canada, with a population of over 40,000."

"The Klondike gold rush of '98 brought a new emergency. Dawson grew up overnight, a stampede town with the usual number of saloons, dance halls, and gambling houses. It promised soon to rival Skagway, then controlled by 'Saggy Smith' and his gang, who robbed innocent tenderfoot and departing miners with equal success."

"A Yukon post was promptly established by the Northwest mounted police, and Dawson speedily transformed into a respectable and law-abiding town. A detachment was stationed at Shiloh pass and White pass, two main gateways through which prospectors thronged, and the lawless soon learned to leave their revolvers behind. Month after month millions in gold were conveyed and never a dollar lost."

Served in Boer War.

"The force was 'taughted' in 1901 in recognition of its services in the Boer war, becoming the Royal Northwest mounted police. In 1902, when its jurisdiction was widened to cover enforcement of federal authority throughout the Dominion and all laws in the Yukon, Northwest territory, and Dominion parks, the title was changed to Royal Canadian Mounted Police."

"Today the mounted police patrol Canada's last great frontier, the chain of islands stretching from Greenland to Alaska. There are posts on such isolated islands as Ellesmere, North Devon, Baffin, and Victoria. The station on Baffin peninsula is within 11 degrees of the North pole. At Herschel Island post was held the first court in the Arctic, when an Eskimo was sentenced for the murder of a constable.

"Although they have been given little notice in the daily news, the long winter patrols performed by these officers deserve a high rating in the record of Arctic exploration. In 1925, for instance, one inspector with a constable, one Eskimo, and two dog teams traveled 1,500 miles in 81 days, and considered it only an ordinary part of the year's work. From Devon Island to Ellesmere Island the inspector covered the entire northern part of the Canadian Arctic archipelago."

"There is one rule indelibly obeyed by every 'Mountie.' Whether he is protecting the rights of the migratory duck, the Blackfoot Indian, or the Eskimo trapper, he shoots only as a last resort—the real secret of the success of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police."

Observatory Is Mecca for Many Thousands

Visitors Crowd Lick Memorial in California.

San Jose, Calif.—Although isolated on the summit of Mt. Hamilton at an altitude of 4,200 feet and accessible by driving 27 miles over a circuitous mountain highway, Lick observatory has become one of the most alluring trips for tourists in this section of California.

More than 10,000 visitors will journey to the summit of Mt. Hamilton this year to see the costly instruments through which astronomers 'sightly peer' heavenward, seeking knowledge from the stars.

If visitors chance to climb the mountain on Saturday evenings, they are privileged to gaze through the 36-inch refractor, which magnifies the anode of the astral bodies.

Despite its isolated location, Lick observatory has developed a model village atop the lofty mountain. Its population has grown during the past five years to fifty. There is a public school, owned by the observatory, with a teacher provided by the state. The

Cook Has Fed Condemned Murderers for 14 Years

New Orleans.—Twenty-five men who partook of Steve Elliot's cooking never lived to tell the tale. They were men condemned to death at parish prison, where Elliot was cook. He served breakfast in condemned men for 14 years, and just recently was promoted to the wardenship of the attorney's room at the prison.

Elliot said good food always helped the men who were scheduled to die. "It lunched up their courage and made them walk to the gallows with firmer step," he said.

Asked about the most unusual breakfast for a condemned man, Elliot recounted the following tale:

"One day, let's see," he said, "Yes, there was a hearse who pulled a hard one on us at the last moment. We always tried to satisfy, you know. We didn't know where it was to be, but some kind citizen sent one of us. You should have seen that hearse."

"He went upstairs to his death with a grin, wiping his mouth, happy that his appetite was satisfied."

Condemned men were given more consideration than other prisoners, Elliot said. "For instance, if they wanted to eat between meals they only had to say what they wanted. Sometimes it was a sandwich, flapjacks, milk or toast. Most of them liked fried chicken and beer cream for their last meal."

Elliot said his wife taught him how to cook.

"Now, baby best," she said, "what comes after O?"

Baby, who for one so young was an undying film fan, raised his eyebrows knowingly.

"Why, teacher, 'K' comes next," he replied.

ALAS, NO!

"Consistency is a jewel."

"That's all right, but you can't work it off on the girl instead of a diamond ring."

Blue Jays Aid in Capture of Eagle

Kansas City, Mo.—Jimmy Duffy, with the aid of a flock of blue jays, captured an American eagle with a garden rake in the rear yard of his home in Kansas City.

The eagle was busy repulsing an attack by the blue jays when Duffy hooked its foot with the rake and dragged it from its perch in a tree. The eagle had a wingspread of seven feet.

THOSE WHO TEACH
Our public school teachers are facing a serious situation. With living costs rapidly advancing they are being compelled to accept salary reductions, which in many instances are far below that which the spirit of NIRA intended. This is true the country over.

Not only are these salary reductions mandatory, but teachers are also liable to dismissal at any time by school authorities. Many thousands have already lost their jobs. Unless some intelligent consideration is given the matter chaos in our public school system will result.

We cannot hope to reduce wages of teachers to starvation levels and expect to continue our former high standards of education. Is there not some way of reducing our public school costs without inflicting too great a penalty upon those who teach the young?

THE SUCCESS OF NRA
The success of NRA will not be in hunting down small violators of the industrial code and punishing them before the bar of public opinion, but in sharp reprimand of the great international interests capable of shipping vast amounts of European merchandise into this country to be sold on an inflated market, thereby destroying American industry and starving American workers.

KEEP LAMBS GAINING TO GET BEST PRICES

Grain in Self-Feeders Will Keep the Weights Increasing After Weaning

Market-topping lambs are the ones that carry to market their original fat and that is most easily retained by animals which have been weaned and fed rations which will keep them continuously gaining, according to the animal husbandry department at Michigan State college.

Lambs weaned at 3½ months and self fed out on second growth of alfalfa pasture gained rapidly enough to earn their owner, Charles Covell, Elwell, the title of champion Michigan flockmaster. Farley is substituted for oats, by Mr. Covell, after the lambs have become accustomed to the grain.

SUDAN GRASS SAFER WHEN GRAIN IS FED

Less Chance of Injury from Frosted Pasture Reduced by Carbohydrates

Grains, even in small amounts, fed daily to cattle will reduce the slight danger of poisoning from Sudan grass pasture, according to animal nutrition specialists at Michigan State college.

There have been reports of cattle poisoned by eating frosted Sudan grass but efforts made at the college to cause any injurious effects with the grass have failed. Cattle never before turned on this grass and permitted to eat their fill of frosted plants showed no ill effects.

The high value of the grass for pasture has earned it the recommendation of the college crops department and it has been widely planted in the state. College men who specialize in animal nutrition believe the danger from poisoning is very small but they recommend the feeding of grain to reduce the hazard.

MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS

Coleman C. Vaughan, former secretary of state and now head of the building and loan division of the department, will represent the department of state at a conference to be held in Washington some time during September. The conference has been called by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation of Washington and will be attended by banking, insurance and building and loan commissioners of the larger states. Some unified plan of operation is to be worked out at the conference.

Is there any difference between a trailer, which is used regularly, and a "house car" which is used but a short time during the summer months on camping trips?

At the present time, both trailer and "house car" pay the same weight tax in securing license plates. But the trailer may be used the entire year while the "house car" is on the road only a few weeks.

The 1933 legislature lowered the bars for the publication of legal notices to many publications which have been in existence one year or more.

As amended the 1933 laws read: "No publication shall be classed as a newspaper for the publication of legal notices until it shall have been established, published and circulated at regular stated intervals without interruption for at least one year in the state, county, city, village, and township where such publication, notice of publication or official advertising..."

The new law also allows the legal publication department of newspapers to be sold to other publications and carried on by the new owners without interruption. The old law required all newspapers to be in existence at least two years before publishing legal notices.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, September 17, is "Matter."

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Substance" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 10.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Prov. 22:4): "By humility and the fear of the Lord are riches, and honour, and life."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 239): "If divine Love is becoming nearer, dearer, and more real to us, matter is then submitting to Spirit. The object we pursue and the spirit we manifest reveal our standpoint, and show what we are winning."

HOLSUM "TREASURE HUNT" IS SATURDAY

Big Event in Morning at Magnus Park, Petoskey

All children of Charlevoix and surrounding towns from six to sixteen years of age are invited to attend a gigantic "treasure hunt" to be held Saturday morning, September 16, at 10 o'clock, at Magnus state park, Petoskey.

The "treasure hunt" is sponsored by the Holsum Sunshine Club and the makers of Holsum bread and rolls, cooperating with all independent merchants who exclusively handle Holsum products in towns of this section.

Thousands of children are expected to attend and to participate in the "hunt" for over five hundred individual treasures which will be given away. In addition to the treasure hunt there will be caps—hundreds of them.

Five large areas will be roped off to accommodate the different age groups. Supervisors will be in charge of each group. Prizes are to be equally divided between the different age groups.

Capsules with numbers enclosed will be hidden in the woods. At a given signal the "treasure hunt" will be on. Children will go forward in their respective groups to start the search for the capsules. Upon finding a capsule they will return to the treasure booth where the numbers in the capsule will be redeemed for prizes corresponding with the number. The smaller children will be rewarded in their search by prizes and will not have to exchange capsules like the older groups.

Grand Rapids, Muskegon and Kalamazoo "treasure hunts" have been attended by over 30,000 children. It is expected that large numbers of children will be interested and happy to attend this big "treasure hunt" on Saturday morning next. All are invited.

At the treasure hunt announcement will be made respecting the starting of activities of the Holsum Sunshine Club which will be in charge of the Sunshine Lady. All children in the vicinity are to be invited to join the Sunshine club. There will be games, educational entertainment of many kinds for all ages of children and in separate groups all during the winter season.

Due to the closeness of schools opening, it was impossible for the sponsors to have hunts in each of the cities of this region, thus the one at Petoskey has been selected. Charlevoix parents are urged to make plans to go to Petoskey Saturday so their children may participate in the big event.

LEGION ACTIVITIES

A meeting of the lower 11th district of the American Legion, department of Michigan, will be held at Bellaire on Sunday, September 17th. All Legionnaires of the lower 11th district are urged to attend and bring their wives. Members of the local band and drum corps will have their banquet tickets paid by the post. The tickets entitle the holder to participate in the dance which will be the evening's entertainment.

The program is as follows: 2:00 p. m., parade; 3:00 p. m., business meeting; 5:00 p. m., banquet at Fisherman's Paradise; dance in the evening.

The post bugle and drum corps will meet Friday evening, September 15th, for its last practice before the district meeting. The corps has questioned the hiring of an instructor, but he will be unable to be present at this meeting, due to absence from the city.

Several much needed repairs and alterations will be made at the Legion home this fall, preparatory for winter. They will include new grates in the furnace, changes in the location of radiators, repairs to pipes, etc.

On Tuesday evening, October 3rd, will occur a joint meeting of the post and the bugle and drum corps, with a recreation hour and refreshments. The corps will appear for practice at 7:30 p. m. and the post meeting will be called at 8:30 p. m., so that there will be no conflict. It is planned to hold one such meeting each month, if the first one proves a success.

LIGHTNING DAMAGED WESTERN UNION WIRES

A halt of lightning which struck the local A. & P. store during Friday evening's storm, is also thought to have damaged Western Union telegraph company wires which were out of order for a couple hours during the evening. The shock of the lightning was felt in numerous places throughout the city, although no further damage was reported.

STATE FERRIES OPERATE ON FALL SCHEDULE

Two Boats Running Every Hour and a Half Carry Traffic

The Michigan state ferries service schedule was shifted to the regular "fall" status on September 7th. Two boats are now in operation, making trips between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace every hour and a half.

Under the new schedule boats leave Mackinaw City in the morning at 6:00, 7:30, 9:00, 10:30 and noon, in the afternoon at 1:30, 3:00, 4:30, 6:00, 7:30 and 9:00. The same schedule of hours covers the leaving time of the southbound boats from St. Ignace.

300,000 WITH STICKERS BOUGHT LICENSE PLATES

More than 300,000 Michigan motorists have been enabled to use their automobiles the entire year of 1933 by the law which permitted the use of 1932 license plates until August 1 when accompanied by a windshield half-price permit. This law was adopted by the 1933 legislature upon recommendation of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald.

Slightly more than 415,000 windshield permits were issued and department records to date show that over 300,000 motorists who used the stickers have now purchased 1933 plates.

PLANTED MILLIONS OF GAME FISH EACH YEAR

In the 60 years that Michigan has been carrying on a fish propagation program more than five and a half billion fish of various species have been planted by the state in public waters.

Beginning with a modest planting of a quarter million fish by the Michigan fish commission in 1873, propagation activities have increased until today the annual plant will run from 50 to 100 million.

ROADSIDE MARKETING

By T. J. Delohery

TOURISTS A CASH CROP

THAT the tourist is a profitable customer for farm produce, prepared food and spare rooms in farm homes has been discovered by thousands of farm women.

In West Virginia, twenty-eight farmers' wives have formed an organization called the Mountain State Tourists' Home. This association, fostered by the West Virginia extension service, adopted rules and regulations governing the service and uses a uniform sign which is posted in front of each member home.

Advertising folders, bearing the name and location of each member as well as the interesting sights nearby, are widely distributed in advance of each tourist season with the result that members of the association have experienced an increase in business during the six years of this co-operative effort.

More than 15,000 people stopped from one to several days at these 28 farms last year. They came from 16 states, England, Norway, Finland, Germany, India, Korea, Philippine Islands, Canal Zone and Canada.

Rates are uniform the state over, lodging being charged at $1.50 per night for two persons, with breakfast at 25 cents per person and 50 cents each for dinner and lunch.

"Our experience is that tourists are a profitable market not only for spare rooms but for fruits, vegetables, eggs, milk, honey, meats and other things we produce right here on the farm," said Mrs. Paul Priest of Franklin, W. Va. "I buy some fruit, especially grapefruit and oranges; also cereal, tea, coffee, sugar, crackers, corn and spices."

"We raise our own tomatoes, tomato juice, corn, beans, apples, peaches, pears, cherries, blackberries, grape juice, chicken, eggs, mutton, veal and pork. I find tourists like our cured meats and canned goods. They have a special liking for country cured ham."

These Mountain State Tourists' Homes, scattered over the state of West Virginia, are making an effort to have city people spend their vacations in one place. They are also pointing out the advantages of hunting and fishing, because of the large number of sportsmen who get away from the cities in the summer and fall to follow their favorite sports and who are always eager to find good accommodations.

While West Virginia scenery helps the tourist-entering business for these farm women, visitors are making a practice of stopping in the country for both lodging and meals. They find it handier and more economical.

Altoona, Ill., hasn't much attraction insofar as the scenery is concerned, but Mrs. George Stuckey puts up two to three tourist parties a week in a spare room of the large Stuckey farm home. Located in the quiet and cool of the country it is an ideal spot to stop for the night.

Mrs. Fern Perry, of Marion, Mich., sells a large amount of fresh garden truck at a nearby tourist camp. Twice a week Mrs. Perry fills the car with red beets, carrots, green onions, radishes, corn, cabbage and cucumbers. Potatoes in two-pound bags, enough for one meal, sell well as do her canned goods and horseradish. Prices are gauged according to city retail levels.

Seven miles on a side road doesn't sound attractive from a profit-making standpoint, but Mrs. Grace E. Baertsch of Karabos, Wis., had made it, with the aid of her kitchen, giving them a living and cash in the bank. Mrs. Baertsch sells eggs, poultry and cooked food to a tourist camp some distance away during the summer months, and by good salesmanship has made many of the same people buy her eggs, which are sent by mail to their city homes, during the winter months. Her egg money runs as high as $100 a month, even though she does not charge as much as the traffic will bear—that is, Mrs. Baertsch attempts to take a premium through the season instead of following the heavy jumps and recessions of the market.

No end of farm women, knowing their town sisters don't care to bother with big dinners on Sunday and that city people have a hankering for a good farm-cooked dinner, have made a specialty of this service. Customers are made largely by local advertising; also by using boys to pass out cards announcing the business.

Following the same thought some farmers with gardens and other sources of food such as flocks of poultry, canned meats, a small orchard or a lake on the premises, have built tourist cottages so that they not only can attract the food and getting trade, but offer sleeping accommodations for tourists and city folks who care to spend the night.

Migrations in World History

Departure of the Israelites From Egypt the Most Noteworthy, but There Have Been Similar "Treks" Which Made Lasting Impressions.

When the Israelites marched out of Egypt they must have had immense herds of cattle with them which greatly complicated their business of traversing the deserts between the Red sea and the Promised Land. Hence their joy when they struck wells of drinkable water, as at Elim, and their disappointment when in Marah the water was found to be alkaline and unfit for the animals to drink. As they wandered during forty years through the wilderness, from one oasis to another, their cattle furnishing the main dependence for their children's food, the worries about pasturage and water must have been ever pressingly intense. It is hard for us to visualize that immense caravan of thousands of men, women and children, with their tremendous accompaniment of flocks and herds plodding year after year through the ever-shifting sands of the Arabian desert, with its little islands of pasturage surrounding springs and wells of water scattered sparsely here and there throughout. Food was it for them that Moses had spent some forty years in herding sheep for his father-in-law in that very desert and therefore knew how to guide the great caravan.

There have been some similar migrations in the world's history, for instance, the immigration of numerous tribes from the Far East along the shores of the Caspian, Black sea, through lower Asia into Europe, and their settlement on the fertile plains of Hungary and the Danubian districts, with all their cattle and their horses. We remember, too, the coming of the Tartars, with their peculiar sheep and eastern cattle into Russia, where they settled and really dominated the country as did the Mantos from Manchuria in China. Time had little value in those days, and although these immigrations went through many years before their final accomplishments, history makes little note about what would seem to us matters of the greatest difficulty and importance. These people, with their cattle, had to live on the country as they progressed, and few of these migrations were through untempered lands as was that of the Israelites for the most part.

It was not until they had reached the very rich country on the west side of Jordan, to the north of the lands of Moab and Midian, that the Israelites came in contact with purely pastoral peoples, in the land of Gilead, where were the fat bulls of Bashan, so often referred to in later history, after two and a half tribes of the children of Israel had taken possession of that still beautiful country. The wild cattle of the other side of the Jordan were most probably the buffalo-like creatures which had been imported from across the Euphrates, probably allied to the water buffalo of India, and possibly to those of the same species from Africa. The animals or wild cattle of Europe were certainly not the wild bulls of Bashan.

Where we meet with horned cattle in the Old Testament they are generally found in the flat districts, like the plain of Esdrachon, or the flat lands to the northwest of the Dead sea.—Montreal Herald.

First and Last Record in Circling the Globe

Despite his splendid achievement, Wiley Post didn't start the craze of globe-circling. It really had its beginning back in the days of Columbus, for history tells us that Columbus had an idea that the world was round and that he could reach the East Indies by sailing west. He never got around the world, however, his voyage of 1492 ending up around the Bahamas and his later voyages in the same vicinity.

Bel Canto, a Spaniard, succeeded in getting all the way around in 1522, but it took him over three years to do it, thus setting the last record. Breaks followed after 1577 and 1665, and in 1791, but neither lowered the record much. An Englishman, John Wainwright, made a record of 72 days.

Train made it in 1890 in 67 days followed by Fitzmaurice in 1900, who brought the time down to 60 days. Mears made it in 1913 in a little more than 35 days.

Then men took to the air and in 1926, using both planes and ships, Evans and Wells made it in a little more than 28 days, only to be beat by Mears and Collier in 1927, who set the record at 23 days, 15 hours and 21 minutes. The Great Zepppelin elapsed two more days from the record, and then two years ago Post and Gatty reduced it to 8 days, 15 hours and 21 minutes. Now Post, sailing, made it in 7 days, 15 hours and 50 minutes.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Likes and Dislikes

Half the evil in this world comes from people not knowing what they do like, not deliberately setting themselves to find out what they really enjoy. All people enjoy giving away money, for instance; they don't know that—they rather think they like keeping it; and they do keep it under this false impression often to their own discomfort. Everybody likes to do good, but not one in a hundred finds this out. Multitudes think they like to do evil; yet no man ever really enjoyed doing evil since God made the world.—John Ruskin.

For years I used Fels-Naptha and rather took my white clothes for granted. Then I foolishly tried to economize and wondered why my baby's clothes were becoming so gray. I suddenly decided one day to return to Fels-Naptha and my—what a difference! It gets out all the dirt.

WASH SILKS, RAYONS ACCORDING TO RULES

Original Color and Finish Retained
If Care Is Taken in Laundering

By following a few simple rules suggested by the home economics extension clothing specialists, Michigan State college, silks and rayons will retain their original color and finish after laundering.

The first and most important rule is to make sure whether the color and texture are washable. This can be done by testing a sample in lukewarm suds for five minutes, then rinse, dry, and compare with the unwashed fabric. An inconspicuous part of the garment, such as the end of the belt, seam, or under hem may be used for testing.

Only a pure alkali-free soap in flake or bead form should be used, making a rich suds before placing the garment in the water. The temperature of the water must be right, almost cool, never more than 90° F.

Silks and rayons should never be allowed to soak in suds, but washed quickly. Friction should be avoided by squeezing the suds repeatedly through the soiled garments. Rubbing and twisting are not advisable. The second suds may be used for fabrics shedding dye or for quite soiled garments.

After washing in the suds, rinse the articles thoroughly in three or more cool rinses. Bluing may be used for white fabrics. Quick drying is an important step, and this may be done by rolling in towels between all folds and removing immediately after the first water is absorbed. Doubtful colors should be shaken until almost dry, while fast colors are to be hung away from the sun or heat.

When almost dry, shape and press the garments on the wrong side with a moderate iron. Never use a hot iron, and never sprinkle silk. If the material is too dry, cover with a damp cloth and press.

Knitted silks or rayons should never be shaken, but eased to correct size and dried flat. Never use clothespins or hang up.

"The Working Man," Story of Big Business Has George Arliss

George Arliss, beloved by theatregoers the world over, has found the perfect role in his latest picture, "The Working Man," a Warner Bros. feature which opens Sunday and Monday, September 17-18, at the Palace theatre.

It is a highly spiced comedy drama of American business and youthfully in which the star appears as a short-tempered, soft-hearted champion of "big business" who steals time from his own affairs to straighten out the lives of the orphaned children of his former strongest competitor.

"Captured" Presents a Most Unusual Love Tale in Stark Drama

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT BULLETIN

Ten Leading Causes of Death in Charlevoix County for Jan.-June

What are considered the old age diseases — considered so because death was caused by the wearing out of some important body organ which usually happens in old age — held the leading place among the prime causes of death in Charlevoix county during the first six months of 1933. Of course, the term old age must be taken with reservations. Just like an automobile that has been driven hard which needs a great many repairs while still a young car, so with the human machine — some of its parts wear out faster than others due to the life we lead. And sometimes old age diseases take us while we are still comparatively young.

Cancer is listed with the old age diseases since it rarely is the causative factor in the death of anyone under 30 years, and generally its victims are well over 40 years. Of the 71 deaths listed in the ten leading causes of death in Charlevoix county, 49 were caused by old age diseases. This constitutes five-sevenths of the deaths: heart disease 21, apoplexy 10, cancer 9, senility 6, and nephritis 3.

Pneumonia and influenza together constitute another one-seventh of the deaths. They are diseases with which the cooler climates of the globe have constantly to contend.

There are three deaths listed under the caption of "other diseases of early infancy." Two deaths caused by premature birth are not given with the ten leading causes of death; but the sum total of infant deaths (all causes) is five.

The Children's Fund of Michigan is particularly interested in anything that concerns the welfare of children, and studies each infant case carefully. As the representative of the Children's Fund of Michigan, the District Health department, through its nurses, keeps a close tab on new births. It is a matter of prime interest to the health department to cut down the number of infant deaths by every means possible; by advice and care brought by the nurse to the mother before the birth of the child, and by advice and care of both mother and child after the child's birth. Prenatal nursing and infant care make up a very important part of the work of the nurses of the District Health department. The services of instruction are available, without charge, to all expectant mothers in Charlevoix county by notifying Miss Lockwood, Children's Fund nurse for Charlevoix county.

RELEASE PRIMARY FUND TO SCHOOLS SEPT. 15TH

The latter sum will be collected in corporation taxes from concerns who have received permission to pay the last installment of their levies in November 1.

The $12,639.937 will be distributed on a school census of 1,383,431 children, allocating approximately $9.33 to each child of school age.

State Health Commission Says "No Cause for Alarm"

Thirty cases of encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, have been reported in Michigan since July 1, Dr. C. C. Slemmons, state health commissioner, reports.

The health commissioner asserted, however, that "there is no cause for alarm" explaining that the number of cases "is only slightly above the average" for other years. Municipalities reporting cases of sleeping sickness were:

Saginaw and Detroit, 7 each; Grand Rapids, 3; Bay City, Oakland county and Ecorse, 2 each; and Pontiac, Emmet county, Kent county, Sturgis, Highland Park, Jackson and Flint, one each.

START DRAFTING LAWS FOR LIQUOR HANDLING

Legislative Committee Undertakes Work of Whiskey Regulation

The task of drafting the legislation to legalize the sale of hard liquors in Michigan has been placed in the hands of a sub-committee of the legislative council with instructions to rush its work to meet the possibility of a special session, yet this fall.

The group was also instructed to give attention to drastic amendment of the Wilkowi Beer act which has been subjected to severe criticism since its enactment at the regular session.

Meeting in one of its most productive sessions, the council also nominated several of its members to head sub-committees which will draft proposed legislation on hearing upon banking and old age pensions.

These three subjects, in addition to those involving highway and school financing and small loan regulation, have been listed as the most important which will come before the state solons when the governor summons them into a special session either this fall or next winter.

The governor has indicated that he intends to issue the summons about next January, but there are many who believe that school finances and the demand for liquor legislation will force a session sooner.

Conservation Camps to Furnish Labor for These Projects

About 10,000 acres in state forests will be planted in pine trees this fall through labor furnished by emergency conservation work camps. It has been announced by the forestry division of the department of conservation.

The plantings will represent the first to be made by the state since the fall of 1932. No stock was planted last spring because of lack of seedlings at the Higgins Lake nursery due to forced economies.

Last spring the nursery was heavily seeded. However, two full growing seasons are required before the seedlings are sufficiently large to be transplanted in the forests. This will mean that no more planting will be done the fall of 1934.

EXCELLENT BASS FISHING KEEPING RESORTERS HERE

Most phenomenal catches of small mouth black and green bass are being made in the upper and lower channels between Round lake and Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan, connecting waters. The number taken Sunday has been conservatively estimated at more than thirty, some as large as five pounds in weight. This excellent sport is keeping many summer residents here longer than the usual period. Night-crawler worms, crabs and grass hoppers are being used for bait with equal success.

CITIZENS APPROVE SEWAGE PROJECTS

VOICE SUPPORT OF COUNCIL ACTION MONDAY NIGHT

Need from Sanitation Standpoint and Unemployment Relief Deemed Beyond Question

A large group of local citizens, meeting in joint session with the city council Monday evening, placed their stamp of approval on plans to construct a sewage sedimentation system for Charlevoix.

The meeting was called primarily to hear any objections to the project before final steps were taken. With an option taken upon the proposed site and plans as to the type of system practically approved, rumors became prevalent that the Wilbur location would be undesirable for the reason others from the plant would prove obnoxious. Engineers drawing up the plans, however, have assured the council against such a possibility and the consensus of opinion Monday night favored continuance of present plans.

Under the present setup, the mayor and clerk have been authorized by the council to make application to the State Advisory Board of the Federal Administration of Public Works for approval of the proposed sewage system and for purchase by the board of the sewage disposal revenue bonds which will be issued by the council to pay the costs of the construction.

In the application, the council has set forth that the sewage disposal project is badly needed; first to remove contamination from the river and lake waters used for recreational purposes during the summer resort season, and second, to provide employment to relieve a serious unemployment situation which exists in this city. The sewage disposal project has been requested by state health authorities for the past several years and its construction at the present time has been approved by the city council and various local civic groups.

The cost, estimated at around $70,000.00, will be financed by issuance of sewage disposal revenue bonds to the full amount of the cost of the project. A grant of 30 per cent of the construction cost is sought under provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act to aid in financing. A plan for repayment over a long period of years through an extra charge to water users is being considered, although nothing definite along this line has yet been decided.

Application papers have been practically completed and will be forwarded this week.

INDIANS EASILY WIN FROM EAST JORDAN "9"

Look Sunday Tilt 8 to 1—Have Two Games Coming Week End

Showing the same early-season form which carried them to a long string of victories, the Charlevoix Indians defeated East Jordan, Charlevoix-Antrim league champions, 8 to 1 in a contest at the Legion diamond Sunday afternoon.

Charlevoix scored two runs in each of the 1st, 4th, 5th and 7th innings. Colby and Lord made up the winning battery, while Sommerville and Sommerville worked for the losers. The local team, which fans claim is now the strongest of the present season, had things their own way throughout the contest.

The Indians have two games scheduled for the week end. Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock they meet the Baldwin Colored Giants, one of the strongest pro teams in the state, at the Legion diamond, and Sunday afternoon take on the Camp Wolverine team at the same hour. The Wolverine "9" boasts sixteen victories in 18 games played this season.

A week from Sunday, October 1st, the Indians play Potosky, lining up against the pitching of Amos John, who hurled most of the early season for the local team.

GOVERNMENT REPAIRING STONE BREAKWATER HERE

DISTRICT TEMPERANCE CONVENTION NEXT WEEK

Mrs. Dora Whitney, State President, Principal Speaker

Mrs. Dora B. Whitney, state president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will address a public meeting at 7:30 o'clock next Wednesday evening, September 27th, at the Congregational church.

Mrs. Whitney is an able, interesting and well informed speaker and should have a large hearing at this, her first visit to Charlevoix.

The evening's program will include special musical numbers and a declamatory contest in which all holders of gold medals in the district have been invited to compete for a pearl medal. An offering will be taken to defray expenses.

Mrs. Whitney comes to Charlevoix to attend the Lower Eleventh District W. C. T. U. convention which begins at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, and closes Thursday afternoon. All who are interested in the temperance question are invited to attend the sessions.

Mrs. Adeline Gorham of Bellaire, district president, will preside over the convention. A six o'clock dinner will be served to the delegates Wednesday evening in the church dining room also luncheon Thursday noon.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT DECREASES

DECLINE IN ALL DEPARTMENTS IS REPORTED

Routine Work Started Tuesday Morning Following Registrations and Assignments Monday

Charlevoix public schools opened for the 1933-34 term Monday morning with registration. Class assignments followed and now everything is running smoothly and regular routine work under way.

With enrollment of students practically completed, Supt. O. P. North announced Wednesday morning a decrease from the figures of a year ago. The drop in enrollment is a general one, apparent in all grades from high school down.

To date 358 students have classified in the junior and senior high schools. This number compares with 387 a year ago, or a decrease of 29. The grade enrollment to date is 283, as compared with 320 a year ago, or a drop of 37. The total enrollment for 1933-34 is 641, or a decrease of 66 from last year when the total registration was 707.

Deductable from the 1932-33 total is the county normal enrollment numbering 15. This year the county normal has been discontinued at a time when the registration would have reached a record of all-time. Included in this year's high school enrollment are five students taking post graduate courses.

Following is the enrollment by grades:

Senior high school—12th grade, 50; 11th grade, 69; 10th grade, 59. Junior high school—9th grade, 82; 8th grade, 51; 7th grade, 42. Elementary department—6th grade, 53; 5th grade, 37; 4th grade, 38; 3rd grade, 40; 2nd grade, 29; 1st grade, 55; kindergarten, 31. Miss Helen French, kindergarten instructor, has taken a group of 12 from the overcrowded 1st grade into the kindergarten.

Following a plan proposed prior to school opening, the purchase of second hand books is being encouraged as an economy measure. Only in cases of absolute necessity are new text books being bought.

OLD AGE PENSION LAW IS EXPLAINED

WILL REGISTER PERSONS OVER 21 BY NOVEMBER 15

State Welfare Director Says Boards Will Not Consider Applications Until January 1st

Applications for old age pensions will not be available until the middle of November, County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow was informed recently in a letter from Evelyn Merston, state welfare director.

"I have been advised that there are many inquiries by prospective applicants, desiring to be recipients of pensions," the director wrote. "You may inform them that the application blanks will not be available until the middle of November and that all persons desiring the same may apply to the county old age pension board.

"However, at this writing it is not thought advisable to consider applications until January 1, 1934, and at that time the allowance of assistance will be governed entirely by the collection of the tax."

The 1933 legislature passed a bill providing for old age pension to be financed from a head tax of $2.

Under regulations set up by the welfare department and the law every person over 21 years of age must register with the county clerk by November 15 of this year. The county treasurer is delegated to collect the $2 tax by next March.

The law originally provided that the registration be completed by October 1 of this year. However, the legislature failed to give the measure immediate effect so that the law is not to be enforced until October 17, making it impossible to hold the registration as the law provides. The welfare department extended the deadline until November 15.

The welfare department is now working out a system for the registration and ordering supplies. Director Merston asked that the registration be withheld until supplies and filing equipment are received.

The state plans to furnish the equipment and to pay five cents a name to cover the cost of registration and collection of the tax.

Four of the five cents go for registration and one for collection. The four cents is to be distributed equally between the county clerk and the enumerator appointed by the clerk to handle registration.

GOVERNMENT BUILDING, LELAND LIGHTHOUSE

New Structure Will Replace Services of the Present Lightship

A vessel manufactured of concrete has been cast at Frankfort and moved to the new site of the Leland lighthouse. It has been positioned. Its size, 60 by 60 feet, and 23 feet high, made it a rather unwieldy object for the Lyons Construction company to handle.

The company maintains offices at St. Ignace and Grand Rapids. There is plenty of underwater work in connection with this building and the company hopes to have most of it accomplished this fall. — Elk Rapids Progress.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS SEPT. 30TH

EAST JORDAN HERE FIRST TILT OF 3-GAME SCHEDULE

Thirty Candidates, Including Five Veterans, Reported for Initial Practice Monday Afternoon

With the shortest schedule in Charlevoix high school athletic history in prospect, preparations for the 1933 football season were inaugurated at south side field Monday afternoon.

Due to financial stress, only three games have been scheduled for the coming season. The initial contest is Saturday, September 30th, with East Jordan on the local gridiron, and subsequent games will be played with Boyne City and Harbor Springs on dates not yet designated.

Coach Ray Kipke faces no easy task in forming a team this year. Only five letter men were included in the list of thirty candidates who reported for the initial practice session Monday afternoon. A few others were out for a short period a year ago, but for the most part the aspirants are green, new material.

Of last year's squad, Warren Shapton and Jack Foster, backfield men, Marcus Roen, end, Bill Chambers, center, and George Smith, tackle, were in uniform. Keith Nickerson and Bill Borgman played for short periods in several games. The remaining candidates, including nine freshmen, four sophomores and the balance juniors and seniors, are: Lewis Greenman, Bob Emory, Warren Phillips, Bob Pearl, Jim Rock, Kenneth Ager, Maurice Foster, Bob Neff, Homer Brady, Harold Mayhew, Edward Radle, Rex McGahan, Ralph Shapton, Leslie Shapton, Gordon Neff, John Block, Charles Carey, John Kerchak, Joe Schwab, Charles Scott, Emerald LaBlanc, Franklin Ochs and Kenneth Bini.

Practice sessions this week will be confined to conditioning and instruction on football fundamentals. It is planned to divide the squad into two teams after the games scheduled have been played for a series of local contests. In this manner a full season of football will be available without the expense of transporting the team for outside engagements.

MICHIGAN EMPLOYMENT SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Nearly Every Industrial Group in State Shows in Advance

Marked improvement in industrial employment conditions in Michigan which resulted in the increase of 40,000 factory jobs from July to August, was reported by the state department of labor and industry.

Every industrial group in the state with the exception of one employing less than two per cent manufacturing employees participated in the month's gain.

The period ending August 15 showed a 17.7 per cent improvement over the same period in 1932 in the number of men employed.

Baptist Teachers Are Hostesses

Last Friday afternoon was a happy time for the primary children of the Baptist Sunday school. The teachers gave a lawn party for the occasion. Forty-five little folks joined in the games and refreshments. Mrs. Ernest Peaslee, Marie Dahlquist, Mauri Hardy and Mrs. Guy Smith are the teachers of this department.

FARMERS CAN SEED MEADOWS AS USUAL

Reduced Wheat Plantings Do Not Affect Sowing of Hay Crops

Approved practices for handling acres withdrawn from wheat production under the adjustment contracts fit well in planned rotation, according to R. J. Baldwin, director of the wheat reduction plan in Michigan.

"Growers are permitted under the replacement regulations to plant their hay crops without interfering with their regular rotations," says J. F. Cox, chief of the replacement crop section of the U. S. administration. "They can also plant to permanent pasture on the contracted acres. In the corn belt, the winter wheat region, and the northern and eastern states, wheat is grown in regular rotations in which there hay or pasture planting fits well.

"The farmer, for instance, who grows wheat on a 30-acre field in his regular rotation would, in many cases, leave a strip not planted to wheat along the side of the field to the extent of his reduction or contracted acreage. If it is the practice to seed timothy, blue grass, red top or other grass in the fall, then the entire field, including both that part seeded to wheat and the contracted acreage, can be planted to grass.

COUNTY SCHOOLS GET STATE MONEY

CHECKS TO DISTRICT BEING MAILED THIS WEEK

Apportionment of $41,891.70 of Primary Fund Being Allocated On Basis of $9.33 Per Pupil

County Treasurer Joseph William Flanders this week mailed checks totaling $46,458.18 to the several school districts of Charlevoix county.

The distribution is the first installment of the 1933 primary school interest fund, recently released by the state, amounting to $41,891.70, and $1,566.48, representing a 15 per cent release of Turner money. The county has previously received three payments from Turner funds, each of 10 per cent, making a total of 45 per cent released during 1933.

The primary money, of which Charlevoix county received its share of a recent release of $12,939,937.28, is being distributed on the basis of $9.33 per census child. Charlevoix schools, with an enrollment of 769 pupils, was allocated $7,174.77. Following is the distribution by districts:

District	Pupils	Amount
Bay	120	$1,119.60
Boyer Valley	352	3,284.16
Chandler	46	429.18
Charlevoix	769	7,174.77
Evangeline	391	3,616.03
Eveline	101	942.33
Hayes	272	2,537.76
Hudson	19	177.27
Marion	201	1,893.32

South Arm	367	3,422.31
Wilson	180	1,679.40
Total	4,490	$41,891.70

The state department filed its statement of the primary school interest apportionment September 12. The usual week has elapsed before the fund is actually placed in the school treasuries. A second distribution of about $3.50 per census child will be made later in the year. In addition, $1,000,000 is being made available through loans and immediate payment of last year's accounts.

DEATH TAKES PIONEER LUMBERMAN

J. R. COOPER VICTIM HEART ATTACK SATURDAY

Owned, Operated and Built Numerous Saw Mills Throughout Northern Michigan

Joseph R. Cooper, widely known retired lumberman and one of this region's early pioneers, died of heart attack Saturday noon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lela Simmons, Antrim street. He had been ill but a few days.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Methodist church, Rev. W. W. Hurd officiating. Burial was at Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Cooper was born April 27, 1850, near Toronto, Canada. He came to Michigan at the age of 16 years, one of a large group of Canadians migrating to Northern Michigan at the close of the Civil war. He returned to Toronto after a couple years here, was married in 1870 to Miss Sarah Withers, and then followed his parents to a homestead in Marion township.

Mr. Cooper's early interests were mostly in the lumbering industry. He was one of the operators of the Smithson mill in Norwood township, operated a mill 12 years at Phelps, worked for the Charlevoix and East Jordan Lumber companies, built mills at Ellsworth, Pell-ton and many other Northern Michigan points and was interested in the Two Heart Lumber company in the upper peninsula, his last venture in the lumbering business. Prior to his retirement from business life, he operated a farm implement store here.

Four years following the death of his first wife in 1870, Mr. Cooper was married to Grace Reed in Charlevoix, who also preceded him in death. Surviving relatives are two daughters, Mrs. Lela Simmons, Charlevoix, and Mrs. Hilda McGeagh, Flint; two grandchildren, Mary Simmons and William McGeagh; two sisters, Mrs. S. McIntosh, Onaway, and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, Cupertino, Calif.; two brothers, John Cooper of Evelyn township, and Fred W. Cooper of Portland, Oregon.

In the death of Mr. Cooper, northern Michigan lost a well known citizen and Charlevoix a beloved resident. "Doc," as he was affectionately known, had innumerable friends, young and old alike.

MANY BENEFITS COME FROM FORESTRY WORK

President Roosevelt's Order To Continue Camos Good Insurance

Continued employment of 10,000 men in the civilian conservation corps in Michigan camps through the order of President Roosevelt will materially benefit this state both now and in the future, according to the forestry department at Michigan State college.

Immediate benefits are the employment of men who otherwise would be out of work and who might become a social problem in the cities from which they were recruited. Work done by these men will add to the attractiveness and to the commercial possibilities of the regions in which the camps are situated. Financial returns from the resort trade in Michigan are large but the forestry department says that the continued prosperity of upper Michigan is dependent upon an industry to supplement the recreational vices, and that local wood working factories find proper harvesting of timber are best adapted to the natural resources of the region.

Workers in the conservation camps are performing tasks which will add to Michigan in assuring a future supply of timber. The men were not familiar with wood work at first but now have adapted themselves and are having a good account of themselves. Tree planting, improvement of natural stands, and fire and disease prevention are all insurance of a future timber supply in Michigan.

The men employed to cut the brush along the road from the grange hall to Shaw's corners, in some way broke the telephone wire, which they repaired by fastening one end to two fence posts and splicing the other end with a piece of fence wire and letting it hang loose. It certainly should have worked, but it didn't, until Lawrence Jensen and Frank Lawton repaired the damage in the regulation way.

DELINQUENT TAX IS THREATENING CREDIT

Ability and Unwillingness to Pay Are Two Different Things

The meeting of the American Municipal association closed in Traverse City, Friday.

Paul V. Betters, executive director of the association, delivered a speech in which he pictured the growing evils of the delinquent taxes that are rapidly mounting in the State of Michigan. He said that the results of the delinquent tax is more far reaching than anticipated. Every municipal bond is looked at from that viewpoint.

Unless something is done he declared, Michigan cities will find themselves unable to find a bond market for their securities and one of the chief contributors to the evil is the long term extensions of the delinquent taxes which he avers, makes bond defaults worse.

Michigan is not getting a square deal from the R. F. C. because Michigan is one of three states that are required to give security for loans. This is manifestly unfair declared Mr. Betters. Something should be done to stem the wave of comparative values of municipal securities, he thinks.

MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS

The only special state election to be held this fall will be in the first legislative district of Ingham county. This election was certified by the department of state to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Rep. John G. Rubison. The election will be held at the time of the Lansing municipal election.

The emergency administrative board, composed of two senators and two representatives in addition to the seven members of the regular board, last week made $1,400,000 available for loans to school districts, which have funds impounded in banks. The loans will be made in cases where lack of available funds would compel schools to close.

At the present time more than $4,000,000 in 1933 corporation taxes have been collected and department of state executives estimate that the total 1933 corporation tax will amount to $5,500,000. This is a half-million dollars more than was anticipated in estimates made last spring at the time the state budget was prepared.

Fred B. Perry, director of the gasoline tax division of the department of state, was elected treasurer of the North American Gasoline Tax association, at the annual meeting held in Indianapolis recently. The consensus of opinion at the conference called for reductions of gasoline taxes to a minimum; for active "war" against gasoline bootleggers in order to eliminate unfair competition; and was opposed to diversion of gasoline tax moneys for other than highway purposes.

Chain store licenses have already been issued by the department of state to 40 companies operating 286 stores. The 30 corporations paid $13,795 in fees. The state has been stopped from making the new law effective against 14 of the larger chain store companies which are seeking to test the legality of the new statute.

Air springs that can be adjusted to the weights carried have been invented to increase the comfort of riders in motor vehicles, especially trucks and tractors.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, September 24, is "Reality."

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Matter" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, September 17.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Gal. 5:1): "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage."

But Is Recognized as Property by English Law.

In England the earliest example of legal recognition of tithes is believed to be a decree of a synod in 756. The church received tithes in the Middle Ages, but trouble arose under the reign of Henry VIII. When this monarch raised the monasteries he transferred their tithe privileges to his friends. The tithe is property, and if the government abolished it or even amended it in principle, it is argued, it would then have to reform all property laws. So the tithe question is one of parliament's knottiest problems.

"SHERWIN-WILLIAMS FOR ME" IS SLOGAN

NIGHT PAINTING PREDEES '4 GENERATION' PARTY. Essexville, Mich. (R.R. News 1)—With the aid of motor car headlights, painter works far into night to finish painting the "wee bit house" of Mrs. A. MacDonald, 87 years of age, in time for the gathering of the clan. The occasion is Grandma MacDonald's birthday party for her youngest great granddaughter—6 months old. Four generations of the McDonalds are present. Sherwin Williams Paint, the preferred brand of the MacDonalds for many years, was used on this job.

TINIEST MAN GETS HUGE OFFER
Chicago, Ill.—Mr. Elmer St. Aubin, world's smallest man, contemplates an offer of $500 to paint huge Sherwin-Williams spectacular sign with S-W Kem Finishes. This mammoth sign faces "A Century of Progress" and the Illinois Central Railway right-of-way, at 24th St. and the Outer Drive, Chicago. The midget, Mr. St. Aubin, is 36 inches tall, weighs 21 pounds and is 22 years old.

There comes to mind a scene in the back room of a tavern in a college town. At the table is seated a curly-headed freshman, who has decided that the light of his young life must be addressed in verse. Opposite him is

Those days are vanishing. Boys and girls are not as far removed from one another as they used to be. And parents, who have found themselves obliged to give in on "dates"—single, double and blind, are much relieved when their offspring devotes hours to writing letters. To be sure, the stumps cost something, but the expense is trifling when compared with some of the outlays that youth expects.

COW CALLER SOUCIE

CATCHES "FEVER." Manteno, Ill.—Celebrities in all walks of life are catching the painting fever. Mr. Treble Soucie, 75 years old, seven times a champion cow caller, still brings 'em in from half a mile away—without a megaphone. He's painting his barn with S-W Commonwealth Barn Red—a "quality" champion, too.

COCA-COLA ON BIG TIME! Atlanta, Ga.

—This big, timely reminder to "pause and refresh yourself" is 15 feet across. It is the brightest spot in the "upper stratum" of Atlanta. BUY NOW AND HELP!
NRA is still sweeping onward. From every part of the nation we hear about the wholehearted support that is being given the national recovery program. Once convinced of its practicality, the American people are responding as they have always responded in an emergency. Patriotic people will help to aid recovery by doing their buying this month. Industry is in need of this added sales punch if it is to put through the part it has been called upon to play. Buy in September and Buy American! There must be no hesitation when so much is at stake.

PATRIOTIC BUYING
Much stress is being placed by NRA officials on the fact that September 20 has been marked as the opening day of a patriotic buying campaign that it is hoped will reach sufficient intensity to insure the success of the Trade Recovery program.

Through this stimulated sales effort they hope to maintain the volume of retail trade through the months of October and November until it encounters the usual holiday buying that is expected to carry it along until the first of the year. Unless we have decided cooperation on the part of those whose incomes have been increased the entire trade revival movement may be threatened with failure. As we have pointed out on many occasions—there is no mystery about the entire NRA campaign—unless unitedly we put our shoulders to the wheel we cannot expect success to crown our efforts. It would seem that for a season or a year individual advancement could be forgotten for the good of the nation as a whole. Think this over.

THE MORTGAGED HOME
From "bureaucratic" Washington comes word that closed banks, or banks in the process of liquidation, will not be allowed to accept Home Owner's Loan Corporation bonds in payment of mortgages. The fear is expressed that these bonds would be thrown upon the market and further depress their market value. This arbitrary ruling will prevent thousands of distressed home owners, whose mortgages are held by such institutions, from any hope of obtaining relief. From another source we learn that the relief promised home owners will fall far short of its advance ballyhoo. One man has estimated that not more than two persons out of 21 will succeed in securing loans, while 25,000 workers at an annual cost of $75,000,000 will be needed to carry out the provisions of the act. That in one sense will provide relief—but not in the direction intended by the framers of the law.

CHILD FREEDOM
One of the bright spots in the NRA is its absolute barring of child labor from any industry. Child labor hasn't bothered the upper peninsula mining districts but in the coal mining and in the textile and kindred industries child labor has been the bane of industry. It depresses wages, brings ill health and premature aging on human beings. In addition it presents opportunities for sweat shop practices which can be used on children much more easily than upon adults. America will welcome the banning of child labor from all industry.—Tom Conlin in the Crystal Ball—Diamond Drill.

STANDARD OF LIVING
We hear those who speak about the standard of living—and of the dire things that is going to happen to America if the standard of living in this country is reduced. Not even poverty can lower our standard of living unless we so desire. It can, however, reduce our scale of living, but that is something different. There is an ocean of difference between the standard of living and the scale of living. When we come to understand this difference we have elevated our standard of living.

PROMINENT SUMMER RESIDENT SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Mary B. Sandberg Died at Fountain City House Friday

Charlevoix lost a well known and beloved summer resident Friday morning in the death at 3:30 o'clock of Mrs. Mary B. Sandberg of Glenn Ellyn, Ill., who passed away at the Fountain City House, where she had been spending the summer.

A native of New Haven, Connecticut, where she was born February 7, 1855 Mrs. Sandberg had been coming to Charlevoix for over fifty years. She virtually made this city her "second home" and her civic interest and efforts in behalf of Charlevoix were well known. She had often been a contributor to local newspapers and was only recently author of an expression of appreciation to city officials for the rag week campaign conducted earlier this summer.

Surviving are three nieces, two of whom, viz: Mrs. R. B. Treadway of Glenn Ellyn, and Mrs. H. E. Luff of Oak Park, Ill., were present at her death. The other niece, Mrs. Frank Wyckoff, resides at Glenn Ellyn.

The remains are being taken to Oak Park, Ill., and funeral services and burial were held Monday, September 18th.

Steiner, managers of the Belvedere Hotel, also the latter's sister and private secretary, Miss Rae Grayson, left Thursday morning for a visit at the World Fair in Chicago prior to returning to their home at Clementon, N. Strict enforcement of the law requiring the acquisition of a permit to build an open fire has been ordered by the state department of conservation. A huge reforestation program to be carried out by labor furnished by work-relief conservation camps in Michigan has been announced by the department of conservation. Friday's session was to further the organization started, for report of committees, etc.

Michigan's trapping trade is due for a revival this fall and winter, the state department of conservation believes. Market quotations for pelts have jumped to prices which were not obtainable in 1932. This factor, alone, will probably induce hundreds of trappers who were idle last year to renew their activities. To offset the higher price trend, however, the department said it was entirely probable that fur-bearing animals will not be as plentiful as last year.

Discover Ancient Habitat of the Rhinoceros Men

Traces Found in Hill of Mystery in Transvaal.

Cape Town.—Sensational finds of golden ornaments and other relics of a vanished native race have just been made in the northern Transvaal at a place called Mapungubwe—the Hill of Mystery.

The natives, it appears, long have known of the Hill of Mystery; but they feared the place and never explored it. Thirty years ago a white hermit named Bernard Lotrie lived near the spot. He had accompanied Doctor Livingstone on the famous journey to Lake Niamdi and Lotrie undoubtedly climbed the almost inaccessible Hill of Mystery. But at that time there was no suspicion that a prehistoric settlement existed south of the Limpopo river, and Lotrie's stories of strange discoveries attracted no attention.

Now that valuable relics have been unearthed, men who remember Lotrie have recalled his story of a rich "treasure chamber" in the dense bush near the hill. The golden treasures already found have whetted adventurous appetites, and the hunt is on.

Meanwhile, the Hill of Mystery is being guarded by police, while a party from the University of Pretoria carries out scientific research untroubled by intruders.

A Powerful Tribe.
The most valuable find was a small golden rhinoceros. A very small clan of natives whose ancestors worshiped the rhinoceros still lives in Rhodesia. It is regarded as practically certain that the people who inhabited the Hill of Mystery and smelted gold there were "rhinoceros men."

Discoveries have been made not only on the precipitous hilltop of Mapungubwe, but also in the surrounding country. The rhinoceros men were evidently a powerful tribe in their day, for the bush is impregnated with evidences of old human occupation. Pottery and beads, besides the gold and copper ornaments, have been found over a wide area. A skeleton wearing a metal helmet was among the most interesting discoveries.

It has been suggested that the Hill of Mystery was the burying ground of the foreign invaders who carried off the gold from the ancient mines of Rhodesia. Some of the beads and ornaments appear to be of Egyptian origin.

There is a tradition among the Limpopo that a small yellow people worked the gold and copper mines near the river, trading with travelers who wore white cloth around their heads and rode on camels. For the reason already mentioned, the scientists have had great difficulty in obtaining native guides. "Every one who goes up that hill dies," say the natives. "We don't know why—but they die."

A Formidable Fortress.
The Hill of Mystery is a mass of hard sandstone rising out of the tropical bush of the Limpopo valley. It is the only hill in the neighborhood topped with grass, and it is now clear that the rhinoceros men carried hundreds of tons of earth to the summit of their secret place. The sides are rugged and overhanging, and the scientists only climbed it with the aid of

Bandit-Proof Bank Door on Display

St. Louis.—A bandit-proof bank door, invented to prevent robbers from entering financial institutions either before or after business hours, is on exhibition here.

The mechanism is a chamber of bullet-proof metal, just large enough to accommodate one person. It has two sliding doors. When one is opened, the other locks automatically. Thus, an employee enters the metal chamber from the foyer, closes and locks the door behind him, then opens the door into the banking rooms by means of a secret combination dial.

If anyone unfamiliar with the combination attempts to operate the dial, both doors lock and he is trapped in the small room.

Braille Books Are Now Being Mailed to Blind

New Orleans.—New Orleans blind people who have books will not have to risk the hazards of traffic to go to the public library for their literature under a new system inaugurated for their convenience.

Special cases for the fragile Braille editions have been prepared. The books will be mailed to sightless readers, who, when they have finished reading them, have only to hand them to a postman to have them returned to the library. No card is attached to the wooden cover of the book, and the borrower is not even required to address the book before mailing it back.

Pearl S. Buck's books, the librarian reported, are most popular with sightless readers.

Lead and Zinc Boom in Tristate District

Joplin, Mo.—Lead and zinc ore production in the tristate district around Joplin has gone to the highest levels since October, 1931.

Zinc production has averaged 4,400 tons and lead ore production has averaged 500 tons weekly for several weeks. Zinc production has been stepped up to more than 6,000 tons weekly.

Zinc concentrates in bins in this field have been reduced 21,000 tons in 1933, and now stands at only 14,000 tons, the lowest stage for many years. A year ago stocks in bins stood near 80,000 tons.

In 1933, lead ore stocks have been reduced 5,200 tons and now stand at 9,350 tons.

Chicken and Auto Grow Old Together

Jameson, N. Y.—On the seventeenth day of March, back in 1916, an Ancona chicken was hatched on the farm of J. R. Soderholm and in the same year Soderholm bought a new automobile.

The day the chicken was hatched the broader caught fire and was destroyed, according to Soderholm, who explained that was the reason the date remained fresh in his mind.

Cow Whips Bear

Fort Klamath, Ore.—A cow owned by Ralph Darling is the heroine of this community. Though lacking horns, it fought off a brown bear which attempted to take its calf. The cow still had the best of the battle when Darling arrived and shot the intruder.

YUCCA IS PROTECTED

Out in southern California the yucca are bursting into yellow bloom, and are more abundant than ever by reason of a state law forbidding anyone to pick the blossoms. These shrubs were called by the early Spanish explorers "candles of the Lord."

French Welcome Germans With Spending Money

Paris.—Fifteen years after the World war, the Germans have taken Paris.

A horde of Tenthons has descended and taken possession of the night clubs, theaters, restaurants and cafes, on the boulevards, at the races and in the ballrooms of concert halls, German is the language of the day.

Some of the invaders are German Jews, some are political exiles, and others are tourists. Paris has gathered them in, just as she welcomed American and British visitors of other years.

The warmth of this welcome may or may not have been determined by the fact that the invaders are spending money. Despite the difficulty of transferring capital out of the reich, they are the chief patrons of those places where only money will do.

Probably in deference to them, Paris is having a season of German music.

This School Fines Its Students Who Flunk

Wichita, Kan.—There is one school in this city where it costs to flunk. Traffic offenders haled before the police court are paroled on order they report to the drivers' school. The class is in session one hour, two days every week. At the end of seven lessons an examination is given. If the student flunks he must return to police court and pay his fine. Otherwise, he is released. There is no "cutting" of classes, either.

Tourist Increase Shows Return of Prosperity

Albuquerque, N. M.—Return to normal conditions of prosperity was forecast in an announcement here that tourist travel through Albuquerque is almost double for the last three months what it was for a like period a year ago. Many of the tourists are en route to Chicago for A Century of Progress World's fair.

Herbs Are Still Used in Medicine

St. Louis Is Headquarters of the Industry

St. Louis.—"Herb doctors" and their strange concoctions have disappeared as a result of the swift march of science, but the gathering of herbs and roots for use in making medicine remains as a thriving occupation in the United States.

Recognizing the curative or healing value of many of the homely remedies once brewed from mandrake, snake root or horehound, modern manufacturers of medicine rely upon these and other herbs and roots as the sources of ingredients for many medicines which are sold today over the counters of drug stores.

Tons of herbs and roots are shipped annually to St. Louis, which is the chief market of this kind for domestic manufacturers of medicine. The gatherers of herbs and diggers of roots, scattered through all parts of the country, receive many thousands of dollars annually.

St. Louis commission merchants say that many of them earn a livelihood solely by this occupation which is reminiscent of other days. Plants, trees and weeds growing in their wild state are the chief ingredients of medicine, but some species of plants are cultivated for the market.

Even the leaves of fennel weeds—merely pests to many a farmer—can be sold for five cents a pound. From these leaves is obtained an ingredient for a medicine to treat catarrh.

Slippery elm bark is sought for use in making medicine for bronchitis and dysentery, and frequently large consignments are exported to England for use in manufacturing from there.

The greatest demand is for the roots of wild mandrake. Eugene Donzelot, a commission merchant, who has dealt in herbs and roots for years, said thousands of tons of mandrake—also known as mayapple—are sold in the St. Louis market annually.

Many "Indian doctors" who travel about the country with their shows obtain their medicine herbs and roots in St. Louis, Mr. Donzelot said.

STRANGULATION

Like an octopus, special taxes upon the motorist and the automobile industry have so enveloped us that they threaten to stifle the very life blood of Michigan's principal industry. The Automobile Club of Michigan is marshalling forces throughout the state to fight unfair automobile taxation. Despite fewer cars and less driving this year, motorists of Michigan will pay the greatest amount of taxes in their history. Even if driving does not increase, and if registrations continue at their present low figure, there will be another increase in 1934.

Child Training Course Offered to Parents of Charlevoix County

Fathers and mothers of this county will soon find child-rearing much simpler, for Michigan State college is offering them the opportunity of attending three discussion meetings on common everyday problems on child training.

The title of this project is "Meeting Your Child's Problems" and will be given by Mrs. Lydia Ann Lynde, specialist in child care and training, Michigan State college. Mrs. Lynde is especially fitted for this work through her training and experience. Another pleasing feature of the 4-H club show was the appearance of two demonstration teams who, in the presence of a large audience, demonstrated certain features of their canning club program. First place in this competition was won by Violet Russell and Amaryllis Decker of the Rainbow Cannery.

AT THE MOVIES

Dunn-Eilers Team Most Interesting On Screen

The famous starring team of James Dunn and Sally Eilers will be seen in their fifth picture together, "Hold Me Tight," which comes to the Palace theatre Thursday and Friday.

There are few starring combinations on the screen with histories as interesting as those of these two young players. Ever since "But Girl," startled cinema-goers with two characterizations as natural and effective as any the screen had presented to date, Fox has continued the combination successfully. "Dance Team," "Over the Hill," "Sailor's Luck" and now "Hold Me Tight" enable the hyphenated name of Dunn-Eilers to place in the filmic Hall of Fame.

"The Man Who Dared" to Have Premiere Here Soon

"The Man Who Dared," the new production from Fox, based on colorful incidents in the life of the late Mayor Anton Cermak, begins a two-day engagement on Tuesday at the Palace theatre. It was directed by Hamilton MacFadden from the original screen play by Dudley Nichols and Lamar Trotti.

The story of the picture traces the development of a young immigrant from his humble beginnings as a miner, through one of the most turbulent periods of recent times. It reveals the perseverance and the unswerving devotion of a young man for the religious principles of his adopted country. Against odds that are long enough to have beaten the ordinary mortal, this young man conquers others as he conquers his own small weaknesses to attain his ultimate goal.

EDITORIALS

SOMETHING BESIDES—

Perhaps never before in the history of Michigan has there been so much in-between-campaign activity as has been witnessed this year. From every part of the state comes stories of political clubs being formed, political speeches being made and a general strengthening of party fortifications all up and down the line. Apparently everything is being put in readiness in anticipation of an all-time political battle next year.

Yet in spite of the fierce partisanship displayed by the two major parties, we find many clear thinking persons engaged in an entirely different line of reasoning—we refer to those who claim to see a third party in the making. How far this brand of political speculation has penetrated the public conscience is problematical—certainly not to the point where those expected to lead such a movement are being pointed out.

Third party predictions, however, does call attention to one thing—that in spite of the failure of the voters to pick officials who will respond to their wishes, they are by no means discouraged, and will continue to make changes until success has been achieved. Hollow political promises of reduced cost of government, self-adulation, triumphal tours, queen crowning, party organization, all are likely to be of no avail when the people again have the opportunity to register their convictions at the ballot box.

THEY WHO FIGHT

Already there is murmuring against the Industrial Trade Recovery program. Some would change the plans here and there to fit their own selfish desires, rather than to submit to it as a whole for the national good. The rugged individualism of yesterday struggles mightily against the bonds which bind us together in common cause against the enemy on a thousand fronts. Vision of the new tomorrow becomes blurred because of avarice and greed. Some would seek more than a just profit when the fate of millions of their countrymen hang in the balance. NRA cannot use fighters of that calibre. They must be left behind.

Scripture tells us that when Gideon faced the mighty host of Midianites the Lord commanded him to choose those warriors eager for the fray who only stooped to dash water against their parched lips. Those who threw aside their armor to linger at the wayside while they drank their fill were left behind. Gideon won a great victory though his enemies darkened the valley by their numbers. Down through the centuries humanity has faced many similar struggles. They have come in every age and to every nation. In an imperfect world the crossroads of civilization appears many times. We are at the crossroads now. Shall we let those who would turn us from our true course succeed, or will we go forward to victory? We are choosing our warriors now!

TIME WILL DETERMINE

Although it may fill a long-needed demand for better highway safety legislation, there is already a well-defined suspicion in the minds of many citizens that the new driver's responsibility law is but the entering wedge towards compulsory automobile insurance in this state.

If that was the aim of those who sponsored the new law, instead of a purely safety measure, the chances are that public sentiment will undergo a decided change by the time another regular session of the legislature convenes. In recent years the public has experienced some queer legislation, enacted in the guise of the public good, only to awaken later to find they had been taken for a ride by the racketeers who work with legislative machine guns.

If automobile insurance rates do not increase, if the new measure turns out to be a driver's responsibility law and none other, it will likely be continued as a part of our automobile code. Automobile owners include citizens from all walks of life these days—and they are going to be critical of every bit of legislation affecting their interests.

Time is needed to determine how the new driver's responsibility law is actually going to work out.

SAYS PRESS NOT FREE

I've, Charles Edward Chughlin, the eccentric radio priest, whose insatiable desire to bask in the sunlight of publicity leads him to make many unwarranted statements regarding business institutions and individuals, says Detroit newspapers are unable to print facts because they are supported by advertisers and yield to the wishes of advertisers in suppressing the truth.

When anyone says the policies of metropolitan newspapers, or others of smaller calibre are dominated by advertisers we feel like offering denials and resentment without actually knowing. In all our experience, mostly restricted to the country, we have never seen evidence of the truth of the charge. On the contrary, we can conceive of no large or small publication that can give best service to the public under the controlling influence of outside selfish interests, whether they be advertisers or others.

OUR NEW RELIGION

The sales tax having passed the prohibitory period is now entitled to full church membership privileges along with the rest of the brethren in the tax fold. It was noticeable that when the deacons, who passed the collection plate among the unregenerate had finished counting the pennies within the recesses of the inner sanctum, there was instant jubilation among the faithful in the front pews. And the indications are that those who contributed to our latest freewill tax offering will continue their liberality, and that after paying the salaries and expenses of the many ministering unto us there may be a bit left to nit the heathen without. For great is the land where the burghers rally to the defence of the candle when the clouds hang dark over the kingdom.

PRESS MUST BE FREE

A free press is one of the necessary adjuncts of a free people. That is why the constitution guards the principle so jealously. This principle was written into the constitution, not for the benefit of those engaged in the newspaper business but for the benefit of the people as a whole. Congress has no authority under the constitution to take this away by any licensing system or otherwise. The maintenance of the principle is more important than all of the discussions regarding codes and the national recovery program itself.—Atlantic News-Telegraph.

THIS representation of what the world will offer the wheat farmer for his wheat shows clearly the relationship between supply and price. Since 1928, when the world's output of wheat first became burdensome, the price has been low for the most part. The picture at the top of the chart shows that when the supply is low, the world will pay a good price for wheat, but when supplies are too high, the world won't pay as much. As the chart shows, the price (represented by the hatched bars) has sunk lower, the wheat administration seeks to bring the wheat supply of the United States into line with demand by reducing acreage, and thus to make the price nearer parity, that is, the point at which the return from a bushel of wheat will pay as much as it did in the pre-war period, 1909-1914. The 1933 crop year is not far enough advanced to show definitely what prices will be.

MICHIGAN BELL TELEPHONE CO.

A STATEMENT BY MISS GRACE J. GRAVES

Miss Graves, who is head of the Employment Bureau of the Lucid Private Secretarial School, in Grand Rapids, relies entirely on the telephone in contacting both employers and applicants. She says:

"We use the telephone exclusively in placing applicants. And we will not accept an application that does not give a telephone number."

Other things being equal, the applicant for employment who can be reached quickly and easily by telephone is likely to be the first called to work. Telephone service pays its way. Order a telephone today. Installation will be made promptly.

LEGION ACTIVITIES

A regular meeting of the lower 11th district, American Legion, was held at Bellaire last Sunday and drew a record attendance. Over 250 people sat down to the banquet table at Fisherman's Paradise and some had to wait until others had eaten before they could find a place. The parade at 2 o'clock, led by the Charlevoix and Charlevoix bugle and drum corps, ended at the court house where the entire assemblage, with their post and unit flags and the musicians were arranged in a semi-circle on the lawn and panoramically photographed. Antrim county post and auxiliary unit are to be congratulated on having provided a delightful reception for their comrades of the district. Many thanks are due Miss Lera Smith, proprietor of Fisherman's Paradise, for her kindly cooperation. The next meeting of the district will be held at Wolverine on the Sunday following Armistice day.

Practice for the post bugle and drum corps will be held on Tuesday evening, September 26th, at 8 o'clock, at which time the instructor whom the post has engaged, it is hoped will be present. A full turnout is desired. There will be no practice on the evening of Tuesday.

October 3rd, which will be devoted to the business meeting, recreation period and refreshments. An effort will be made to have present with us that evening a speaker who will explain to the meeting the status of the disabled veteran and his dependents under the latest rulings of the Veterans' Administrative Board. Some of his disclosures, we imagine, will be quite startling.

State, national and post dues for 1934 will be due and payable October 20th. The post dues have been materially reduced for 1934 and notices will go out to members and eligible ex-service men in the near future.

KIBBE-ARCHER MARRIAGE AN EVENT OF SATURDAY

A wedding of interest to Charlevoix residents was performed Saturday, September 16th, at Perry, Mich., when Warren W. Kibbe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Kibbe of this city, was united in marriage to Miss Jean Archer, of Detroit. The couple will reside at Grand Rapids, where Mr. Kibbe has a position with the Standard Oil company.

Census reports show that there are 102 and a half men in this country, 102 and a half women. That half man is probably a radio crooner.

PROTECTION FOR MOTORISTS SOON

CAR OWNER LIABLE AFTER OCTOBER SEVENTEENTH

New Motor Vehicle Law Requires
There Be Financial Guarantee
In Case of Accident

Effective on October 17, Michigan's new motor vehicle financial responsibility act goes into effect, providing that every car owner or driver must show financial ability to meet any judgment which may accrue against him as the result of an accident.

After October 17 the owner or operator of any motor vehicle who causes any personal injury or damage in the amount of $300 or more must, if he wishes to drive, do the following:

Pay within 30 days any final judgment up to the amount of $5,000 for the injury or death of one person, $10,000 for the injury or death of two or more persons or $1,000 for damage to the property of others. In addition, for a period of 3 years, give proof of his ability to respond in damages to the extent outlined above.

The law also requires that car owners or operators must give proof of financial responsibility for a period of three years if they are to continue the operation of motor vehicles in case of conviction for violation of the following state laws: Man-slaughter with a motor vehicle; driving while under the influence of drugs or liquor; perjury or false affidavit under the laws for registration and regulation of motor vehicles; any crime punishable as a felony under the motor vehicle laws; or other felony in which a motor vehicle is used; conviction of or forfeiture of bail upon three charges of reckless driving in 12 months; failure to stop and render assistance after an accident in which someone has been injured.

Proof of responsibility must be one of the following: a policy of insurance providing for claims of $5,000 for one person killed or injured; $10,000 for two or more persons killed or injured; $1,000 for property damage; the bond of a surety company for $11,000; the bond of an individual surety owning real estate in Michigan in the same amount; a deposit of cash or securities with the state treasurer in the same amount.

Failure to pay judgments will result in revocation of the privilege of operating a motor vehicle, surrender of operator's license and all registration papers and license plates on all cars owned by him.

SMALL GAME LICENSES GO ON SALE OCTOBER 1

Upper Peninsula Agencies Have Already Received Supplies

Small game licenses at the new price of $1.00 are now on sale by the hundreds of department of conservation license agents in the upper peninsula and agents south of the Straits of Mackinac will be supplied well before October 1, the department has announced.

Upper peninsula agents received an early supply, it was stated, because of the fact that some of the small game hunting seasons open earlier in that section of the state.

Rabbits, fox squirrels, ruffed grouse and prairie chickens may be taken in the upper peninsula October 1, while lower peninsula hunters must wait an additional fifteen days. The partridge and prairie chicken seasons in the upper peninsula will close October 12. The bag limits and season limits for both birds are unchanged from last year, the state permitting five of each in one day and ten of each in possession at one time or during the season.

The fact that legislative action has reduced the cost of the resident small game license from $1.75 to $1.00 is expected to greatly increase the sale over last year. The non-resident small game license was reduced from $10 to $5.

No "button" will be issued with the license.

Copies of the revised digest of hunting laws are expected to be issued by the agents with each license.

MICHIGAN BELL ISSUES NEW POLICE DIRECTORY

Contains Valuable Information for Police and Public Alike

Continuing its cooperation with law enforcement agencies, the Michigan Bell Telephone company has just issued the third annual Police Telephone directory, containing the residence and office telephone numbers of law enforcement officials throughout the state. The directory is designed primarily as a telephone reference list for use of the authorities in getting into touch with each other quickly at any hour of the day or night, either at nearby or distant points. It is being distributed free through the local offices of the company, to state, county and municipal police organizations.

The first section of the directory lists the location, commander in charge and telephone number of all state police detachments. The second contains an alphabetical list of Michigan's 83 counties, the names of the sheriffs, and their home and office telephone numbers. The third section lists cities and villages, alphabetically, giving the names of the police chiefs and their residence and office telephone numbers. By telephone it is possible to reach any police official listed in the directory within a few moments.

There also are pages of long distance telephone rates between 34 representative Michigan points, references to police use of the teletype writer and the long distance telephone conference plan, and sheets for listing frequently used telephone numbers.

Rapid telephone communication is one of the greatest factors in the apprehension of criminal suspects.

STATE CROPS ENDURE DROUGHT VERY WELL

Larger Yields Than Anticipated Are Now Expected

Michigan crops weathered the severe August drought well, the state crop reporting service said in predicting that larger aggregate yields than were originally anticipated may be expected this fall.

The report covered 16 of the state's major field crops. Only one—grapes—was in worse condition than a month ago. Showers were beneficial to late potatoes and sugar beets which had been suffering from extremely dry weather.

The potato yield was placed at 19,125,000 bushels or about 36 per cent under the 1932 production. The decline was due principally to lack of rain during July and August. Sugar beets on September 1 were 60 per cent of normal with an anticipated crop of 1,057,000 tons.

Crops Less This Year
Beans are expected to yield about 2,232,000 bags—48 per cent less than the 1932 production. The crop was reported to be only 56 per cent of normal. The total corn crop will be less than in 1932, but has survived the drought better than had been expected.

Apples are 31 per cent above the five-year average. The output is placed at 8,100,000 bushels. The report said that Michigan growers would probably find a favorable market for the fruit since production in other states has declined.

The grape tonnage was estimated at 56,938. Last year it was 71,220 tons.

STATE GIVES RIGHT-OF- WAY FOR SHORE DRIVE

Request of Local Representatives Was Granted Tuesday

Right-of-way across state property necessary for the proposed shore drive to Norwood was granted Tuesday by the State Administrative Board in session at Lansing, thus guaranteeing continuance of the project which is now progressing rapidly.

Meeting with the Administrative Board and presenting the request for right-of-way were County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow and Postmaster C. B.

McGibson, member of the local welfare committee. The matter presented by the local representatives was the first to receive attention at the meeting Tuesday, and was granted unanimously.

Work on the shore drive will be continued as long as weather conditions permit and welfare funds are available for financing. It is hoped to complete the project ultimately to Norwood. At the present time workmen are clearing right-of-way to connect the south end of the shore drive at South Point with the east end and west road recently completed on the town line from McKenzie corner to Bell's bay on Lake Michigan.

Wheat: U. S. Exports to Europe and Production in Europe

U. S. Exports to Europe
(Each boat carries 20 million bushels)

Production in Europe
(Each sack holds 100 million bu.)

WHEN Europe produces more wheat for herself she buys less from the United States. That is the feature of the world wheat problem that this chart shows. For instance, in 1921, when many wheat ships were busy carrying the bread grain to Europe, that continent produced only 1,200,000,000 bushels. Since 1927, European countries have been producing more and more of their own wheat and the wheat traffic across the Atlantic has slowed up. In fact, efforts of European countries to supply their needs, and their buying wheat from other countries has just about cut off our wheat exports, as the lone boat for 1933 represented in the chart indicates. The United States doesn't want to withdraw from the export trade, but rather than have grain pile up in the United States or be sold at less than cost, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has begun a wheat plan which will reduce acreage in the United States and bring production down to the point where it can all be marketed at a profit to the farmer.

ANOTHER SPECIAL SESSION PLANNED

GOV COMSTOCK EXPECTED TO ACT IN FEW DAYS

Legislators Will Go to Lansing to Work Out Relief Problems Confronting State

A special session of the legislature to transfer state lands to the federal government as a part of a work relief building program is only a question of days or hours, Governor Comstock said late last week.

The call, he said, will be issued as soon as the federal authorities approve the state's application for a loan of about $3,159,000 to complete the new mental hospital at Ypsilanti.

The application was forwarded to Washington last week as a test project and if approved the state must have legislation permitting the administrative board to lease the lands to the national government until the state repays 70 per cent of the construction cost.

Consider Only This

The special session, Comstock said, will be limited to consideration of this legislation and will be either adjourned or recessed until later in the fall when the sessions will be asked to return to Lansing to consider liquor and other legislation.

"I will not lose one minute in calling a session after I hear from Washington that the Ypsilanti plans have been approved," Comstock said. "That will mean that other hospital projects we will have to offer can qualify under the requirement that the new buildings and improvements are both necessary and useful."

The Governor and his advisors have outlined public works projects which would mean an expenditure of between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 on state institutions. These would provide employment for thousands of men.

Seek Approval of Projects

In addition several communities have projects which they also are seeking to obtain approval for.

All such projects must have been approved by the Washington authorities before the first of the year and the money allotted if they are to be financed with federal aid, according to Murray D. Van Wagoner, member of the state's employment relief committee.

Van Wagoner told the state administrative board that all funds not allocated by January 1 will be used by the federal authorities in a construction program of their own.

In addition to the Ypsilanti project, the state has already proposed three other jobs for federal loans. These include additions and improvements at Traverse City state hospital, the state psychopathic hospital at Ann Arbor and the Howell (Continued on page 7.)

HAYES TOWNSHIP PIONEER TAKEN BY DEATH

Oscar Tillotson, Resident There Fifty Years, Buried Monday

Oscar Tillotson, one of the region's pioneer agriculturists, died Saturday morning at the family farm home near Bay Shore at the age of 89 years. He had resided in Hayes township, Charlevoix county, more than fifty years and was known as one of the splendid men of Northern Michigan.

Mr. Tillotson was born June 7, 1844, at Prairieville, Michigan. He always took an active interest in civic affairs in his community and stood staunchly for right and justice to all.

Surviving him are six children, Miss Margaret Tillotson, living at home; A. G. Tillotson of Bay Shore; J. E. Tillotson of Petoskey; N. A. Tillotson of Charlevoix; Oscar Tillotson of Traverse City and Mrs. Sabra C. Hubbard of Petoskey; and several grandchildren and great grandchildren. Mrs. Tillotson passed away about twelve years ago.

He was a member of the Pentecostal Mission of Petoskey. The funeral was held from the home at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Burial in the family lot in Greenwood cemetery, Petoskey.

Rev. H. A. Baines, pastor of the Pentecostal Mission, conducted the funeral services.

BEAVER ISLAND DEER HERD WILL BE SAVED

That Part of Charlevoix County to Be Closed to Hunting

The Beaver Island group in Lake Michigan, a part of Charlevoix county, and the Midland county oil fields, both in counties open to deer hunting this fall, will be closed to deer hunters.

The conservation commission, while including Charlevoix and Midland counties in the seven that have been reopened to deer hunting with the 1933 season, has ordered the Beaver Islands closed to deer hunting.

At the same time the commission also ordered closed to deer hunting all of that section of Midland county south of highway U. S. 10 and west of highway M-30, which includes all of the Midland county oil fields. This action was taken by the commission because of the large population now included in the fields, the fire hazard, and because of the danger from rifles to the numerous oil tanks.

WATERFOWL BAG LIMIT REDUCED

MICHIGAN SEASON OPENS SUNDAY, OCTOBER 1

Hunting Allowed Until November 30th With Fifteen-Day Shorter Season on Snipe

A reduction in the waterfowl bag limits and a 15 days shorter season for hunting snipe are the only changes made in 1933 from last year's waterfowl hunting seasons, it has been announced by the U. S. department of agriculture.

The regulations as announced by the federal government must be conformed with in Michigan.

The waterfowl hunting season will open at 12 o'clock noon, Sunday, October 1, and will close November 20.

The daily bag limit has been reduced from 15 to 12 and not more than eight of these 12 ducks may be canvasbacks, redheads, greater and lesser scaups, ringnecks, bluewing, greenwing, cinnamon teal, shovelers and gadwells. Last year ten of these excepted species, combined, could be taken in a day.

Twenty-four ducks, or a two days' limit, constitute the number that may be held in possession at one time and not more than 16 of these may be of the excepted species.

As was the case last year wood ducks, eiders, ruddy ducks and buffleheads are given complete protection and may not be killed at any time.

The bag limits for snipe remain the same as last year. However, the season has been shortened from October 1—December 15 to October 1—November 30. All of the regulations concerning snipe also apply to coots. The daily limit is 10 and 20 may be in possession at one time.

The woodcock season is October 15 to October 26, in the lower peninsula, with a closed season in the upper peninsula. The daily bag limit is four in one day and eight in possession at one time.

No change has been made in the geese and brant regulations. The season coincides with the duck season, with a limit of four in one day and eight in possession (combined).

Florida Gallinules and Rails may be taken, noon, October 1 to November 30 with a daily limit of 10 and a possession limit of 20.

SPAWN FISHING IS BANNED THIS FALL

RESULT OF CLOSING THREE FEDERAL HATCHERIES

Lake Trout Closed Season Oct. 20 to Nov. 14—Whitefish Nov. 5 to December 15

As a direct result of the closing of the federal fish hatcheries at Alpena and Charlevoix and at Duluth, Minn., Director George R. Hogarth of the department of conservation, has issued an order rescinding a policy of several years which has permitted commercial fishermen to take lake trout and whitefish during the closed fall seasons that spawn might be secured for the state and federal hatcheries. The three federal hatcheries were closed for reasons of economy.

No fishing for lake trout and whitefish will be permitted during the coming spawning season. The closed season for lake trout in Lakes Huron and Superior will be from October 10 to November 4 and in Lake Michigan from October 20 to November 14. The closed whitefish fishing season is November 5 to December 15 in Lakes Michigan and Huron and November 1 to November 26 in Lake Superior. All dates are inclusive.

Director Hogarth's order abandoning the customary fall "spawn taking" season, represents a radical change in the state's commercial fish propagation program.

In past years when tests made by representatives of the conservation department showed fish had started to spawn, commercial fishermen were permitted to operate and to take lake trout and whitefish during the closed season, on the condition that the spawn obtained be turned over for artificial propagation purposes.

The closing of the three federal hatcheries, which depended almost entirely for their egg supply from the fall spawn taking operations has nullified the need for permitting operators to fish during the closed season. Director Hogarth said. Spawning of lake trout and whitefish is not generally completed before the reopening of the fishing season late in the fall and he expressed an opinion that sufficient eggs would be obtained at that time to take care of the needs of the state hatcheries.

Arrangements will be made to care for all lake trout and whitefish spawn that might be secured during the open season at the Bay City and Thompson state fish hatcheries.

INDIANS LOSE BOTH WEEK END BALL TILTS

Complete Season Next Sunday In Game With Petoskey Here

The Charlevoix Indians dropped both games of a double baseball bill over the week end.

Saturday they were defeated 7 and 2 by the fast Baldwin Colored Giants. The winning battery was Stone and Stone, and Denemy and Lord for the Indians. The Camp Wolverine aggregation was winner in Sunday afternoon's tilt by a 10 and 5 score. Zysk and Wagner were the winning battery, while Lord and Lord worked for the Indians.

The local club will close its season next Sunday when they meet Petoskey at the Legion diamond.

PTA OUTLINES PROGRAM FOR MEETING

FIRST FALL SESSION SCHEDULED FOR OCTOBER 12

Plan to Picture State and Local School Financial Condition as Part of Program

At a meeting of officers and committee chairmen Monday afternoon, plans for the initial meeting of the Charlevoix Parent-Teacher association, to be held Thursday evening, October 12, were formulated tentatively.

An extremely interesting program is in store for this first meeting of the series if present plans may be successfully carried out. The subject for discussion will be "Aims and Purposes of the PTA." A brief history of the local organization will be given by Mrs. Engle VanAllsburg, secretary.

An effort is also being made to provide for school patrons a vivid picture of state and local financial difficulties. An invitation to present the state situation is being extended to ex-Senator Wm. J. Pearson of Boyne Falls. Mr. Pearson is fully qualified for the role through his membership on the Committee of 17 appointed to formulate a state-wide financial relief program for presentation to the state legislature when it meets in special session late this fall or early next year. The information Mr. Pearson is qualified to give on this topic should be informative and instructive. A member of the local board of education will be asked to report on local school finances.

At a social hour following the business session, an informal reception will be given for the teaching staff.

It has been pointed out that due to financial stress, this of all years, should see the fullest possible cooperation between school officers, teachers and school patrons. Without question times are the most difficult ever experienced and problems may be worked out much easier with public cooperation. For this reason a strenuous campaign will be inaugurated to enlarge the membership of the local PTA, bring about payment of dues and large attendance at the meetings. This year's motto, a timely one, is: "Every parent a studying parent; every member a working member."

The 1933-34 officers of the Association are: president, Mrs. Angus Fochman; vice-president, Mrs. Gertrude Dick; secretary, Mrs. Engle VanAllsburg; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Edwards.

MICHIGAN WILL GET BETTER, CHEAPER BEER

Brew Must Be Eight Weeks Old to Sell After December 15th

The state liquor control commission acted Friday to give Michigan better and cheaper beer.

The old limit of eight ounces for a nickel was lifted to 12 ounces and the commission ordered that all beer sold after December 1st must have been aged for six weeks. After December 15th it must be eight weeks old.

A warning was issued that all applications for brewery licenses must be filed by October 15th.

The Rebekah lodge will serve a 25c supper at Odd Fellow hall Thursday evening, September 28.—Adv. 3911.

MILK INCOME DROPS AS FEED COSTS RISE

No Profit to Dairymen When Herd Expenses Rise Rapidly

Michigan dairymen are not sure whether they should celebrate the better prices received by other farmers for feed or to grieve because feed prices have increased faster than those for dairy products, according to the dairy department at Michigan State college.

Records from the 10,000 cows in dairy herd improvement associations in this state prove that the herd owners' net incomes were less last month than previously. There has been a slight increase in the price of milk and of butter but the costs of feeds rose so rapidly that the dairymen's chance for profit decreased.

Members of the associations nearly all fed grain to their cows when they were on pasture. When the pasture failed during the dry weather, both roughages and grains had to be supplied. Both classes of feeds have increased in price faster than milk or its products.

LID OFF FOOTBALL SEASON SATURDAY

EAST JORDAN COMES HERE FOR INITIAL CONTEST

Strength of Local Aggregation Is Problematical—Coach Kipke Announced Probable Line-Up

The football season for Charlevoix high school opens Saturday afternoon at south side athletic field with the Kipmen meeting Coach Ahe Cohen's East Jordan stalwarts in the initial contest of a three-game schedule.

To venture a prediction of any sort regarding the strength of this year's Red and White aggregation would be the wildest sort of speculation. With only four veterans and a group of willing but sadly inexperienced men to work with, Coach Kipke has had a real task moulding a team. Line material is plentiful, but the men are light, and so far there has not been sufficient backfield candidates to make a full list of substitutes for replacements in event of injuries to regulars.

Three letter men have been awarded places in the line and two in the backfield. Marcus Roen will hold down left end, Bill Chambers, center, and George Smith, right tackle. In the backfield, Jack Foster, who showed ability calling signals a year ago, will guide the team, and with him at halfback will be Warren Shanton, who saw action in several games a year ago. A casual observation will show that the team will not average 140 pounds to a man, a decidedly light-aggregation.

Coach Kipke has picked a tentative line-up for Saturday's tilt, as follows: center, Bill Chambers; right guard, John Bank; right tackle, George Smith; right end, Harold Potter; left guard, Harold Mayhew; left tackle, Bill Bergman; left end, Mark Allen; quarterback, Jack Foster; fullback, Charles Hobert; right half, Warren Shanton; left half, John Kerchak. Substitutes for the respective line positions in their order are: Bob Pearl, Homer Brady, Emerald LaBanc, Ed. Radle, Rex McGhan, Kenneth Acer, Keith Nickerson. Backfield substitutes are Grover Genest and Charles Carey.

East Jordan will have the advantage of having played one game when they come here Saturday. The Cohen clan last week defeated Frankfort in their season-opener, and in addition has quite a few veterans from last year's strong team.

In the other two games scheduled, Charlevoix will meet Boyne City at Boyne on October 21st, and play Harbor Springs on the local field the week following, October 28th. There is a possibility that the open date between the first and second games may be filled.

BARNARD PEOPLE GIVING BENEFIT SUPPER OCT. 6

Rallying to the aid of a stricken neighbor, residents of the Barnard district will serve a benefit chicken supper at the Barnard grange hall the evening of Friday, October 6th. Serving will start at 6:30 o'clock and continue until all have been accommodated. The culinary ability of Barnard matrons needs no exploiting and, without a doubt, many will rally to this worthy cause.

ASK BIDS ON LOCAL PIER IMPROVEMENT

WILL BUILD NEW FENDER PROTECTION IN CHANNEL

Project Comes Under Provisions of National Recovery Act to Absorb Unemployment

With the aim of starting as early as possible on improvements to be made on piling protecting the pivot pier beneath the swing bridge crossing the channel between Round lake and Lake Michigan, the state highway department will open bids from contractors at Lansing on Friday of this week.

The bids will be for constructing fender protection and pile clusters on the north side of the channel to replace the structure which is now rapidly falling into decay. While the exact content of the contract is not available, it is understood the present pier structure will be entirely rebuilt.

The project will be built under provisions of the National Recovery Act. Out of a total of $68,222.00 allotted to Charlevoix county for contract work to relieve unemployment, $6,000.00 has been allocated to this improvement work. Another allocation of $20,000.00 has been made for surfacing of the new relocation of M-131 north of Boyne Falls. At the present time no request for bids has been made on this highway project, nor has the balance of the original sum allotted to Charlevoix county been allocated to any other specific projects. It is quite probable action will be taken shortly, however.

Under the conditions of the National Recovery Act, contractors must use as much local labor as possible on these jobs and a minimum wage scale of 50 cents per hour for unskilled workers and a 40 rate for unskilled workers has been provided. Full cooperation with the provisions will be expected from the contractor awarded the job. The unemployment-relief projects, under which the local improvement is listed, are handled by the state highway department. Finances are derived from an allotment of over twelve million dollars for Michigan.

While the nature of the bridge improvement project is not such as to warrant employment for a large number of men, it will provide work for a considerable period for many. Workmen for the project will be provided by the local welfare committee, which only last week asked for a registration of all unemployed men in order to have them listed and available when needed. Those who have not already registered are requested to do so at once at the Information Bureau.

CAMP WOLVERINE MAY BE OPEN THRU WINTER

Indications are the Springvale C. C. camp known as the Wolverine C. C. C. camp will not be closed this winter. The men will be kept busy at various kinds of park and road work. Thirty-two of the men are now stationed at the biological camp on Douglas lake. They will clear up property around there controlled by the U. of M.

Another wolf, scalp was credited to Ed. Mayer's ram, which has been used for years to hunt the animals. The ram hunted an invading wolf in the head and broke its back.

CITY OFFICIALS ATTENDING HEARING ON LOAN APPLICATION

Charlevoix's application for a loan to construct a sewage disposal system under provisions of the National Recovery Act was to be heard at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning before state administrators in Detroit.

Complying with a wire requesting a representative group of city officials be present for the hearing, Mayor L. S. See, City Attorney Rollie L. Lewis, Deputy City Clerk Oakley Hammond and Aldermen Kibbe, Fessenden, Carey and Higman left Tuesday to attend the meeting.

It is understood Charlevoix's application must first have the approval of Michigan administrators of the National Recovery Act. The matter goes to officials at Washington for final approval.

PROBLEM OF FUEL COST IS SOLVED

Charlevoix County Bank installs the Latest Fuel Saver.

Waste of fuel and labor may be eliminated by the electrically controlled stoker, the Combustioneer, meeting every requirement in the small home furnace or as large as 200 horse power boiler in commercial use.

The Combustioneer automatically feeds 1 1/2 inch screenings to the fire in the exact quantity needed to maintain the degree of temperature or steam pressure desired in hot air furnaces or hot or steam boilers, in domestic or commercial use. In operation this stoker automatically supplies air to the fire in exact proportions necessary to obtain complete combustion, and to extract all of the available heat units from the fuel in the process of forced under-feed firing.

By this method of scientifically supplying the fire with proper quantities and proportions of coal and air, the smoke nuisance is eliminated. Improper mixtures of coal and air, common with hand firing, may be likened to feeding gasoline to an automobile motor with the choke open.

Due to its ability to burn the smaller sizes of coal with greater efficiency, the Combustioneer makes very substantial reductions in fuel bills, anywhere from 30 to 60 per cent as compared to hand firing.

The Combustioneer is being introduced here by O. L. Bartlett, authorized dealer, of Oden, Michigan, and serviced when need be by Wood Bros., local hardware, at 403 Bridge street.

One of these wonderful stokers may now be seen in operation at the Charlevoix County Bank.

CUT POTATO SHRINK BY CAREFUL METHODS

Losses Will Count Heavily In This Year's Unusually Short Crop

Income from potatoes on Michigan farms can be increased this year even with the unusually short crop if extra efforts are made to avoid the usual shrinkage caused from careless harvesting, handling and storage.

The appearance of the potatoes has quite an effect upon their market price. Cool, clear days are best for harvesting if it is possible to choose the time. Soil sticks to the potatoes if they are dug on a rainy day or if the ground is very wet. It is best to leave the potatoes on top of the ground for an hour or so after they are dug. They then dry enough to the dirt falls off and the skin of the tuber is a better color.

Turning the flow of the potato digger too near the surface damages a lot of potatoes that could be readily sold. Potatoes injured by fork tines when dug by hand are ruined for the table, and often damaged other potatoes in storage when the injured spuds rot.

Many potatoes are bruised because they are tossed too far into crates when they are picked up. Bruised potatoes rot readily in storage and are discolored even if they are used before they spoil. Hauling potatoes loose in wagon bruises many more tubers than would be injured if they were handled in crates.

Stored potatoes need air. Piles should not be so large that part of the tuber receive little ventilation. Doors and windows of storage cellars should be kept open whenever possible during the first few weeks potatoes are stored. Temperatures should run from 50 to 60 degrees in the storage period.

Youth Leads in Ranks of Crime, U. S. Bureau Shows

Active Criminals Under 30, Bureau Shows.

Washington.—Youth continues to predominate in the ranks of crime. Boys and girls of nineteen form the largest individual age group in the criminal element. One-fifth of all known crimes are committed by persons under twenty-one, three-fifths by persons under thirty.

This was the record written in youth finger prints in the files of the United States bureau of investigation during the first six months of 1933. While it set no precedent it added still another chapter to the story of youth's leadership in crime which has been told periodically by the investigation bureau ever since it began several years ago to catalogue finger prints of every person arrested for a criminal offense in the United States.

This time, analyzing its statistics, the bureau found in them a new indication that it is a short step from a minor first offense to more serious and deliberate crimes.

Nineteen year olds, it was pointed out, exceeded the number of eighteen year old offenders by only 10 per cent when the whole group of offenses was taken into consideration with minor crimes pulling the average down. But in the more serious offenses the number of nineteen year olds exceeded the number of eighteen year olds by 21 per cent; carrying weapons, 37 per cent; assault, 34 per cent; robbery, 28 per cent.

Take to Serious Crimes.

"These figures," the bureau stated, "tend to indicate that youthful offenders go quickly to the more serious crimes."

During the first half of this year, the bureau reported, 159,993 arrests were made in the United States and the finger prints of the arrested persons transmitted to the Department of Justice. Of that total, 31,297, or 20 per cent were under twenty-one years of age and 62,977, or 39.5 per cent, were under twenty-five.

Of the total number arrested, the bureau said, only 11,923, or 7.5 per cent, were women. Their most frequent offenses were disorderly conduct, drunkenness and vagrancy, of which 1,963 cases were reported; larceny, with 1,910 cases, and sex offenses, with 1,326 arrests.

Thirty-five per cent of the 159,993 persons arrested during the six months was second among the more youthful criminals, while disorderly conduct, drunkenness, and vagrancy was third with 3,301 cases. In addition there were, among persons under twenty-one, 2,129 cases of robbery, 2,158 of auto theft, 309 of criminal homicide, 499 of rape, and 494 of carrying and possessing weapons.

At the end of June, 1933, the bureau said, there were 3,780,581 finger prints on record in its files, and 4,901,443 index cards, containing names or aliases of criminals. In the month of June, it was said, 3,117 fugitives from justice were identified through these records.

Total Ages of London Family Thousand Years

London.—That he has the biggest family in London is the claim of Frederick Henden. Henden has had 21 children, 10 of whom are still living, 61 grandchildren (as far as he can remember), and 10 great-grandchildren.

Himself one of twins, Henden had 23 brothers and sisters, and as far back as the family history can be traced the Hendens have always had large families. His children are carrying on the tradition, for one daughter has 15 children and another 12. Next year the total ages of the family will reach 1,000 years, and Henden, who will be seventy-three, has only one ambition to give a party and invite all his family, so that they could all be together. The Henden family has the distinction of being the biggest family mentioned in the London Roll of Honor, for 47 sons and grandsons are mentioned as having fought in the world war.

20 Fit on Postage Stamp

London. Painter of miniatures so small that 20 of them will fit on a postage stamp, Stanley A. Birchall of London, formerly of the Grosvenor guards, claims that they are the smallest pictures in the world.

Two, about one-eighth of a postage stamp in size, have been purchased by the queen. One is a seascape showing a sailing vessel at dusk and the other a still life of marigolds in a blue vase. To appreciate the pictures fully it is necessary to use a microscope. Many find it difficult to believe that the miniatures are real water colors painted with a brush.

Ulling the boy as the "Buddy Jones of checkers," Gill took him to Oklahoma City for a visit. Redrobe is back at home now, planning to practice on an old board with the folks at home so he can get in shape for some of the major tournaments.

Farley's Name Costs

Taxpayers $10,000

By W. L. BRUCKART

Washington. Post Master General James A. Farley's name is going to cost the taxpayers of the country some $10,000, about which there was no advance planning or codes or anything. It comes about in this fashion: The new building that is to house the Post Office department will have a couple of gigantic blocks of stone, near its entrance on which are engraved the names of all postmasters general since the first. The contract for the building and, of course, for those two engraved stones, was let during the administration of President Hoover, so that the last name on the list was Walter F. Brown of Ohio. But along came a change in administration and a new head of the Post office department, and his name had to be included.

The two great stones carried an equal number of names when they were shipped from the Indiana quarry. To include the name of Mr. Farley, the names on one stone have had to be shaved off because they exactly filled the space. They are now being reworked in some what closer proximity to each other so that Mr. Farley's name may be placed in the list. The contractors said that the cost was approximately $10,000.

Fruits in Order for Daily Menus

Furnish Vitamin Supplies, Specially Important, at Small Cost.

A new interest is being shown by housekeepers in the relation of food value and cost. Foods are being chosen not only by taste, but on the regard to food value, but in regard to the relation of cost to these other factors.

One of the bright spots in the life of the woman who considers all these things is the fact that fruit has been and is at an unusually low price. Fruits contribute largely to our supply of minerals and vitamins. The fruits that are used most often in our daily life are probably oranges, lemons and apples, all of which are now staple in our markets. While all of us like a variety in our foods, we can safely choose our fruits with reference to price, as far as food value and taste are concerned. If, for instance, you find a bargain in lemons, which are now at a particularly low price, you use them as your principal fruit for the week. If you use such vegetables as cabbage or lettuce as well. The same is true of apples.

A very interesting comparison of fruits commonly used has been made recently by Doctor Eddy of Columbia university. Fruits are compared in reference to the important mineral content to the content of vitamins A-B-C, the best known vitamins. (B has been divided into two parts—one known as C—but these parts are usually found together in various proportions.) You will note how these vary. You will not depend, for instance, upon prunes for Vitamin C, but you can get a large amount of Vitamin A from them. Next in A content comes bananas, which also supply some units of B and C.

It is only recently that we have been able to confine the vitamin content of food in units. For a long time comparison was made much more generally by checks one, two, and three. Of course not all foods have yet been tested by units, but work is continuing in this respect.

In checking cost of food in comparison to food value at the prices indicated, oranges would be the cheapest source of Vitamin C; prunes and bananas the cheapest sources of Vitamin A. If raw cabbage was used for salad to furnish Vitamin C, your diet would be balanced both for cost and vitamin.

The banana, it is interesting to note, has arrived at a new standing in this dietary in the past few years. It has always been a favorite treat for children, but had been considered not too easy of digestion until it was discovered that a ripe and an unripe banana were completely different as far as digestion was concerned. The ripe banana is now being used in infant feeding. The crushed pulp is given a very early age. For best digestion, either for old or young, bananas whose skins are slightly blacked with brown should be used for eating raw. If bananas are to be cooked, it makes no difference whether they are ripe or unripe. Baked, sautéed and broiled bananas are used often now as dessert or as a meat accompaniment. They are also used as apples are in the preparation of such desserts as brown betty.

Bananas With Bacon.

1/4 pound bacon

Roll half lengths of peeled bananas in strips of bacon. Secure with toothpick. If necessary, broil under flame; or bake in oven-proof dish in a hot oven, 40 degrees Fahrenheit, about 15 minutes, or until bananas are tender and brown is crisp. Bake at least once during the baking. Whole bananas may be wrapped in bacon and cooked in the same way.

Fried Carrots and Apples.

4 medium-sized carrots
4 tart apples
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt

Scrape the carrots and cut them lengthwise into thin slices. Core ap ples but do not pare and cut into slices about 1/4 of an inch thick. Place a single layer of the apples and the carrots in a large skillet with the butter, cover tightly and cook until well browned, turn, and brown the other side. Just before the cooking is finished sprinkle with the sugar and salt.

Banana and Apple Brown Betty.

3 cups bread
3 tablespoons butter
2 apples
2 bananas
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Cut bread into dice and saute with butter until brown. Peel apples and bananas, cut very thin. Dredge with sugar mixed with cinnamon. Cover bottom of baking dish with the bread, then add fruit and remaining bread in alternate layers, saving a few of the crumbs to put on top. Bake one-half hour, covered, and the last fifteen minutes uncovered, in a moderate oven, 375 degrees Fahrenheit.

Business Error

"Finance requires genius," said the admiring associate.

If you want to GET RID of Constipation worries—

Science says Today use a LIQUID Laxative

1. Control intestinal action exactly—no "purging"
2. Measure to suit your individual needs to the drop
3. Banish Bowel Fatigue and the laxative habit

Here's Why:

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and in some cases even affect the liver and kidneys.

A doctor will tell you that the wisest choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation. Fortunately, the public is fast returning to the use of laxatives in liquid form.

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

In buying any laxative, always read the label. Not the claims, but the contents. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription preparation in which there are no mineral drugs. Its ingredients are on the label. By using it, you avoid danger of bowel strain. You can keep the bowels regular, and comfortable; you can make constipated spells as rare as colds.

The liquid test:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels", but strong cathartics.

First, Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find is suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving regularly without any need of stimulation.

Syrup Pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used. It contains some of the most powerful ingredients which are perfectly safe for the youngest child. Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Cremation of a Buddhist Monk

Here, at Sarnath, India, is the funeral pyre of the late Sri Demavilla Phamagada, well known Buddhist monk and preacher and one of the foremost authorities on Buddhism. Over 100,000 followers of Buddha came from the outlying districts of India to have a last glimpse of their departed religious leader.

period had previous arrest records already on file in the bureau of investigation, it was said.

"This does not mean that they were previously convicted, nor does it mean that they were previously charged with committing the same offense," the bureau explained, however. "It means merely that at some previous time they were arrested and finger prints and copies of the arrest records were forwarded to the bureau at Washington."

Six of each ten arrested for violation of the narcotic drug laws and approximately four of each ten charged with forgery and counterfeiting, disorderly conduct, drunkenness, vagrancy, robbery and embezzlement and fraud had previous records," the report added.

Burglary Most Popular.

The bureau found burglary the most prevalent crime among eighteen and nineteen year olds. During the half year, it was said, 6,233 persons under twenty-one were arrested for this offense. Larceny, with 5,835 arrests,

Racket Picks Coin Off Family Tree

Despite Warnings Hundreds Fall for Swindle.

London.—Americans in search of a family tree should take warning from the latest of many statements about bogus genealogists issued by the United States consulate general in London.

For, according to the consulate general's office, these fly by night gentry this year are swamping a richer harvest than ever from the United States at the expense of those people who believe they are missing heirs to vast fortunes or have claims to noble birth.

Sixty letters a week are being received at the consulate general from Americans who believe they are missing heirs. As usual, most of them have no legitimate claim to any fortune and are told so by return mail, but for those who write to the consulate general there are hundreds of others who place their claims—and their dollars—in the hands of bogus genealogists.

At the consulate general's office there are hundreds of cases on record of people who have been defrauded of their hard-earned coin by these men.

Only recently a trickster living in London started—or claimed—to have started—to compile the history of the Bennett family. Hundreds of Bennetts in America and Britain were enticed by this man, who said he thought they were associated with this "noble family." He promised to have a record of all the Bennetts privately printed. The dollars rolled in but the subscribers are waiting for their book.

The ancient Society of Genealogists is up to arms at this traffic, which they contend is diminishing the fair value of all latent genealogists, but the authorities have a hard time in catching the swindlers, who move from one address to another with great rapidity.

I'm a bride 23 years old and when I go to bridge parties and dances I want my hands to look soft and white—even if I do my own wash and housework. That's why I think the world of Fels-Naptha Soap—because while it gets everything clean so quickly it's gentle as a lamb to my hands and clothes.

Quickly but gently—that's how Fels-Naptha loosens dirt. Its two safe, lively cleaners—good golden soap and plenty of naphtha do a beautiful wash with less work. Thanks to this extra help, your hands are out of water sooner. And did you know there's soothing glycerine in every bar of Fels-Naptha?

CODE FOR POLITICIANS

While we are on the subject of codes here is one that has been suggested for politicians as an aid to the National Recovery plan:

No more wasting of public money.
No padding of public payrolls with relatives.

No bribes taken directly or indirectly.

No favoritism to political friends.
A five-day week eight hours a day.
No alibis.
No ballyhoo.

No passing the buck.

IMPATIENT

As a people we are impatient. We chafe under restraint and are critical of those who would warn us against haste.

And now we are engaged in adopting new policies in the field of industry and finance that are going to affect us for a long time to come.

If we would avoid failure we must proceed slowly. The "hurrah boys" style pursued by this country during the World War cost the nation many billions of dollars.

Those who advised against "spendthrift" methods were frowned upon, and in many instances accused of being unpatriotic.

We brooked no interference with our plans. Later came realization of our mistakes. We are now engaged in a similar struggle, not on the field of battle, but in the marts of trade where the race of men goes by.

Warning signals are again being hoisted. We will be wise if we pause to counsel with those who have guided us in the past. Both industry and finance have certain rights that cannot be wholly ignored.

Both will be patriotic if we give them the opportunity. It is a good time to mix common sense with enthusiasm.

FARMING IS FARMING

What will be the results of the government attempting to control production and influence the price of farm products is a question we are constantly asked.

Speaking frankly, we don't know what the results may be. So much depends upon the co-operation of farmers, processors, and consumers.

And upon the methods of the federal agencies in directing the program, that any answer partakes of a theoretical discussion. We are confident, however, that no matter what the results are in attempting to regulate production and influence prices, the farmer's work of operating his own farm will be ever the same. No matter what the state or the federal government may do, the farmer's work will not be changed. By that, we mean he will have his farm management problems. He will need to be directed to the breeding of better cattle, feeding and caring for them, improving his acres, organizing his time to use to best advantage, and carrying his share of responsibility in the community.

Certain fundamental things in all life's problems are ever the same. No matter what kind of government we may have or what plans may be set up for improving an industry, it will not put these fundamentals aside and relieve the individual of responsibility. It is well, therefore, for every farmer to continue to lay plans to do his work better, to operate his farm on an efficient basis, to look for ways and means to market his products better; in short, to taking care of his own business.—Hoard's Dairyman.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES ADVISE AND GET BUSINESS

Another truckload of mail order catalogues was distributed through the Archbold post office recently.

The catalogues contain many handsome pictures of the merchandise the catalogue houses want to sell to farmers and small-town people who have a few cents left and want to get the most for the money.

Each catalogue is the enemy of the home-town merchant and is intended to snatch business away from the small-town merchant who keeps up the school, the churches, the hand and local institutions of all kinds. The catalogue houses pay no taxes in the home town and thus can make prices a trifle lower to those who do not think that they must pay higher prices in the end if they send the money out of town.—Archbold, (O.) Buckeye. The great inroads the catalogue houses have made in many communities is because the local merchant refuses or else does not fight printers' ink with printers' ink.

FARM RELIEF

Perhaps we may be pardoned for not being able to intelligently follow the intricate policy of the administration looking toward farm relief. On one side we find the Department of the Interior dumping $22,700,000 into the reclamation and cultivation of between 50,000 and 100,000 acres of arid land in Wyoming, while at the same time the Department of Agriculture levies heavy taxes on the consumers of the country for taking farm land out of cultivation under the farm relief plan. If the government succeeds in making a house divided against itself stand, it will have added something to the wonders of modern creative legislation. The nation is going to follow the experiment with a great deal of interest.

KROGER FOOD DEMONSTRATION IN SOUND PICTURES HERE MONDAY

Here's an announcement of interest to housewives of Charlevoix and adjacent territory. Next Monday evening, October 2nd, at 8 o'clock, a series of free talking pictures, sponsored by the Kroger Food Foundation, will be given on the second floor of the local Kroger store.

In the way of explanation, the Kroger Food Foundation is an organization founded by the Kroger Grocery & Baking Company, whose purpose and work is that of testing, analyzing and cooking foods. It is a process of checking, rechecking and double-checking, in order to insure foods of the highest quality for customers of Kroger stores. Under actual home kitchen cooking conditions, menus and recipes have been developed, new products tested, and old ones made into fresh new recipes. The Foundation maintains a staff of home economists, who are constantly engaged in answering questions and giving advice to women about foods, and in disseminating the results of the Foundation's tests and discoveries.

Last week a three-day Foundation demonstration in Grand Rapids drew an attendance of approximately 14,000 women. Due to the lack of facilities here for the usual demonstration, a series of pictures—entertaining, instructive and helpful—has been arranged for the housewives of this district. Among the titles of the sound pictures to be shown are "The Wife Wins," "The Battle of Bills," "Thought for Food," educational pictures and features including "The String Trio" and "Origin Seed."

The program is entirely free to everyone and, like the Foundation purpose, is being sponsored as an aid to women of the Charlevoix district. A cordial invitation is extended all to attend.

We will pay you cash for your old car. (Renj. Brown—Adv. 3912.)

FORGOT THE EXCUSE

On little James' first day at school he was given a card on which his mother was to write the date of his birth. The following day he arrived late, and without the card.

"James," said the teacher, "you must bring an excuse for being late, and don't forget the card about when you were born."

All out of breath the next day, James rushed in holding a note from his mother. "Teacher," he gasped, "I brought the one about being late, but I forgot the excuse for being born."

GAYLORD NAMED FOR NEW HOSPITAL SITE

Long Proposed Sanitarium Expected from Relief Program

The state sanitarium commission last week named Gaylord as the site for Michigan's new tuberculosis sanitarium, voting also to apply for a loan of $250,000 from the federal bureau of public works to finance the start. The city of Gaylord donated a plot of ground for the project.

While the quarter million will make possible only one-half of the proposed institution, this will provide facilities for 200 patients. Under the work relief program, the government will advance the cost of building, the state to repay 70 per cent at a later date.

The sanitarium was first proposed in 1931 by former Speaker Fred R. Ming of Cheboygan, and a definite appropriation from malt tax collections was designated for the purpose. These collections, however, were used instead to meet the state's debt to the counties for the care of tubercular patients and no buildings fund was ever created.

The 1933 legislature set 1935 as the date of construction for the sanitarium. With the aid of the federal government the project can be started sooner than that, and the loan repaid in 1935.

SALES TAX EXEMPTIONS UNCHANGED

FARMERS AND MANUFACTURERS STILL MUST PAY

Attorney General O'Brien Rules Tax Administration Board Has No Power to Change Act

No exemptions from the sales tax may be expected by farmers and manufacturers until such a time when the legislature amends the law to conform with its previous resolution providing such relief.

At a regular meeting last Monday, the state board of tax administration was advised by Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien that it had no authority to grant exemptions under the general sales tax act, and that such action would invalidate the act.

The board, however, did adopt a resolution, calling upon Governor Comstock to include in his special message to the first special session of the legislature a plea to amend the sales tax act to provide the exemption.

James E. Morgan, managing director of the tax administration board, strongly supported the act in a radio broadcast given Monday evening. His address, in part, follows:

"Any discussion of the sales tax starts with the reason for the sales tax. That reason is not hard to find. It is the same trouble that has afflicted most of us in the past year.

"On January 1st of this year the State of Michigan found itself broke. It had an over-draft in the general fund of approximately $10,000,000. It had assets it could not turn into cash. It had bills it could not pay and the outlook for any betterment was decidedly gloomy.

"For years the state's overhead and cost of doing business was mounting by leaps and bounds until the burden became intolerable. This burden has been born by one class of people. This cost of government has been placed on the shoulders of real estate owners.

"Only 30 per cent of the people of this state have been paying this tax burden; and they now, like the state, are broke and no longer able to pay.

"It became evident early in the year that the old methods of collecting taxes have broken down and that the state could no longer look to real estate for means to carry on these activities. Property owners must be given relief or else many would lose their homes and places of business.

"The legislature, in casting around for means of raising necessary revenue, passed the general sales tax act.

"In 1932, the budget for general state purposes was in excess of $23,000,000, and that amount, gentlemen, was assessed against real estate—your home and my home.

"In the last session of the legislature, the budget for general state purposes was $19,000,000—a reduction of over $4,000,000 from the budget of the year before, and, fellow taxpayers, this amount will not be assessed against your home—your store—your property, but will be obtained by the very fair and very just sales tax.

"The estimated requirements for state welfare during this year will be $24,000,000. The federal government has provided $12,000,000 of this sum which the state is obliged to match, dollar for dollar—and this $12,000,000 is made possible only by the sales tax.

"We expect from the sales tax $31,000,000, $12,000,000 of which is for welfare. Without the sales tax this burden would have been placed on real estate—which undoubtedly would mean the loss of many more homes, because of unpaid taxes.

"Under the old system of taxation approximately 30 per cent of the people of the state were paying all the expenses of the government. Under the sales tax, everyone is paying his share, and the figures of the United States census show that it will only cost the average citizen $12.00 a year.

"It appears evident that employment is increasing—that business is on the upturn. The returns received so far under the sales tax indicate that we may receive revenue in excess of our requirements. If we do, we will be able to help the schools."

WELFARE COMMITTEES IN SESSION

MET TO CO-ORDINATE COUNTY RELIEF ACTIVITIES

Nearly Fifty Thousand Dollars for Welfare Provided in Charlevoix County Since March 16th

Aiming to co-ordinate welfare activities in Charlevoix county, a meeting of welfare and re-employment directors was held Thursday evening at the Hotel Charlevoix.

The business session, at which present and future relief projects were discussed, followed a 6 o'clock luncheon. Attending were F. O. Barden and Sam Tokely of Boyne City, Samuel E. Rogers and Dr. B. A. Becker of East Jordan, William J. Pearson of Eveline, William J. Pearson of Boyne Falls, and H. A. Craig, C. B. Meggison, Arthur Bergman and Fenton R. Bulow of this city.

In order to remove any misunderstanding of the public in regard to qualifications necessary to entitle employment under the federal relief system, and to differentiate between the functions of the welfare and re-employment committees, the following statement was issued for publication:

"Any person desiring aid must make application to the local welfare committee chairman or authorized agent, on forms furnished by the state.

"Persons eligible for welfare aid must be in immediate need of food, fuel, shelter or home medical needs. (No hospitalization is included in welfare aid). Work will be furnished in accordance with the needs of the applicant as shown by his application and further investigation.

"Families who have members in the Civilian Conservation corps are not eligible for relief, as the money returned to them is for that purpose.

"The function of the welfare committee is not an unemployment problem and, no matter how long a person has been out of work, if they are able to maintain themselves they do not come under the jurisdiction of this committee. The unemployed, but not in dire need, come under the jurisdiction of the re-employment committee.

"These instructions are in accordance with the outline of the State Federal Emergency Relief commission."

It might be stated that the re-employment committee above mentioned has only recently been organized, and up to the present time has had no projects to give employment. Charlevoix county has been allotted $68,222.00 for re-employment, but no contracts have been awarded as yet.

A review of relief projects now under way was made last Thursday evening. Charlevoix has its scenic drive along Lake Michigan, where excellent progress is being made. At Boyne City, considerable lake frontage has been improved and at the present time preliminary work towards construction of a water reservoir is under way. Boyne Falls has had several projects within the village limits and East Jordan has improved the fair grounds among other things. The county highway commission has directed numerous road improvements throughout the county and at Beaver Island.

A better appreciation of the Democratic administration's relief efforts may be had when it is learned that a total of $40,520.82 has been expended in Charlevoix county on relief projects since March 16, 1933. Under the former R. F. C. system, $25,055.94 was released, and the balance, $15,464.88, has been administered through the Federal Emergency Relief commission. While destitute families have been cared for at a time when county finances were depleted, many improvements of civic and county-wide benefit have been made possible.

BAPTIST CHURCH HELD ANNUAL MEET MONDAY

Church and Sunday School Officers Elected for Ensuing Year

The annual meeting of the First Baptist church of Charlevoix was held Monday evening at the church with a large attendance.

A fellowship supper preceded the business session, at which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: clerk, Louisa Smith; treasurer, Ernest Peaslee; trustees, Mrs. Hattie Meggison, Harold Dahlquist; deacons, Morris Chew, Harker Kirby, Vern Norton. Sunday school officers—Superintendent, Gulo Chew; assistant superintendent, Pearl Smith; treasurer, Eva McGhan; secretary, Ida Ingalls.

Reports from all departments were very favorable, showing excellent progress considering present conditions. The present church membership is 148.

WINNER PRESIDENT FAIR ASSOCIATION

ANNUAL MEETING HELD LAST THURSDAY EVENING

Elect Officers and Review Reports Showing 1933 Exhibit the Best Ever Held

The governing board of the Charlevoix County Fair association held its annual meeting on the evening of Thursday, September 28th, with a nearly one hundred per cent attendance.

The report of the secretary was heard with great interest and evident satisfaction. According to this report, the 1933 fair which closed on September 16th, had more people in attendance, more automobiles than ever before. Possibly the fact that this year's exhibits have never been surpassed in the history of the fair association might have had something to do with this. The placing of the free acts arena directly in front of the grandstand was responsible for much greater grandstand receipts. The horse races were the best in years and the balloon ascension carried the added thrill of a double parachute drop. The ball games were snappy and exciting.

The number and quality of livestock entries were better than in any recent previous year, by far, and the 4-H club surpassed all previous efforts. To top it all off, came a stretch of fine weather to enhance the enjoyment of the visitor.

People found the fairgrounds very much improved, this year. Besides the wise relocating of the free events above mentioned, improvements to the ball diamond and the leveling off of the space inside the race track were the subjects of much pleased comment. The track itself and the bordering fences were found in excellent condition.

Most of the labor for repairs was donated and the fair association has much to be thankful for and appreciate the cooperation received from the public.

Following the secretary's report came the election of officers. Dr. C. J. Winder of Charlevoix was elected president of the fair association. F. O. Barden of Boyne City, John Kinney of East Jordan and George Nelson of South Arm township, were the three vice presidents elected. Frank Crowell and Barney Millstein of East Jordan, became secretary and treasurer respectively. Mr. Crowell succeeding himself in office. Joseph Foster and Jesse Smith of Charlevoix were re-elected as directors.

The members showed great interest in the lesson on altering, fitting dress patterns and taking measurements, which was given by the leaders, Mrs. Emma Wells and Mrs. May Stutzman, in a very creditable manner.

Each member is to have a dress pattern and muslin at the next meeting, date of which will be announced later.

CHARLEVOIX WON INITIAL CONTEST

OPENED FOOTBALL SEASON WITH 6 TO 0 VICTORY

Showed a Smooth-Working, Hard-Fighting Team in Saturday Contest With East Jordan

Playing the initial contest of the 1933 season on their home field, Charlevoix's Red and White football team won a 6 to 0 victory over Conch Cohen's East Jordan aggregation Saturday afternoon.

The victory was an agreeable surprise to local fans. Rated the underdog due to lack of both weight and experience, the Kipmen revealed a smooth-working, fast, hard-fighting team. From the very start they out-fought the visitors. Whatever they may lack in offensive ability was more than offset by a determined and fighting defense. Considering the contest was the first for the local team and played largely in a driving rain, their almost effortless attack was worthy of a squad of veterans.

Held on even terms throughout the first period, Jordan threatened twice in the second quarter. Two blocked punts placed them in a scoring position, but on both occasions Charlevoix held for downs in the shadows of their own goal and in the third session smashed through to block one of their opponent's punts and turn the advantage into the lone touchdown of the contest.

Harold Potter, whose stellar performance at right end featured throughout the game, recovered the blocked kick which gave Charlevoix its only scoring opportunity, and Warren Shapton, left half, carried the ball over for the goal. The try for extra point on a line play failed, but the margin was sufficient, for the local squad protected their advantage until the final whistle.

Much of the credit for Charlevoix's excellent showing is due to Charles Hebert, whose long, accurate punts kept the Jordanites in their own territory most of the time. Charlevoix attempted and completed one forward pass while East Jordan tried two. The visitors showed a superior running attack, but lacked the necessary punch to score when the opportunity availed.

HOGARTH BACKS HUNTING ORDER

DIRECTOR TELLS WHY COUNTY IS OPENED FOR DEER

Letter to Potoskey A. of C. Explains Commission's Stand on Deer Hunting in This District

Arguments of the department of conservation supporting their action in opening Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim counties to deer hunting this fall were clearly set forth in a recent letter from George R. Hogarth, director of conservation, to Wilson J. McDonald, secretary of the Potoskey chapter of commerce.

Emmet county has been closed to deer hunting for many years. This year the conservation department failed to renew the closing order and as a result legal deer hunting will be allowed in the county this fall.

A storm of protest followed the department's action. The board of supervisors had passed a resolution asking that the county be kept closed but the resolution was ignored. Sportsmen and county officials joined in circulating petitions asking the county be closed. The conservation commission has remained adamant and refused to close the county.

Excerpts from Director Hogarth's letter follows:

"The stocking of deer in the eastern part of these counties (Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim) compares favorably with several other areas which have been open to hunting for some time, and the density of the deer population in the bulk of the suitable areas for deer should be the major factor in determining as to whether the commission should protect deer under a completely closed season. Deer are of the same value as a tourist attraction in one part of the state as in another.

"Inasmuch as only male deer may be lawfully killed during the season, we feel that no valid claim can be substantiated that lawful hunting will exterminate the deer in any given territory. The steady increase of deer in the open counties during the last few years is evidence to that effect.

"Deer conditions in some areas of lower Michigan where these animals have already declined from natural causes resulting in too heavily stocked areas force us to sharply revise our notions of deer management. If you could see the deer in those areas and examine a few of them in (Continued on page 7.)

Conservation Officer C. W. Bonney reports the arrest last Friday of Ellis Fultz of Simons, on a game law violation.

Fultz, frequently reported as a violator, was taken east of Manelona carrying a 30-30 rifle. He pleaded guilty before Judge England at Bellaire to a charge of carrying a high powered rifle in an area frequented by wild animals and birds.

He was given the maximum sentence of $25.00 fine or 20 days in the county jail. His rifle and fourteen cartridges were confiscated.

ANOTHER PORTION OF SHORE ROAD FINISHED

Extension from South Point to Bell's Bay Ready for Travel

Grading of the extension of the scenic drive from South Point to the intersection of the east and west township road on Bell's bay has been completed.

Many motorists have driven the route since its completion late last week, and have expressed nothing but praise of the fine accomplishment and the scenic beauty of the drive. Completion of this portion was hastened by an appropriation from the city council for hire of a county tractor and grader. The road bed, built almost entirely upon lime rock, is in excellent condition.

The work of clearing right-of-way southward is continuing at a rapid pace. Workmen have progressed beyond the mouth of McGeagh creek at the present time.

PLAN NRA CELEBRATION, DOLLAR DAY

COMMERCE BODY SETS OCTOBER 14 FOR BIG EVENT

Hang "Old Man Depression" Entertainment Features and Merchandising Offers Being Combined

Old Man Depression is doomed to die a felon's death on Saturday, October 14th. Under the auspices of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce, he will first be hung, then ridden with bullets by the Legion firing squad and then finally taken aloft in a plane by Chief Executioner "Bud" Hammond and ignominiously dropped into the deepest part of Round lake. That ought to finish him.

While not exactly occurring at sunrise, this execution will take place early in the day and will be followed by various entertainment features—such as a band concert, bangle and drum corps parade, possibly a free show for everybody in the afternoon, a treasure hunt or a ball game. In the meantime, wonderful dollar bargains will be available in the stores, for this will be Dollar Day in Charlevoix and also a celebration of the success of the NRA in bringing about so marked a change in the economic outlook.

As the rift in the depression cloud widens, it is but fitting that the people of Charlevoix who have so patiently and unselfishly done their part in holding on during these critical times should have an opportunity of showing their patriotic enthusiasm for the recovery program and their joy at its success. A representative gathering of business men met Tuesday evening at the Hotel Charlevoix and discussed plans for October 11. Details of arrangement will be in the hands of the two standing committees of the Association of Commerce appointed for such matters. The personnel of the entertainment committee, as slightly revised, consists of Joseph Foster, chairman, Fred E. Cartier and Robert Miles; of the advertising committee, P. D. Campbell, chairman, R. F. Sloan, A. J. Usher and Martin Block. The committees are to proceed at once to contact the business men of the town, estimate probable expense, devise ways and means and report back to a meeting of the Association of Commerce on Friday evening, October 6th, at 7:30 o'clock in the lobby of the Hotel Charlevoix. The program as perfected will appear in next week's issue of this paper.

COUNTY POTATO AND APPLE SHOW PLANNED

Date Set for November 4th at East Jordan—Finances Assured

Definite plans have been announced for a Charlevoix county potato and apple show to be held at East Jordan on November 4th.

Due to the fact the annual Gaylord exhibit has been discontinued this year, other northern Michigan counties whose growers have always participated in the Gaylord event are planning county exhibits.

Business men and agricultural organizations behind the move have set a tentative budget of $150 to finance premiums and are arranging for the appearance of prominent speakers and an interesting program. A detailed account of the event will be found in the county agent's column on page 7 of this issue.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL UP TO ELECTORS

SPECIAL ELECTION SET FOR WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8

Confronted by Legal Entanglements, Council Decides to Place Issue Before People

Confronted by possible legal entanglements in their efforts to bring to a successful conclusion plans for a sewage treatment system for Charlevoix, the city council at a special session Tuesday night decided to put the matter up to a vote of the people.

A special election, at which voters will have an opportunity to express their approval or disapproval of plans to issue revenue bonds to finance the project with the aid of a federal grant, has been set for Wednesday, November 8th.

This action has been made necessary because of the questionable constitutionality of Act 94 of the Public Acts of 1933, permitting municipalities to issue revenue bonds without a vote of the electors to finance public utilities. Validity of the Act is about to be tested by court actions in some southern Michigan cities and, in order to avoid almost certain delay, the council decided to put the decision up to the electors, whose approval would settle the issue regardless of the constitutionality of the legislative Act.

The council Tuesday evening approved an ordinance designed to legalize the plan of creating a public utility for the operation, management and control of a sewage disposal system to be designated as the Charlevoix Sewage Disposal System. The ordinance also approves specifications prepared by Pearce, Greeley & Hanson, engineers, showing the total estimated cost to be $86,700.00. It is estimated that $19,200.00, or 20 per cent of the cost of labor and materials, will be advanced by the federal government under provisions of the National Recovery Act. It is proposed to raise the balance, $67,500.00, by issuance of revenue bonds of the city, payable from revenue of the utility, on a basis tentatively set at fourteen cents for each thousand gallons of water used.

A three-fifth majority of Charlevoix voters is necessary for approval.

It would appear in view of existing conditions that the matter is one of grave consequences to this city. Records show this district has 573 unemployed at the present time with the industrial inactivity of the winter period ahead. An outright gift of nearly $20,000.00 from the federal government is available if the project is approved at once. This offer will likely not be available after January 1st. In case the sewage disposal system is not provided now, it is only a matter of time when it will be made mandatory by the Michigan Streams Control Commission. The fact alone that the project will provide work for the unemployed should be sufficient reason for approval. The application for federal grant has already been made and, in all probability will be approved before the issue is decided by special election. In this event, an affirmative vote would pave the way for immediate work on the project.

Shopping with YOURSELF

IN MANY of our larger cities shopping has become a profession. Experienced women who know the stores and shops, who know merchandise and values have gone into business as "Shopping Guides."

To a stranger, a trip with one of these professional shoppers is a great saver of time and trouble. No matter what the visitor wishes, her Shopping Guide knows just where to go—for quality, materials, styles, sizes, prices, specialties.

And where do these professionals get their information? They are probably the world's most conscientious and thorough readers of daily newspaper advertisements.

Clever? Yes! But any woman can be just as smart. Just turn to the advertisements in this paper and let them be your Shopping Guide. No professional shopper can give you such accurate or intimate details about merchandise, about newness, about style, about quality, about bargains.

The merchants and manufacturers who advertise in this paper are dependable. You can believe their statements. They have spent their money to tell you what their expert buyers know to be the truth about the merchandise they have selected for you. Their salespeople know their goods intimately.

Study the advertisements. Make a list of the things you need and the stores where they may be had. Be your own professional shopper.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, October 8, is "Are Sin, Disease and Death Real?"

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Unreality" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 1.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Gen. 2:16,17): "And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, 'Thou mayest freely eat: But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.'"

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p.526): "The first mention of evil is in the legendary scriptural text in the second chapter of Genesis. 'The tree of knowledge' stands for the erroneous doctrine that the knowledge of evil is as real, hence as God-bestowed, as the knowledge of good."

CHANGE DESIRED

Bobby was very fond of reading. One day at the public library he took such a long time choosing a book his older sister grew impatient.

"Here is a good book, Bobby," she said, handing him a tiny brown book of fairy stories.

"But I want a blue book. I had a brown one the last time," Bobby objected.—Indianapolis News.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

ROADSIDE MARKETING

By T. J. Delohery

BOYS ARE GOOD SALESMEN

"DON'T send a boy to do a man's job" may be good advice at times, but numbers of farmers have found that boys can do as good, if not a better job of selling produce direct to the consumer. Especially is this true of town deliveries, where the youngsters are known in the community and neighborliness and friendship breaks the ice.

With the right kind of training in salesmanship boys become very good merchants. Some of them, when they learn "their vegetables," are on a par even with the best farmer merchants, being more willing to do everything to please and accommodate customers. In some counties roadside marketing is a part of the Boys and Girls 4-H club work, and vocational agriculture teachers who use vegetable and fruit growing as a class room subject are carrying their teaching further by having their students open up roadside and other markets for the produce grown. Many of these teachers, in preparation for the marketing work, have studied roadside markets and have obtained college bulletins and other literature, the gist of which they pass on to their pupils.

Selling, as a rule, is left to the boys showing their adeptness for this work, the others spread the word of their market among customers, thus making customers which older people might fail to interest.

Up in Milwaukee county, Wisconsin, William Haworth, who won the state gardening championship in 4-H club work and who learned about selling to city consumers while carrying on the project, is now on his own with two rented acres for outdoor vegetable production. During the winter season he keeps his trade supplied with what he grows in the greenhouse he leases. William makes deliveries on his bicycle.

Mrs. Frank A. Burford of Warren county, Illinois, sells home-made country butter to 50 families in town. Deliveries require a little too much time considering she does her own housework, so she has hired Margaret Swanson, her granddaughter, to help her. Margaret, who is quite a canny-maker, increases her earnings by selling her sweets to the same people. She packs the candy in half-pint paper containers.

The children were always running to Harry Klock for permission to sell magazines, perfume and other things to neighboring farmers. Permission was refused, of course. But when the wholesale price of eggs got down to where Klock's flock wasn't paying, and he began to "think out loud" to his wife about new markets, the youngsters chorused "let us sell them to people in town."

Eggs were different from perfume or magazines. People needed good eggs such as Klock produced, so he let the kids try their hand. And what a success they made of the job! Now Klock sells all of his eggs to consumers, and, instead of delivering them, the people drive out to his farm outside of Emporia, Kan. He gets a margin over wholesale, too. He paid the youngsters 10 per cent for selling.

Robert James had to leave a larger farm because he needed more vegetables to keep up with the demand created by two boys who sold his produce from house to house. Now he has a crew of ten youngsters ranging from twelve to sixteen years of age, who have pushed routes of their own making. The routes average 12 blocks, both sides of the street.

When J. R. Robbins' house-to-house milk route got too big for him to handle and supervise his farm work, and yet too small to hire another truck and driver, he turned to boys to deliver his product. The youngsters not only supplied his customers, but operating in localities where they lived, soon had 150 people in several Porter county, Indiana, towns buying not only milk but fruit, sausage, vegetables and eggs. Each boy works two to four blocks.

"I use paper milk bottles," said Mr. Robbins. "Hence, there are no returns."

"Our relationship with the boys is strictly business—that is, I'm constantly giving them information on salesmanship to read and I keep close check to see that they don't become involved in their accounts."

"My boys are a bright lot and I think they appreciate not only the opportunity of making money but learning something which will help them when they are old enough to shift for themselves. A milk route offers a good chance to study human nature and there is every indication that the natural smartness of the boys is helping educate them along business lines."

"O. K., BIG CHIEF"

Behold the effect of American films overseas! The other day an Ulster friend of St. John Irvine's asked a child to step out of the way.

"O. K. Big Chief!" said the child.

Writing in the London Observer, Mr. Irvine comments, "If the tales are changing our tongue, heaven knows what they will change it to."

but perhaps the new locutions will turn out, like many 'Americanisms,' to be old locutions that have been 'living in retirement.'

Mr. Irvine continues, "Some professor may yet discover that 'O. K., Chief!' was first liped by children dressed in wool, and who knows that Ethelred the Unready was not accustomed to remark, 'Hello, big boy!' or 'I get you, baby!' to his friends?"

A CORRECTION!

Due to erroneous information contained in an editorial entitled "The Mortgaged Home," published in the September 20 issue of The Courier, we hasten to correct the information and, as well, offer our apologies to those who may have been misled or harmed in any manner.

In the first paragraph the article stated that "closed banks, or banks in the process of liquidation will not be allowed to accept Home Owners' Loan Corporation bonds in payment of mortgages. This statement is untrue. On the contrary, all banks, as well as trust companies, insurance companies, etc., are accepting the bonds, which are now selling at near par value and are fully guaranteed by the Government. In the case of banks, the Home Owners' Loan Corporation is providing a much needed channel for the liquidation of "frozen" assets.

The article also stated only two persons out of 21 will succeed in securing loans and the relief promised would fall far short of advance predictions. This is untrue as far as the northern Michigan district is concerned, at least. No applications received in this district have been turned down to date. In fact, it is conservatively estimated $100,000 will be advanced for the relief of Charlevoix home owners alone. Directors of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in this district are making every effort to fulfill the Democratic party pledge to bring needed relief to distressed home owners.

IN OR OUT OF STEP

Somebody has pointed out that in the quartet of figures appearing on the new NRA stamps, the one representing industrialism seems to be out of step with the rest. The motto: "A common determination," is printed on the lower part of the stamp. That would indicate a need for caution. Close scrutiny of the figures reveals industrialism alone pausing.

NO PAY INCREASES TO STATE OFFICERS

Stack Refuses Hike Over Amount Set by Legislature

Heads of state departments and institutions will be forced to live on the salaries allotted them by the 1933 legislature, Auditor General Stack has decreed.

Since Stack was advised by Attorney General O'Brien that the legislature had no right to reduce the salary of Agricultural Commissioner Samuel T. Metzger during his term of office, Stack said he has received pay vouchers from many other officials whose salaries were cut and who now insist upon their original pay.

"O'Brien forced me to change my ruling once but I am changing it back," Stack said. "Hereafter my department will honor pay vouchers only in the amounts approved by the legislature."

* MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS *

Total assets of Michigan's 65 building and loan companies are $142,493,028 according to annual reports of the associations just filed with the department of state. The assets according to a summary of the reports, decreased $10,240,332 during the last fiscal year of 1932.

The decrease in assets, according to the reports, is due to delinquencies in payments on loans, withdrawal of savings shares for payment of living expenses and withdrawals for the purchase of real estate.

There have been no receiverships or voluntary liquidations of building and loan companies in Michigan during the past two years. In Ann Arbor two associations merged during the past year and in Flint an association which went into the hands of a receiver in 1930, was re-organized and again authorized to conduct its business with a capitalization of $2,000,000.

Cost of collection of the gasoline tax by the department of state for the first six months of 1933 was six-tenths of one per cent. This is a reduction of 25 per cent as compared with collection cost for the entire year of 1932.

In 1932 the cost of collecting $21,759,195 in gasoline tax was $117,947. For the first six months of 1933 the cost of collecting $8,832,291 amounted to $52,917.

According to information reaching the department of state, petitions for a referendum on the Ruff election law providing for partisan election boards are in circulation in various parts of the state. If approximately 85,000 signatures are secured on the petitions, the law will be held in abeyance until after voters have expressed their opinion of the law at the election in November, 1934.

OLD AGE PENSION REGISTRATION HALTS

Old age pension registration is at a standstill with supreme court litigation the cause.

A Lansing printing firm appealed to the high tribunal over the awarding of a contract for printing census forms. The court issued an order for the state to show cause October 10 why the concern, officially recognized as the state printer, should not be awarded the contract.

The purchasing committee of the state administrative board recently rejected the firm's bid because it was $11,000 higher than that of the lowest bidder.

TEMPERANCE WORKERS HEAR STATE PRESIDENT

Mrs. Dora Whitney Speaker at Lower 11th District Convention

The question "What is the Woman's Christian Temperance Union going to do when national prohibition is repealed?" was answered by Mrs. Dora B. Whitney, state president, at the lower 11th district convention held here last Wednesday and Thursday.

She said that educational work showing the effects of the use of alcohol physically, mentally, morally and economically, will be pushed with vigor. Total abstinence never meant so much to the country as at present and its value must be stressed in the community, state and nation.

The pearl medal declamatory contest Thursday evening preceding Mrs. Whitney's address was a fine demonstration by six young people showing what the evil drink has wrought in the world. Every recitation was followed by well deserved applause. Miss Helen Johnson of Manvelona was awarded the medal. Other speakers were Keith Bartlett of East Jordan, Winifred Riley of Bellaire, Harold Chew, Helen Ikens and Florence Palmer of Charlevoix.

The helpful addresses and devotional services, the presence and cooperation of several pastors and their wives, the large attendance, the fine special musical numbers, the beautiful weather, the unusual floral decorations and the splendid hospitality of the local union all combined to make this annual meeting a real inspiration to renewed efforts for the temperance cause.

Methodist ladies will serve a 35c chicken pie supper at the church, Wednesday, October 11.—Adv. 4011.

FUNERAL HELD MONDAY FOR MRS. JOHN KIRBY

Beloved Pioneer Woman Died Friday After Brief Illness

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the residence on Sherman street for Mrs. John Kirby, beloved and highly respected pioneer woman, who died last Friday from heart attack following an illness of two days.

Rev. I. T. Mark of the Church of God conducted the services and burial was at Brookside cemetery. Ann Jane Whitney was born October 10, 1860, in Mt. Forest, Gray county, Canada. She was united in marriage there 52 years ago to John Kirby and two years later the couple moved to this city, their home since that time.

HEAT UNITS VS. MERE TONS

It is not always economy to buy coal at the lowest possible price per ton.

You're really buying heat not just weight, and when you buy Pocohontas, (mine run or lump) or any other coal we have ready for delivery, you are getting the greatest number of heat units per dollar that you can possibly secure.

Fill Your Coal Bins Now

Prices are on the rise every day. Coal that could have been bought for $7.00 per ton in June is now selling for from $8.75 to $9.00. Buy now and buy by the heat unit, not by weight.

"Hovertown," Vacated, Is Burned

"Hovertown," a collection of miscellaneous shacks, tents and dirty little houses on the outskirts of Los Angeles, built during the depression to house hundreds of unemployed, is no more. The picture above shows police burning down the abodes of depression familiar to Los Angeles residents for more than three years.

Cottage Pudding at Its Best

Dessert Delicacy That Is Worthy of Careful Preparation; Wide Variety of Sauces Housewife May Rely Upon to Give Individuality.

To those fond of pudding as a dessert, these directions and suggestions by an authority, cannot fail to be of interest:

When the English talk about pudding they usually mean a steamed pudding, often filled with fruits and well spiced and served with a sauce. These puddings are of the type which we call Christmas puddings or suet puddings. Chestnuts and arrowroot puddings are usually designated as milk puddings.

In our country we have a much greater variety of puddings to which we give the pudding title. They are rice, tapioca, blanc maniges and some of the gelatin mixtures. Perhaps our standard pudding, however, is that known, for some uncertain reason, as "cottage." I think that there is nothing better than a good cottage pudding, although, I am sure you have suffered as I have at various times and places in trying to eat a very plain poor cake covered with a lumpy sauce of neutral flavor which has been given this name.

Cake for cottage pudding may be plain, that is to say, it may be made with a comparatively small amount of shortening and few eggs, because it is supposed to be served hot from the oven. The cake, however, should be made just as carefully, with the same regard for the proper amount of flour, as is the most delicate cake which is to be served cold. A quick method may be used if the recipe contains the proper amount of ingredients. Let me suggest that a variation of the cottage pudding may be made by baking the mixture in muffin tins. This gives a crustiness which adds to the flavor, and then you will not have to decide which member of the family gets the crusty corner pieces. Sometimes spices or chocolate are added to the batter.

While a butter cake is used for the proverbial cottage pudding, a quick sponge cake is very good indeed when served with a good sauce. These puddings naturally depend largely upon the sauce for their individuality. The simplest sauce of all is made by crushing fresh fruits with plenty of sugar and allowing them to stand some time before they are used. Hard sauce supplies the richness lacking in the cake and is another appropriate sauce to use. A combination of hard sauce with crushed fruit is particularly good. You may like to beat the crushed fruit into whipped cream. Perhaps the sauce most commonly used is flavored with lemon. A hot chocolate sauce, with or without nuts, a butterscotch or maple or any one of the very good sauces which are used with the heavier puddings mentioned above, will be found delicious with any of these cake puddings.

Chocolate Sauce.

2 squares chocolate, or 1/2 cup cocoa
1 cup cold water
2 cups sugar
Pinch salt
2 teaspoons vanilla, or 1 teaspoon essence of mint
2 tablespoons butter

Cut chocolate into five or six pieces or use cocoa and stir over direct heat with the water until smooth and thick. Add sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Boil three minutes, add vanilla, or mint, and butter, and serve hot. This sauce may well be stored in an air-tight jar in the refrigerator and reheated when needed.

Speed Cake.

2 cups pastry flour, or 1 1/2 cups bread flour and
2 teaspoons corn-starch
3 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1/2 cup melted fat
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup milk or water

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Break eggs into mixing bowl, beat slightly with egg beater and add cooled, melted fat, gradually, stirring constantly with beater. Stir in sugar and flavoring. Add one-fourth cupful liquid and beat one minute. Add half the dry ingredients, rest of liquid, then remainder of dry ingredients. Pour into two 8 or 9-inch oiled and floured layer cake pans, and bake 20 minutes in moderate oven, 400 degrees Fahrenheit. Turn out the and let stand in oven five minutes. Remove from oven. Let stand two or three minutes before removing from pans.

Quick Meal.

Broiled ham
Broiled sweet potatoes
Broiled tomatoes
Fruit salad
Toasted crackers
Cheese
Currant jelly
Coffee

I am suggesting a broiled meal tonight. For this the sweet potatoes may be cooked beforehand—perhaps the night before when you are getting supper or in the morning while you are getting breakfast. However, if small, they will cook in 20 to 25 minutes at dinner time. The ham, potatoes and tomatoes, may all be broiled at the same time—the last two should be brushed with butter or salad oil before they are put under the broiler, and should be cooked just long enough to brown on both sides. With this type of meal you may like to serve a fresh fruit salad which will be sweet enough to take the place of dessert.

Cottage Pudding.

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
2 1/4 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually, and egg well beaten; mix and sift flour, baking powder, and salt; add alternately with milk to first mixture. Bake in a shallow pan in a moderate oven 425 degrees Fahrenheit, 30 minutes, and serve hot with a sauce.

Like Ancient Biblical Days

Uprising of Modern Assyrians Brings Back Sennacherib's Descent on Jerusalem, and His Discomfiture; Changes in "Unchanging East."

Once more, as in the days when Hezekiah ruled in Jerusalem, the Assyrians crop up in the news. When under Sennacherib, king of Nineveh "the Assyrians came down like a wolf on the fold," the Hebrew tribes of gold and silver, jewels and dancing girls were not enough to halt the invader. But a plague broke out among Sennacherib's cohorts, all "bleeding in purple and red," and he returned to Nineveh, whose ruined walls can be seen across the River Tigris from modern Mosul. Dispatches report an uprising of Assyrians in Iraq.

"Today the Assyrians of Iraq are a Christian minority living a precarious existence along the frontiers of Turkey, Syria, and Iraq. They are isolated, like their neighbors, the Armenians, by religion from the Kurds, Turks, and Iraqis among whom they live," says Dr. Maynard Owen Williams in a communication to the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"In Baghdad they are called 'Chaldeans' and play the part of rivermen in that Tigris capital of the new kingdom of Iraq, where business is in the hands of the Jews, and land transport is borne on the backs of Kurdish porters.

"During the World war, the Assyrians, hedged about by age-old enemies, helped the allies, only to have the Turkish tide sweep back to inevitable reprisals. Now, England whose protege Iraq has been, views fresh uprisings north of the Mosul oil fields with alarm and King Faisal had been urged not to leave by plane for Switzerland. Even yet, the boundary between Iraq and Syria has not been defined, and a local squabble or punitive action between irregulars may have grave consequences. Naturally, people living under mandates are watching with interest the evolution of Iraq, recently made independent, and a full-fledged member of the League of Nations.

"Deep in the heart of Central Asia the Citroen-Haardt expedition found caves at Kazaklik in which Buddhist rubber-stamp art had been superimposed upon Uighur inscriptions in an alphabet derived from the Syriac still used by the Assyrians and the parent script for the Mongols and Manchus of later years.

"How Syria's Church of the East extended its influence in Merv and Sinkiang is still a mystery, but Christianity and Mohammedanism swept eastward across Asia almost simultaneously, and the Nestorian tablet discovered in Shan, Shensi, shows that by 781 A. D. Nestorian Christianity, officially recognized by imperial decree in 635, had spread far and wide through China. One can well imagine the surprise of Jesuit missionaries when they found that a form of Christianity had preceded them into China by more than a thousand years.

"In the region where Kurdistan breaks away toward the Tigris valley, military operations are very difficult, and Kurdish tribes were appealed to recently by speeches in their own tongue broadcast from loud speakers in low-flying planes. A joint force of British and Iraqi planes saved an army column trapped near Girisa during a campaign against the Kurdish sheik, Ahmed of Barzan. The whole region is one conducive to guerrilla warfare and irregular engagements.

"When in the land of Schemera-zade, an Arab king hoards the modern flying carpet to escape the terrible heat, or airplanes are used to bombard Kurdish tribesmen, indomitable fighters since the days of Napoleon, with radio threats and plots, it is quite evident that the 'unchanging East' is changing. But the lot of the Christian minorities along the upper reaches of the Tigris remains a problem.

"The Assyrian name has persisted, although changed in meaning until it now applies to a small group of Nestorian Christians, related perhaps to that semi-fabulous 'Trestler John' so famous in the chronicles of medieval travelers. The modern Assyrians are so little known that visitors to Asia are unable to learn in what way this small group, now threatened by massacre, has continued its life and identity among so many enemies."

Compulsory Cleanup

Three hundred years ago, citizens in Connecticut were not merely urged to clean up their towns. They were required by law to keep the famous common fields neat and clean.

Every one had to give one day a year to this work or pay a fine of five shillings.

The common fields played an important part in colonial life. All inhabitants turned their cattle out to graze in these fields under the care of a common cowherd paid by the town. This left the farmers free to work on their own land.

In 1684 in Wethersfield, Conn., the cleanup job, which included clearing away the thick brush, evidently got ahead of the citizens, because they voted to work one more day that year than the law required.—Kansas City Star.

Fortunate

"Did you hear about that fellow who fell asleep in the bathtub the other day, with the water running?"
"No! Did the tub overflow?"
"No, it didn't. Luckily he sleeps with his mouth open."

Two of my children are boys, and I have tremendous washes. Those youngsters just will sit on the bed with their shoes on, they leave grime on face towels, they play in dirt all day. I could never get the clothes clean. They looked so grey I was ashamed to hang them out. Then I tried Fels-Naptha Soap and what a surprise! My clothes were whiter and sweeter each time they came from the tub.

You bet it's easier to wash clothes clean with Fels-Naptha Soap. It brings two dirt-looseners to the job—good golden soap and so much naptha you can smell it! Together, they give you extra help—they loosen the grimest dirt—without hard rubbing.

Don't Say Bread Say HOLSUM

You can't buy bread as good — unless you ask for HOLSUM. HOLSUM Bread is deliciously tasty. More than this, it is unusually rich in food value and energy-building qualities. It contains loads of pure milk, shortening, granulated sugar and the finest blends of flour. Careful mothers always insist upon HOLSUM. It's good for kiddies and grown-ups alike. A. & P. WIN PLEA TO RETAIL BEER

JUDGE PARM C. GILBERT MADE RULING LAST WEEK

Cases Applying to Charlevoix, As Well As Traverse and Elk Rapids Decided Together

Although a wholesome regard for the best interests of the community governed the actions of Charlevoix, Traverse City and Elk Rapids in refusing to approve the A. & P. applications for licenses to sell beer in these three communities, the refusal to approve the applications was illegal, Judge Parm C. Gilbert ruled in circuit court last Wednesday afternoon.

This decision was handed down as the result of legal action taken by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company to force the governing bodies of these three communities to approve their applications for licenses to sell beer through their local stores.

All three bodies had refused to approve the applications after beer became legal last spring. The case was taken into court last summer and, because the cases against Traverse City, Charlevoix and Elk Rapids were similar, all three were heard by Judge Gilbert at the same session of court, and his opinion covers all the cases.

In giving his decision Judge Gilbert ruled that the community right to approve or disapprove the sale of beer was voted away in November, 1932, with approval of the state beer amendment.

Statement

"The city commission or village council has no longer any right to refuse its approval of an application because the sale of beer may be deemed harmful or objectionable by some or all members of that community," the opinion stated. "A majority vote of the people of this state has taken away that right from the community, from the village council and from the court."

In Traverse City as well as in the other defending communities petitions had been presented to the local governing bodies asking that the license applications of the A. & P. be refused approval.

"The city's task," the opinion continued, "is to decide whether the applicant possesses the qualifications required by the Beer and Wine act, and if the character of the applicant and the location of the business is such as to indicate that the law will be observed."

The governing bodies cannot bow to the will or request of citizens nor can they prefer or designate one class of business over another, Judge Gilbert ruled.

In the face of the circuit court decision it is presumed that the three communities involved will approve the A. & P. applications for licenses and not carry the case to a higher court.

COURT HOUSE IMPROVEMENTS ARE UNDER WAY

Re-decoration of Rooms and Necessary Repairs Authorized

A program of much needed repairs and improvements is under way at the present time at the county court house.

The work was recently authorized by the grounds and buildings committee of the board of supervisors. The county is furnishing needed materials and workmen are being drawn from the welfare list, bringing the project within the welfare relief program.

Walls in the court room and county offices are being re-decorated and needed repairs made. Some changes in the arrangement of office equipment is anticipated.

SUPERVISORS ANNUAL SESSION NEXT MONDAY

Will Convene at Court House Here for Annual Fall Meeting

The annual October session of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors convenes at the court house here next Monday, October 9th.

The important matter of county financing, both for general operating expenses and welfare, will demand foremost attention. Due to the increased necessity for welfare aid and the heavy curtailment of income brought about by the 15 mill tax limitation law, county business the past year has been run at the lowest possible figure.

It is quite probable the business of the session will be completed within a few days.

PROTEST CLOSING FISH HATCHERIES

CONG. BROWN MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR CONTINUANCE

Cites Loss of Employment in Fishing
Area As Result—Conservation Department "Passes Buck"

Ever on the alert to serve the best interests of his district, Congressman Prentiss M. Brown of St. Ignace has launched a strenuous protest against closing of the federal fish hatchery at Charlevoix.

His action was disclosed in a recent Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"Continuance of the United States fish hatchery at Charlevoix, Mich., is being urged by Representative P. M. Brown (D-Mich.) in protests to Secretary Roper of the commerce department and other federal officials.

"Closing of the hatchery, Brown told Secretary Roper, would mean unemployment to hundreds of workers in Charlevoix, Cheboygan, St. Ignace and the village of St. James on Beaver Island, where virtually the entire population of the island is entirely dependent upon the fishing industry for existence.

"In protesting against abandonment of the hatchery, Brown said that to continue it would necessitate a cost of only $3,000. Such an expenditure, he said, is fully justified when the number of persons employed is considered.

"This hatchery has been in operation for a number of years, each fall taking spawn from the fish of the Great Lakes, during which yearly operation hundreds of men at Charlevoix, St. Ignace and Cheboygan are given employment," Brown wrote Secretary Roper, "and at the village of St. James on Beaver Island furnishes employment to such an extent that practically the entire population of the island of approximately 1,000 persons depend upon the fishing industry in the fall to sustain them."

In a statement last week, the Michigan conservation department attributed the abandonment of spawn fishing to closing of three federal hatcheries, including the Charlevoix unit, as a government economy measure. Many view the statement as a pure example of "passing the buck," or an attempt to embarrass the Democratic administration.

This view is quite right. It has been a known fact for many months that the Michigan conservation department has planned to abandon spawn fishing. Their attempts at regulation have been almost a complete failure, resulting in a tremendous waste of spawn each fall. It is also known that the government held up their action in closing federal hatcheries until certain spawn fishing would be abandoned. This is proven by the fact that only a few weeks ago bids were requested for the winter coal supply and later withdrawn. Members of the hatchery staff were only discharged October 1st.

Inasmuch as the federal hatchery was dependent entirely upon spawn gathered under direction of the conservation department for its operation, it would appear there was no other alternative than to close when spawn fishing ceased. This action has deprived Charlevoix of one of its few sources of winter employment for no reason apparently justified. With so much at stake, Charlevoix citizens would do well to join with Congressman Brown in his protests against the action.

PETOSKEY LEGION "9" WINNER SUNDAY GAME

Defeated Indians in Season's Final Contest 3 to 1

The Petoskey American Legion baseball team won its Sunday game from the Charlevoix Indians 3 to 1 in regulation time. Amos John, pitching for the visitors, held Charlevoix hitless until the eighth when three hits in a row brought in the Indians' lone score.

The Legionnaires gave John a two-run lead in the first inning. Petoskey scored on three Indian errors in the second.

CITY WOULD HOLD A PUBLIC MEETING

WANT PUBLIC TO KNOW ABOUT SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLAN

Act to Obtain Outside Speakers to Explain Details — A. & P. Beer Matter Again Before Council

If plans discussed by the city council at its Monday night session are carried out, a public mass meeting for the purpose of explaining all details of cost, construction, location, etc., of the proposed sewage treatment plant, will be held in the near future.

The council instructed the clerk to communicate with Major Rich, head of the State Health Department, in an effort to obtain his presence to explain the state's viewpoint on the matter, also to forward a similar communication to Mr. Stanley, representative of the engineering firm of Pearce, Greeley & Hanson, originators of plans for the proposed plant, to present the engineering side of the plan. These two speakers would be capable of presenting the complete picture, thus giving local taxpayers very complete information in regard to the proposition they are to vote upon at a special election November 8th.

Beer Matter Up, Again

The City Administration vs. the A. & P. Tea Co. and beer proposition came up before the council again Monday night. Henry Budd, manager of the local A. & P. store, appeared with a request for action on the company's application for license to sell beer. The matter was referred to City Attorney Rollie L. Lewis for an opinion.

In a recent ruling in answer to mandamus brought by the A. & P. Tea Co., against the city to show cause why an application to sell beer should not be granted, Judge Parm C. Gilbert held the city without authority to refuse the application. In the meantime, however, the Michigan Supreme Court, acting on an appeal by the city of Ann Arbor to uphold its authority to prevent the sale of beer within a certain restricted district as provided by city ordinance, upheld that city's action. Whether or not the same ruling will apply to Charlevoix, which has no ordinance regulating the sale of beer, is a matter of conjecture.

The city has a certain period in which to file briefs in appeal of the circuit court decision. Whether or not this action will be taken is not known, although the steps taken so far to prevent the A. & P. from handling beer would indicate that sufficient administration pressure will be brought to bear to carry the issue to the Supreme Court.

Plans for a new heating plant in the city water pumping station was discussed and referred to committee for action, also a resolution adopted setting the time of opening and closing of polls at the special election November 8th, at 7 a. m. and 5 p. m., respectively.

The council adjourned to meet in special session next Monday night, October 16th, at 7:30 o'clock.

MAKE IMPROVEMENTS AT CAMP CHARLEVOIX

Athletic Field, Baseball Diamond Are Receiving Attention

Louis E. Reimann, director of Camp Charlevoix, is supervising a program of improvements at his boys' camp on Oyster Bay in preparation for the 1934 camping season.

Work of improving the baseball diamond and athletic field is under way, also the construction of a two-way driveway approaching the main camp buildings. The new road will eliminate the difficulty of traveling the former one-way drive into the camp.

Numerous other improvements will be made before the next season.

ASK BIDS ON LOCAL BRIDGE IMPROVEMENT

Construction of Fender Protection Planned by Highway Dept.

Bids will be received for construction, by federal grant, of a fender protection for a swing bridge crossing the Pine River on U. S. 31 in Charlevoix, at the office of State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagener in Lansing at 10 a. m. Friday, October 13.

Work, which must be completed by April 1, 1934, will consist of constructing new fender protection and pile clusters in the location just south of the pivot tier.

To be built under provisions of the National Recovery Act, the minimum wage to be paid to all skilled labor shall be 50 cents an hour, and the minimum wage for all unskilled labor shall be 40 cents an hour, it was stated by Mr. Van Wagener.

"Rapid progress is being made by the highway department in getting the federal grant road projects under way in Michigan," said the commissioner.

SEEK 1934 GRANGE STATE CONVENTION

POMONA GRANGE BACKS MOVE TO BRING MEETING HERE

Official Invitations of City and County Extended—Pomona Election Held Saturday

A strong delegation, determined if possible, upon bringing the Michigan State Grange meeting to Charlevoix in 1934, will represent this county at the 1933 meeting which convenes soon at Alma.

With this goal in view, Charlevoix county's six delegates and a large number of other grangers, will go to Alma with the official invitations of the Charlevoix city council, the local association of commerce and the county board of supervisors, asking Michigan's grangers to convene here next year. They will present the advantages of this city as a convention site through the distribution of booklets, folders, etc.

The annual state Grange convention, convening in October of each year, brings together approximately five hundred delegates from every county in Michigan. While the resort season is practically over by that date, and larger hotels closed, it is felt this city has ample facilities to accommodate the delegates, and recreational advantages unequalled any other place.

Charlevoix county Pomona Grange No. 40, which, together with subordinate organizations throughout the county, is backing the move to bring the 1934 meeting here, elected officers for the ensuing year at a largely attended meeting Saturday at Peninsula Grange.

Richard K. Paddock was re-elected Master for the ensuing year and other officers chosen were as follows:

Overseer, Roy Hardy; lecturer, Sidney Lumley; steward, Otto Kane; assistant steward, Orville Hilton; chaplain, Elizabeth DeNise; secretary, Anna Warner; gate keeper, Ole Neilson; Ceres, Minnie Webster; Pomona, Alice Shepard; Flora, Clara Kane; lady assistant steward, Marie Hilton; member executive committee, Charles Murphy; pianist, Minnie Webster.

An unusually interesting program followed the business session at Saturday's meeting.

P. M. RAILWAY IMPROVING FILLS, GRADES HERE

OBSERVE SPIRIT NRA BY BIG CELEBRATION

Association of Commerce Sponsors Greatest Patriotic Demonstration Since Armistice—Entertainment Program and Dollar Day Bargains Offered by Merchants

PROGRAM

Firing of cannon and parade at 1:30 p. m.
Hanging, shooting and drowning of "Old Man Depression" 2:00 p. m.
Tug of war 2:30 p. m.
Free show, street sports and opening of barbecue 3:00 p. m.
Greased pig contest 5:00 p. m.
Boxing exhibition 7:30 p. m.
Free street dance 9:00 p. m.
Airplane rides during afternoon, 75c per passenger

"Old Man Depression" will be executed for his crimes next Saturday, in Charlevoix, during the NRA celebration and Dollar Day which will afford the citizens of this district an opportunity for the greatest patriotic demonstration since Armistice day. As we celebrated the end of the war overseas, so we will put away the grief and distress of our war against want and economic stagnation and rejoice together in the fact that "happy days are here again."

When Mayor See pulls the lanyard of the cannon at 1:30, Saturday afternoon, a parade of patriotic supporters of the NRA, accompanied by the school children and led by the city band and the bugle and drum corps will march down the south hill, escorting Monsieur Depression—the old miscreant!—to his doom. At two p. m., Sheriff Floyd Ikens will spring the trap of the gallows at the corner of Bridge and Clinton streets and a Legion firing squad will riddle the body with their "bullets" in real military fashion. Immediately afterward, Aviator "Bud" Hammond will soar aloft with the remains and drop them from a great height into the deepest part of Round lake.

At 2:30 p. m., occurs a tug of war between picked teams of farmers from four townships. This tug of war will commence at the corner of Clinton and Bridge, but there is no telling where it will end as the contestants will have no opportunity to get a "toehold" on the pavement. The rousing challenge of the Eveline and Marion stalwarts to the "pusillanimous" residents of Norwood and Hayes appears elsewhere in these columns. The police will be present to prevent bloodshed.

Mrs. Moon has very kindly contributed a free show at the Palace theatre to the afternoon's program. This will consist of a two-reel comedy and accompanying news reels and will commence at 3 o'clock p. m. While the show is going on inside, street sports will be conducted outside. Sports program is as follows: 100-yard Dash for boys over 15 years old.

50-yard Dash for boys 15 years or under.
Sack Race.
Wheelbarrow Race.
Three-legged Race.
Potato Race.

There will be first and second prizes for each event. Contestants may register for these sports up until 2:00 p. m., with Drew Young at Earl Young's real estate office. Stewart Coleman will be director of events and starter.

Free barbecue sandwiches will be available to the public at 3 o'clock at the roasting pit opposite the Northern Auto Company's garage on Clinton street. There will be hot coffee and the usual fixings to go with the sandwiches.

During the afternoon exhibition drills, will be given on Round lake by the U. S. coast guards, and the Charlevoix fire department will also give an exhibition.

After the free show, everyone can line up along the sidewalk and watch the greased pig elude his pursuers. Then comes intermission for supper and at 7:30 p. m. boxers from the Citizens Conservation camp and local fistic experts, including Chief Crampton, Hardrock Azar and Bill Woods, the coastguardsman, will put on a series of bouts in the Legion ring at the corner of Bridge and Clinton streets. At 9 p. m. commences the free street dance which will close the day's activities.

During the afternoon Aviator

"Bud" Hammond will take up passengers for short air trips at a charge of 75 cents per passenger.

Immediately following the parade at 1:30 p. m., Bridge street, between Antrim street and Park avenue, will be closed to traffic and roped off at each end. Southbound traffic will be detoured by proper signs through Park avenue to State street and back to the highway via Antrim street, with northbound traffic taking a reverse course.

The Charlevoix Association of Commerce, sponsor of the celebration, wishes to acknowledge the splendid cooperation that it has received in preparing for this event.

The barbecue materials, with the exception of sugar and condiments, have been donated by the managers of the Kroger and A. & P. stores and a very gratifying contribution of money has been forthcoming from practically every place of business in the city. In the spirit of the NRA it can well be said that "We Do Our Part."

FIRST PTA MEETING IS THURSDAY

PROGRAM OPENS AT EIGHT O'CLOCK IN GYMNASIUM

Ex-Senator Wm. Pearson of Boyne Falls, Will Present State School Finance Picture

The Charlevoix Parent-Teacher association will hold its first meeting of the year on Thursday evening, October 12th, at 8 o'clock. Due to the exceptionally interesting program prepared, it is anticipated many will be in attendance, and for this reason the meeting will be held in the gymnasium.

The principal speaker on the evening program, which also includes a brief history of the local association to be given by Mrs. Engle VanAlstburg, secretary, is ex-Senator William J. Pearson of Boyne Falls, perhaps one of the best versed men on school affairs in this region.

Mr. Pearson will talk on "School finances from a state-wide viewpoint." As a member of Governor Comstock's committee of 17, composed of a school board member from each congressional district and charged with the study of school conditions in the state with special reference to finances, he is exceptionally well qualified to speak on the subject assigned to him. Recommendations of the committee of which Mr. Pearson is a member will be the basis used by the legislature in formulating a program to relieve the financial difficulties of Michigan's educational institutions.

William P. Hicken, secretary of the Charlevoix board of education, will present the conditions of our own school district, thus this meeting is an opportunity for patrons of the school to get an exact picture of what the schools of the state and Charlevoix are confronted with this year.

An informal reception to the teachers will also be a part of the evening's program.

An urgent request is made that all school patrons attend this meeting and make themselves more fully conversant with affairs of the schools.

RELIGIOUS COUNCIL MEETS OCTOBER 24TH

Annual County Sunday School Rally to Be Held at Ironton

The Charlevoix County Sunday School Association of Religious Education will hold its annual meeting at Ironton on Tuesday, October 24.

A full program will be announced as soon as available. One of the features will be a pot-luck supper and young people's rally at 6:30 o'clock. A pennant will go to the largest group of young people present.

COUNTY SOLONS AT ANNUAL FALL MEET

CONVENED MONDAY MORNING AT COURT HOUSE HERE

Preliminary Activities Occupy Monday and Tuesday—Committee Reports Expected Soon

Convening Monday morning at the court house here with a full roll call, the Charlevoix county board of supervisors went to work on the business of their annual October session.

Monday was devoted largely to the reading of communications, all of which were either placed on file or referred to the proper committees for future action.

The important matter of appropriating the county's share of the weight tax, estimated at $15,000.00, for welfare relief was heard in a communication from Lansing. The Culp bill, passed by the last legislature provides counties take this action to augment federal and state welfare funds, which, at the present rate of expenditure, are expected to fall short of requirements. This matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

The board heard an oral report of the 1932-33 activities of County Agent B. C. Fellenkamp, who asked for an appropriation of $1200, the same figure as a year ago, to continue the work in the county. This matter went to the ways and means committee along with requests for appropriations by the Michigan Tourist & Resort Association, Michigan Tuberculosis Association, Starr Commonwealth and Michigan Children's Aid Society. All of the above organizations have benefited by the county's generosity in previous years.

Supervisor John Porter of East Jordan, asked for $25 for expense of the county potato and apple show at East Jordan, November 4th, and John Newville, Boyne City, gave a report for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief Commission, requesting $300 to carry on the work next year.

A recommendation by the fish and game committee that the name of Lake 26 in Marion township be changed to Lake Marion met with affirmative vote. A petition, signed by a large group of Marion township residents, requested the action.

ONLY TAXPAYERS MAY BE ALLOWED TO VOTE ON SEWAGE DISPOSAL

Unless an opinion is received here to the contrary, only property owners or the lawful husbands and wives of such persons, will be qualified to vote on the sewage disposal proposition to be presented at a special election November 8th.

At the general election of November 8, 1932, the voters of Michigan adopted an amendment to the state constitution providing such restrictions. The amendment adopted, in part, reads as follows:

"Whenever any question is submitted to a vote of the electors which involves the direct expenditure of public money or the issuance of bonds, only such persons having the qualifications of electors who have property assessed for taxes in any part of the district or territory to be affected by the result of such election or the lawful husbands or wives of such persons shall be entitled to vote thereon."

City Attorney Rollie L. Lewis has requested an opinion from the attorney general's department on the matter and the coming election will be governed by the answer.

FARM ADJUSTMENTS
IN SHORT COURSES

College Courses to Include Study of Adjustment Provisions

Short courses in agriculture at Michigan State college this year will include detailed consideration of the adjustments in agriculture in the "new deal" under the agricultural adjustment administration.

Farmers are now confronted with the necessity of considering what changes in the farm plans can be made to enable them to profit most from the agricultural adjustments which are now taking place. Up-to-date information on the farm adjustments which directly or indirectly affect the profits from farm business, and plans for making these adjustments fit in with the general farm program, will be included in the short course which begins October 30.

DISCUSS VETERAN AID
AT REGIONAL MEETING

Traverse City to Be Gathering Place on October 19th.

With the fact in mind that congress will convene within a short time and that some action must be taken to care for the disabled and dependant veteran and his family, a regional mass meeting of all veterans will be held in the Traverse City high school auditorium on the night of Thursday, October 19, under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Congressman Harry W. Musselwhite of Manistee, Judge Parm C. Gilbert, Rev. Fr. Albert Kebren of Lake Leelanau and either Governor William A. Comstock or his representative will appear as speakers on the program.

PARTISAN ELECTION BOARD
LAW IS BEING OPPOSED

According to information reaching the Department of State, petitions for a referendum on the Ruff election law providing for partisan election boards are in circulation in various parts of the state. If approximately 85,000 signatures are secured on the petitions, the law will be held in abeyance until after voters have expressed their opinion of the law at the election in November, 1934.

It wouldn't be so bad to be poor if we could keep the distressing fact a secret.

HAPPINESS
To be without desire is to be content. But contentment is not happiness. And in contentment there is no progress. Happiness is to desire something, to work for it, and to obtain at least a part of it. In the pursuit of beloved labor the busy days pass cheerfully employed, and the still nights in peaceful sleep. For labor born of desire is not drudgery.

but manly play. Success brings hope, hope inspires fresh desire, and desire gives zest to life and joy to labor. This is true whether your days be spent in the palaces of the powerful or in some little green byway of the world. Therefore, while yet you have the strength, cherish a desire to do some useful work in your little corner of the world, and have the steadfastness to labor. For this is the way to the happy life; with health and endearing ties, it is the way to the glorious life.—Max Ehrmann.

PURCHASING POWER

The new codes are being put into force and effect with all possible dispatch with the purpose of increasing the numbers of the employed workers, and the aggregate of their payrolls to as great a degree as possible before the approach of winter. The avowed intent is to increase the mass purchasing power of the workers in the expectation they will promptly spend the wages received, and that the resulting increases in the demand for goods will so expand the operations of industry and trade as to enable manufacturers and merchants to operate successfully. In the long run there is just one test of the soundness of such a plan when the reductions in hours and the increase in payrolls are applied, as there are to all forms of business activity. That test is whether or not they result in increased national production. The fundamental principle involved is that production is purchasing power. We all produce services or goods, and by using the money we receive for them we buy the goods and services of others. The total that we all produce is all there is to be divided among us.

FINDING THE WAY

The world, moving towards more equal distribution of its riches among the people, seems to hasten slowly. But it is making progress despite many discouragements. Gradually, as civilization advances, we come to a clearer understanding of God's purpose for humanity. It has taken ages for man to emerge from the darkness of bondage into this new morning of freedom. Centuries more must pass away before the perfection of economic security for the masses is reached. But as certain as the universe continues to travel in the splendor of the heavens, the goal will eventually be gained. Each generation contributes its grain of sand upon the shores of Time, each to help in proving that love, not hate, generosity and unselfishness, not avarice and greed, are the great moral precepts for the salvation of the race.

GOLD ON THE HILLS

The Village of Bangor is announcing its apple show for November 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. It is an annual event that serves to emphasize the value of the apple crop in that part of the state as a harbinger of prosperity. Exposition of this kind should be encouraged and nurtured in every community. If we take the trouble to call outside attention to the things that are our best assets, we profit accordingly. The best fruit in the world is grown in Michigan. Telling the world about it is the most sensible thing we can do.

The most ambitious stenographer we know tried to get the job of taking dictation from Floyd Gibbons.

* MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE *
* WEEKLY NEWS *
* * * * *

The steady decrease in the number of automobiles in use in Michigan since 1929, bears out the contention of Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald that the cost of license plates should be reduced drastically.

On October 1, 1933, there were 67,807 fewer cars and trucks on Michigan highways than in 1932 and 269,326 less than in 1929. Many of these cars are not being operated because the owners are unable to purchase license plates. This is shown by the half-price permits which allowed 1932 plates to be used until August 1. Of the 415,946 motorists who purchased half-price permits, only 343,140, as near as can be ascertained, have been able to purchase 1933 plates.

Revenue from the sale of plates also is decreasing. For the first 10 months of 1933, automobile license revenues amounted to $17,359,262. This is a decrease of $1,232,896 for the same period last year and $4,077,119 less than for the first 10 months of 1929.

The financial responsibility law, which becomes effective next Tuesday, should be studied carefully by every motorist. The act, besides providing that motorists involved in accidents be able to pay damages, also makes it compulsory upon the Department of State to suspend all licenses and registrations upon conviction of any of the six major offenses in the motor vehicle operators' license law.

Even though an automobile owner has satisfied the financial requirements of the act, he might still be prohibited from driving because of the mandatory revocation of his license.

Few persons have any accurate idea of the number of different makes of automobiles and trucks that have been manufactured since the automobile was invented. The average guess is 125. Files of the Department of State contain the names of 870 different varieties of automobiles and trucks. These files constitute a permanent record of every motor vehicle licensed to operate in Michigan.

On October 17, 81 of the 270 laws passed by the 1933 legislature became effective. The remainder became effective as soon as signed by the governor.

Second Discussion on Child Care and Training October 18

The county child study groups will meet again on Wednesday, October 18, with Mrs. Lydia Ann Lynde, to conduct the study of children's problems. The first group meets in the East Jordan high school auditorium at 2 o'clock. The evening meeting will be in the Boyne City library at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Lynde will be very glad to have individual conference with parents over their particular problems at the conclusion of each meeting. Some of the main problems to be considered at these meetings will have to do with school grades, annoying children, adolescents who do not agree with their parents and teaching children the habit of getting ready on time.

Ram Exchange Day to Be Held in County

A county ram exchange day is to be held in this county on Wednesday afternoon, October 18, at the Orchard Bay Farm, Charlevoix, beginning at 2 o'clock. This event will be held in connection with the Michigan Pure Bred Sheep Breeders' Ram truck which again is being operated by this organization. Educational demonstrations and discussions will also be conducted as part of the program.

As in the past, the truck load of

MAN'S HEART STOPPED, STOMACH GAS CAUSE

W. L. Adams was bloated so with gas that his heart often missed beats after eating. Adierika rid him of all gas, and now he eats anything and feels fine. F. J. Fessenden, Drug-pure-bred rams will be on sale and will consist of individuals of the common breeds as Hampshire, Shropshire and Oxford. Individuals of the other breeds will be delivered on advance order. Sheep owners from all sections of the county who have rams to trade are invited to bring these individuals in on the above date and to exchange them with other sheep men or possibly for other individuals on the truck.

Educational demonstrations on ram selection, grading and culling will be given in addition to discussions on the characteristics of the various breeds and on fall flock management problems. A judging contest open to all who are present is also being planned.

Farmers' Busily Engaged Selecting Sample for Potato-Apple Show

Farmers everywhere in the county are cooperating nicely in making a success of the potato and apple show to be held in the East Jordan high school on Saturday, November 4.

Saturday forenoon will be devoted to placing the exhibits and will get everything in readiness. The show will be open to the public all of Saturday afternoon and evening. The program committee is planning on a real program following the banquet, which will be the feature event of the evening.

Don't be timid about making an exhibit. Remember that there will be a beginners' class for those who have not won any premium money at either the Gaylord or the state potato show. With all the splendid apples in the county, why not take a few minutes and at least select several plate samples.

AT THE MOVIES

"Zoo in Budapest," Jesse L. Lasky's first independent production for Fox Film, starts a two-day engagement at the Palace theatre on Saturday, October 14. Loretta Young and Gene Raymond have the featured roles, with a supporting cast that includes O. P. Heggie, Wally Albright, Paul Fix, Murray Kinnell, Ruth Warren, Roy Stewart, Frances Rich, Niles Welch, Lucille Ward, Russ Powell and Dorothy Libaire. The direction is by Rowland V. Lee from the screen adaptation by Dan Totheroh, Louise Long and the director, made from the story of Melville Baker and Jack Kirkland.

"Trick For Trick," the new Fox mystery melodrama in which secrets of magic are revealed as two magicians vie with each other for superiority, comes to the Palace theatre on Wednesday, October 18, to remain for an engagement of two days.

The film, directed by Hamilton MacFadden is said to show in a simple manner just how two adepts practice the black art. One of them suspects the other of a murder. The other, guilty or not guilty, wants at least to throw the first one off the track. In this jerry of wits and magic, they reveal to each other the utmost in their art.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, October 15, is "Doctrine of Atonement."

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was the subject of the lesson sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 8.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Ps. 107: 20, 21): "He sent his word, and healed them, and delivered them from their destructions. Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!"

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 297): "Sickness, sin, and death are the vague realities of human conclusions. Life, Truth, and Love are the realities of divine Science. They dawn in faith and glow full-orbed in spiritual understanding."

State Payroll Shows a Drop

The first of what will be monthly reports on state payroll figures released by Auditor General John K. Stack shows material drop in the state's salary item for last July from the total for the same month in recent years. The July, 1933, payroll was $684,918.

SPRINGVALE CAMP TO BE WINTER QUARTERS

Bids Asked for Building to Shelter
Two Hundred Campers

Definite word from the Sixth Army Area headquarters in Chicago revealed plans for keeping Camp Wolverine, at Springvale, open all winter and directed Lieut. French, commander, to secure bids for the necessary buildings. Word of the inclusion of this CCC camp in the winter activities had been awaited with great interest both at camp and in this region.

At least eight contractors are expected to enter bids for the necessary winter home buildings. Bids will be open at Camp headquarters at 10 a. m., Friday, October 13. The successful bidder will have to await confirmation of his bid from the army headquarters at Chicago.

Buildings to be asked for include the barracks, mess hall, kitchen, headquarters building, supply building, power house and first aid building. It is understood that the old headquarters building will be repaired and put in shape for use during the winter.

The camp will be outfitted with electric power for lights and pumping water.

About two hundred men are now in camp and it is believed that this number will be maintained quite evenly through the winter.

SMALL GAME SEASON OPENS NEXT SUNDAY

Few Changes Made in Laws Governing Hunting This Year.

Anticipating a successful season this year, hundreds of thousands of southern peninsula rabbit and bird hunters will go into the fields, Sunday, October 15, the opening day of the 1933 season. The upper peninsula seasons opened October 1.

Reports received throughout the summer by the department of conservation from its field men, and from other interested observers, indicate a good number of snowshoe hares, grouse, prairie chicken in the north as well as cottontails and pheasants in the south.

There are few changes in the hunting regulations this year. The 12 a day total bag limit on waterfowl and the opening of the prairie chicken season in every part of the state are the most important. Last year the two southern tiers of counties were closed to prairie chicken hunters.

Raccoon hunters, who were permitted but 15 days of hunting in 1932 are now granted a full month of thirty days, November 1 to November 30, inclusive. Trapping raccoons is restricted to the open season for the taking of muskrats.

The bird season in the upper peninsula opened October 1 and closed October 12, three days before the opening of the season south of the Straits of Mackinac. The pheasant and partridge season in the southern peninsula closes October 26.

NATIVE LAMBS BEST IN STATE FEED LOTS

Tests Made at East Lansing Show
Michigan Stock Give More Profit

Native Michigan medium wool lambs proved to be as good winter feeding lots as western lambs in trials carried on through four years by the animal husbandry department at Michigan State college.

Native, fine wool lambs did not feed as well as the native, medium wool lamb or the western lamb. A lower first cost for the Michigan stock made it more profitable for feeding than the animals brought from western ranges. The slower gains made by the fine wool lambs is sometimes more than compensated by the value of their fleece if they are clipped before marketing.

Feeders who are willing to treat the flock for parasites and who can market his lambs in small lots as they reach a marketable finish probably can make more profit from feeding native lambs than from western.

HUNTING NEAR CONSERVA- TION CAMPS IS DANGEROUS

Michigan hunters are cautioned by George R. Hogarth, director of conservation, not to shoot in the immediate vicinity of any of the state's 45 emergency camps.

He pointed out that more than 8,000 youths are working daily on scores of projects throughout the hunting areas of Michigan. A stray bullet, he warned, might injure or kill one or more of the workers.

Guiltless Her Faithless "Royal" Lover

Read in The American Weekly, with next Sunday's Detroit Times, the case of an unhappy woman who gladly gave up her husband, honor and fortune, for the man who claimed to be an emperor's "love child"—until he called her an "Old Fool."

Buy "American-Made" goods.

Along the Way

That splendid spirit of brotherliness which seemingly has always existed in the rural districts was never more apparent than last Thursday night at Barnard when several hundred people were served at a chicken pie supper given to raise funds for an ailing resident of that district. The sum of $140 was realized. Figure at 25c per person and you will see how many rallied to the cause. The Barnard grange sponsored the affair and the success with which they were rewarded shows the potency of organization.

It will be noted Charlevoix's schools did not close for the district teachers' institute this year—a marked departure from the practice followed heretofore. There is no doubt regarding the educational benefit of the teachers' institutes, but at the same time it is consoling to know that our local school officials recognize that the stress of financial conditions leaves no room for such outside activities. Every day schools are kept open now while finances are available for operation helps toward that goal of providing a full term.

We see where Cheboygan is proposing to adopt a new ordinance making it illegal to park vehicles within 500 feet of a burning structure. Punishment for violation of the ordinance would be a fine not to exceed $100 or imprisonment in the county jail for not to exceed three months, or both. Charlevoix has also had considerable trouble along this line and Cheboygan's action might prove a valuable suggestion for local use.

The U. S. weather bureau at Lansing reports the rainfall for September measured 5.37 inches. 2.46 inches above normal. Despite this fact the water level of lakes in this district is the lowest ever recorded. With the deepening of shipping channels, the Chicago drainage "steal," etc., it will take more than nature to bring the lake levels back to normal.

GONE!—THE HIGH COST OF STOMACH TROUBLE

Don't pay $2.50 to $5.00 for relief from stomach pains, indigestion. Try Dr. Emil's Adia Tablets—3 weeks treatment only $1. Relief or your money back. F. J. Fessenden, Druggist.

TEN COUNTIES WILL BENEFIT FROM PORK

Federal Allotment for County Coming From Traverse City

Ten counties in the Grand Traverse region will share the carload of government pork which is expected to arrive in Traverse City today to be distributed among the needy families.

This pork is the meat which the federal government purchased to maintain the price of hogs and which is now being passed out as a relief measure in the shape of dry salt pork.

The meat is consigned to the Grand Traverse county emergency welfare relief commission. Trucks from all the counties will haul each county's share back to the county seat for distribution.

The pork is to be distributed in addition to the regular relief supplies put out by the commission. Each portion is accompanied by a leaflet from the bureau of home economics at Washington which gives detailed instruction for proper preparation of the meat.

The carload contains 300 boxes of salt pork, each box holding 100 pounds and the boxes will be distributed among the counties as follows: Emmet 44, Charlevoix 22, Antrim 24, Leelanau 32, Benz 18, Grand Traverse 34, Kalkaska 32, Manistee 30, Wexford 44, Missaukee 20.

Baptist ladies will hold a Rummage Sale at the Holly Gift Shop, Friday and Saturday, October 13 and 14.—Adv. 4111.

HIGHWAY LAW WILL HIT ROUGH RIDERS

Lose License If Convicted; Must Post $11,000 or Surety Bond.

The new financial responsibility law which becomes effective in Michigan Oct. 17, will make it tough going for the reckless or irresponsible driver who is involved in accidents or who fails to observe highway laws.

The law, intended to protect persons and property from the acts of lawless drivers on the highway, proposes to deal heavily with the motorist who is convicted of a major violation of motor vehicle laws, or who fails to satisfy a judgment of $300.00 or more growing out of a traffic accident. That particular driver's license and all registration certificates of the automobile will be suspended. In order to reinstate the license, the motorist must settle the judgment in the manner specified in the law and also must furnish the Secretary of State with proof of his financial responsibility to meet the cost of any future highway accidents.

This can be done in three ways. The motorist may deposit $11,000 with the state. He may file a surety bond or a real estate bond with two sureties providing for a maximum of $10,000 for personal injuries or death and a maximum of $1,000 for property damage; or the motorist may file a certificate showing that he carries motor vehicle liability insurance for the necessary amounts.

CHARLEVOIX-BOYNE GRID TILT SATURDAY

Kipmen Go Away from Home for Second Contest of Season

Charlevoix high school gridgers resume football competition Saturday, going away from home to engage Coach Brotherton's powerful Boyne City aggregation on their home field.

With one victory tucked away and two weeks of practice absorbed, it will be a smarter Charlevoix team Boyne will have to face than the one which did a neat, but unexpected job of winning from East Jordan in its initial contest two weeks ago. Many rough spots apparent in the opening contest have been smoothed out and the team generally, and more especially the members playing for their first season, know more fundamentals than they did previously.

The Kipmen will meet a strong opponent in Boyne. The Brotherton outfit held Traverse City and Charlevoix to tie scores and has lost only to Potoskey, defending champions in the Big Six. All three schools are class B institutions, so Boyne so far has stepped out of its class in every game and has had no opportunity to show against a team of its own caliber.

It is not anticipated Coach Kipke will deviate from the line-up which started and finished the East Jordan game.

COUNTY SOLONS AT ANNUAL FALL MEET

Palmer reported all schools of the county in operation with the exception of High Island, which was also closed last year.

Harry A. Craig, county welfare chairman, gave a detailed report of welfare relief activities in the county, requesting greater cooperation from supervisors in the selection of projects for welfare labor in their respective districts. He recommended the grounds of all rural schools be landscaped and beautified by welfare labor and suggested the county school commissioner and county agricultural agent cooperate to this end with the welfare committee.

The supervisors went on record as favoring the expenditure of welfare relief money upon projects which would be of future benefit to the respective communities in which they were located, also its satisfaction over the present management of welfare activities by the officials now in charge.

While only routine matters have been taken up so far, it is expected much of the more important business items now in committee will be brought out for action within the next day or so.

NAVY DAY, OCTOBER 27

In times of world-wide perplexity and disturbance such as these, it seems particularly appropriate and pertinent that the American people should exhibit a deep interest in their navy and its possible effectiveness for the defense of our land and the upholding of our national dignity.

And so we approach Navy Day, Friday, October 27, anniversary of the birth of the American Navy, with a sincere recommendation that everyone participate in its observance. On that day the thoughts of patriotic and loyal Americans will be directed toward a consideration not only of the glorious deeds of our navy in wartime and peace, its historic records, its strength and effectiveness, but of its present and future needs if we are to maintain our respect in the eyes of other nations.

Throughout the land, observance of the day will be proclaimed and urged by governors and mayors. The flag will be displayed, public exercises will be held, appropriate programs will be presented in the schools and before club organizations, and other things will be done under the sponsorship of veterans' and other patriotic associations for the purpose of honoring our navy and its men.

Incidentally, October 27 also will be the anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt, staunch friend and builder of the American navy, and a proponent of preparedness on sea as the first line of national defense.

NRA OBSERVANCE A FINE SUCCESS

LARGE CROWD ON HAND FOR CELEBRATION SATURDAY

Ideal Weather Prevailed and Outlined Program Carried Out In Its Entirety

Charlevoix celebrated the NRA last Saturday with the first observance of its kind held in Michigan north of Grand Rapids.

Ideal weather prevailed, a large throng was on hand for the festivities and the Association of Commerce, sponsors of the event, were further rewarded for their efforts by telegrams of congratulation from Hugh S. Johnson, NKA administrator,
Washington, and Cong. Prentiss
M. Brown of the 11th district.

Following a previously outlined program, activities opened with firing of a cannon by Mayor L. S. See. A parade, composed of a life and drum corps, the city band and Legion bugle and drum corps, escorted "Old Man Depression" to his doom. Alfie
Moore adjusted the noose, Sheriff
Floyd Ikens sprung the gallows trap and the Legion firing squad riddled the effigy with "bullets," after which it was dropped in Round lake by Pilot "Bud" Hammond from an airplane. Coast guards made final disposition of the "corpse." The hangman's rope was sent as a souvenir to President Franklin D. Roosevelt with compliments of the Association of Commerce.

Turning to less serious activity,
Stewart Coleman conducted a program of street races. Stalwarts from Hayes and Evelyn townships defeated the Marion-Norwood team in the tug-of-war, and George Sharrow captured the greasy pig. Barbecue sandwiches and coffee, prepared at Mc-Cann's bakery by John McCann and served by a corps of assistants, were served to everyone. The movies at the Palace theatre proved a popular entertainment feature.

The evening entertainment was provided by a series of boxing matches staged in an arena at the corner of Bridge and Clinton streets.
Two local youngsters furnished the opening bout. In the second, Tom Trumbull of Camp Wolverine, and "Hardrock" Ager, local lad, fought three rounds to a draw, as did also Frank Winnick, Charlevoix, and Bill
Reed, Grand Rapids. Henry Dokker of Camp Wolverine, won the decision over George Shomin, Petoskey, and Clyde Moore won the decision over a fellow-camper, George Fox of Houlland. In the final bout, Chief Crampton and Bill Woods, both this city, fought three fast rounds to a draw.
"Cy" Powers acted as referee.

Many here for the celebration took advantage of a varied and tempting assortment of Dollar day bargains offered by local merchants as a trade stimulant.

Officials of the Association of Commerce have expressed their appreciation for the fine cooperation of the American Legion in handling the event and to all who shared in the responsibility.

BEAVER ISLAND BOAT IS DELAYED BY HEAVY SEAS

Due to strong southeast wind and heavy seas, the Charlevoix-Beaver Island mail boat Maribol II required five hours to make the crossing from St. James, Monday. The vessel left soon after arrival here on the return voyage, leaving port several hours behind the ordinary schedule. With the arrival of stormy fall weather, the boat crossing to Beaver Island becomes one of considerable hardship.

SCHOOL BOARD URGES CITIZENS TO TURN IN SCRIP CERTIFICATES

Attention has been called by the board of education to the fact that local residents who hold school scrip issued last spring have neglected in many instances to present it for retirement.

Notices were issued some time ago that the scrip would be payable on September 28th at the Charlevoix County bank. So far only about one-third has been turned in. The issue draws no interest after September 28th, the date of retirement, so nothing is to be gained by holding it any longer.

The board of education would appreciate the cooperation of the public on this matter.

NAVY DAY OBSERVANCE SET FOR OCTOBER 27TH

Michigan Chairman Gives Outline of Purpose of Celebration

Friday, October 27, the 158th anniversary of the establishment of the American navy, will be observed as Navy day throughout the nation.
J. T. Shear of Detroit is chairman of the Michigan general committee.
Mr. Shear also is chairman of the Detroit Council of National Defense.
"The purpose of the observance,"
Mr. Shear says, "is to commemorate the fine achievements and traditions, in both war and peace, of the American navy and its personnel, and to bring them to the attention of the general public; to inspire pride in and regard for the navy, our first line of defense in case of aggression by a foreign power; to impress upon our minds the necessity for always commanding world-wide respect for our flag, our nation and our ideals by keeping the navy adequate and efficient, and to foster such public interest that our navy will never be permitted to deteriorate to a point that might endanger our peace and security."

COUNTY RELIGIOUS MEETING TUESDAY

ANNUAL SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY AT IRONTON CHURCH

Afternoon and Evening Program Arranged With Numerous Interesting Features

The annual meeting of the Charlevoix county council of religious education will be held this year at Ironton, convening Tuesday, October 24.

The program will begin at 2:00 p.
m. and will continue through the evening. A short resume of the program is as follows: The general theme of the meeting is, "Sunday School Evangelism." This theme will be in the mind of all who take part on the program. Devotional service will be conducted by Rev. M. Jewell, Horton Bay; address, "Sunday School
Evangelism," by Rev. James Leitch, East Jordan; "The Sunday School
Reaching the Unchurched," Rev.
Eley, new Methodist pastor at Boyne
City; "Temperance in the Sunday School," by Wm. J. Pearson, Boyne Falls, and Mrs. G. R. Parker, Charlevoix.

Round table discussions will be led by Rev. T. B. Couper, Mrs. Maude
Wessels and Mrs. G. E. Smock, Boyne City; Rev. E. P. Linnell, Petoskey, and Mrs. Clara Kitzman, East Jordan. Harker Kirby, Charlevoix, will be leader of the young people's rally in the evening.

In the evening, after a devotional service led by Rev. I. T. Mark, a pearl medal contest will be given in which young people from several points in the county will enter. After the contest, Rev. VerStrate, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Sault
Ste. Marie, will bring a message.

Young people from every Sunday school in the county are urged to attend the rally. The largest group from any one school will receive a banner to be kept through the year or until some other school wins it at some future council meeting.

The banquet at 6:30 o'clock is in the nature of a pot-luck supper.
Each brings what he wishes to eat and his own table service. The Ironton school will furnish coffee.

EXPECT NEW WELFARE RELIEF SET-UP SOON

Committee of Three Named But Not Officially Appointed

Appointment by the state welfare department of a committee of three to handle emergency welfare relief work in Charlevoix county, is being awaited by local officials.

The names of J. N. Foster, Charlevoix, Dr. Guy C. Cankle of Boyne
City, and Albert Freiberg of East Jordan, were submitted last Saturday for approval by the county Democratic committee. These selections apparently have been favorable and official appointment of these men is anticipated, although not as yet made.

If appointed, this committee will select a welfare director and immediately assume the handling of welfare work in the county, heretofore very satisfactorily carried on by the county welfare committee which has been serving since last March when
R. F. C. funds were first available.

NEW STATE LAWS GO INTO EFFECT

EIGHTY-ONE OF THEM ARE TO BE PLACED ON ROLL

They Include Old Age Pension, Motor, Bus Regulation and Auto Liability Law

The "ugly duckling" acts of the 1933 legislature came to life Tuesday.

Eighty-one of them which failed to receive the support of two-thirds of the members of both houses will become effective on that date and most of them are of little import.

The constitution provides that only such acts as affect the public peace, health or welfare shall become effective immediately upon passage, the remainder waiting until 90 days after the final date of the session. Normally Tuesday will find most of the works of the 1933 session in effect.

Last spring, however, the legislature adopted the attitude that practically all of its bills were of vital importance to the public interest and should be given immediate effect.
For most of them the two-thirds vote required was procured.

Except the 81—and included in this list are acts which, for instance, require the marking of rebuilt storage batteries; classify sausages, regulating the sale of frog legs, and dozens of other measures of similar value which even the legislators of 1933 could not class as affecting the public peace, health or welfare.

Several other important bills, however, do not become operative until Tuesday for the reason that the classes they will affect needed time to prepare for their provisions or because that the two-thirds vote could not be mustered.

Probably of greatest public interest is the auto liability act which will require that motorists who have been in an accident and who, if responsible, have not paid damages, must procure liability insurance before driving again.

The old age pension act, intended to provide a daily income of $1 for indigents above the age of 70 will also go into force. It is to be financed by a $2 annual head tax, collection of which will start in March.

Motor buses will be placed under new regulations relative to size and will be required to pay the state a tax based upon a mileage basis rather than a flat vehicle fee.

The general road licenses which the state collected all this summer despite the fact it was not given immediate effect also is in force Tuesday.

The Ruff act providing for bipartisan election boards is also slated to become effective, but petitions already have been filed with the secretary of state as the first step in a campaign to submit it to a popular vote in November, 1934.

Other measures which will be operative this week are:

A bill eliminating state regulation of the construction of one-room school houses.

A measure repealing the ancient horse-shoeing code.

A bill permitting appeal to the circuit courts for persons whose auto drivers' licenses have been revoked.

A measure permitting township treasurers to serve more than two terms.

A measure making it a felony to place slugs in vending machines.

NEW MOTOR LAW NOW IN EFFECT

PENALIZES THOSE NOT FINAN-CIALLY RESPONSIBLE

Licenses and Car Ownership Forfeited for Failure to Meet Judgment After Accident

At midnight, October 16th, Michigan's new motor vehicle law went into effect and at last a curb will be put on those motorists and motor car owners who care-free and without responsibility injure and wreck but never pay.

This new law in Michigan is not by any means a new law. Michigan has simply, somewhat tardily, followed twenty other states and six of the provinces of Canada.

This financial responsibility law is founded upon the simple proposition long incorporated in both civil and criminal law, that no person has the right to negligently injure another person's body or property without providing help and compensation to the injured person or owner. The purpose of the law, of course, is to compensate the injured by forced financial responsibility of the owner and driver. Further, its purpose is one of safety for it is conceived and has been proved in other states that those motor owners who drive without ability to pay judgments, have a natural fear of being forever barred from the road and in consequence they drive more carefully.

The principle provisions of the law are as follows:

The operator's or chauffeur's license and all of the registration certificates and car license plates of any resident of Michigan (person, firm or corporation) shall be immediately suspended by the Secretary of State upon receipt by him of a certified copy of any final judgment or judgments rendered by any court of competent jurisdiction in the United States or the Dominion of Canada for damages on account of personal injury, including death, or damage to property in excess of $300 as a result of an automobile accident occurring after this act becomes effective, which judgment has remained unsatisfied for thirty days, and such licenses and certificates shall remain suspended until such judgment or judgments are satisfied and proof of financial responsibility for future accidents shall have been filed.

This part of the law means that any person, firm or corporation owning or driving a car who has a final judgment against them for personal injuries or property damage within the law, must pay that judgment within thirty days or he cannot drive or own an automobile in Michigan.

The second provision of the law is that any person, after he satisfies the judgment, must thereafter for three years put up proof of financial responsibility with the state, proof that he will be able to satisfy a judgment in future cases. This proof can be given the state by a deposit of $11,000 in cash, or by filing a bond for this amount or by filing an approved insurance policy with the state. This provision, of course, is not effective until after a judgment has been secured against the owner.

The third provision of the law is that any driver who has been convicted of a major traffic law in which his driving license is suspended for a period of time, then he too must file with the state, in the same manner as the preceding paragraph, proof of financial responsibility for a period of three years.

These are the principle and important parts of this new law of Michigan, that is an old law in other states. It compels no one to do anything that he has not done before, providing he does not have a judgment against him, and does not violate a major law, but if he does have a judgment against him, the penalties are drastic unless he pays that judgment. It is not an insurance law, but it will make thousands of people more insurance conscious. It vastly increases the importance of insurance protection and public officials in many of the states emphatically recommend that motorists keep liability and property damage in force.

the upper peninsula opens November 1 and closes November 30. Mink may in the lower peninsula, and the opening of the season for taking opossums.

SUPERVISORS CUT COUNTY'S BUDGET

EIGHT MILL TAX LIMIT

Annual October Session Concluded
Saturday With Adoption of Ways and Means Report

Winding up the business of their annual October session in a flurry of activity Saturday forenoon, the Charlevoix county board of supervisors adjourned at noon following five and a half days of deliberation.

Showing a trend toward economy in operation of the various county departments, the finance committee set the budget for 1934 well within the limit of eight mills allocated by the county tax commission. While setting the tax to be spread at 8 mills, which will raise $72,393.16, the budget call for $51,325.00. This figure compares with $41,132.00 in 1932, and $74,150.00 for 1933. The amount collected in excess of the budget, providing there is an excess, will be used to wipe out a general fund overdraft of approximately $10,000.00.

Appropriations Cut

The ways and means committee provided for appropriations totaling $123,500.00, and at the same time eliminated several allowed in previous years. The appropriations included: Michigan Tourist & Boat Association, $200; county potato and apple show, $25; Soldiers' and Sailors' Relief commission, $300; District Health Unit for office maintenance, $375; Charlevoix hospital, $500 (with the provision $250 be used in service to Charlevoix county indigents needing hospitalization);
Walton county park, $500; Charlevoix county airport, $150; agricultural extension fund, $1,000; Beaver Island airport, $50; salary and expenses county road commissioners, $750; county poor fund, $7,000 (for maintenance of infirmary, hospitalization and expense of commis-sioners); county picnic, $25; fish and game committee, $150.

Appropriations eliminated were county normal, $1,000; Starr Commonwealth, $100; Children's Aid Society, $100; Top O'Michigan potato and apple show, Guernsey Breeders' association and an appropriation for distribution of confederated fish to welfare.

The ways and means committee recommended weight tax money estimated at $15,000.00, be distributed under provisions of the Colp bill as follows: one-third for welfare relief to augment state and federal aid;
one-half to sinking fund for bond retirement, and one-sixth to the finance committee to be apportioned as deemed necessary.

The poor commission report showed $43,496.99, less reimbursements from other counties, of $1,602.04, was spent in care of indigents. This sum includes $10,152.15 of federal emergency relief funds used for direct relief. Last year's total was $33,115.79. The distribution by districts was: Charlevoix, $4,807.41;
East Jordan, $12,698.89; Boyne City, $14,331.23.

For the second consecutive year no appropriation was made for road construction. The county clerk was voted $500 for additional clerk hire, been proclaimed American Education Week by proclamation of Governor William Comstock.

The proclamation urges that the period of November 6th to 12th be

CORRESPONDENCE

NORWOOD

Bean threshing seems to be the leading occupation in our locality this week.

Max Renigar of Lansing is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Publow.

Many of the Norwood citizens attended the NRA program held in Charlevoix Saturday.

Mrs. Wilmer Smith and son, Leon, are visiting Mrs. Smith's parents at Beaverton for a couple of weeks.

For the past few days the high wind of autumn sweeps across the countryside and dark clouds sweep past the sunlight.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Totten of Lansing, spent the week end with Mrs. Totten's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mayne. Mrs. Totten was formerly Joyce Mayne.

Mr. Madison, accompanied by George Parsons and Aaron Harwood, went to Chicago last week where they will attend the Century of Progress exposition.

Hunting season for small game opened Sunday and at early dawn many anxious hunters were well on their way to some favorite spot to try for their limited number.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Genett motored up from Flint Saturday where they are enjoying a visit with Mr. Genett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Plenny Genett. They expect to return to Flint Wednesday.

Members and friends of the M. E. church at Barnard gave a reception for the new minister, Rev. Mumby and family, last Friday evening, which was largely attended. A fine program was enjoyed. Atwood and Norwood were represented.

Mrs. R. E. Stanford entertained the members of the Norwood Ladies' Aid society at her home last Wednesday afternoon, where several more plans were added for entertainment at the chicken pie supper to be given Tuesday evening, October 31, at the town hall in Norwood.

BARNARD

More like real fall weather. The big NRA celebration in Charlevoix Saturday was enjoyed by a large number of our citizens.

Mrs. William Ver Meulen was called to Detroit Sunday on account of the illness of her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Paddock have been attending the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago the past week.

A nice crowd of young people attended the Epworth League meeting Sunday evening. Wesley Manley was the leader.

The grange hunt culminated in a game supper on Tuesday evening. In the contest Carlton Smith's side were winners with a score of 120 points to 73 for the losers.

The Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. William Shapton last Wednesday. Eleven members and several visitors were present. They meet next month with Mrs. Gurnell.

The reception for Rev. Mumby and family was attended by a crowd of about one hundred. A nice representation from Norwood and Atwood helped out the enjoyable evening.

CONGRATULATIONS

The following telegrams, congratulating Charlevoix Association of Commerce officials for their spirit in sponsoring Saturday's NRA observance, were received:

President Board of Commerce, Charlevoix, Mich.

Please convey to the people of your city and those sponsoring today's NRA celebration my congratulations and best wishes for success of the effort.

The holding of mass meetings, rallies and parades all over the country in enthusiastic support of the recovery program evidences faith of our people that insures success to a common cause. The purpose of the Recovery Act is simply to revive business and put the unemployed to work. This to succeed must be supported all along the line in the factories, stores, shops and by the homes. Available purchasing power must be put into immediate buying if the gains already made are to be extended. Buying now is an opportunity to take advantage of present prices, a service to ones self and to the national restoration effort. The NRA welcomes your special efforts in Charlevoix.

Hugh S. Johnson, Administrator.

C. J. Winder, President Board of Commerce, Charlevoix, Mich.

Congratulations on your efforts in NRA celebration. Success.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, October 22, "Probation After Death."

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 15.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Mark 10:21): "Then Jesus beholding him loved him, and said unto him, One thing thou lackest; go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, take up the cross, and follow me."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p.23): "Wisdom and Love may require many sacrifices of self to save us from sin. One sacrifice, however great, is insufficient to pay the debt of sin. The atonement requires constant self-immolation on the sinner's part."

What You Will Probably Die Of

An article in The American Weekly, with next Sunday's Detroit Times, tells how science is now able to make a fairly accurate guess on how long an individual is likely to live and name the disease which will most probably usher you into the next world.

DEER LICENSES GO ON SALE NOVEMBER FIRST

Resident Fee Reduced from $3.50 to $2.25 for 1933 Season

Deer hunting licenses for the 1933 season will be placed on sale by conservation department license agents, November 1, 15 days prior to the opening of the season.

The fee for the resident deer license this year has been dropped from $3.50 to $2.25 and the cost of the non-resident license has dropped from $50 to $25. The fee for a camp deer license is $3.00.

A law adopted in Michigan in 1931 is going to mean that more than 675 Michigan men will be refused a license to hunt deer this fall.

The division of field administration of the department of conservation has compiled a list of persons who have been convicted of violation of the deer laws during the past three years or who have shot or killed anyone in a deer hunting accident in five years. Under the law these persons will not be permitted to hunt deer. The list will be submitted to field men in the various counties before the sale of deer licenses begins.

Last year the department's list of those not privileged to go deer hunting amounted to 694. However, several names were removed because of expiration of the time limits. A few more convicted of deer law violations during the year were added to the 1933 list.

The 1932 deer hunting season resulted in four hunting fatalities and three injuries.

PEARSON CHOSEN TOURIST ASSN. DIRECTOR

Elected at Annual Meeting Held Friday at Muskegon

Wm. J. Pearson, Boyne Falls, was elected director of the Michigan Tourist & Resort Association at its annual meeting in Muskegon Friday.

Other directors chosen from the Northern Michigan region included C. K. Kaufman of Belaire, Frank V. Orent of Beulah, W. J. McDonald of Petoskey, Arch Marshall, Jr., of Bear Lake, Felix H. H. Flynn of Cadillac, William Olson of Frankfort, Oren O. Olson, Spider Lake.

The organization re-elected Hugh J. Gray of Grand Rapids as secretary-manager and went on record favoring a shorter school year as a means of lengthening the resort season.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

Mrs. Helen Hurd was program leader at the W. C. T. U. meeting held in the community room last Friday afternoon and presented the topic, "O Womanhood Arise," in her usual interesting manner, giving several illustrations to prove that women can do most anything they set out to do provided they have patience and perseverance and use the power which comes from the exercise of prayer.

Mrs. Lillie Edwards conducted the devotional service. The treasurer's annual report was read and new officers installed. Mrs. Mary Rife acting as installing officer. Mrs. Mary Blissett presented a book to the Union entitled "The Life of Mary T. Lathrop," which was accepted with a rising vote of thanks.

Plans were made to send the president, Mrs. Gladys Palmer, and four voting delegates to the state convention at Traverse City October 17th to 20th. Mrs. Kelderhouse, Mrs. Mole, Miss Metcalf and Mrs. Usher were asked to go and the president was given authority to fill the quota in case of vacancies. Many others will visit the convention for a day.

An executive meeting is called for October 30th. Mrs. Ida Burns has the program at the next regular meeting which occurs November 10.

ODDEST OF NAVY MEDALS
Probably the oddest of medals that has any connection with the United States navy is that awarded yearly at the elude located at Charleston, S. C., says a bulletin issued by the Navy department. The medal called the "Star of the West," after the Yankee ship at which one of the first shots of the Civil war was fired, is given to the cadet who is most nearly perfect in individual competition. This year the winner was A. B. Small of New Bedford, Mass.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative brings a perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it! And the habitual use of irritating salts, or of powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets may prove injurious.

A week with a properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will tell you a lot. A few weeks' time, and your bowels can be as regular as clockwork. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which all druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given the youngest child. ROADSIDE MARKETING

By T. J. Delohery

CHARGE FAIR PRICES

WHILE consumers who patronize roadside and farm markets show most interest in freshness and quality of the products, it is certain that they do not expect to pay regular retail prices to the farmer. And wise market operators realize that they should establish prices which give the consumer some advantage for coming out to the roadside or farm markets.

Charging all the traffic will bear has proven fatal to roadside markets. One of the best illustrations of mistake in charging top prices is had in the records of two Michigan roadside markets located 50 rods apart.

One market, operated by a man who bought most of the stuff he displayed, charged a profit of at least 50 per cent. His prices were higher than retail at the time of the investigation.

Low-grade pears which cost him 50 cents a bushel, sold at $1.25; tree-run pears available in city stores at $1.75 a bushel were quoted at $2. Eight-cent radishes sold at 30 cents and $2 peaches cost him $1. The same grade was selling in town for 25 cents less.

The other market, selling only what the farmer raised, aimed at a 25 per cent profit.

Figures at the end of the first season showed the farmer-owned market did the most business—$24,070, to be exact, yielding a profit of 21 per cent or $5,060. The other stand took in $1,740 and the profit was $745, or 41 per cent. Neither market made the planned margin.

The reaction of customers was plainly shown the following season, when the farmer who sold his own stuff did a business totaling $3,260. His profit was $720. His competitor, charging higher prices, took in $820, of which $245 was profit. The third season showed similar results, by which time the second market closed up because of lack of customers.

Practical roadside market prices are not wholesale—that is, wholesale price less cost of marketing, with sufficient margin to covering operating expenses and a reasonable profit. In other words, splitting the difference between wholesale and retail prices will be, except in times when the margin is very slight due to oversupply or some other reason, sufficient to give the farmer a decent price for what he produces. On the other hand, I know of instances where it has been necessary to sell at lower than wholesale; but prices of other things were sufficiently high so that a profit on general purchases was possible.

Few markets split pennies such as retail stores do. The idea is to move more goods, of course; but I find the extra penny which is added when odd cents are charged and only one quantity is desired, has a tendency to cause customers to look to something else. Greater volume is now being attempted by offering fruit, vegetable and other produce in units of three—that is, three bunches of radishes for 13 cents or 5 cents each. Some customers will buy two bunches under this scheme, figuring the smaller fraction of a cent isn't so much of a difference as the half-cent charge.

It has been found that little, if anything, is gained by selling below the market or general prices. These prices only draw bargain hunters and they seldom become steady customers. Leaders, too, are not a good practice unless they are invoked in case of surplus. It is a good idea to find out what competitors are charging before making drastic price cuts. Otherwise neighboring markets may be hurt and this, so I have found, brings retaliation. On the other hand, a knowledge of competitive prices may help you boost your quotations or cut them in order to keep in line, as the case may be.

Roadside and farm market operators are giving serious thought to determining a practical solution for charging prices that meet competition and at the same time bring them the greatest profits. In one Ohio county, the farm advisor made a fully survey of the prices charged at a number of markets. The information, without disclosing the identity of any of the markets, was mimeographed and distributed. The plan resulted in a general tightening of the previous quotations, some of the farmers being able to increase their returns by higher prices and they still were in competition.

A more specific instance of what this price plan can accomplish is the experience of a farmer whose retail price for eggs didn't make many sales. So he cut the price two cents, but it didn't help. Then the price was raised to several cents above retail. The demand picked up right away, and he was able to move other crops at a faster rate.

If any conclusion may be drawn from this experience it is that consumers are afraid low-priced eggs are not the best quality, even if available in the country. However, eggs are one farm crop for which consumers are willing to pay a premium if they can be assured of freshness and quality.

Except in surplus areas, the farmer who gives local markets a little study will find he can get better prices because of the saving in marketing costs and the more favorable reaction to home-grown products.

Attractive Schoolgirl Fashions

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SCHOOL days are here! Now, just what do you suppose is the thought uppermost in the minds of these little school-faring daughters, as they wind their way back to classrooms after a carefree vacation—books and studies or the problem of "what to wear"? We think we know but are not going to tell.

Anyway, it does seem as if the subject of big sister college and campus apparel has had its share of front page publicity, for the departments which specialize in going-away outfits have exceeded all previous records in making a display of complete wardrobes from a sports frock to the most "sophisticated" formal. We think little sister should share some of the honors and attention in this matter of stylish and practical clothes, and so what we are going to talk about at this moment is the apparel needs of the younger girls who like to be well dressed in their classrooms at grammar and high school every whit as much as do their elders who go away to college and fashionable centers of learning.

Here's something we believe will be interesting to most every school girl, it's that shirtwaist dresses are "all the style." Mother and big sister are having their dresses with waists buttoned up the front, tailored of broad cloth and "twisted" silks and the new ribbed crepes. Frocks of this type are always neat and trim looking, which is exactly what makes them so practical and good looking for school wear, and so designers of junior styles have adopted this fashion for girls of school age.

The little girl standing to the left in the picture has on one of the new shirtwaist types. This particular model happens to be made of a ring-dotted wash silk with white pique trimmings and large white pearl buttons. The dress could be effectively copied in some one or other of the pretty rayon mixtures which are so inexpensive and which give such good service. The front plait in the skirt gives necessary fullness.

The what-shall-I-wear question is never without an answer for the schoolgirl who includes a knitted outfit in her wardrobe. The knitted costume worn by the little miss seated is a "perfect dear." It is one of those very new and very stylish twin sweater outfits about which there has been so much talk this season. This one has the cleverest neckline—boat-shaped, if you please, and outlined in a bi-color bordering done in soft, fluffy angora wool. The rest of the knitted blouse and skirt is in a boucle finish which is nonstretching and nonshrinking. There is a cardigan jacket (on the seat beside her) which belongs to this ensemble, which is why this is called a twin-sweater costume.

In all school days there comes a time when "we're going to have a party" is the good tidings which one little girl whispers to another—and then what? Well, why not ask mother. She knows. And this is what she knows—that it is up to her to help little daughter choose the prettiest party frock brought out this season—and here it is. It's one of the prettiest of the type which is not too formal for afternoon wear yet is dressy enough for informal evening affairs. The little daughter, standing to the right in the picture, is wearing it, and as you see it is made of velvet because they are saying in Paris that velvet is very smart for children's wear. This charming frock is dark wine in color and it is embellished with a cunning circle of plaid taffeta with sheer silk muslin sleeves in the very chic high neck and about the sleeves.

FUR COATS SHOWN IN VARIED LENGTHS

Furs for fall seem to be divided into three big classes. First, the long classical coat in black broadtail, semi-trimmed with just a little cape following the figure. One model, cut in this form, in black broadtail, has a squarish shawl collar edged in silver fox which builds out the shoulders and also gives them the new smart height. There also are some models in new shades of gray broadtail.

Second, the three-quarter style, but not with that bulky look of some of the now popular swaggy coats. This isn't particularly practical in fur as it gives too much thickness to the figure. Third, fur scarves and capes, or very short boleros.

Items of fur which already are being sold in great numbers are silver fox capes, the black broadtail type of coat trimmed with silver fox, and a new beige ermine trimmed with blue fox.

One Dress Can Be Made to Do Work of Three or Four

It's pretty nice to be able to make one dress do the work of three or four but it isn't fair to overtax it with as sorted trimmings.

Three different kinds of collars for a simple black silk dress will give it three different kinds of charm, and if you are careful in their selection you will have a good sports frock, a good luncheon town dress and cocktail costume all in one.

Chiffon's Favorite

Despite all the new and lovely materials that have swept over the fashion world recently, chiffon continues to hold its own.

TWEED WITH KNIT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Many of the most outstanding fall costumes interwork two and even three materials. For instance, a handsome outfit will use, perhaps, brown tweed for the coat, rust colored camel's hair for the skirt and for the blouse plait velvet combining rust, brown and beige. The ensemble pictured carries out the idea of working contrasting materials together. The dress, which is a two-piece (hat to match) is a chenille knit in the new grayhaze color. The stunning coat with gloves to match is of sturdy brown tweed.

Stately City Erected on Ruins of Old Tokyo

The newest metropolis in all the world. A monumental modern city built from the ground up, within the life span of a primary school child. The greatest spectacle of speed progress that our present-day world affords. From an Ashio beehive to heaps of twisted, smoking ruins, and now the stately metropolis of the whole Far East!

Old Tokyo perished in twenty-four hours, writes Henry Albert Phillips in Progress Magazine, beginning exactly two minutes before the stroke of twelve on September 1, 1923. More than 1,250,000 human beings died were injured or missing. A million and a half were left destitute and starving; 1,300,000 houses were either wrecked or totally destroyed with a property loss of more than $2,000,000,000. Eighty-six thousand acres of Tokyo were in ashes.

Compared with the great fire of London in 1666, the burned area of Tokyo was twenty times as large and the loss thirty-seven times greater; the area burned was four times greater and the loss twelve times as much as the Chicago fire in 1871; and the earthquake and fire of San Francisco in 1906 was but a third of the area and a fifth of the loss of the Tokyo conflagration.

My husband has a job in the oil fields and everything he wears, from his overalls right down to his underwear and socks gets covered with greasy grime. So it is a blessing to have a soap like Fels-Naptha, which has lots of grease-loosening naphtha in every golden bar. My washes always look spic and span!

Yes, ma'am—greasy dirt sticks. But you get an added grease-loosener in Fels-Naptha—nap—without hard rubbing. And the Working hand-in-hand, the

SHOULD NOT DELAY

The final date set by the legislature for paying 1932 state and county taxes, without being forced to contribute delinquent tax and interest penalties amounting to nearly 11 per cent, is near at hand. After November first these penalties will be reinstated and it is unlikely that further extension of time will be granted by the state lawmaking body. It is a simple matter of arithmetic in figuring out the saving to be gained by paying taxes during October. We realize many distressed owners of property will be unable to do this unless they can succeed in securing a farm or home loan from the government in time to make their tax payments, which is unlikely. It might be the fair thing to grant those who have already made application for a loan a little more time in view of the delay which has ensued in making loans of this kind a part of our national recovery program. It is a matter which the legislature should consider at its first special session. Those who are financially able to pay their delinquent taxes this month are not entitled to further consideration. That should be made emphatically plain.

ticularly true of tuberculosis in which the cost of neglect will be greater than the cost of immediate care.

In November the Christmas Seals that for more than a quarter century have provided support for the anti-tuberculosis campaign will again be placed on sale. Directed as this campaign is, principally toward the protection of children against the development of tuberculosis, it offers a logical means of neutralizing the unfavorable conditions prevalent since 1929, insofar as tuberculosis, outstanding disease problem of present times, is concerned.

When we buy Christmas Seals, we are merely insuring against the need in a later month or a later year of paying high tribute to tuberculosis. Prevention, always better than cure, in addition is in this case infinitely cheaper.

SPORTSMEN'S LICENSE FEES NEARLY MILLION

Provide Huge Sum to Conservation Work in Michigan

Sportsmen will contribute $870,000 in the next fiscal year toward the support of Michigan's game protection fund, the state department of conservation predicted.

For the first three months—July, August and September—of the current year, $149,549 was collected in license fees. In this three-month period the actual figures were only four per cent below estimates.

Officials pointed out that the revenue taken in from October to January will be the determining factor in the continuation of the state's conservation program. For October the department anticipates collecting $150,000; November, $175,000; December, $165,000; January, $45,000; February, $15,000; March, $20,000; April, $30,000; May, $55,000; and June, $80,000.

CAMPBELL'S

'HOME' AT CALL OF THE FAMILY

Easterners Firmly Loyal to Blood Ties.

Solidarity of townships and even of counties was once a strong factor in American life. Families struck deep roots into the land surrounding a market town or a milk depot, and the word "neighborhood" earned real significance where social relationships among people of the same name and their kin by marriage were generations old. "That's a common name in my part of the country," like a fraternal greeting, united strangers wandering far from home. Every one knew that "they're mostly Van Vliets, over in the Clove," or that "it's all Craigs, out this way"—that you drove over the mountain to find Brills. And even now there are states where large family reunions follow harvest and provide school as fixed as church services, with electioneering or Sunday School picnics with the Fourth of July. It is a paradox that the roads and abundant automobiles have emboldened friends and relatives to see less of one another elsewhere, but this falls to hold in Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Delaware, down along the eastern shore, and in a few other states. There, as August closes and September opens, the old families come home. The season for reunions is recognized just as if it were marked in the almanac.

Connecticut a few weeks ago held at Old Lyme the gathering of the Griswolds, five hundred strong, along with related clans of the Elys, Buells, Noyeses, Welleses, Wobottes, Adamsons and Willards. More effusive were the reunions of tradition-loving Delaware, where faithfully, every August, the representative families of various districts—Welmans, Zebbers, Apples, Minnanses, Bullocks, Tunnells, Woodwards, Grants, Coopers—and other respectable names too many to list—fought at picnics, held business sessions to elect officers and have a lively time exchanging a year's family news while watching "the children" at their sports. When possible, the scene is the original homestead, or, if that has become a studio or little theater, then a grove or park. The great Pennsylvania German or Swiss families, such as the Yosts, the Fretches, the Finks and Mentschers, whose members reach thousands and who are, truly loyal to blood ties, make a rite of the home-cooked basket lunch. The old regional custom is a pleasant one, and it is somehow reassuring to know that it has not been permitted to lapse.—New York Herald Tribune.

GAME IS PLENTIFUL THE HUNTERS FIND

Ideal Sunday Ushers in the Sport and Nimrods Take Some Meat

Apparently game is plentiful—not as plentiful as it was at daybreak Sunday morning, but there seems to be some wild life left after the bombardment of the opening day of upland shooting.

Sunday was probably the most satisfactory opening day for many years. Most hunters came back with a variety of game, including pheasants, woodcock, partridge, rabbits and fox squirrels. There may not have been many limits brought in but nearly every hunter knocked down some sort of meat.

It was a glorious day in the woods for everyone except the dogs. There was little moisture on the ground and the dogs found it difficult to work, but the amount of game which came into the city Sunday indicates that they did some good.

Hunters found out Sunday that there are apparently few beechnuts this year and that the partridge which last year hung around the hardwood are seeking their food elsewhere.

Pheasants seemed to be more plentiful than last year and a big increase seems to have occurred among the fox squirrels. Grouse are apparently as plentiful as a year ago.

START LOCAL BRIDGE IMPROVEMENTS SOON

Highway Dept. Award Contract to Muskegon Engineering Firm

Work is to be started immediately on a fender protection project on the bridge crossing Pine river in Charlevoix on U. S. 31, according to State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner.

Award of contract to the Love Construction & Engineering company of Muskegon, low bidder at $9,335.80, was approved Tuesday by the state administrative board.

The Charlevoix project was one of ten state highway construction jobs totaling more than $235,000, for which contracts were granted by the board Tuesday.

Work is to be financed by federal grant under provisions of the National Recovery Act. Employment will be given to workers selected from the counties in which the projects are built under the direction of the federal re-employment service by terms of contracts. A maximum amount of hand labor in lieu of machinery is also required by all contracts.

NEW TRAFFIC SAFETY DEVICES FOR BRIDGE

Highway Department to Install Electrically Controlled System

Announcement has come from the city hall that installation of new traffic safety devices will be made at the swing bridge crossing U. S. 31.

Plans for the proposed improvement have been forwarded from the state highway department for approval by the city council. Electrically controlled gates, flashers and cones, operated from the tender's house on the bridge structure, are planned.

This improvement will be made under provisions of the National Recovery Act in addition to new fender protection for the pivot pier, bids for which were received last Friday.

CHURCH GROUP STAGE COMMUNITY WEDDING

M. E. Society to Present Home Talent Play November 9 and 10

A committee representing the Methodist Literary and Sewing club, met recently with a representative of Universal Producing company, Fairfield, Iowa, and made arrangements for the famous production "Henry's Wedding," to be staged on November 9 and 10 in Charlevoix.

This production is something entirely new and different in the way of entertainment and promises to be the only "Henry's Wedding" to be held in this community this year. The most outstanding thing about "Henry's Wedding" is that three couples get married, making it a triple wedding. The costumes are unusual and spectacular and the newspaper reports throughout the entire country praise this unusual show. It takes 125 local people to present this elaborate production.

Watch for particulars in regard to cast and other details.

FIRST PTA MEETING WAS WELL ATTENDED

W. J. Pearson, Speaker, Pictured State School Finances

Speaking before a large number of school patrons attending the PTA meeting at the high school gymnasium Thursday evening, ex-Senator William J. Pearson of Boyne Falls sounded a warning that a large percentage of Michigan public schools would be forced to close before completing the usual full term unless the legislature provides additional finances for operation.

Mr. Pearson, a member of Governor Comstock's committee of 17 school board members, one from each congressional district, and appointed to study the financial status of state educational institutions and present a program for legislative consideration, said the finding of the committee revealed a situation which threatened the future of education in Michigan. He expressed doubt that the sales tax would provide needed funds and said some other source of revenue must be found.

We have found in our short stay in Charlevoix that the people, as a rule, like the preaching of sound doctrinal sermons. Also, that the people are not much interested in the questions, doubts and opinions of the minister. This discovery is interesting and it helps us to direct our thoughts toward the coming season.

Another series of sermons has been decided upon which will hold close to Bible teachings. The theme for this series will be "Grace," and the series will cover a period of several weeks.

The term "Grace" does not mean much to the ordinary Christian. Yet it is the very heart of Christianity. Because of false emphasis, Christianity has become no more than an ethical system to many. While the supreme feature of the Christian

COUNTY WELFARE GROUP IS NAMED

APPOINTED BY STATE TO DIRECT WELFARE RELIEF

J. N. Foster, Charlevoix, Dr. Guy C. Conkle, Boyne City, Albert Freiberg, East Jordan, Members

J. N. Foster of Charlevoix, Dr. Guy C. Conkle of Boyne City, and Albert Freiberg of East Jordan, have been named members of the Charlevoix county welfare relief commission. Their official appointment was announced last week by Fred R. Johnson, managing director of the state emergency welfare relief commission.

These three men will have charge of the distribution of the county's share of the $12,000,000 appropriation made by the 1933 legislature for the state's indigents. They will serve without compensation.

The committee is now awaiting the arrival here of F. A. Reagan, district representative of the welfare relief commission, to complete their organization and receive instructions to carry on their work.

One of the first steps of the committee, it is understood, will be to select a welfare director for the county. It will fall to this man to administer the relief money. The committee will act as advisors, and to the director will fall the actual work. A corps of investigators will also be selected to work under the director. They will visit each family applying for relief to ascertain the exact extent of their needs. When the investigators have determined the amount of aid necessary, it will be up to the welfare director and the committee to see that the family is taken care of, either through direct gift of food, clothing and money or through work which will bring that much money to the head of the family.

Thus, if a family is allocated $10 weekly, work relief and direct allowance will total that amount. Relief will be given only to the exact extent of need.

Until the new welfare relief committee is organized and ready to function, the old welfare committee which has been carrying on so successfully since last March will continue. Great credit is due this welfare directing group. Through several months they have given absolutely gratis their time and effort so that Charlevoix county's needy might be taken care of. They have received no compensation whatsoever. The projects they have sponsored, some of which have been completed and others still under way, have been a distinct benefit to the county. The committee is to be commended for its untiring and unselfish efforts.

Appointment of the welfare relief commission brings the relief agencies in the county to three. The county poor commission will continue to supervise the county infirmary and hospitalization cases. The second committee, composed of Arthur Bergeson, Charlevoix, F. O. Barden, Boyne City, and Samuel E. Rogers, East Jordan, has charge of projects in the county financed by the federal government to relieve unemployed.

COUNCIL APPROVAL IS GIVEN BRIDGE CHANGES

Set Tentative Date of Sewage Disposal Mass Meeting for Nov. 1

Plans of the state highway department for new safety traffic devices at the swing bridge spanning the channel on U. S. 31 were approved Monday night by the city council at its regular session.

The plans have been sent back to Lansing for final approval by the highway department. The project, coming under provisions of the National Recovery Act, will likely be handled by the bridge maintenance division.

Further discussion of a proposed mass meeting to inform the public regarding sewage disposal plans now under way was held, and a tentative date set for the evening of November 1st. The meeting will be held at the high school gymnasium. Efforts are being made to have as speakers representatives of the Michigan health department, streams control commission, and the engineering firm of Pearce, Greeley & Hanson, who are drawing plans for the proposed utility.

CHARLEVOIX WINS FROM BOYNE CITY

MARKED UP SECOND CLASS C VICTORY SATURDAY

Will Defend Their Conference Lead Here Saturday Against Under-featured Harbor Team

Charlevoix high school climb to leadership in the Tip of Michigan class C football conference Saturday by a 7 and 6 victory over Boyne City on Boyne's field. The victory left the Kipmen the only undefeated and untied class C team in this region.

The outcome of Saturday's tilt, much in doubt due to the ineligibility of six regulars, was a pleasant surprise to local fans. It was the first time since 1923 that Charlevoix has won over a Boyne City team, and revealed that Coach Kipke's inexperienced reserve material could be relied upon beyond earlier expectations.

While Charlevoix's margin of victory was only a single point, the local squad played the heavier Boyne outfit on even terms throughout the contest. The Kipmen scored during the first three minutes of play. Receiving the kick-off, Boyne failed to gain and punted to the Charlevoix 50-yard line. Foster took the ball on two successive end runs for a total of nearly 60 yards. Hebert cracked the line for a touchdown and booted the extra point which ultimately meant victory.

Boyne drove across their tally in the second period, but failed on a line play for extra point. Throughout the remainder of the contest Hebert's accurate and lengthy punts kept the play largely in Boyne territory and Charlevoix emerged the winner by the margin of a single point.

With Boyne eliminated from the Little Six football title race, the scene will shift this week to Charlevoix's gridiron, where the Kipmen take on the undefeated Harbor Springs outfit in the final game of their scheduled. Harbor has so far defeated Roger City and East Jordan, and tied Boyne City. Charlevoix is out ahead with their two victories.

Coach Kipke can go ahead about his preparations for this final game with the assurance that he may depend upon his reserves as well as regulars. While light, and largely without experience when the season opened, the local aggregation has shown a fighting spirit and smoothness of play which marks them a dangerous aggregation against any team of their class. The Harbor game here Saturday should be one of the best football attractions local fans have had an opportunity to witness in recent years.

CRANKED CAR IN GEAR—RUN OVER AND INJURED

Jake Brock is in serious condition at Charlevoix hospital from injuries received Saturday when his automobile, cranked while in gear, ran over him.

Brock suffered a compound fracture of his right leg which may result in amputation of the member, also serious injury to his left ankle and arm.

It Is Time to Act!

On November 8th, Charlevoix taxpayers will be called upon to make a decision of vital importance to the welfare of their city and themselves.

On that day, through their expression at the polls of a special election, they will decide whether or not the city council will be empowered to issue revenue bonds for the purpose of financing the construction of a sewage treatment system. The proposition needs a three-fifths majority to carry.

There are several important reasons why the project is being undertaken at the present time. The foremost is to relieve unemployment, which is now at probably the lowest point in the history of this city. A grave situation confronts everyone in Charlevoix during the coming winter months unless some means of employment is provided. It might be stated that in view of this fact, the city council has already expended in the neighborhood of $1,500.00 in preliminary work, trusting taxpayers will sanction their actions by voting in favor of the project.

It might also be stated Charlevoix has done little or nothing to aid its unemployed citizens, while through the country every effort of state and federal authorities is bent toward this purpose. The federal government, through provisions of the National Recovery Act, stands ready to advance one-third of the cost of labor and materials, approximately $30,000.00, as a direct gift, providing taxpayers of this city are willing to shoulder the balance of the cost over a long period of years. This city will probably never again have such an opportunity, and we hope will never again a greater justification for the expenditure. Approval of the project would be a local patriotic gesture of compliance with the mighty federal effort to defeat the depression; a means of livelihood for many local unemployed during the coming months; and last, create a utility which this city will ultimately be forced to provide. Approval of the project will result in the expenditure of approximately $80,000.00 in Charlevoix. It means men will be put to work, money will be placed in circulation and everyone will benefit either directly or indirectly.

In our estimation, all other reasons for approval are of minor importance in comparison with that of welfare relief. It is time Charlevoix acted in this direction. Any other decision than a favorable one would seem positively selfish, unpatriotic and unprogressive.

Do your part by voting YES at the polls November 8!

A meeting of the County Council of Religious Education that was full of inspiration and information was held at Ironton, Tuesday afternoon and evening. Twelve Sunday schools of 18 active in the past were represented by delegates or pastor. Two of the former active schools have discontinued.

Theme of the meeting was "Sunday School Evangelism," and under it came excellent addresses from the ministers, James Leitch, M. E., East Jordan; W. A. Eley, M. E., Boyne City; Rev. VerStrate, Sault Ste. Marie; and Mrs. G. R. Parker, Charlevoix. Rev. T. B. Cooper, Boyne City, had charge of the Round Table, which proved inspirational and instructive. The audience joined in the discussion in a splendid manner.

At the business meeting, new officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. H. Kirby, Charlevoix; treasurer, John Eckstrom, Boyne City; secretary, Rev. James Leitch, East Jordan; Rev. G. E. Smock, chairman county union Good Friday services. Committee on temperance, composed of Mrs. G. R. Parker, chairman, Charlevoix; Wm. J. Pearson, Boyne Falls, and Mrs. Hazel Evers, Bay Shore.

The Presbyterian Sunday school of Boyne City, won the attendance banner with 18 present. Ironton had more, but only visiting schools were entitled to compete. Many other county Sunday schools had large attendances.

Many had to stand during the evening session. Due to the large crowd, Rev. Linnell of Petokey, spoke briefly to the young people. The pearl medal contest, under the direction of Mrs. Wm. C. Palmer, was won by Winifred Riley of Bellaire.

The success of the meeting was dependent upon the splendid cooperation of the county schools.

CHANGES MADE IN HATCHERY FORCE ENTIRE PERSONNEL EFFECTED BY CLOSING ORDER

E. R. Widmyer Placed in Charge of Michigan U. S. Hatcheries—Lige Geer in Charge Here

Discontinuance of fall spawning fishery by the state conservation department and subsequent closing of the local federal fish hatchery, has brought about changes affecting the hatchery personnel.

E. R. Widmyer, who has been in charge of the local hatchery for the past two years or more, has received a gratifying promotion. He goes to Northville to assume charge of operations of Michigan federal hatcheries, succeeding F. L. Snipes, who has been transferred to Fayetteville, Tenn., as hatchery superintendent.

Lige Geer, for a long period of years connected with the local hatchery, assumes charge here. Walter Yemman, engineer, has been retired. Clifford Lalonde, engineer of the U. S. Fisheries boat "Fulmar," has been transferred to Put-In-Bay, Ohio, as engineer. Don Potter will be stationed at the local hatchery temporarily. The boat "Fulmar" will be turned over to the State of Ohio.

While local residents will rejoice with Mr. Widmyer in his splendid promotion, they will also regret seeing him leave Charlevoix. Under his supervision an extensive program of improvements to the hatchery building and grounds has been made. Seeding the lawn, construction of concrete walk and other improvements have made the hatchery one of the beauty spots of this city. Mr. Widmyer has also lent his wholehearted cooperation to local sportsmen in their work of constructing rearing ponds, raising of game fish and other activities.

Until a change is made in the policy governing spawn taking, the local federal hatchery will remain on the inactive list.

MICHIGAN CAN MEET WELFARE EXPENSES

Sales Tax Provides Funds for First Time in Two Years

For the first time in two years the state of Michigan can meet its welfare expenses, according to the Detroit Times. They go on to state that this is due to the sales tax.

The federal government will give Michigan this year for welfare purposes the sum of twelve million dollars, provided the state of Michigan matches that amount with an additional twelve million dollars. The sales tax will provide Michigan twelve million dollars. Therefore, the state welfare commission will have twenty-four million dollars to help relieve those who are in need during the coming winter.

INTRODUCE WHITE STAR LINES HERE

W. H. WALLACE BECOMES LOCAL DISTRIBUTOR

Mobilgas on Sale Tomorrow at Five Stations—Company Sponsors Free Movie Shows Saturday

The White Star Refining Company, one of nine great oil companies composing the Socony-Vacuum Corporation will introduce Mobilgas for the first time in Charlevoix and the immediate neighborhood tomorrow morning, according to William H. Wallace, new local distributor for the White Star.

In addition to Mr. Wallace's station at Bridge and Belvedere, Mobilgas will also go on sale through his dealer outlets operated by Harry Coblenz at Antrim and State streets, Henry Steinhil at Four Corners south of Charlevoix, Jim Wyers, one mile south of Charlevoix on U. S. 31, and Henry Wassenaar at Cent. S. 31, Henry Wassenaar at Central, Lake, and Healey Tire Co. at East Jordan.

Officials of the White Star Refining Company consider the entrance of their products into Charlevoix as one of the company's major recent expansion moves. The introduction of Mobilgas here, according to Mr. Wallace, represents not alone a product new in Charlevoix but one which has national distribution as well as distribution in many foreign countries.

Distinctive Feature
"A new feature in Mobilgas is climatic control," said Mr. Wallace. "Climatic control is an accurate pre-adjustment of the gasoline in the refinery which automatically makes compensation for weather, altitude and climatic conditions."

According to White Star engineers, what climatic control means to motor car owners is an interesting new chapter in the testing development and refining of petroleum products. One of them remarked that the refining of gasoline itself is not a hard or complicated job, it is finding an automobile engine to fit the gasoline that makes it hard.

To solve this problem, Mobilgas engineers and research men concentrated on developing a gasoline that would perform in the greatest number of cars and at the highest usable level of performance of which the car was capable.

Not Single Element
To understand the job to be done, it must be remembered that gasoline is not a liquid of a single element. It is a complicated combination of hydrocarbons sensitive to heat and cold as a thermometer. Its ability to run a motor car is entirely dependent upon its correct reaction to the "engine heat." The engine heat does not remain constant. The sun and hand pulls increase it. Sudden showers and cold wind lower it. High and low altitude vary it considerably. Even humidity will make several degrees difference in the engine heat of a car.

If gasoline is to perform efficiently under all conditions and in all types, (Continued on page 8.)

One at Springvale Among Those Listed Another Six Months

Continuance of 32 emergency conservation work camps operating on department of conservation projects for the next six months has been approved by the federal government and the conservation commission. These will be in addition to the camps which will work in the state parks.

The locations of 11 of the present camps will be changed, the other 14 camps will remain on the present sites through the winter.

Construction of buildings in camps to remain in the same locations has started, and winter quarters will be built for camps to be moved as soon as satisfactory new sites have been located by army officers, according to L. R. Schoenmann, in charge of emergency conservation work in Michigan.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellescamp

4-H Club Leaders to Hold Training Meeting

The 4-H club winter program will start off with a bang on Wednesday night, November 1st, when the first leader's training meeting will be held at Monte's Cafe in Charlevoix. A banquet will be enjoyed at 6 o'clock followed by a recreation hour at 7:30. A. G. Kettunen, state club leader, will outline the program that is of interest to the boys and Miss Sylvia Wixon, assistant leader, will meet with the girls.

The boys are interested in the handicraft project while the girls are enjoying the sewing activity. The hot lunch project also will be discussed, which is of interest to both boys and girls. This meeting is especially for teachers of rural schools, interested parents and club officers. The cost of the banquet will not exceed forty cents.

A cordial invitation is extended to all rural school teachers whether they have had experience in organizing 4-H clubs or not. Any community in the county that would like to see a club organized in their district should be present and learn the details pertaining to this important activity. Charlevoix county has carried on a very splendid program in the past. Let us hope that the coming year will be just as successful.

Production and Acreage Statements of Members Wheat Control Again.

The following is a statement of the production and planted acreages of wheat in the years 1930, 1931 and 1932 and planted acreage for 1933 of producers of Charlevoix county who have submitted applications for farm wheat allotments. This publication is made in compliance with the regulations of the agricultural adjustment administration. It is made so that a check may be made on all statement claims, and so that reports may be made to the county wheat production control association on any inaccuracies which may appear in the statements.

The allotment for this county has been definitely calculated from official records of the U. S. department of agriculture and is 4,206 bushels.

This is the total allotment for the county. Therefore, if any farmer receives a greater allotment than his past production warrants, he is thus depriving other farmers in this county of their just share.

Total production figures of those who apply for contracts, together with those who do not, must equal the official county production as shown by the records of the U. S. department of agriculture. If the county totals are greater than the official totals, it will be necessary to make a downward adjustment.

Any person may make a confidential report if he finds any statement here which he believes to be inaccurate. Such reports should be made to the county committee, either in writing or verbally. The reports will be strictly confidential. A farmer whose statements are said to be inaccurate will need to prove his production figures.

Farmers have been asked to furnish evidence of production and evidence of sale, such as thresherman's certificates, elevator certificates, or other records and receipts. Satisfactory evidence will be required of any farmer whose statement is questioned.

The following statements have been condensed to save space. "A" represents acres planted and "B" represents bushels harvested. The "3-yr. av." represents the three-year average acreage and production from 1930-1932. Farmers should refer any questions regarding this publication to their county committee.

Sunday morning service, 10:45.
First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, October 29, is "Everlasting Punishment."

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Probation After Death" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 22. Among the Bible citations was this passage (1 Peter 1:7): "That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, might bring unto praise and honor and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ."

INDIAN'S PREDICTIONS PROMISE OPEN WINTER

Notwithstanding his wife's suspicions, Jake Chippeway of Sutton's Bay, stands by his predictions of a mild winter.

The venerable Indian prophet saw favorable omens in thinly-built muskrat houses, light nut crop, light winter loads of squirrels, rounded deer hoofs, light coating of moss on trees, and a yellow moon.

However, if a long, hard winter were forecast, "squaw ask heap big" pile of stove wood, admitted this direct descendant of a Chippewa-Indian chief.

Tuberculosis is the greatest cause of death between 15 and 35. It kills almost twice as many girls as boys between the ages of 15 and 25.

It is the greatest cause of death among school children between the ages of 5 and 20, except accidents. More than a fourth of all deaths among young women and almost a fifth of all deaths among young men between the ages of 15 and 30 are due to tuberculosis.

Among Negroes the mortality from tuberculosis is from three to four times higher than it is among white persons.

Reasons enough for supporting the organized campaign against tuberculosis. Plan to help by buying a share of penny tuberculosis Christmas seals when they are placed on sale on Thanksgiving day.

these penalties will be attached to your bill. Even in prosperous times this is a saving that should not be ignored, much less now. We have been repeatedly sounding these warnings so that all who are financially able will take care of this matter in time. The legislature encountered considerable criticism, for the liberality it showed delinquent taxpayers last spring and it is unlikely that further aid will be forthcoming for those unable to meet their tax demands. It will pay them to pay now!

COUNTY FARMER HAS SWEET POTATO CROP

Planted As Experiment on Farm Near East Jordan

That sweet potatoes can be grown in East Jordan was demonstrated this year by Mr. and Mrs. Vern Richardson on their farm just east of East Jordan's city limits—the former Frank Habel place.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson secured the plants—or rather the tops—from Grayson, Kentucky, and set them out on their farm the last week in June. Only a small number were secured as it was more or less an experiment. The plants developed to maturity and they enjoyed their first meal from the crop of sweet potatoes on September 17th. In all they harvested around a bushel.

Another of their experiments this year was the growing of sorghum from seed. This developed the cane-like stalks with a seed-cluster at the top.—Charlevoix County Herald.

GOVERNMENT COST HIGH IN MICHIGAN

This State Ranks Third Among Units of United States

Michigan ranks third highest among eleven other industrial states in the per capita cost of government, a survey by the New Jersey state chamber of commerce revealed.

The per capita cost of government in Michigan is $13.72, according to the survey. Only New York with $16.10, and New Jersey with $14.15, pay more per person for government.

The survey included the cost of protection of person and property, conservation of health and sanitation, highways, charities, hospitals, correction, education, and recreation.

Other states included in the survey and their per person cost of government follow: Maryland, $13.23; California, $13.18; Connecticut, $12.88; Pennsylvania, $11.54; Rhode Island, $11.06; Massachusetts, $11; Indiana, $9.51; Ohio, $8.40; and Illinois, $5.95.

COWS EAT MORE HAY IF FED BONE MEAL

Increased Amount Home Grown Legumes Can Be Marketed to Cows

More of Michigan's alfalfa hay can be marketed through dairy cows if a little steamed bone meal is added to the ration to stimulate the cow's appetite for the legume forage, according to the dairy department at Michigan State college.

The increase in the amount of alfalfa permits the cheapening of the ration by replacing concentrates with the protein in the alfalfa. A suggested ration for a 1,000 pound cow giving 30 pounds daily of 3.6 milk is 20 to 22 pounds alfalfa hay, 5 to 10 pounds silage, 8 to 10 pounds of cornmeal, plus one teaspoonful of bone meal.

The bone meal used should be a good grade, steamed, and odorless. This material appears to increase the cow's capacity for consuming alfalfa.

OLD AGE PENSION LAW IN OPERATION

PROVIDES HEAD TAX TO CREATE NEEDED FUNDS

State Welfare Department Prepares to Start Registration Work November First

Heralding a prospective 20 per cent cut in community welfare costs and fulfilling a long-felt public need, Michigan's old age pension law went into effect last week with the state welfare department ready to administer the act.

The old age pension fund is created by a head tax. This method of taxation is not new in Michigan. It was in vogue many years ago when men worked out the tax on township roads. In the present state administration policy to take the tax burden from real estate, the head tax under the new act applies to every one above 21 years of age, whether they are property owners or not.

The state welfare director, Miss Evelyn S. Mershon, calls attention to the following schedule:

Precinct enumerators will start their work in every county on November 1. The registration of head tax-payers is handled by the county clerks. The state department pays the clerk four cents a name for registering and this pays the enumerators, also.

The county treasurers will make the collection of the tax and forward the collections to the Old Age Pension fund in care of the state welfare department. The money is to be collected by March 1, 1934. The penalty for non-payment is 90 days in jail or $100 fine. The department is busy working out plans for deferred payment to those who are now on public charity.

Application blanks for the old age pension will be placed in the hands of county old age pension boards November 15, 1933. Hearings will be held before these boards after January 1, 1934. Payment of the old age pension will start after March 1, 1934.

FITZGERALD CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Announced Intention While on Upper Peninsula Speaking Tour

Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, the only Republican elective officer to withstand the Democratic landslide of 1932, is the first avowed candidate for nomination on the G. O. P. platform for governor in 1934.

Word that Fitzgerald would be a candidate in the forthcoming gubernatorial campaign was received from the upper peninsula. The report was confirmed through his office at Lansing. The secretary of state said that he will make a formal announcement of his candidacy later in his home town—Grand Ledge.

ROADSIDE MARKETING

By T. J. Delohery

BRING CONSUMERS OUT TO THE FARM

WESLEY HAWLEY lives ten miles out of town and off the paved road, yet he has no trouble getting people to pass up other orchards on their way out to Pleasant Valley Fruit farm to buy his apples, peaches, cherries and elder at prices which he admits are a distinct advantage over prevailing wholesale quotations.

Bringing consumers out to farm markets for specialized crops such as fruits, eggs, meats and similar products isn't so difficult. The short season and the uncommonness of the crops together with their quality and deliciousness comprise a lure which, if handled properly, will bring surprisingly good results.

A trip to a farm market should be a little more than just to buy something. Mrs. Henry Loser entertains watermelon parties, placing tables around the lawn where the visitors can eat melon without observing exact table manners, and without being too careful where the rinds or seeds fall.

Cleaning up is a little extra work, as there are no "don't" signs, but Mrs. Loser finds her profits in keeping with the effort.

"Our customers are more than buyers of watermelon," Mrs. Loser explained. "They are friends. They stay around several hours and enjoy themselves. Ordinarily they buy a cold melon to eat on the farm and then take another one or two home with them. Thus the tables and chairs on the lawn are the means of us making two to three sales instead of one."

John Benk of Worth, Ill., lives off the road, yet a lot of people pass up "fresh eggs for sale" signs to buy from him. Benk, a truck grower, and one of the biggest producers of onion sets, keeps a flock of 400 to 500 White Leghorns. He gets 5 to 10 cents above retail, grading and candling the eggs before he packs them in neat containers. Every egg is guaranteed.

A free meal, featuring fresh eggs, is the bait John Schmidt offers people invited out to his farm. There are no strings attached to the supper; but Schmidt times it so there is an opportunity to visit his poultry yards and inspect his buildings, dock and equipment. Naturally, egg sales follow, and a good percentage of the visitors become steady customers.

Motorists driving through Shawnee, Kan., would not do much more than slow down to observe the village speed laws, except for the Frank Payne's flower and fruit farm facing one of the side roads, which attracts 25,000 automobile parties each year. Two policemen are necessary to handle the Sunday traffic.

Payne, who started growing strawberries when he lost his city job, tore out his fence rows because of the weeds. Then he planted flowers which neighbors said would not grow; but they did and he found Kansas City florists would pay him enough for the flowers to cover his taxes. While berries were making a profit, he set out apple trees, and gave more time to flowers, making heads all over the front yard.

Fruit customers also bought flowers and plants. Payne having arranged his beds with solid and mixed colors to show people how the various color schemes would blend in with the remainder of their gardens.

Surplus cut flowers were made into bouquets and given to visitors, even though they bought nothing.

Broken Bow is ten miles from Tulsa, Okla., but Smith Testerman sells, right at his doorstep, all the eggs produced by his huge flock. Sunny Slope farm is well known, the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce having induced Testerman to serve Morrison, 65 miles distant, because they wanted to have a sure supply of fresh, quality eggs. At the time the offer was made, fresh eggs were very scarce around the oil town and the city people made good their promise of full support if Testerman would increase the size of his flock.

R. B. Preston lives on a little used road outside of Pueblo, Colo., but city people flock to his farm. The attraction is the beauty of the place. Preston has a modern home that is decorated in keeping with the rest of the buildings and the general landscape. He sells fresh eggs, poultry, shrubs and flowers, the last two products being a sideline which was developed as a result of people asking where stock similar to that growing around the farm, could be obtained.

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

NO JURY FOR OCTOBER COURT SESSION

Adjourned Tuesday to Convene Again December 20th

No jury was called for the October term of circuit court which convened Monday morning and adjourned Tuesday afternoon until December 20th. Cases requiring a jury trial were continued as an economy measure.

The case of Dr. Russell Palmer, Beaver Island physician, charged with malpractice, was dismissed, due to the fact the complaining witnesses were non-residents of the United States and the case did not warrant costs it would entail.

Harry Kowalski, East Jordan, who pleaded guilty to a charge of resisting an officer, was assessed costs of $10 and placed on probation until the March term. John Turan, Boyne Falls, pleaded not guilty to violation of the prohibition law. He was released on bail for trial in December. Tom Craft, Boyne Falls, pleaded guilty to a similar charge. Sentence was deferred until the next court term.

John Erickson, brought into court by Bellaire officers, was sentenced to serve seven months at Jackson prison for non-payment of alimony.

Judgments in assumpsit cases were awarded as follows: First National bank, Boyne City, vs. Boyne City Portland Cement Co. and L. H. White, $4,697.50; Swift & Co., Chicago, vs. Arthur and Doris Vondolke, $458.24; Wilson & Co., Chicago, vs. Arthur and Doris Vondolke, $1,696.61; Seidman & Seidman, Grand Rapids, vs. White Lumber Co., Boyne City, $1,268.72.

Several cases against probationers were dismissed.

STAGE "HENRY'S WEDDING" HERE NOV. 7-8

Cast of 125 Local People to Appear in Big Triple Wedding

"Henry's Wedding," a three-act comedy of married life and old-time 1890 style, is to be staged in the gymnasium, November 7 and 8, under auspices of the Methodist Literary and Sewing Club.

The play is the story of a bachelor bridegroom of 55 getting married to a widow of 49 who has been married twice already, and deals with the trials and tribulations he has on his wedding day due to the fact that his young nephew, Jack, does not want him to get married for reason it will cut him out of a $100,000 bequest in his grandfather's will.

The laugh hit of the show will be the Beaus & Belles of grandma's time, portrayed by prominent business men of the city who will show exactly how the shies and "flappers" of 1890 dressed and danced. This specialty will be costumed in the famous old styles of 1890—when the people drank "pink" lemonade and rode in buggies drawn by horses. Another outstanding feature will be the Colored Brethren and Sisters of the Knights of the Mystic Sea, composed of men and women singers of the community. They will sing a number of old-time Negro minstrel and spiritualistic songs.

In addition there will be a number of costumed changes by the most beautiful and talented girls of the city. The cast of characters will be announced next week.

of cars, a way must be found to adjust its specifications so that it will instantly adapt itself to all the changes in engine heat that take place in the modern automobile engine. With ordinary gasoline, such fluctuations mean loss of power or vapor lock, or lower mileage, or any one of a number of shortcomings. But not with Mobilgas, because by refinery methods, this fuel has been pre-adjusted to adapt itself regardless of climatic conditions without power loss. That's what is meant by climatic control.

At the present time, the White Star Refining company and others of the Socony-Vacuum corporation are making an extensive tour in Canada, United States and Mexico with fourteen cars and known as the "Under Three Flags Expedition." The purpose of this expedition which is composed of different makes of cars, according to their popularity as indicated by the national automobile registration figures, is to test Mobilgas and Mobiloil under all sorts of road, climatic and weather conditions. Before the trip is completed the expedition will have covered approximately 7,500 miles and will have collected much valuable data on how fuels and lubricants perform under the varying conditions encountered.

Free Show Saturday

In connection with the introduction of Mobilgas in Charlevoix, the White Star Refining company is staging a free moving picture show Saturday afternoon and evening at the Palace theatre here. The show includes two feature pictures, one a seven-reel film, "Competitors," full of romance, thrills and near tragedy, and the other, "The Inside Story of Climatic Control," with Edwin C. Hill telling the story of some amazing gasoline and oil tests in Death Valley, California, made in mid-summer. Performance Saturday afternoon at 1:30 and 3:30 and in the evening at 7 and 9 o'clock. Free tickets are available at White Star stations and Mobilgas dealers.

'HENRY'S WEDDING' BY ALL-STAR CAST

THREE-ACT COMEDY AT GYM NOVEMBER 7TH AND 8TH

Cast of 125 Local People to Appear in Production Sponsored by M. E. Literary Club

On next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, November 7 and 8, the three-act comedy "Henry's Wedding" will be staged at the high school gymnasium under auspices of the Methodist Literary club.

The play will be the biggest event of the season in this community and has the distinction of being the only public wedding of the year. At this time three couples will take the step into matrimony. They are Dr. C. J. Winder, playing the part of Uncle Henry, and Mrs. Peter Anne, taking the part of Samantha Green; also Fay Bradley as Jack, and Helen French as Mary, and Mrs. Grover Genett as Susan Christopher and Earl Shapton as Lawyer Brown.

"Henry's Wedding" is a story of a bachelor bridegroom of 35 getting married to a widow of 40, who has twice been married. This itself brings enough comical and funny situations to keep the crowd in an uproar from start to finish. But what makes the situation even more hilarious is the fact that Jack, Uncle Henry's nephew, planned to get married on the day of the show, and collect on the next day, his 25th birthday, $100,000 from his grandfather's will. However, the sudden announcement on the part of Uncle Henry of his marriage on the same day will cut Jack out of the $100,000 and give it to Uncle Henry, and Jack immediately with his boy friends, Ted and Harris, played by Walt Bergeon and Dr. F. W. Young, attempt to stop his wedding.

Persuasion fails and they turn to the attempt of kidnapping, and from here the comical situations begin. O'Flaherty, the hard-boiled detective, played by O. P. North, and Muz, his assistant, played by Ray Hamilton, are called in to help solve the mystery.

Eliza, the negro cook, played by Mrs. Ray Kipke, and her lazy husband, Rastus, portrayed by Archie Bekling, afford a lot of the comedy. One of the big events is when Uncle Henry, hiding in an ash can, is victim of a tremendous gasoline explosion. He comes up black as coal, is mistaken for Rastus and is forced to do the menial house work instead of receiving the praise of his friends as a bridegroom.

Things go from bad to worse and it seems there will be no wedding, but during this time a love affair develops between the old maid Susan Christopher, the jilted lover of Uncle Henry, and the family attorney, Lawyer Brown. They decide to get married and after all the difficulties have been ironed out, join in the happy circle and make it a triple wedding.

Other characters who add much to the plot are Virginia, played by Lila Heise; Marie, played by Ida Ingalls; the two gangsters from Chicago, Clarence, Meggison and Clarence Heise; Rev. Turnipseed, Leo Carey; Brother Jones and Sister Sadie by Harker Kirby and Mrs. Ray O'Brien; Sambo Sox by Oral Lewis; Dr. F. H. Wilkinson will take the part of Abraham Lincoln Brown, and Clara Pittner will appear as the president's wife.

Beaus and Belles Hit

"Beaus and Belles of Grandma's Time" are a hit of the show. "Traffic Cop of 1890" portrayed by A. I. Fitch, acts as master of ceremonies. Following is a list of the shies and flappers of the gay 90's who will appear in the latest styles of the good old days:

Sam Rose, Daisy, Bicycle Girl; Harold Dutcher, Bicycle Beau; Shorty Sternberg, Broadway Butterfly; Charlie Heise, High-stepping Johnny; Kenneth Usher, Miss Bustle; Engle VanAllsburg, Swain of 1870; Arthur Edwards, Sweet Old-fashioned Girl; James Winters, Bash-Swain; Earl A. Young, Pantalotte Girl; Milt Block, Shiek of '49ers; Henry Buddy, Floradora Beauty; Ted Pearl, Floradora Boy; Bud Gill, Miss Hoop Skirt; A. J. Usher, Beau Brummell of 1860; Glenn See, Lucile Driver, Sweetheart; Arthur Ranger, Driver of Horseless Carriage; L. C. Miles, Miss Bloomer; Rev. W. W. Hurd, Hen-pecked Husband; Ivan Holmes, Merry Widow; Harold Jones, Celluloid Collar Benny; Albert Staley, Annie, Bathing Beauty; "Spike" Goss, Joe, Life Guard; Ray O'Brien, Flapper of 1890; Mont Withers, Shiek of World's Fair of 1893; Nels Tillotson, Athletic Girl; Charles H. Emery, Ball Player; Frank Bird, New York Bowery Girl; Joe Williams, Gas House Harry; Fred Tyler, Miss Hobbles Skirt; Harry Hooker, Peg Pants Charlie; Charley Marshall, Girl with Mutton Leg Sleeves; Geo. Whitley, Alexander Minstrel Boy.

Another outstanding feature is the famous lodge of colored Brethren and Sisters of the Mystic Shrine—and it is at their meeting that the missing bridegroom is found. They sing such songs as "Lonesome Road," "Hear Dem Bells," "Hallelujah" and "Sing You Sinners." The people taking part in this feature are: Harker Kirby, Mrs. Ray O'Brien, Oral Lewis, Mrs. Ira Adams, Will Black, Mrs. Clarence Withers, Walker Miles, Clara Dittmer, Mrs. Mary Snyder, George Block, Mrs. Walker Miles, Walter Weisenburger, Mrs. Milton Block, Arthur Edwards, Mrs. George Block, George Whitley, Mrs. Walter Weisenburger, George Hamilton. P. T. A. NOVEMBER PROGRAM OUTLINED

MRS. DAVID STEWART, STATE PRESIDENT WILL SPEAK

Invitations Have Been Extended to School Patrons of District to Attend Meeting Here

A program of especial interest to school patrons of northern Michigan has been prepared by officers of the local Parent-Teacher association for the November meeting to be held Thursday, November 9th, at the high school gymnasium.

Mrs. David W. Stewart of Saginaw, state president of the Parent-Teacher Association, will be the speaker. Inasmuch as it is not possible for Mrs. Stewart to visit each local association and consequently this will be the occasion of her only appearance in the north, she has asked that members and those interested in P. T. A. work in this district be invited to the meeting in Charlevoix. Accordingly, invitations have been issued through the schools to those interested in the work to be presented.

Present plans call for an informal meeting in the gymnasium from four to six o'clock in the afternoon, during which time Mrs. Stewart will discuss matters of national, state and local significance. This meeting will be of especial interest to those who are now officers or to those thinking of having a P. T. A. organization in connection with their schools. A supper will be arranged for the out-of-town visitors if enough response is given.

At 7:15 in the evening the high school band will play a concert program in the gymnasium, lasting until the main meeting convenes at eight o'clock. Mrs. Stewart's address will be the principal feature of the evening program.

Mrs. Stewart has served as vice-president of the State Association for many years. This year she has appeared on the programs of the district teachers' conventions throughout Michigan. She is very well qualified to tell of the P. T. A. work and school conditions in Michigan.

WHITE STAR INTRODUCES MOBILGAS IN THIS CITY

Many Hundreds Saw Free Movies Shown at Palace Theater

The introduction of Mobilgas and Mobiloil in Charlevoix by the White Star Refining Company through William H. Wallace and subsidiary stations was an event of last week end.

The company sponsored free talking picture shows at the Palace Theater both afternoon and evening last Saturday. Each showing was to a packed house, not only of local people, but many from a distance. The program was heralded throughout the day from a radio car brought here especially for the occasion of the official opening of the distributing stations in this city.

On an other page in this issue, the White Star Refining Company takes the opportunity to express its appreciation to the public for the excellent reception given them and their product.

CHARLEVOIX WINS CONFERENCE TITLE

DEFEAT HARBOR 12 AND 7 IN FINAL CONTEST

Close 1933 Season With Three Successive Victories—Best Charlevoix Team In Years

In a football game packed with thrills from start to finish, Charlevoix's Kipmen came from behind to defeat Harbor Springs 12 and 7 at south side athletic field Saturday afternoon. The victory kept intact an unblemished season's record and gave Charlevoix their first Tip of Michigan class C conference title since the league was organized.

Showing the same brand of alert football which has marked their play throughout the season, the Kipmen launched a scoring drive early in the first period when Potter intercepted a Harbor pass. Held for downs on the visitor's 5-yard line, they gave up the ball only to block a Harbor punt a few moments later. On the next play Foster skirted right end for a touchdown. Hebert's placement for extra point was blocked.

Play the next two periods was on even terms with neither team scoring. Early in the fourth while backed deep into Charlevoix territory, Foster attempted a forward pass on fourth down. The play was incomplete, giving Harbor possession of the ball on the 20-yard strip. A line play failed, but on the next Grimes tossed a pass to Brower over the Charlevoix goal and worked the same play for extra point to lead by a 7 and 6 margin with but a few minutes left to play.

Faced with what seemed certain defeat for the first time this season, the Kipmen showed their real championship caliber. After receiving the kick-off, Foster punted deep into Harbor territory on second down. Harbor was thrown for a loss on the next three plays and their punt in fourth down was blocked by Hebert and Brady recovered for Charlevoix. Two end runs made it first down and on the next play Foster slipped around right end for his team's second touchdown.

Harbor, in a last desperate effort to stem defeat, hurled three incomplete passes in the final minute of play.

Saturday's victory gave Charlevoix a clear claim to the class C conference title. The Kipmen have three victories and no defeats, while all other conference schools have lost one or more games. It is the first championship team Charlevoix high school has turned out in many years.

SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD NOV. 8

TAXPAYERS TO VOTE ON SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLAN

City Council Seeks Public Approval of Plan to Ask Government Loan to Finance Utility

A week from today, Wednesday, November 8th, a special election will be held in Charlevoix to give taxpayers an opportunity to express their desire regarding a proposed sewage treatment system for this city.

The proposal is one conceived many months in fact, several years ago, as a needed public improvement. Preliminary plans have been prepared by previous city administrations and have been brought down to a final stage by the present administration, which is now presenting the matter to electors of the city for approval or disapproval.

Perhaps the principal reason why the proposition is a desirable one at the present time is the fact that the federal government stands ready through its National Recovery Act program to advance 50 per cent, or approximately $30,000 of the cost of construction—funds which under any other circumstance would not be available to this city. Another important reason is the acute unemployment situation and crying need for the necessity of creating new money to provide sustenance for the citizens of Charlevoix.

It might be said that the finances the proposition would bring have taken on a new import this week with the temporary closing of the Charlevoix County Bank, only local financial institution previously serving our community unrestricted. If there was ever a time when new money was needed, it is now. If there ever was a time when good, sound, honest judgment, and a spirit of community sacrifice and loyalty was needed, it is now.

In order to erase any doubt, it might be stated briefly that the Wilbur option on the proposed site includes all lake frontage in addition to the vacant lot facing Bridge street between the Myers and Mussalem buildings. The contractor handling the construction, must, by terms of the contract and NRA provisions, employ all local labor and purchase materials locally as far as possible.

A vote YES next Wednesday means work for our unemployed, additional spending power and subsequent stimulation of business, new capital brought into Charlevoix, a public improvement which will ultimately be forced upon us at a much higher cost. A vote NO will indicate lack of loyalty to our city and unfortunate citizens, a spirit of unprogressiveness which Charlevoix has never heretofore manifested.

MANY HUNTERS TO BE DENIED LICENSE

AGENTS OPENED SALES TODAY FOR 1933 SEASON

All Deer Hunters Warned to Be Cautious In Vicinity of Numerous C. C. C. Camps

Deer hunting licenses for the 1933 season were placed on sale by conservation department license agents today, 15 days prior to the opening of the season.

The fee for the resident deer license this year has been dropped from $3.50 to $2.25 and the cost of the non-resident license has dropped from $5.00 to $2.50. The fee for a camp deer license is $3.00.

A law adopted in Michigan in 1931 is going to mean that more than 675 Michigan men will be refused a license to hunt deer this fall.

The division of field administration of the department of conservation has compiled a list of persons who have been convicted of violation of the deer laws during the past three years or who have shot and killed anyone in a deer hunting accident in five years. Under the law these persons will not be permitted to hunt deer. The list will be submitted to field men in the various counties before the sale of deer licenses begins November 1.

Last year the department's list of those not privileged to go deer hunting amounted to 694. However, several names were removed because of expiration of the time limits. A few more convicted of deer law violations during the year were added to the 1933 list.

The 1932 deer hunting season resulted in four hunting fatalities and three injuries.

As an emergency safety measure, Director George R. Hogarth of the department of conservation has asked Michigan hunters to use extreme caution while hunting in the vicinity of any of the state's 45 emergency conservation camps and any area where C. C. C. men are at work.

More than 8,000 young men are working daily on scores of projects through the hunting area of the state. Director Hogarth said, and warned hunters against approaching within rifle range of any of these projects. All conservation officers have been notified to warn hunters in their localities of the proximity of the camps and locations of projects.

While as a general rule, workers are engaged in state forests, game refuges, state parks and other state projects numerous groups are employed on fire lines and along lakes and streams outside of projects and where they are in serious danger from nearby hunters, it was said.

COUNTY BANK SEEKING STATE CHARTER

SUSPEND WITHDRAWALS PENDING OUTCOME OF PLAN

Depositors Told of Bank Condition, Reasons for Action and Future Plans at Mass Meeting

The Charlevoix County Bank, oldest financial institution in Charlevoix county and one of the few remaining private banks in Michigan, suspended payment to depositors Monday morning.

A plan to reorganize under a state charter has been proposed, and during the reorganization period the bank will operate on a trust fund basis.

At a largely attended depositors' meeting Tuesday evening at the gymnasium, the financial position of the institution, reasons for its action and future plans were presented in a frank and clear-cut manner by Cong. Frontiss M. Brown, St. Ignace attorney, who has been retained to handle the legal affairs of the institution.

Mr. Brown pointed out that due to the shrinkage in valuation of the bank's investment securities, the continued withdrawal of funds in excess of deposits and inability of creditors to meet their obligations, the bank is no longer in a position to meet its obligations to depositors.

These conditions, together with the fact that the bank, a private institution, is not eligible to membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation which will function after January 1, 1934, would probably ultimately mean the closing of its doors and liquidation under a receivership unless reorganization was completed.

Officers of the institution propose to reorganize a new bank. The new bank will purchase the acceptable assets of the old bank and assume payment immediately after reorganization of 50 per cent of deposits in the old bank, providing depositors waive the other 50 per cent in order to remove unliquidated assets for transfer to the new bank. Accounts under $50 will be paid in full.

Unliquidated assets, or the 50 per cent waived by depositors, will be held in trust. Participation certificates will be issued to depositors in proportion to their share in the unliquidated assets, and the new bank will, from time to time, distribute the proceeds of liquidation to holders of participation certificates. Total net earnings available for dividends for five years from date of opening will be paid into the trust fund for the purpose of liquidation of "frozen" assets.

A depositors' committee, composed of Allice R. Miller, Angus L. Fichtman, Charles Carey, William M. Sanderson and Clarence B. Meggison, was nominated and chosen by depositors present Tuesday evening. This committee will be conferred with concerning liquidation of the trust fund.

Charlevoix will be without an unrestricted bank until reorganization is completed and if the plan is not accepted the bank will probably go into receivership. The matter has been placed directly up to depositors.

CLIMATIC CONTROL

Swift contrasts of autumn weather—hot to cold, rainy to frosty, mild to raw—cause disturbing variations in the performance of your car because they affect "engine heat," instantly affecting the gasoline you use. But not if you use Mobilgas—the gasoline scientifically adjusted at the refinery to give your car top performance through all weather changes. Remember, Mobilgas and Mobilgas Ethyl alone have Climatic Control.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS

"If people are hungry this winter they will have food. If they are cold, they will have clothing and shelter. Federal and state funds are being appropriated to supplement your local efforts toward relieving actual hunger and physical distress."

"Eating is not living; it is existing. If we are to justify our claim to civilization, we must think beyond primary needs of food and shelter. We must face our responsibility for human service, broader in conception, deeper in sympathy and understanding."

"Care of the aged, service to demoralized families, hospitalization of the needy sick, home nursing, settlements, guidance of youth, care of the children without a chance—their hundreds of other services are in the hands of your local welfare organizations. Some of these programs were over-shadowed during the past year by desperate fight to supply food and warmth to every one in need. But they must not be forgotten. Huge public appropriations only to maintain life necessitate your and my partnership in making that life worth while."—Franklin Delano Roosevelt in an appeal to the American people.

GOOD NEWS

Announcement by the state health commissioner that in 1932 Michigan had the lowest death rate in its history is a matter for gratification. It suggests that individuals are gaining better knowledge of personal hygiene, and of the principles upon which health is maintained, and perhaps that they are living simpler, less indulgent lives as a result of straightened circumstances. It means, too, that state, county and municipal health authorities have been watchful of the danger of epidemics.—Detroit Free Press.

MICHIGAN FARMERS NOT JOIN STRIKERS

Believe Only Permanent Relief By Peaceful Methods

Members of the Michigan Farmers Union will not join the Farm Holiday Association's nation-wide farm strike, John Lentz, Michigan manager, said last week.

"We believe the only permanent results in providing relief for the farmer will be obtained through peaceful methods," Lentz said.

The present middle west embargo on marketing of farm produce may focus public opinion on farmers' troubles, however, Lentz said.

The outstanding aim of the farmers' union program is refinancing of farm mortgages, preferably through passage of the Frazier bill. The state organization hopes to increase its membership from 8,000 to 25,000 within the next month.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Charlevoix and Ironton

Next Sunday morning the series on Grace will be continued. In order to lay a good foundation work we are taking a little more time than we intended with the Fundamental Steps. Favorable comment and questions asked indicates interest in this important religious element.

In the evening at 7:30 our evening services will begin. The theme that will direct our thoughts for most of the time will be "Prophecy." Prophecy makes up a large portion of our scriptures. It is the battleground for many schools of belief and constitutes an important element for the understanding of the present day conditions. If you want to know about many questions including the "Second Coming of Christ," "The End of the World," and allied subjects, plan to attend our evening services. Next Sunday evening the subject will be, no doubt, "Prophetic Truth and Everyday Living." Don't judge until you have heard.

Thursday evening the pastor will conduct a study on the Sunday school lesson for next Sunday. It is especially for teachers but anyone regardless of church affiliation is welcome.

CAMPBELL BOOT SHOP

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mollenkamp

Plans for Charlevoix county's first annual potato and apple show, which will be held in the high school gymnasium at East Jordan, Saturday, November 4, have been completed.

County Agricultural Agent B. C. Mollenkamp and farmers, merchants, and cooperative associations throughout the county, are working hard to make this initial show a success.

Charlevoix has always won an enviable place at the Top O'Michigan show at Gaylord and with the cancelling of the latter this year, plans were formulated, whereby a county show could be staged on a sound financial basis.

The keen interest evidenced by growers throughout the county guarantees a large exhibit in both departments. All entries must be in place by 11 o'clock a. m.

Prof. H. C. Moore, of the M. S. C. extension department, a national authority on the potato, will act as judge in that department. The name of the judge for the apple department cannot be definitely announced at this time.

No admission will be charged for the show. The day will wind up, with a big banquet in the evening, beginning at 6:30 p. m., for which tickets are already on sale.

East Jordan stores are planning to close from 8:00 to 9:00 p. m. to permit merchants to view the exhibits and attend the banquet, opening afterwards from 9:00 to 10:00 p. m.

Prof. Moore will be the speaker at the banquet and a fine program of music has also been arranged for it. Awards will be made at the close of the banquet.

Remember, the continuance of an annual county show will depend on the support and patronage accorded the present one so be sure to come and see what Charlevoix county farmers are doing to keep us on top.

Notice of Farm Allotments and Of Maximum Acreages of Wheat

Listed below are statements of the allotments which have been determined for members of the Charlevoix County Wheat Production Control Association from Charlevoix county. These allotments are to hold for the duration of the present wheat contracts, and they are the basis upon which adjustment payments are to be made. They have been determined by the county allotment committee after careful consideration of the application statements. Every effort has been made to have these allotments as accurate as possible. The maximum acreage which may be sown to wheat for the 1934 crop on each farm, under the reduction requirements of the contract is also listed.

The Charlevoix county allotment, which has been calculated from records of the United States department of agriculture, is 4,206 bushels. This is the total number of bushels allotted to the county under the wheat plan. The total of the individual allotments, including those allotments which could have been assigned to farms which are not participating under the wheat program, must be in line with the county allotment figure. The number of nonparticipating wheat farmers in the county is 81; the average total wheat acreage for these nonparticipating farms during the base period is 2 1/2 acres; the total average wheat production on these nonparticipating farms during the base period is 15.6 bushels.

AT THE MOVIES

"Mary Stevens M. D." Based Upon Unusual Love Triangle Plot

One of the strangest stories of a triangular love affair is told in the Warner Bros. picture "Mary Stevens M. D.," which comes to the Palace theatre on Saturday and Sunday.

The triangle involves Ray Francis, the star, Lyle Talbot and Theima Todd.

A boy and a girl, playmates from childhood, study medical surgery together, pass their apprenticeship as internes in the same hospital and set up practice in adjoining offices, their friendship ripening into love.

The ambition of the man, however, sees an opportunity in a marriage with the daughter of a powerful politician. So the childhood sweet heart steps aside, although she continues to watch over the man she loves with a mothering instinct.

It is not until the man gets entangled in domestic scandal and financial entanglements that cause his indictment, that she goes to him and gives him her love.

Tough Times When First "Lady Baseball Nine"

The man who organized the first women's professional baseball team describes their fights, courtships, etc., and explains in The American Weekly with next Sunday's Detroit Times, why he would rather tame the wildest lions and tigers than go through the experience again.

The girls who look well in make-up would look well anyway.

UPPER PENINSULA SEASON TRAPPING OPENED

Lower Michigan Ban Lifts November 15—Prices Are Higher

Professional trappers and thousands of farm boys in the upper peninsula of Michigan are establishing their trap lines with the opening of the 1933 trapping season.

While according to department of conservation estimates, the fur supply throughout the state is low and that only a small yield of muskrats might be expected, trappers are hoping for a profitable season with the prices offered for furs ranging from 25 to 50 per cent higher than during the 1932 season.

Because of climatic variations, which affect the quality of pelts, the state has established three trapping zones in Michigan.

The muskrat and mink trapping seasons open north of the Straits of Mackinac, November 1, and will continue open until November 30. Mink may be trapped only during the open season for taking muskrats. They may be hunted at any time.

Muskrat and mink trapping in the lower peninsula north of townline 16 and west of Saginaw bay will not open until November 15, and south of that line December 1.

Raccoons may not be taken in the upper peninsula but south of the Straits of Mackinac the opening day of the raccoon season will coincide with the muskrat seasons.

The department of conservation is again calling the attention of all trappers to the necessity for having a metal tag attached to each trap and on which is listed the name and address of the owner.

The muskrat trapping license this year is being sold at a fee of $2.00 for the first 20 traps and an additional 10 cents for each trap over 20 and not in excess of 100 traps may be used.

MORE SPEED SHOWN IN NEW FARM LOANS

Applications Now Moving As Land Bank Appraisers Are Increased

Loans to Michigan farmers through the St. Paul Federal Land bank are being speeded up along with the loans in other districts, according to Henry Morgenstern, in charge of farm credit, who points out that $810,700 was loaned by the St. Paul bank during September.

Loans made by the land banks for that month were nearly one-half of the total amount loaned in the whole of 1932. Applications for federal farm loans piled up in such quantities immediately following the liberalization of the loan policy that the banks did not have the facilities nor the personnel to handle them.

The first step to catch up with the volume of business was to enlarge the force of appraisers who must inspect the farm before a loan can be made. That has now been done and the accumulated applications are rapidly being considered. More appraisers are added as rapidly as competent men can be found.

Two types of loans are made on farm property. The first is a first mortgage which can be for an amount equal to one-half the normal value of the land plus one-fifth of the value of the buildings. In some cases, an additional loan can be obtained direct from the commissioner with a second mortgage on the land and chattel mortgages on farm property as security. The total of the two types of loans can not exceed three-fourths of the normal value of the property offered as security.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, November 5, is "Adam and Fallen Man."

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, October 29.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Isa. 55:7): "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p.329): "The pardon of divine mercy is the destruction of error. If men understood their real spiritual source to be all blindness, they would struggle for recourse to the spiritual and be at peace; but the deeper the error into which mortal mind is plunged, the more intense the opposition to spirituality, till error yields to Truth."

COLLECT PENSION COMSTOCK ORDERS

WORK TO FINANCE LAW TO BE STARTED AT ONCE

County Clerks Directed to Begin Work of Registration—Have to March 1 to Pay

The state will proceed immediately to collect the $2 head tax levied on all residents of the state over 21 years old by the 1933 legislature to finance the old age pension, A. J. Webster, chief of the old age pension bureau, announced Friday.

Webster said he has authority from Governor Comstock to say that no attempt will be made at the forthcoming special session of the legislature to amend the old age pension act and that the statute will not be suspended pending such action.

Status of the old age pension act has been in doubt since its passage because it did not become effective until Oct. 18 and it provides that collections shall be made between Oct. 1 and March 1. Some legal authorities have maintained the statute should not go into effect because of this until 1934.

Webster said, however, that registration blanks are now being mailed and that collection of the tax will begin November 15. March 1 is the final date for payment.

Instructions

He asserted the county clerks are being instructed not to press for payment of the tax by welfare indigents or those receiving mother's pensions. For the time being these collections will be deferred but will be resumed when the indigents are removed from welfare lists.

Webster's announcement apparently removes what had generally been considered strong possibility that Comstock would ask the legislature in special session to revamp the act. The governor had previously said he believes the $2 head tax will not provide sufficient revenue to finance the act and that it is generally unworkable.

Under provisions of the act, persons over 70 years of age are eligible to receive aid not to exceed $1 per day.

Registration cards which are being mailed out require each head tax payer to declare whether or not he is an alien.

County clerks serving in rural sections of the state will be allowed five cents a name for taking the census, it was announced by Miss Evelyn S. Mershon, state welfare director, who has the administration of the act. The price of four cents a name originally established will apply to the urban areas only.

The expense of making the enumeration is paid for by the fund created by the head tax. The state administrative board has advanced the money for taking the census and will be repaid when head tax collections come in to the state treasury.

LEADERS OF ECONOMIC CLASSES AT MEETING

Given Instruction by M. S. C. Specialist Here Tuesday

Project leaders for the home economic extension classes met for their second lesson with Miss Irene Taylor, clothing specialist, on Tuesday, October 31st, at the community room in Charlevoix.

A short business meeting was held during which Mrs. Maude Kightlinger of the South Bayne group was chosen chairman, and Mrs. Countess Mascho of the Marion Center group, secretary.

Leaders from nine different classes, Bargard, East Jordan, Horton Bay, South Arm, Marion Center, Burgess, Boyne City, Ironton and Charlevoix, together with several visitors were present to receive their first lesson in the actual fitting of a foundation pattern under the immediate instruction and supervision of Miss Taylor.

This course is proving to be of unestimable value to the home garment maker and those privileged to attend the classes should do their utmost to meet the requirements of the course in order to derive the most benefit therefrom.

The next leaders' class will be held December 5th.

CHARLEVOIX EXEMPT FROM RETAIL CODES

Comes Within Class of Cities Under 2,500 Population

Confusion at NRA headquarters regarding the size of stores and towns as exempted from the retail code has been described by officials as having been due to their haste to get the code to the public.

A formal statement by Administrator Johnson said in the first paragraph: "The President has by executive order exempted local retail stores employing fewer than five persons."

In another place in the statement Johnson said: "The President exempted local retail stores employing less than five persons in towns of 2,500 or less."

Hours later the text of the President's order was made public. It exempted "employers engaged only locally in retail trade or in local service industries who do not employ more than five persons and who are located in towns of less than 2,500 (according to the 1930 census) which are not in the immediate trade area of a city of larger population." The latter of course is the official ruling.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL HEARING SET FOR TONIGHT

Outside Speakers to Explain Local Proposal at Public Meeting

A public mass meeting, at which plans for Charlevoix's proposed sewage disposal system will be explained, is scheduled to be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school gymnasium.

While the speakers have not been announced as yet, it is anticipated representatives of the state health department, streams control commission and firm of consulting engineers will be present to discuss and explain the proposed utility for which the city council is seeking a federal loan and public approval.

A special election to decide the issue has been set for Wednesday, November 8th.

RABBITS DO NOT EAT RESIN PAINTED BARK

Homemade Mixture Protects Fruit Trees From Hungry Rodents

Orchard owners who find that the safety of their trees and the laws protecting rabbits can not be reconciled are advised by the horticultural department at Michigan State college that materials which will protect the trees are now available.

Various substances which were claimed to have the property of repelling rabbits were applied to trees in the college orchard and rabbits were confined within an inclosure around the trees. Similar experiments were tried at the Graham station at Grand Rapids.

The preparation which seemed to be most distasteful to the rabbits was a homemade mixture of resin and linseed oil. This was prepared by placing resin in a durable container where it was heated slowly until melted. The oil was then added and the mixture was thoroughly stirred.

This mixture should be applied while warm and can be placed on the trees with a brush. The resin-linseed oil should be kept warm enough so it will flow freely from the brush but it should not be so hot that it boils or smokes.

SEED CORN PLENTY IF PROPERLY DRIED

Ears Containing More Than Average Moisture Easily Injured by Cold

Failure to remove the rather high moisture content in this year's Michigan seed corn may cause a scarcity of a commodity of which there would be plenty if the ears were properly dried, according to the farm crops department at Michigan State college.

Michigan corn normally contains at least 30 per cent of moisture and this may run, in some years, as high as 50 per cent. Corn with a high moisture content is more apt to be damaged in storage than seed from which the excess moisture has been removed by drying.

Two things are essential for drying corn, heat to evaporate the water and ventilation to carry the moist air from the room in which the corn is stored. The equipment used for drying the seed may be very simple if those two factors are provided.

Racks, strings, or some other means of suspending the ears so that they do not touch each other should be provided. Usually, some artificial heat is needed to dry corn having a high moisture content.

CO. POMONA GRANGERS SEEK '34 CONVENTION

Strong Delegation Take Bid to Lansing Meet This Week

Charlevoix county's delegation left Monday for the State Grange convention at Lansing, with the avowed intention, if possible, to bring the 1934 state meeting to Charlevoix.

They will have the support, it is understood, of other Northern Michigan grange organizations in their effort to land the big state meeting. Delegates from this county were Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Helms of Maple Grove grange, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Bennett from Pomona grange, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shepard of Wilson grange. Attending also were Roy Hardy and Sidney Lumley from Deer Lake grange; R. K. Padlock of this city, Master of Charlevoix county Pomona grange, and Dr. C. J. Winder, president of the local Association of Commerce, who will present the Charlevoix county delegation's welcome to Charlevoix in 1934.

The delegation carried with them official invitations from the city council, the local commercial association and the county board of supervisors.

FIND NEW RASPBERRY SUITABLE FOR STATE

Viking Yields Well, Bears Large Fruit of Good Keeping Quality

Viking, a recently developed variety of red raspberry, has shown promise of being a valuable addition to Michigan's list in trials made at Michigan State college.

The berry originated at the Vineland station in Ontario and has been tested several years at East Lansing. It appears to be the most valuable of the new varieties grown on the college plots. The original plant was a cross between Cuthbert and Marlboro.

The variety grows vigorously, is hardy, and produces a moderate number of upright canes, which are practically free from spines. Most of the fruit is borne on the outside of the plants and picking is comparatively easy. The fruit ripens about the same time as that of Cuthbert.

Production compares favorably with Cuthbert. The fruit is large, firm, and has a bright red color. The berries do not darken in color as they are kept, and they retain their firmness so they are good shippers.

In addition to the above features mentioned the choruses are also high spots of the show. Thirty of the local high school boys and girls will give snappy choruses and singing of such songs as "The King's Horses," "Down the River of Golden Dreams" and many others.

A special show for children will be given at 7:30 o'clock, Monday evening, November 6th.

BANK REORGANIZATION PROGRESSING

NEARLY HUNDRED THOUSAND IN WAIVERS SIGNED

State Banking Department Inform Over Fifty Percent of Assets Eligible for New Bank

Officers of the Charlevoix County bank, which voluntarily closed a week ago Monday for reorganization as a state bank, report satisfactory progress of their plans.

In a telephone conversation with the state banking department, Cong. Prentiss M. Brown, who is assisting the reorganization, was informed that over 50 per cent of the assets would, according to the report of Examiner McEachron, be eligible for the new bank. This means the new bank would open on a 50-50 basis, thus reiterating the statements made by Cong. Brown at a depositors' mass meeting last Tuesday evening. Official confirmation of the report by letter is expected from the state banking department today. This removes any doubt in regard to the basis of reopening.

Up to the present time waivers amounting to $93,000.00 have been delivered to the bank by depositors in person. A substantial increase is anticipated when a report of the depositors' committee is submitted. Waivers already received cover substantially all of the larger local deposits.

Distress brought about by the tie-up of welfare relief funds will be relieved as quickly as possible. In a telephone conversation Tuesday with Fred R. Johnson, director of the State Welfare commission, Cong. Brown was assured that everything legally possible would be done to help conditions. It is anticipated an advance of funds necessary to take care of immediate needs will be made.

It is pointed out by bank officers that the rapidity of reorganization depends entirely upon depositors. The sooner waivers are signed and turned in, the quicker the reopening will be brought about and 50 per cent of the deposits released. The officers will gladly consult with depositors regarding the plan at any time, and the depositors' committee, which has already met several times to discuss plans, will assist in every way possible.

PROHIBIT USE OF DOG DURING DEER SEASON

Conservation Department Order Effects Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet

Small game hunters of this region will pursue their sport minus the use of dogs during the open deer season from November 15th to 30th, inclusive.

The Michigan Conservation department, through its regional supervisor, Mert McClure of Ro-common, has issued instructions to all law enforcement officers that the running of dogs on small game will not be allowed in Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet counties during that period.

Conservation Officers C. W. Bonney and Ed. Deuell are asking the cooperation of Charlevoix county hunters in observance of the new order. While recognizing small game hunters will be deprived of their sport for two weeks, they are duty bound to enforce the order and hunters can avoid trouble by observing it.

STATE SAVINGS BANK REORGANIZATION PLAN SOON TO BE ANNOUNCED

Archie L. Livingston, conservator, and Harry A. Craig, director of the Charlevoix State Savings bank, stated Wednesday morning that plans for reorganization of the institution would be made within a short time.

These officials made the announcement following their return from a conference with state banking department and Reconstruction Finance Corporation officials at Lansing and Detroit, where they were instructed to make application for reorganization at once, with assurance of early actions and partial release of impounded funds.

The Charlevoix State Savings bank has been operated under a conservator since the bank holiday last March, and word of the proposed reorganization will be received with enthusiasm by its creditors.

FRED MING TO ENTER PRIMARY NEXT YEAR

Distinguished Cheboygan Leader to Seek Lieutenant-Governor

The hat of Fred R. Ming Monday was in the ring for the Republican nomination for the office of Lieutenant-Governor.

Yielding to the urging of friends, Mr. Ming gave his consent to be a candidate at the Republican state primary in 1934.

Candidacy for this office brings to a peak the career of one of Northern Michigan's outstanding men in public life. He is regarded as one of the strong men of the Republican party, and he is expected to receive support of voters in all sections of the state.

The position of Lieutenant-Governor would make him presiding officer over the state senate, and return him to the upper legislative chamber where he served from 1906 to 1910. So successful was he in this branch of the legislature, that he was elected president pro-tem.

'HENRY'S WEDDING' MAKES A GREAT HIT

BEST ENTERTAINMENT FEATURE IN SEVERAL YEARS

Entire Cast Portrayed Parts in Splendid Manner—"Beaus and Belles" Big Feature

From a point of entertainment, "Henry's Wedding," presented Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the high school gymnasium by the Methodist Literary society, under the direction of Miss Nollie Parrott, was the greatest event since the "Womanless Wedding." One hundred and twenty-five men and women, each carefully selected for his or her part, kept the audience in laughter from the drawing of the curtain in the first act to the grand finale that brought the show to a close.

The opening chorus, "Down the River of Golden Dreams," with Miss Grace Belding and Gilson Clark carrying the singing leads, and the eight chorus girls in charming black and white girl costumes, made a most effective opening to the play.

The play itself was filled with humorous situations. Dr. C. J. Winder as Uncle Henry, Mrs. Peter Ance as Samantha Green, Miss Helen French in the role of Mary and Fay Bradley, as Jack, portrayed their parts in a splendid manner and might be called the leads in the performance, because it was around them that the story was built. All players in the cast, however, had parts of equal importance and no individual could be classed as a star. Each character had his place in the play and filled it to perfection.

The most popular feature of the entertainment was the "Beaus and Belles of the Gay Nineties," introduced by George Hanson, master of ceremonies, who also doubles in the role of Rev. Turnipseed. They made their appearance on the stage in pairs and the "girls" were greeted with much applause and laughter.

The "Brethren and Sisters of the Mystic Shrine" was another greatly enjoyed feature. This group comprised the pick of Charlevoix's vocal talent and their musical numbers were exceptionally fine. Ty Kirby was outstanding as President Brother Jones and Mrs. Ray O'Brien carried the singing lead.

James M. Winter, portraying "Mugs," assistant to Detective O'Flaherty, taken by O. P. North, brought the house down with his antics.

The singing chorus, composed of twenty girls and boys of high school age was still another added attraction that greatly pleased the audience. A total of 32 songs were sung during the evening. Miss Julia Gladys favored with a toe ballet number between acts.

Miss Vera Belding deserves special credit for her part in the entertainment. She was accompanist for all singing numbers and presided at the piano in her usual efficient manner.

The Methodist Literary Club take this opportunity to thank all who gave such splendid assistance and those taking part in the cast.

CLERK EXPLAINS TAX REGISTERING

WORK BEGUN ON LISTING OF ADULTS FOR HEAD LEVY

Bulow Tells Procedure Followed in Taking Data for Records—Collect Tax March 1

Head tax registrations of all persons over 21 years of age in Charlevoix county is under way, directed by Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk. The registration is required by law as preliminary to collection of the $2 head tax by which old age pensions are to be financed.

Registration will be continued until completed. Enumerators have been named by Mr. Bulow for practically every township, village and city in the county. The first work on the registration started this week.

Because there has been some difficulty in certain phases of the registration, Mr. Bulow explained the procedure followed by the enumerators.

"When the enumerator calls at your home," Mr. Bulow said, "he will first take a list of all persons residing at the address. He will ask the relation, the age, date of birth, length of residence and place of employment.

"With this data he will then proceed to register each member of the household over 21 years of age. In this registration he will ask the full name, sex, color, age, date of birth, place of birth, father's name, mother's name, husband's name, name of employer, occupation, if unemployed the length of time, source of welfare aid if any, and citizenship. If the person is a naturalized citizen, further data will be taken.

"All this information is placed by the enumerator on a buff card and the person registered is asked to sign at the bottom of the card, attesting to the truth of the information. This buff card is only a work sheet and is not for permanent records.

"The enumerator will then present a white card which the person is asked to sign although the space above the signature have not been filled in. These spaces will be filled by typists in the office from data on the work sheet. As these records will be permanent and must be kept in the files for 40 years, it is necessary that they be filled in on a typewriter so that they can easily be read.

The state has allowed five cents a name for each registration in a city and six cents a name for each registration in the country. One cent for each name will go to the county treasurer for collection of the tax. For city names the enumerator will receive three cents compensation. For country names he will receive four cents each. The remaining cent in each case is to be paid to the typist who completes the permanent records.

The tax must be paid by March 1, 1934. Applications for pensions will probably not be received until the first of the year and none will be paid for some time after that date according to word from Lansing.

COUNTY POTATO SHOW A SUCCESS

HUNDREDS OF HIGH GRADE EXHIBITS SHOWN

Forty-two Exhibitors Won Premium Money—Over Two Hundred Attended Banquet

(By B. C. Mellenkamp).

The Charlevoix county potato and apple show put on for the first time at East Jordan last Saturday proved to be an outstanding success from every viewpoint. The number of exhibitors, number of entries and the quality of the exhibits far exceeded the fondest expectations of the sponsors of this event.

There were 72 exhibits of potatoes and 66 of apples. Prof. H. C. Moore, who was the main speaker at the evening program and the judges of the potato division, spoke very highly of the wonderful quality throughout. He was very enthusiastic over Emmet and Charlevoix counties having county shows and thought it well worth while to continue.

One hundred forty-nine dollars was paid out in cash premiums immediately at the conclusion of the program. Our sincere thanks are extended to the following agencies and individuals in the county whose donations made this show possible: Jordan Valley Co-Operative Creamery, East Jordan Marketing association, Boyne City Co-Operative company, Charlevoix Co-Operative association, County of Charlevoix; City of East Jordan, East Jordan Lumber Company, Standard Oil Company, East Jordan, Northern Auto Company, East Jordan and W. P. Porter, East Jordan. The business men of East Jordan gave unselfishly of their time and energy. The East Jordan public schools were gracious with their splendid co-operation and kindness in extending the use of the building and all of its facilities. Everyone felt that a county show should be continued from year to year.

The program following the banquet attracted much favorable comment. Rev. Sidebottom acted as toastmaster. The address of welcome was extended by Mayor Barney Milstein and in response D. D. Tibbitts thanked the business men of East Jordan and the other interests who made the show possible in behalf of the exhibitors. Two novelty numbers by the Bugai sisters and Bud Porter were the feature entertaining numbers. Two guests from Antrim county, Kenneth Ousterhout, county agricultural agent, and Harry Riley, certified seed inspector, graciously responded with appropriate remarks. Prof. H. C. Moore gave the feature talk and briefly outlined the potato improvement program being recommended for this county.

In the apple department D. D. Tibbitts of East Jordan was by far the largest prize winner, winning $22.00. The Eveline Orchards, while they did not win as much in premium money, put on a very splendid display of their noted fruit which was not included in the premium list. We deeply appreciate their splendid co-operation. In the potato division, Harry Behling of Boyne City, and Albert Omland of East Jordan, were the heaviest winners, with $14.00 and $10.00 respectively. Clinton Blanchard, Charlevoix, had the best peck in the senior class, duplicating his record last year at Gaylord when he had the sweepstakes peck in northern Michigan. Another noteworthy accomplishment was that of G. C. Ferris, East Jordan, who won first in the beginners class in competition with 18 exhibits. In the club division, Gwendon Hott of East Jordan, continued his past record by having the best peck and in the Smith-Hughes exhibit Albert Lange of Boyne Falls likewise showed his skill by winning first place.

Following are the prize winners: Peck Russet Rural, senior class—1st, Clinton Blanchard, Charlevoix; 2nd, Albert Omland, East Jordan; 3rd, Harry Behling, Boyne City; 4th, Lee Sneathen, Charlevoix.

Peck Other Late Varieties—1st, Henry Korthase, Boyne City, Burbanks; 2nd, Frank Behling, Boyne City, Burbanks; 3rd, Harry Behling, Boyne City, White Rurals.

Peck Any Early Variety—1st, Lawrence Straw, Charlevoix, Cohlers.

Peck Any Standard Variety for Beginners—1st, G. C. Ferris, East Jordan, Russet Rurals; 2nd, Tracy LaCroix, East Jordan, Russet Rurals; 3rd, August Knop, Boyne City, Russet Rurals. (Continued on page 8.)

RELIEF PROMISED VEHICLE OWNERS

OFFICIALS RECOGNIZE DIFFICULTY OF MOTORISTS

Will Show Every Leniency Until Legislation Reducing License Cost Is Passed

Every possible relief is to be given motor vehicle owners in the purchase of 1934 license plates, pending the time when a reduction in the cost of license plates can be secured.

The necessity for both tax relief and tax reduction is evidenced by the fact that on November 1, there were 59,685 fewer automobiles operating in Michigan than on the same date in 1932 with a resultant decrease in revenue of $1,158,000 and a corresponding decrease in gasoline tax revenue. Of the 415,000 motorists who used half-price windshield stickers permits until August 1, department of state records show that on November 1st 73,000 have been unable to pay the second half of the tax and secure 1933 plates.

These motorists must be given every consideration and the department has information that a great many motorists are not using their cars until 1934 plates can be secured. Many sales of new cars are being held up until 1934 plates can be purchased, although use of 1933 plates which may be purchased at the half rate during the balance of the year will be legal until March 1, 1934.

For these reasons, Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald has announced that 1934 plates will be placed on sale in all branch offices November 15 and police, deputy sheriffs and other law enforcement officers are requested to recognize 1934 plates on and after that date.

LOCAL HUNTERS PREPARING FOR DEER SEASON

Usual Quota Leaving for Upper Peninsula and Eastern Cover

The 1933 deer hunting season, which opens next Wednesday, November 15th, will call the usual quota of hunters from Charlevoix.

Saturday and Sunday will see a general exodus of parties to upper peninsula and eastern deer cover. Old groups have already made their plans and many new parties are gathering equipment for the start.

The deer cover of this, as well as two adjacent counties has been thrown open to hunters this year with the opening of Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim. It is expected the opening of these counties will relieve to a great extent the concentration in other hunting territory.

SPORTSMAN'S CLUB IMPROVING PONDS

CONSTRUCT BY-PASS TO REGULATE WATER FLOW

Aim to Eliminate Loss of Fingerlings By Overflow During Heavy Rain Periods

A much needed improvement at the Charlevoix Sportsman's Club rearing ponds on Stover creek was started Monday morning and will be completed during the present week.

A crew of nine men, working under the direction of Harold Hallett, president of the sportsman's organization, are excavating a by-pass or overflow channel by which the volume of water flowing through the ponds may be regulated at all times. The by-pass extends from the dam at the head of the ponds to a point just below the second dam on the southeast side of the stream.

During the past two years the Club has experienced much difficulty because of flood water during heavy rains. The present system provided no method of diverting excess water from the ponds in the main stream and subsequently a heavy loss of fingerlings was experienced on many occasions from overflow, plugging of the current running through the ponds.

When the improvement under way is completed, flood water during rainy periods may be diverted down the by-pass into the stream below the upper section of the rearing ponds. Increased efficiency in operation and a greater percentage of successful rearing of fingerlings is anticipated for the coming season.

The project is being done by volunteer labor and is the first of several which members of the organization hope to launch in an effort to enlarge their activities in providing better fishing conditions in Charlevoix county lakes and streams. The Club now has a system of rearing pond which represent an investment of several hundred dollars, largely financed through public donation.

FORMER CITY OFFICIAL DIED MONDAY EVENING

Archie Alcock, 67, Succumbed Following Long Illness

Archie Alcock, 67, former city official and long-time Charlevoix resident, died Monday evening at Charlevoix hospital. His death brought to a close a long period of illness.

Born January 13, 1866, at Uxbridge, Canada, Mr. Alcock came to Charlevoix about 44 years ago and had since resided here. He clerked at the Mason store many years, served several terms as supervisor from the third ward and was city street commissioner for a considerable period. He was prominent in fraternal circles, with membership in the Masonic, Odd Fellow, Moose, Maccabee and Pythian orders, and holding all the offices in each.

Mr. Alcock was married about 43 years ago to Miss Lydia Schaefer of Uxbridge, who preceded him in death seven years ago. On January 26, 1929, he married Nella Brown Cooper of this city, who survives him in addition to a daughter, Mrs. Anna Withers, this city, and a son, Harry Alcock of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held from the residence, corner Bridge street and Hurlbut avenue, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be under auspices of the Masonic lodge with Rev. G. R. Parker officiating.

When Prof. Alexander, superintendent of Central Lake schools, walked into his office on the morning after Halloween, we are told that he found a nice bossy cow contentedly chewing on a bunch of corn stalks that the young people had kindly provided for her. How Charles Ogletree's cow got up the school house steps and into the superintendent's office we do not know, but it made a good specimen for study of agriculture first-hand.

* MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS *

Exchange of information designed to reduce gasoline tax evasions, was agreed upon last week by seven central states whose representatives met in Chicago.

These states include Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Under plans made at the Chicago meeting, the gasoline tax divisions of the seven states will make monthly reports to each other, regarding the amounts and destinations of all gasoline exports.

Radical changes in Michigan election laws, making it much harder for prospective candidates to secure places on the primary ballots of the various parties, were approved by the election sub-committee of the legislative council at a meeting in Lansing last week. The sub-committee is composed of officials of both Republican and Democratic parties.

One of the proposed changes to be submitted to the legislature, would require "municipal and township clerks to check all signatures on nominating petitions with lists of registered voters in the various cities, villages and townships. After this check had been made with the elimination of all signatures that did not agree with the poll lists, the nominating petitions would be forwarded to the proper state, county or municipal officer for filing.

Another suggested change, approved by the sub-committee, would increase twelve-fold the minimum number of signatures necessary to secure a place on a party primary ballot. Approval also was given to a third proposed amendment which would make party pre-primary conventions mandatory.

The Public Acts of 1933 will be available for distribution about November 10. The delay was due to the fact that the state administrative board withheld approval of the department of state's requisition for three months. The department's offer was sent to the board February 23 but was not approved until May 11. The price of the 1933 Public Acts will be $1.50 when purchased direct from the department of state.

HERE LAZINESS IS A PASTIME

Loafer Can Find Paradise in Jamaica.

For action, New York's Times square and Kingston, Jamaica, make a perfect contrast. For songs like "Lazy Bones," Kingston is certainly the place for inspiration. It is a foreign word to native Jamaicans and so far as they are concerned, it can stay foreign.

The first impression which registers on the visitor is the lack-a-day mood of the native Jamaican boys and men. They lounge around. No plush-cushioned seats, to be sure, but any spot is soft enough. And even through the countryside, "pickaninnies," as Americans call them, never seem troubled by serious thoughts of work or anything else—but frolic.

For a taste, however, of a people living in another land, Jamaica adds variety to any cruise. It has its points of interest, fascination and romance. Even as the ship sails into the harbor, passing over submerged Fort Royal, time flies back to the days of Pirate Henry Morgan, for Fort Royal was the buccaner's headquarters, where he planned his raids of rich Spanish Main ports. The natives tell you that on stormy days the bell in the church tower, sunk deep in the blue water, chimes.

Once Fort Royal was Jamaica's capital, but an earthquake jarred it and the sea engulfed it. Today, it is just a reminder of pirate tales. The survivors moved the capital across the bay to Kingston, where Jamaican life has blossomed in its natural way, where women still parade through the streets with market baskets balanced on their heads, where small cafes smell strongly of native Jamaica rum and where those too lazy to work the rich banana plantations gather to enjoy a life of leisure, even though it may be without luxury.

While under Spanish rule for a half century, few signs of Iberian influence are in evidence. The island is distinctly British. When it was wrested from Spain, it seems, anything which the Spaniards could not take with them they destroyed so that no real Spanish building remains. Even Spanish is seldom heard.

A Bermudian influence seems to grip the island, for while throughout the West Indies the motor car is the common transportation for visitors, Jamaica clings to the horse-drawn carriage, although a car is available upon request. Gasoline draws a handsome price, and horses seem plentiful, however, offering an excuse for the carriage's survival. —New York World-Telegram.

PASSED UP ALL FOR CLAM PIE

Delicacy That Made Hit With "Sea Devil."

Joe Small was telling me about the time Count von Luckner ("The Sea Devil") visited Commander McMillen, of Arctic fame, in Provincetown, Mass.

"One brought the count and some other guests over here to my Galley for supper one night," Joe related. "And I just looked the doors after they got in, so we wouldn't be disturbed by no other customers."

"Well, it was a Saturday night, so of course the principal dish was baked beans. And after while, I got to noticing that Von Luckner didn't seem to care much for the beans. Oh, he was polite about it, all right, but he wasn't what you might call eager. He ate bread and he drank coffee, and he pushed the beans and the pork around on his plate and went through the motions. But he wasn't his dish."

"So pretty soon I whispered to him, 'Do you think he'd like clam pie?'"

"Try him and see what happens," says Mac.

"So I cut a big wedge of clam pie and put it down by his plate. He looked at it, sort of uncertain, for a minute. Then he reached out his fork and cut off a little nibble. Then I seen his eyes kind of sparkle. He took a bigger bite. Then he took both hands and made a motion like a man swimming, and pushed the beans one way and the coffee and bread the other, and pulled that pie right in front of him."

"By Clave," he hollered, "I haf found something!"

"He swallered that wedge like a logish stealin' bait, and he held out his plate for more. That happened three times, and then he'd eat the clam pie. And every time he'd finish a piece, he'd say, 'By Clave, I haf found something!'"

"He'd be droppin' his head in these waters again, some day. Because he's got to have a look of a line tryin' to teach 'em to make clam pie in Germany!" — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Vast Pampa Source of Welfare in Argentina

Argentina, richest of South American countries, draws its wealth from the pampa—a rockless, treeless sea of grass, 2,800 miles long and 600 miles wide, grazed by millions of head of stock. Fecund, wild herds of horses and cattle, and of the conquistadores' mounts, and milk cows, have been scientifically bred up to the stable and the abattoir.

Calmer herds, tamer men. Almost gone is the gaucho, cowboy son of Spanish settler and Indian squaw. Apocryphs of the type was Dictator Juan Manuel Rosas, who a century ago routed the Indians, nailed his countrymen, and ruled in a palace, with a court jester. On the pampas only the pampero (cold wind, rain or hail storm) and locust plagues remain ferociously primitive.

Buenos Aires, with its 2,000,000, is Paris, Chicago and pampa in one. Quite effete now, it no longer flaunts in its Boca section advertisements of cheap, expeditious murder by expert assassins. For safety and comfort, wheeled traffic is barred from the city's shopping district between 4 and 8 p. m.—World's Work.

TRY THIS! When children won't eat—and won't gain weight

The youngster who has no appetite, probably has stasis. A little syrup of figs will soon correct this condition—then watch the child eat—and gain! Mothers should never coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for sluggish, listless children in every part of the country!

A POUND A WEEK. Your child will eat well from the day and hour you conquer sluggishness. But that girl or boy with furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts!

Begin tonight, with enough pure syrup of figs to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week, until the appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone. When a cold or other ailment has again clogged the system, syrup of figs will soon set things to right.

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a hazy yellow, California syrup of figs will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you need to coax to eat will fairly devour his food.

The claims made for California Syrup of Figs are true and it will do the same for you—IF you get genuine CALIFORNIA Syrup of Figs. Don't accept any substitute.

ROADSIDE MARKETING

By T. J. Delohery

CO-OPERATIVE ROAD-SIDE MARKETS

ROADSIDE markets are individually owned as a rule, but where a number of farmers are engaged in the production of different lines of crops but don't produce enough to keep a roadside market supplied through the season, co-operatively owned wayside stands have been established and successfully operated.

Probably the most extensive and best-managed of co-operative roadside markets is the chain in southeastern Wisconsin, which was started by the first fruit-growers association in that section of the Badger state. More than a dozen markets, spread over several counties in the fruit belt, have shown a healthy increase in business for each of the three years they have been in operation.

While the members are primarily fruit growers, some of them are now growing patches of vegetables, own small flocks of poultry and several hives of bees. Thus they are able to supply the markets with a good line of food which keeps them open during the outdoor season instead of a short time in the late summer and fall when fruit is ripe.

Each market handles the products of from six to ten farmers. Management and sales are left in the hands of the grower on whose property the stand is located, or with a hired salesman. Much caution has been used in the selection of salesmen and market managers, with the result that the representatives have been a great help in the increased business which the markets report.

The chain of roadside markets is the outgrowth of the farmers' efforts to increase local consumption of their fruit after they had put on a campaign to improve quality. The first step in the marketing campaign was to exhibit apples, pears and plums in various food shops.

After canvassing possibilities of several outlets, Mr. Fallet decided on a co-operative roadside market; but before proposing it to the fruit growers, he and C. L. Knepper, state fruit specialist, made a trip through the fruit belts of Wisconsin and Michigan to study the various phases of the business. Returning, he suggested a co-operative roadside market, and upon approval, built a portable stand which was first exhibited at the state fair. "The Fruit Market," the official name of these stands, is a portable affair made of a striped green canvas roof, green woodwork and shelving which permits the display of several dozen harmoniously colored baskets of apples, pears, plums and crab apples, with a background of golden elder. The first one cost $60 to build and won $125 in prizes at the fair.

During fair weeks thousands of people stopped at the booth of which "The Fruit Market," fully equipped.

was a part. Numerous questions were asked and answered by the county agent who was in attendance.

"Opening on Sunday when motorists were out in full force, the market clicked right away," said County Agent Fallet. "In fact, we sold out early in the afternoon, and it was necessary to place a dozen farmers to rush in more fruit. The color scheme of the stand, the baskets of well-graded fruit, all of which had tags telling the variety and the price, made a picture which undoubtedly influenced a number of purchases."

The success of the first "Fruit Market" is responsible for the establishment of the others. Hired salesmen, operating a few of these markets, are permitted to handle eggs, vegetables and honey if the farmers do not produce these foods. This concession has been found to be an incentive for the salesman who realizes that his earnings are based on sales of fruit with additional revenue in the other products.

Co-operative roadside markets are advisable also where they will eliminate competition and, as pointed out, give small growers a chance to get better prices than is possible at wholesale markets or where keeping open a roadside outlet would necessitate the buying of other things to complete the line. Of course, the success of group-supplied markets will depend largely on the manager or salesman and his ability to give each member a fair deal and maintain harmony among the contributors.

TELLING FATHER

He had been calling every night in spite of the warnings from his sweetheart about her late father. This particular evening they had been planning their elopement.

Only the hall clock, announcing that the wedding hour had been reached, broke the silence. Then, without warning, a thump and a click were heard, and the room was flooded with light. There stood father, gloving and putting at the terrified young couple.

"Who are you?" he bellowed. The young man gulped and turned pale. But the color returned to his face suddenly, and rising to his feet, he said in a clear, loud voice: "I'm her brother."

Minor Official

"Now," said the bridegroom to the bride when they returned from their honeymoon trip, "let us have a clear understanding before we settle down to married life. Are you the president or the vice president of this society?"

"I want to be neither president nor vice president," she answered. "I'll be content with a subordinate position."

"What position is that, my dear?"

"Treasurer."—London Tit-Bits.

Stunning Alibi

Liza was on the witness stand. "Are you positive," inquired the prosecutor, "that you know where your husband was on the night this crime was committed?"

Dominant Policy

"I can't quite decide whether our distinguished colleague is for protection of free trade."

"He is still sounding out his constituency," replied Senator Sorghum.

"The only policy on which he is absolutely consistent is self-preservation."

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered. Peace Stamp
From sturdy little Holland comes an idea that possesses more than the germ of common sense, says the Montreal Star. It consists of a peace postage stamp, with the regular design and a peace symbol added, to be sold in popular denominations by all nations at the same prices as their regular issues and for the same purpose. The voluntary purchase of a peace stamp will be regarded as a vote for peace, the request for such a stamp and the use of it being taken as an indication of the purchaser's sentiments.

PARENTS ARE URGED TO VISIT SCHOOLS

Asked to Plan Attendance During National Education Week

In many ways attention of the average citizen is being centered on the schools during this National Education Week, and local educational agencies and their allied circles are doing their part.

One of the chief efforts during the week will be to get fathers and mothers of school children into the schools to hear demonstration classes and watch their offspring under normal school conditions. The schools will be thrown open throughout the week but special invitations are being sent out by each school through messages to the parents carried by the children.

At the high school National Education week will be honored by high school assembly programs.

* MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS *

Michigan stands first among the 48 states in the percentage of recovery of stolen automobiles, according to a recent report of a national insurance statistics clearing house. Indications are that the number of cars stolen in Michigan in 1933 will be far less than the number stolen in 1932.

Forty-eight persons came under the provisions of the financial responsibility law during the first 17 days it was in effect. Of this number 47 were found guilty of driving while drunk and one guilty of leaving the scene of an accident.

All waters in the state will be closed November 30 to rainbow trout fishing, according to the department of conservation. Under a new law rainbow trout fishing with hook and line is permitted in certain designated inland lakes and streams until that date.

STATE WELFARE COST HIGH IN SEPTEMBER

Aid to Indigents Totaled Over Three Million, Reported

Public funds were called upon to support 142,556 families during the month of September at a cost of $3,120,240, Fred R. Johnson, managing director of the state emergency welfare relief commission announced Monday.

Of this amount, the state paid $1,000,000, the federal government contributing most of the remainder with local communities assisting. The number of families was a reduction of 5,000 from August when 147,274 households were aided at a cost of $3,428,065.

Although there was a reduction from August to September, Johnson said early reports indicate October welfare expenditures will be substantially higher than in either of the two preceding months. With this trend in mind, he said a conference of county welfare commissions has been called for Wednesday at which time "we will prepare for a tough winter."

TREES ARE GOOD CROP FOR USE IN MICHIGAN

White Pine Planted 42 Years Ago Earns Good Rate Interest

Timber, once Michigan's best crop, apparently has returned to its former ranking as an investment, according to records of the earnings made by a white pine planting made by Michigan State 42 years ago.

This stand of pine was planted on land worth $15 per acre, and the total costs of trees, planting labor, and all other items has been $32.75. The value of the lumber on each acre, at present market prices, is $158.75. Foresters at the college say that the trees have earned compound interest at the rate of 4.05 per cent for the 42 years.

Five-year-old transplants were used in making the college planting but two-year-old stock is now recommended. Land which is suitable for forestry purposes can also be obtained for less than $15 per acre. Reduction in costs on these two items would enable a higher earning rate for the timber.

1934 ROD LICENSES TO GO ON SALE SOON

Under the general rod license law, adopted by the last session of the legislature, the department pointed out, residents engaged in fishing in any manner must have a 50c license. Ice fishing in season, and spearing in season, is not excepted.

Release of $879,000 toward retirement of the state's debt to school units has been announced by Theodore I. Fry, state treasurer. Vouchers will be mailed at once. In addition, he said he expects that another payment will be made on the $6,000,000—till owing to the school districts from the primary school fund. A total of $13,000,000 of that account has already been paid.

COUNTY GETS SECOND CONSIGNMENT OF PORK

Seventy-five Boxes Received for Distribution Among Needy

Charlevoix county's second allotment of government pork for distribution to welfare dependents was on its way north Tuesday, according to information contained in a letter directed to J. M. Foster, chairman of the county welfare commission.

Brooks, Lansing, secretary of the State Emergency Welfare Relief commission, stated this county's share would be contained in a carload consigned to Miss Foley, Emmet county welfare director, with instructions for transfer to this county. The allotment is 75 boxes.

"Only people who possess a telephone extension in the kitchen know what a time-saver such an arrangement is."

A kitchen extension telephone makes it easy to place and answer calls, no matter how busy you are, without taking your eyes from the stove, or running to another part of the house. And it affords privacy for your telephone calls when you have guests.

An extension telephone makes an ideal Christmas gift, and costs less than 3c a day. Any telephone business office will take your order. Installation will be made at any time you specify.

Quality All-Important in Selection of Soap

By RUTH BAKER

The weekly wash is a good example of where "pinching on quality" is costly in the end. Women whose snowy-white washings are the envy of their neighborhood have learned the value of buying not cheaply but well.

When these women purchase a laundry soap they look for quality and washing value. They know that a perfect wash depends on the use of a high-grade soap. After all, it's the ability of the cleansing agents that gets results.

Many a housewife has found that a cheap or "weak" soap not only requires harder rubbing to get clothes clean, but that this hard rubbing actually harms the fabrics.

Where you buy quality, it makes little difference in what form a soap comes. A soap can be any color of the rainbow—without any effect at all on the whiteness of clothes. For instance, a certain well-known laundry soap is golden because that is the natural color of its combined fine ingredients. And due to its greater cleansing energy, this golden soap gets clothes cleaner—which means whiter.

Dr. Pierce's Peppermint Cure for liver, bowels and stomach. One little Peppermint Cure for a cathartic—Adv.

What Worried Her

Mrs. Asker—Do you have any trouble with your furnace?
Mrs. Teller—My main trouble is getting my husband to attend to it.

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careless choice of laxatives is a common cause of chronic constipation.

Any hospital offers evidence of the harm done by harsh laxatives that drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be controlled. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. All druggists, ready for use, in big bottles. Member N. R. A.

Lock-Out

IT REALLY wasn't Anne's fault. It was the wind's fault—or John's sister's fault—or the puppy's fault. But not Anne's.

To begin with, Anne and John had chosen Green Nook cottage because it was in such a secluded position. Anne wasn't afraid. There were no tramps. Besides, there was the friendly collie puppy. And Green Nook cottage was the prettiest place Anne had ever dreamed of owning. It was on a little spur of cliff that reached out into the ocean. The winds were so tempered that trees grew protectively around the little house. And trees and ocean were combined to make a really beautiful outlook.

Of course, if you turned the other way, you saw the road. And you knew that, a mile along that road, there was quite a little settlement of cottages.

John and Anne settled for their first summer of marriage at Green Nook cottage. After they had been at the cottage for a few weeks, John's older sister Prudence, wrote that she would like to come visit them.

"Never mind, Anne," John had said. "Prudence isn't so bad as she sounds. Of course she's rich. And she's had so much money for so long that she forgets it isn't convenient for other people, perhaps, to drop everything and entertain her whenever she wants. But she's not so bad."

So Prudence was coming to visit. With her husband, and two sons of fourteen or fifteen. And Anne had spent a busy day getting ready for them.

The two rooms for Pru and her family were all in order—excepting that the pillows needed pillow slips. The living room was in perfect order—excepting that the dust mop and dust pan leaned against the chimney, for a last run-around after dust. The dining room table was set—but Anne's Italian lace and linen napkins were even now piled on the ironing board in the kitchen, where the electric iron was heating, to be pressed into sparkling smoothness. Dinner was under way. Floating out the kitchen windows came tantalizing odors, even now, of this and that cooking on the stove and in the oven.

And now Anne was locked out. To get through the rest of the matter quickly, Anne had suddenly discovered that the cream was not as fresh as it should be and had decided to run down to the nearest village for more. She had given a quick mental look around and realized that everything was good for twenty minutes. Then she had rushed out the front door—and the door had slammed. A perverse gust of wind had done the trick.

The windows were all screened, with screens that hooked in on the inside. Anne decided she would go for the cream and think of a way to get in on her trip. If she couldn't think of a way, she'd get help. But when she reached her car, she realized that her keys were in her handbag. And that's where the dog came in. She had left her handbag on the porch, but the dog had dragged it within doors. He liked to chew leather handbags.

Anne walked around and around the house, peering in the windows, taking stock of things. The collie pup chew contentedly on her handbag in the living room, and each time she circled past the kitchen door the pots and pans steamed a little more tantalizingly the fact that soon one of them might go dry. Everything seemed to mock at Anne.

Minutes had passed—perhaps half an hour.

Finally Anne started to walk for help. She didn't know just what sort of help she was going for. Perhaps just a strong knife to cut out a hole in one of the screens. Perhaps a locksmith with a master key—only of course there wouldn't be one within miles. But anyway Anne, still dressed in a pink gingham house frock, started to walk for help.

An then the wayward breeze, that had so unhelpfully closed her front door, played her a pleasant trick. Turning, it suddenly brought her the sound of an approaching automobile. And John's automobile, at that. None but his could make such a chuckling, coughing sound and still progress; John's automobile had seen better days, but it went, and with Anne's for her use and their use together, it did quite well enough until the cottage was paid for.

The breeze shifted again, and waited for several minutes before she had further news of John. Then she saw his car round a bend in the road not far away. In a few more minutes, they were back at the cottage door. Anne's troubles explained.

She bounded from the car the minute it stopped. "You dash back to the village for some cream, John. And just give me fifteen minutes—just fifteen minutes—and everything will be perfect. Hurry and open this door. I can smell something almost boiling dry!"

Anne put her hand on the knob of the front door in her impatience. It turned.

She looked sheepishly at John hurrying after her with his key. "The latch was off," she said. "Well—just give me twelve minutes, and I'll have this place ready!"

Hope for Increase in World's Radium Supply

Will Canada one day be able to supply us with all the radium we require for our hospitals?

There are large deposits of radium-bearing ore in the great Dominion, and these are now being worked. They may transform the world radium situation.

For years now British hospitals have been seriously handicapped in their great fight against cancer by the high cost of radium, which has been practically a Belgian monopoly. Most of it comes from Katanga, in the Belgian Congo, which turns out about three grammes a month.

Belgium is playing a vital part in fighting this scourge, and in view of this protests were recently made in parliament against the heavy duty collected on such imported radium. In reply the treasury announced that it should be remitted. This relief lowers its price by about a third.

New radium-bearing deposits have been discovered at Glenide, Illinois, western Australia; and other deposits at Widdow are officially considered as eminently suitable for working. They yield one grain of the precious element to each ton of ore.

DELINQUENT TAX LAWS EXPLAINED

TELL HOW INSTALLMENT PAYMENTS ARE MADE

First Payment is Due September 1, 1935 — Have Ten Years in Which to Pay Balance

After long deliberations the following delinquent tax law is now in working order and is effective, says County Treasurer J. W. Flanders. The law is explained fully in this article. This story explains matters in detail:

The auditor general shall return to the county treasurer in a special roll all general and special assessment real estate taxes returned to the state as delinquent, including all rejected taxes, for the years 1931 and prior years and not heretofore cancelled, paid, sold or redeemed and such roll shall be returned in the office of the several county treasurers and shall be termed the "returned delinquent tax roll." In the preparation of said "returned delinquent tax roll" the tax shall be spread in separate columns in a manner to correspond with the original levy of said taxes and special assessments, but without the addition of collection fees, interest or penalties.

Such returned delinquent taxes and special assessments may be paid to the county treasurer of the county in which the lands are situated, or to the auditor general in ten equal annual installments on or before September 1, 1935, and annually thereafter. Such payments shall be made without collection fees or penalties, but with interest at four per cent per annum on each installment from September 1, 1935, until the date of said several payments. The return of such delinquent taxes and special assessments as herein provided shall not preclude the payment of the whole or any part of said taxes and special assessments either to the auditor general or to the county treasurer without collection fees or penalties, but with interest at four per cent per annum as herein provided at any time prior to the time of payment specified and provided for in this act. If any installment so returned shall not be paid in the current year on or before the first day of September, the same shall be immediately returned by the county treasurer as a delinquent tax to the auditor general who shall offer the lands for sale during the following May in accordance with the provisions of the general tax laws of the state applicable to delinquent taxes; provided, however, the lands so delinquent may be redeemed at the office of the auditor general at any time prior to the date such lands are offered for sale by payment to the auditor general of the installment so delinquent together with interest at the rate of four per cent per annum as herein provided and interest at three-quarters of one per cent

EASY PLUCKING

"The object of tax laws is to get the most feathers with the least squawk."

This old French adage, expressing the views of pre-revolutionary tax raisers, is today in evidence right here in Michigan where the automobile owner is paying almost 40 percent of the state's total income, according to Richard Harfst, manager of the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"In those days, ministers of finance plucked the geese via the avenue of least resistance and admitted it," Harfst said. "Today, we are experiencing a parallel case, with the motorist of Michigan playing the part of the goose. He is taxed more out of proportion than any other class in modern history. Despite our economic condition, he pays in Michigan today over 20 percent more automobile taxes than he did in the pre-depression year of 1929. Michigan motorists now want a fair reduction."

per month from the date due thereof.

The lien or interest of any outstanding bonded indebtedness, either principal or interest in such delinquent taxes or special assessments, returned as provided for herein shall attach to said returned taxes or special assessments the same as in the original levy thereof.

Such taxes and special assessments so returned shall not be deemed to be due and payable until the time for payment provided for herein, and shall not be considered a delinquent tax. Provided, That during the period fixed for the payment of such returned taxes and special assessments, all contracts for the sale of such lands and all deeds or other conveyances for the transfer of title to said lands shall contain a statement in bold type or print setting forth the amount of delinquent taxes and special assessments thereon that have been returned for collection and are payable at the office of the county treasurer or auditor general and setting forth also the number and amount of installments of such delinquent taxes and for special assessments that have been returned by the county treasurer to the auditor general as delinquent. Any contract, deed or conveyance of such lands failing to contain such statement when there are any such taxes delinquent shall be voidable.

The county treasurer shall annually in the months of July and August of each year during said ten year period beginning in 1935, publish in at least three newspapers published and circulated in that county, a notice calling special attention to the fact that returned delinquent taxes and special assessments for 1931 and prior years are due and payable at the office of the county treasurer or auditor general on or before September 1, following, and that if such taxes and special assessments are not paid they will be returned to the auditor general and sold as delinquent taxes.

The publication of the order and petition for the sale of lands delinquent for taxes for 1931 and prior years and of the description of such lands shall be prohibited from and after the taking effect of this act so as to prohibit the sale of such lands for delinquent taxes for 1931 and prior years on the first Tuesday of May 1934 and thereafter except as provided for in section 3 of this act.

Any person cutting or removing timber from any such lands without written consent of the auditor general and county treasurers shall be guilty of a felony and shall be punished for not more than five years or by a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars or both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

This act is and shall be construed to be emergency legislation, enacted in the exercise of the police power of the state, and deemed necessary for the preservation of the ownership of property and the protection of the property rights of the citizens of this state and to protect and promote home ownership.

WHEAT GROWERS SHARE IN ADJUSTMENT MONEY

Michigan Farmers Will Get $688,000 for Reducing Their Acreage

Michigan wheat growers will benefit by $688,000 to be paid by the federal government for their share in reducing the wheat acreage of this country, according to preliminary figures compiled by the supervisor of the allotment plan in this state.

The number of farmers who have applied for crop contracts is 12,623, and these men have an average of 216,970 acres planted to wheat each year. Michigan is not one of the leading wheat producing states and many farmers grow the crop only for feed on their own farms. This type of grower did not sign up for contracts.

The tendency of the larger growers to sign contracts is shown by the fact that the average number of acres for the men who signed up is nearly eight acres per man larger than the average for all wheat growers of the state.

Men who sign contracts will receive a payment of 28 cents per bushel, minus the local costs, for 54 per cent of their average production. This payment will be made before next harvest.

Subject for Sunday, November 12, "Mortals and Immortals."

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 5th.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Eph. 5: 8, 10, 11): "For ye were sometimes darkness, but now are light in the Lord; walk as children of light: Proving what is acceptable unto the Lord, wherefore saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light."

Five Local 4-H Club Members Won Trip to East Lansing

Charlevoix county was represented by five club members and two club leaders at the recent demonstration and judging contests held at the Michigan State college under the supervision of the boy's and girl's club department.

In the past the winners from the various counties have received a trip to the Michigan state fair at Detroit in recognition of their splendid club activities, but this year owing to the uncertainty of the state fair, they received a trip to the Michigan State college. From the Boyne Falls section Violet Russell and Annryllis Detcher, accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Robert Russell, represented our county in the canning demonstration finals. Representing our county dairy club work were Clayton Smith and David Matchett, both from Charlevoix, accompanied by their leader, Carleton Smith. Not to be outdone, Gwendon Hott of East Jordan, represented our crops judging activities in the county.

These club members report a most enjoyable time. They were entertained royally by the club department and thoroughly enjoyed their visit on the campus which is generally recognized as the second most beautiful campus in the United States. Then to bring the visit to a climax, all of the club members were taken to the Michigan State-Kansas State football game as guests of the athletic association. Did they enjoy the game? Well, you know the answer.

From early reports Gwendon Hott stood up very well in the judging contests and our demonstration team won second place. Likewise, the canning demonstration team came in either second or third place.

NEW CONSERVATION LAWS GO IN EFFECT

Became Operative Ninety Days Following Adoption

Four new laws relating to conservation in Michigan and adopted by the 1933 legislature went into effect Tuesday, October 17, 90 days following the final adjournment of the regular session in which they were adopted.

The four laws now in effect refer to the transportation of minnows out of the state; the possession and disposition of frogs; the prohibiting of fishing in certain lakes and establishment of the Gogaw Lake sanctuary.

Through House enrolled Act 209, no person may fish from any inland waters of the state within which fish shall be planted at the expense of the state, when the public is excluded from taking fish from such waters. An exception is made of lakes covering less than 250 acres in which fish may be planted without the written consent of the persons who together own in fee simple the submerged acreage.

TOLOSEFAT

Miss M. Katter of Brooklyn, N. Y. writes: "Have used Kruschen for 10 months and have not only lost 35 pounds but feel so much better in every way. Even for people who don't care to lose weight, Kruschen is wonderful to keep the system healthy. I bring a nurse straight from the fire and my nervousness has only Kruschen answered all purposes." TOLOSEFAT IS EASY TO TAKE AND TASTELESS.

It is a salt of special kind, which is a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—dissolve a pinch of Kruschen in it, and a week later you will find a little Kruschen salt in your system.

The New Baby

What your child will become is the sum of what he inherits from his mother and father plus what he learns from his environment, his education.

Every child carries in his inherited make-up many qualities. Which ones are to predominate in his future life will depend largely on his surroundings, the food and care he gets, the persons he learns to imitate, the ideals and standards of his home.

As soon as the baby is born he begins to live in the surroundings which his parents have provided. Immediately he begins to learn by his experiences. From the hour of birth he learns from everything around him.

At first only the physical needs of the baby are obvious, but the parents must remember that the character building of their child is closely tied up in the way his physical needs are met. His future mental health, as well as his physical health, will depend largely on the habits he builds during the first year of life, especially the early months. Some of these habits can be started as soon as the baby is born.

The care of a baby is a great responsibility but it can be carried successfully if the parents regularly seek the advice of a physician trained in the care of infants, and if they follow the simple rules for general care as promoted by the county nurse, Miss Alice Edna Lockwood. These rules are the result of the experience of physicians over many years and are offered as a help to parents in the care of young babies.

Sometimes a young mother has so much advice from earnest and well-meaning friends that she is bewildered. Their advice may be good, but sometimes the advice of one friend conflicts with that of another. The baby should not be experimented upon with first one mode of care and then another, in accordance with the various opinions offered. The doctor should be the mother's guide.

Baby care is a great art. It is the most important task any woman ever undertakes. She should apply to this work the same diligence, intelligence, and sustained effort that she would give to the most exacting profession.

Objectives in School Sanitation

Heating and Ventilation

I. There should be a thermometer to record temperature in every classroom. The effort should be made to have the children keep a record of temperature week by week. Thus any decided variation above or below 68 degrees Fahrenheit may be noted.

II. The foul air ventilators provided with the jacketed stoves should be used for that purpose and not nailed shut.

III. Window boards or deflectors, easily made by the children themselves, should be provided wherever the ventilating system connected with the jacketed stoves proves inadequate.

1. The idea of using such boards is that the air shall be shunted upward to avoid creating a draft and to help provide a more favorable air mixture in the room.

2. Window boards may be made of various materials: board, weather stripping and muslin, or of beaver board.

Seating and Lighting

I. There should be at least five or six adjustable seats in every classroom. Thus the development of posture defects in undersized or oversized youngsters may be prevented.

II. Windows in the school building should be properly placed at the left. Lighting from the left helps to conserve the children's eyesight. This provision is to do away with the problem of cross lights which result from a right and left exposure. A left and rear exposure is all right for the children, but is a little hard on the teacher.

III. Every child should be given to help prevent eye strain.

1. Walls and ceiling should be painted a light color, tan, light grey, light blue or light green.

2. Window shades should be of a light color.

3. Artificial lighting should be provided for dark days.

4. Where there is a right and left exposure, window blinds which are controlled from the center should be used. This type enables the teacher to make the proper adjustment.

Playground

I. An adequate space for the children to play should be provided.

II. This area should be free from weeds, small shrubs and brush.
III. This area should be well drained so that it is in playable condition most of the time.
IV. In the play area the ground should be graded.

Of unusual interest to all lovers of music is the announcement that the annual Top O' Michigan choir contest will be held this year at formerly in the Gaylord city auditorium on Friday, November 10, beginning promptly at 9:30 a. m. Already six entries have been received and three or four more are expected which will make this contest one of the most interesting thus far held.

Due to the generosity of R. E. Olds, Lansing, Mich., $150.00 in cash prizes is offered to the contestants as follows: first place, $50.00; second place, $35.00; third place, $25.00; fourth place, $15.00; fifth place, $10.00; sixth place, $10.00; and seventh place, $5.00. This certainly will make a contest that will attract the best efforts from many choirs. Each choir will render two numbers, the first to be "Thanks Be to God" and the second number, any selection of sacred music the group wishes to make. The contest will be judged by representatives of the music department, Michigan State college.

In past years this contest has been one of the big features of the annual Top O' Michigan Potato and Apple show. The entire public is cordially invited to hear the splendid choir organizations that are entered from all sections of northern Michigan. The following choirs have already entered the contest: Kingsley M. E. choir from Kingsley, Bethany Lutheran choir from Northport, M. E. church choir from Gladwin, Congregational choir from Northport, Sears community chorus from Sears, and the young people's choir from Bellaire. UNION ARMISTICE SERVICE
SUNDAY EVENING

Religious Societies Will Join in United Observance

Civil, moral and religious interests receive a united consideration in Charlevoix each year in a Sunday service on Armistice day.

For several years this has been sponsored by the churches and attended by the American Legion and the general public. It is a patriotic meeting very well worth while. Most fraternal bodies have some Sunday when they attend church together and the season of Armistice day is very appropriate for the Legion. It is also very advisable that the whole city consider the patriotic issues of the day, not only in a review of the past, but in a consideration of the various forms of a genuine and serious warfare, that confronts us as a nation.

The Legion particularly, and the public generally, are urged to attend this service next Sunday at 7:30 o'clock in the Methodist church. The Rev. W. H. Rauch will deliver the address, Topic, "The Dream Divine."

LEGION ACTIVITIES

Leslie T. Shapton post No. 226 is the only post in this district, comprising fifteen posts and taking in a territory of nine counties, that has sent in any 1934 memberships to state headquarters. The post has six members on record at Detroit and twelve more that have not as yet been sent in.

The post, at its meeting Tuesday night, reluctantly decided not to hold the Keno turkey party, scheduled for November 28th, nor the get-together rally with the Auxiliary which was planned to follow the hunting season. Reason—present distressing local economic conditions.

The post is considering moving into the basement of the Legion home for the winter to save fuel and lights. Ways and means of accomplishing this are still under discussion.

This post is joining in a resolution to be presented to Governor Comstock by the posts of the state, offering the support of the Legion to any feasible plan for continuing the public schools in operation and paying teachers (especially in the rural districts) better than the starvation wages they are now receiving, and asking for a special session of the state legislature to determine the amount of money available for school purposes so that the school boards of the state will know what they can do.

The post has a brand new member who served with the Canadian railway troops during the World war as a locomotive engineer. He is Frank Bailey Hartwell, now of Detour, Michigan, who used to live here.

BURSTING wheat bins pictured above indicate how the carryover of wheat in the United States has increased since 1925. From 1929 to 1932 the carryover was about normal and a bin or grain elevator capacity of slightly more than 100 million bushels was sufficient for supplies from year to year. Since 1929 the carryover in the United States has increased rapidly. In 1929 it was nearly 250 million bushels. In 1930 it was nearly 300 million bushels. It was over 300 million bushels in 1931 and in 1932 it reached a new peak of more than 350 million bushels. Secretary Wallace has estimated that even with our short crop this year, the carryover will still be above normal a year from now because of the present large carryover, the lack of export demand and reduced feeding and, unless something is done to check it, the carryover is likely to jump again to around 350 million bushels in 1935.

Field Director Reagan Tells His Workers That They Dare Not Fail In Their Task

Charlevoix county's new welfare relief commission, composed of J. M. Foster, Charlevoix, Albert Freiberg, East Jordan, and Dr. Guy C. Conkle of Boyne City, held its organization meeting in the city council chambers Tuesday evening, November 14th. Among those present were the mayors of Charlevoix and East Jordan, the chairman of the county highway commission, the county highway engineer, the chairman of the county board of supervisors, one of the present commissioners of the poor and one ex-commissioner, and the county clerk.

Mr. Foster, chairman pro tem of the new welfare body, opened the meeting and then turned it over to F. E. Reagan, district field representative of the state welfare commission, who proceeded to outline the work that the new welfare board will have to undertake and to give the commissioners and the cooperating county officials their preliminary instructions.

Mr. Reagan impressed upon his auditors from the outset of his discussion the fact that the situation facing them is one of the gravest and most significant that has ever confronted any body of public officials in this or any other community. The recipients of the aid which will be extended through the new welfare set-up, he pointed out, were for the most part people of considerable intelligence who, until this crisis overtook them, had been independent and self supporting, who had had necessities, comforts and some luxuries and recognized clearly their inherent right to them. The attitude of the commission must not be in any sense that of an agency distributing a dole or administering charity, but rather that of a merchant selling goods over a counter. All the way through his remarks, he stressed the fact that the commission and its workers must be ever conscious of the fact that they are dealing with human beings. He marked clearly the distinction between the emergency relief to be afforded by the new welfare set-up, especially as respects the work to be furnished, and any form of mere unemployment measures. It was not the function of the commission, he warned, to create jobs for anyone or to supplant the duties and prerogatives of any already existing public agency. He outlined definitely the field of operation peculiar to each of the three official county units which are, however, expected to co-operate closely in this work—the board of supervisors and poor commission working under them being charged with hospitalization and the conduct of the county infirmary, the judge of probate controlling mothers' pensions and the welfare commission left with the problems of providing work projects in co-operation with the county highway commission and the distribution of direct relief in the shape of fuel, money or commodities.

As respects the actual working set-up, Mr. Reagan stated that all details would be handled through the welfare director and his clerk. All orders for relief in the shape of groceries, clothing or fuel will pass through the director's office, the clerk keeping the records and handling the disbursements.

BUSINESS PLACES ON NEW HOUR SCHEDULE FOR WINTER MONTHS

Practically all Charlevoix business places will operate during the balance of the winter on a uniform schedule of opening and closing hours.

A petition circulated by Arthur Bergeson has met with unanimous approval of local merchants. The new schedule, which goes into effect Thursday, November 16th sets the open hours on week-days from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Hours on Saturday will be the same with exception that the closing will be 9 p. m. instead of 5 p. m.

The NRA has no bearing upon the schedule adopted. It is merely an agreement by owners of business places, aimed primarily at economy.

FARMERS BRAND SALES TAX AS DISCRIMINATE

Farm Bureau Seeks Income Tax and Condemns Old Age Pension

Resolutions condemning the state board of tax administration for not exempting farmers from the three per cent sales tax and urging the repeal of the head tax for financing old age pensions, were presented to the sixteenth annual convention of the Michigan State Farm Bureau.

In criticizing the tax board for not exempting the farmer from paying the sales tax, the resolution states that he is "now caught going and coming." "Such double taxation is manifestly unfair and oppressively discriminatory against farmers and should not be tolerated," the resolution reads. "We hold the state administration accountable for the continuance of this gross injustice." The bureau favors a state income tax, money from which would be diverted to support of primary schools.

The head tax for financial support of the old age pensions was termed as "actuarially unsound."

First Announcement of Possible Bank Merger Made by Cong.
Brown at Special Session

Reorganization plans of the Charlevoix County bank were substantially aided Friday by action of the county board of supervisors meeting in special session.

By unanimous vote, the board adopted a resolution authorizing County Treasurer Jos. Wm. Flanders to sign a waiver of fifty per cent of funds impounded in accordance with the reorganization plan which sets aside the "frozen" assets in a trust fund for liquidation.

May Merge Banks
Cong. Prentiss M. Brown, legal representative of the County bank, announced at the meeting that progress had been made Friday on a plan to merge the assets of that institution with those of the Charlevoix State Savings bank, now under a conservator, for reorganization as one banking institution. He stated directors of the two banks had tentatively agreed to the proposal and that the plan would be presented at once to the state banking department for approval. The reorganization, it is understood, would be along plans similar to those followed at the present time by the Charlevoix County bank.

The board heard County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow's report on progress of efforts to relieve the situation created by tie-up of federal emergency relief funds. Meeting Thursday at Lansing with Fred R. Johnson, director of the State Welfare commission, Mr. Bulow was informed that everything legally possible would be done to advance funds to take care of immediate needs. The county has approximately $4,000 in checks drawn on the welfare funds out at the present time.

A resolution of condolence was adopted and sent to Mrs. Archie Alcock, whose husband, a former supervisor, was buried Friday afternoon.

The board adjourned its session to call of the chairman without taking up the matter of providing funds for registration for the old age pension head tax as was anticipated.

COMMERCIAL BODY WILL HOLD MEETING

Election of Officers, Reports and A Banquet Are Principal Features

The Charlevoix Association of Commerce will hold its annual meeting at the I. O. O. F. hall Thursday evening, November 23rd, the session commencing with a banquet served by the past noble grand of the local Rebekah lodge, at 6:30 o'clock.

At this meeting, the secretary-treasurer and the chairman of committees will report, new officers for the ensuing year will be elected and plans will be formulated for the future activities of the association.

In view of the present critical economic condition and its probable effects upon the summer resort business, it is imperative that all those interested in the welfare of the community—and who is not?—shall attend and lend their advice and support.

MEMBERSHIP OUES HELP RED CROSS

WORK OF MERCY POSSIBLE ONLY BY THIS MEANS

Roll Call in Charlevoix Opened Saturday and Will Continue for Two Weeks

"The American Red Cross, local and national, operates entirely on the income derived from memberships of the people of the United States." This statement was made by Mrs. Adah Beeman, chairman of the Charlevoix chapter of the American Red Cross, who has charge of the local campaign which opened Saturday. This chapter is able to serve the community as it does by reason of the response each year during the Roll Call.

Help With Food and Clothing
Individual membership provides the motive power behind all the programs of the organization. The generous response of the American people in past years made it possible for Red Cross to conduct the immense distribution of farm board wheat and cotton. This single operation was carried on at a cost of $685,000 to the organization. Act of Congress making these farm board commodities available for distribution did not provide funds or means of paying for overhead costs. The problem was met and handled, Red Cross taking eighty-five million bushels of wheat and eight hundred thousand bales of cotton in storage at hundreds of plants in the United States, converting them into flour, cloth and clothing and distributing them to the needy and distressed in practically every community in the country.

Relief In Disaster
In its far-reaching disaster relief work, the Red Cross is enabled to give necessary help only because it has the confidence of the American people and because millions enroll each year as members. In the case of the southern California earthquake last March Red Cross supplied dozens of workers and one hundred thousand dollars toward the fund needed to care for the injured and their families, including many orphans of the disaster, and the other necessary assistance to the victims. Without the support of the public through memberships enrolled each year, the work would have been necessarily limited to what it was possible to do with funds voluntarily contributed for the disaster.

"There are several types of memberships to be had," the chapter head explained. "The annual membership is $1, but any individual may take larger memberships with full confidence that the added support given the chapter is needed and most welcome. Only fifty cents of the membership fee goes to the national organization. In the case of a five, or ten, or twenty-five dollar membership, the money all stays here to be used locally, except the fifty cents which goes to the National Red Cross."

Started November 11
"Our Roll Call in Charlevoix was launched on November 11, Armistice day, and during the following two weeks every adult in the city will be invited to join the Red Cross," Mrs. Beeman stated. "November 24 and 25 are set for the local membership drive, with headquarters at the Charlevoix County bank."

1933 DEER SEASON OPENS WITH SNOW

IDEAL HUNTING CONDITIONS PREVAILED TODAY

Charlevoix's Delegation Equal to That of Former Years—No Changes In Laws

The 1933 Michigan deer season opened this morning under similar conditions that have prevailed for several years. Last week end snow fell in the upper and lower peninsula to the depth of from 10 to 14 inches. Sunday's change of temperature, ending in rain and sleet, has resulted in icy roads and a hard crust on the snow. The hunter who has the patience to sit on a well chosen run-way will stand a chance of shooting his buck, but will be out of luck if he attempts to travel about.

No changes of consequence have been made in the hunting regulations for 1933. Lowering of the license fee from $3.50 to $2.25 is probably the most welcome change. The period runs from November 15 to 30, inclusive. The kill is limited to one male deer with antlers at least three inches above the scalp. In addition to one buck the hunter is also privileged to kill one black bear.

Charlevoix will have its usual large quota of hunters in the woods. Local parties and their location are as follows:

Frank F. Bird, Frank Courier, Floyd Brown and Ted Coblenz of Charlevoix, Kit Carson of East Jordan, and H. G. Bird of Traverse City, are on the Little Two Heart river northeast of Newberry.

A. L. Fitch, Floyd Ikens, C. W. Bonney, A. J. Hamilton, George Hanson and E. J. Kibbe in the Porcupine Mountain district in Ontonagon county.

Harold Tousley, Ted Gravelin, George Meggison and Matt Routley are located on Black river east of Vanderbilt. In this territory are also Carl Tousley, this city, and Raymond Murphy and Max Gilbert of East Jordan; John Curtis, Charles Curtis and Raymond Newland, all this city; and numerous others.

Mr. and Mrs. Milo Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Wilson, Bernie Ward, Oscar Ward and Sander Halverson are hunting north of Gladstone in Dickinson county.

Floyd Black, Elmer Ingalls, J. M. Ingalls, Bert Elliott and the Carpenter brothers from Ellsworth are hunting in Schoolcraft county.

Several local parties are located in the Lake Gogebic region in Ontonagon county. They are Arthur Staley, Orville Bennett, George Staley and Lyle Jones in one group; Bonnie Nickerson, Albert Staley, Sterling Nickerson and George W. Weaver, the latter of Kingsley; Harry Gregory and Gene Beards; and a party composed of Oscar Nelson and Emory D. Gimble, this city, Holmer Nelson of Pontiac, Fred Carl of Lansing, and Harry McLeod of Detroit.

The Heire party, composed of Charles, Clarence and Bill Heire, Harold Withers, Clarence B. Meggison, this city, and Lester Bedell of Flint, are located north of Dick.

Dar F. Meech joins the Mohrman party on the Taquamenon river; Carl Kohler hunts north of Seelye with a Central Lake party; Charles Belling and Lawrence Parmelee are located south of Onaway; D. E. Ingalls, Eugene Lewis and the former's son, Glenn Ingalls of Grand

WHY DID SEWAGE PROPOSAL LOSE?

FOLLOWING QUESTIONS PROBABLY SHOW REASON

Public Evidently Not Informed Regarding Details—Questions Answered Briefly

A petition, requesting the city council to re-submit the sewage disposal proposition to the voters again, is being distributed by Leo Powers. Over seventy-five signatures had been procured Monday.

While circulating the petition, Mr. Powers made it a point to note objections of the persons whom he visited in order that the questions might be answered. The objections, some twenty in number, probably show why the proposition was defeated last Wednesday.

Below we are listing the objections and are also in a brief manner, answering them.

Q.—Does the U. S. grant need to be paid back?

A.—No. The grant is given outright by the government for unemployment relief and need not be repaid.

Q.—Will the real estate tax be raised?

A.—No. The bonds to finance the proposition are revenue bonds, payable over a long period of years and collectable through revenue of the water department. No additional real estate tax will be assessed.

Q.—Are Belvedere and Chicago Club included in disposal system?

A.—The Belvedere Club is included and the Chicago Club will be requested to connect with city sewers.

Q.—That the engineers will get all the money and very little common labor will be used.

A.—Contracts let under the National Recovery Act cover this question by specifying that all possible labor from the community interested must be used, setting scale of wages, etc., also specifying all domestic materials possible must be used by the contractor. It is estimated $30,000 will be expended for labor alone, not considering material purchased locally.

Q.—That nothing can be done this year due to delay.

A.—This is quite true if the proposition is voted down again. City officials have acted as quickly as preliminary details could be taken care of. It was necessary for taxpayers to sanction the proposition before federal approval could be obtained. Also federal approval must be made by January 1, 1934, in order to receive grant.

Q.—That out-of-state engineers have job tied up?

A.—Positively no contract has been let.

Q.—That mayor and council are getting graft.

A.—The mayor and council are striving to provide employment for men in this city without work. This matter is one of principle and we should have better faith in our city administration.

Q.—The bond issue is on the whole city and not just on the property.

A.—As previously stated, the bonds are revenue bonds, collectable from proceeds of the water department and not upon real estate.

Q.—The sewage disposal is needed only two months.

A.—This question is foolish. The city uses the sewers 12 months in every year.

Q.—A number of voters did not vote because the polls closed at 5 o'clock.

PRACTICE OPENS FOR BASKETBALL

LARGE GROUP REPORT FOR INITIAL SESSION

Four Veterans Available for Team
This Year—Schedule of Eleven Games Arranged

With one of the most successful football records in many years, now standing out prominently in the athletic files of Charlevoix high school, preparation was started this week for the 1933-34 basketball season which opens in about three weeks.

Whether the basketball record will equal the football achievement still remains to be seen, but if it should local fans would not look upon it as unusual. Since 1930 Charlevoix has won one district and two regional titles and twice went to the semifinals of the state tournament. Last year the Kippen held runner-up position in the Tip-of-Michigan class C conference after losing their championship to the powerful Boyne City team.

Coach Kipke will this year have the pick of a large field of candidates which is not without experienced players from last season's team around which he will probably build his squad. Listed in the group of veterans are Lyle Anee, last year's center; Emerald Chew, two years a forward; "Bud" Potter, forward, and Jack Foster, guard. Joe Smith, perhaps one of the most outstanding local basketball stars in recent years, was lost by graduation, along with Kirby, another veteran.

In addition to the four regulars listed, Coach Kipke has a large list of players from last year's second team, including Charles Carey, Steve Sarno, Bob Pearl, Marquis Roen, Bob Emery, Keith Nickerson, John Kerechak, Drew Young and several others.

Charlevoix will play a schedule of eleven games, opening with Traverse City on December 8th, unless a previous home tilt with some nearby class D school is arranged as a pre-schedule tilt. Following is the schedule:

Dec. 8—Traverse City here.
Dec. 13—Petoskey here.
Dec. 27—Petoskey there.
Jan. 4—Boyne City there.
Jan. 12—Harbor Springs there.
Jan. 19—Traverse City here.
Jan. 26—Mancelona here.
Feb. 2—Boyne City here.
Feb. 9—East Jordan there.
Feb. 16—Harbor Springs here.
Feb. 23—East Jordan here.

MICHIGAN GETS PRE- PARED FOR REPEAL

Special Session to Draft Legislation
November 22nd

Michigan will be ready to legalize the sale of hard liquors as soon as the 18th amendment is completed early in December unless there are unexpected legislative delays. Governor Comstock said recently.

The executive has called the legislature into special session on November 22 and the legislative council is now working on the liquor measure which will be submitted. In setting the date for the session, Comstock was promised that a bill could be prepared within the next two weeks.

The penalty of being conspicuous is that your mistakes are also conspicuous.

TAXPAYERS DEFEAT SEWAGE DISPOSAL BY MARGIN 10 VOTES

Charlevoix taxpayers, voting at a special election last Wednesday, defeated the city council proposal to issue revenue bonds to finance a sewage treatment system. The margin of defeat was approximately 10 votes.

Despite the importance of the issue, only about two-thirds of the qualified voters exercised their franchise at the polls. A total of 319 votes were cast, 178 affirmative, 135 negative and 6 spoiled. The margin of majority was 43 votes, lacking about ten of the necessary three-fifths needed to carry.

The vote by wards was as follows:
First Ward—Yes 59, No 57.
Second Ward—Yes 83, No 50.
Third Ward—Yes 36, No 28.

CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45. First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, November 19, is "Soul and Body."

"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 12th.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Ps. 66:8,9): "O bless our God, ye people, and make the voice of his praise to be heard: Which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved."

Boy Actor Realizes Ambition to Appear in Film With Cagney

It took young Frankie Darro two years of maneuvering around Hollywood to finally accomplish his most cherished wish; but when he did it, he did it with a bang.

Two years ago, Frankie had a good part in "The Public Enemy," the picture which suddenly raised James Cagney to stardom. Frankie and Cagney met and became pals, but they did not work in any scenes together.

Since then, Frankie has been wishing to play in another picture with Cagney. Being sixteen years old, energetic and impressionable Frankie conceived a great deal of hero worship for Cagney whom he patterns after in "The Mayor of Hell."

His wish was realized when he won the most important boy role in Cagney's latest Warner Bros. picture, "The Mayor of Hell," which comes to the Palace theatre Saturday and Sunday, the bulk of action of which revolves around a reform school operating under such a system of cruelties as to merit the title of "Hell."

This is the GOLDEN AGE

OUR time is the greatest the world has ever seen. We have more to be happy with. We have better things, greater variety, keener comforts for our choosing, more conveniences to help us in our work, more things that elevate and entertain.

This is the day of better homes, better clothing, better babies, better health, better everything. Compare any phase of our life with that of years ago and you will find that it is better.

And what is the instrument that has made, and is making these better things possible? Advertising!

Advertising is the news of all the looms, all the furnaces, all the laboratories, all the shops, all the stores that are working, planning and building for you.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once would have been worth a king's ransom, are yours at little cost. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, manufacturer against manufacturer, for your benefit. This competition brings out the best there is in everything for your personal benefit.

You wouldn't know about many boons of modern life except through advertising. That is why you are not taking full advantage of the better things today if you consistently overlook the advertisements.

Soap's Washing Power the Important Factor

By RUDY BAKER

Fresh, snowy-white washings—the kind that make the neighbors look and admire—are easier to get than many a woman imagines. Much depends on the quality of the soap you use. Since it's the soap that does the actual cleansing, you'll find it pays to use a good soap rather than a "cheap" one. As one housewife recently put it:

"I never thought that the kind of soap I put into my tub mattered very much. Yet I used to rub and rub, and still my clothes always looked dingy. Then I found that it was wiser to be fancy and get real quality for my soap money. After that, I had marvelous results."

Quality, of course, does not mean size or form or color. It means the washing power of the cleansing agents in a soap—the ability to pitch right in and get out the dirt—without hard rubbing and without harm to the fabric.

If your soap is made of fine ingredients, it doesn't matter what form it is. And it's well to remember that thorough cleanliness—not the color of soap—makes clothes white.

ROADSIDE MARKETING

By T. J. Delahery

CLEAR CIDER MORE PROFITABLE

A PROFIT of at least $10 could be added to the income from the two gallons of apple cider which is made on the average farm if the fruit juice was clarified.

The truth of this statement is borne out in the experience of farmers who have been using the homemade filtering device recently developed in Michigan. The filterer, costing little more than $1 to make, has revolutionized the sales of apple cider wherever the clear and clarified juice has been offered the public.

College experts and fruit growers feel that, with clear apple juice possible for every farmer to make, and the consumer responding as they have when it has been placed on sale at roadside markets, retail stores and restaurants, there is an opportunity for greatly increasing the consumption of this pure fruit beverage.

While clear cider is not a new drink from a commercial standpoint, farm production has been limited to the larger orchards because of the cost of machinery. The homemade device for producing quality apple cider solves the farmer, who can combine the public or retail outlets, a chance to turn low grade fruit into a new profit.

Experiments with consumer demand show that apples which were otherwise unmarketable or saleable for more than 10 to 15 cents a bushel, grossed 30 cents to $1.50 a bushel in cider, basing the yield on 3½ gallons to the bushel of apples. And the cost of producing the clear cider is around 10 cents a gallon, everything considered.

Clear cider is easy to make. Apples are pressed in the usual manner and the juice treated with a chemical called pectinol. It is an enzyme which breaks down the colloidal matter or pulp. The mixture is allowed to remain overnight, the exact time depending upon the temperature, ripeness of the apples and the amount of pectinol used. The process can be speeded up or retarded, as desired.

Shortly before the cider is placed in the supply tank, a filtering agent called hylo is added. It is an absorbing agent like Spanish clay and other such materials, which catches the sediment and permits the clear juice to flow.

The filtering device consists of a barrel, five feet of garden hose, a muslin tube inside of a cylinder of copper fly screen. The hylo settles in the muslin tube and the juice from the barrel or supply tank, boiled five to six feet, flows through it. The tube, by the way, is rested in a wooden trough somewhat similar to that used for feeding hogs.

The accompanying sketch shows the filterer. Everything, including the barrel or tank, unless it is bought new, should not cost much more than $1, and it will last a lifetime. The device and parts should be thoroughly cleaned after use.

Farmers who have been making and selling clear cider report an unusual demand, some marketing 100 gallons a day at 50 to 75 cents a gallon, with ordinary cider, on adjoining farms and roadside markets, finding slow sale even at 25 cents a gallon. Where both clear and ordinary cider have been offered, consumers have expressed an exclusive desire for the clear juice, even though it costs more.

Something new in farm products, processing clear cider has an advertising advantage. Consumers are anxious to see how it is made, and progressive producers have been making it a practice to do the job in public and on certain days which are announced before hand, to which the public are invited.

Farmers who have no direct selling opportunities have found city retailers willing to handle and display clear cider where they will not bother with the ordinary fruit juice. And where clear cider has been placed in restaurants to get public reaction, sales not only have been larger but the price higher. In one restaurant, prices mistook it for tea because of its clearness.

In addition to clarifying apple cider, the new homemade device can be used on other fruit juices, kraut juice, and in making vinegar, all products which consumers will buy direct from the farmer.

Peas From Tut's Tomb Grow

After 3,275 years, a handful of peas from the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen sprouted. They were planted by one of the excavators in his home town in Smatland, Sweden. Two of these peas produced a crop of 202 seeds in well-tilled pods.

Gold Coins Worth Far More Than Face Value

Uncle Sam's call for gold coin has brought to public recognition a lot of facts concerning the striking of gold pieces in the United States that heretofore were known only by enthusiasts.

President Roosevelt's appeal, for order, that all gold coin and certificates must be turned in resulted in the recapture by the federal treasury of some $300,000,000 in those moneys, and among the actual gold there have made their appearance a lot of pieces which, by equity, and perhaps even by law, the government has no right to. This we should explain, for the reason that a great many such coins, that the public may have been wheeled into trading in, have a value far in excess of that which the government pays for them.

These are coin curiosities that have acquired far above their face or gold weight worth. For instance, some have presented for redemption examples of the old California gold 25-cent pieces, mere flecks of gold scarcely thick enough to hold the stamp mark. And yet certain of these are valued by coin collectors at not 25 cents, but that many dollars. And, at the other extreme in size, is the so-called California slug, a piece of polygonal outline containing gold in the value of $50. This coin has been known to sell as a numismatic curiosity for $1,000.

And a similar, superlative is given in the long-out-of-circulation $3 gold piece. There is a year going round that a collector once offered $75,000 for a double eagle of 1891, of which only a single one was minted. We do not vouch for the story, but our guess is that if it is true the individual who has that piece in hoarding would be most unlikely to turn it up to the treasury for 50 dollars, even if the officials got wind of its existence.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

TO MOTHERS whose children won't
EAT

Nature knows best. Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bluish yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system. California Syrup of Figs is all the "medicine" they require.

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children seem to need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and avoid colds and sluggish spells.

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The very next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

The promises made by the bottlers of California Syrup of Figs are true, and it will do the same for you, if it's genuine CALIFORNIA. Don't accept substitutes.

Monte Carlo is one of the three communes (corresponding to United States townships) of the sovereign principality of Monaco. Monaco is situated on the Mediterranean coast nine miles from Nice, and is bounded on all sides by France. It was annexed to France in 1793, but its independence was restored in 1814 by the treaty of Paris. It has been under French protection since 1829, after having been occupied by Sardinia. The tiny principality has a population of 22,000 and an area of eight square miles. Francella Blanc of Homburg obtained the gambling concession in 1851, and this passed into the hands of a company which has the concession until 1947.

Dog Gone!

By GENEVRA COOK

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service

MR. MOONEY of Mooseville stood in the door of his cabin in the woods which covered the side of Mooseville mountain, peering anxiously at a folded copy of a newspaper which he held in a leathery brown hand.

LOST: Big tan dog resembling hound. Name: Floppy-ear. Reward: $10.00. P. O. Box 321, Mooseville.

His steps made slightly uncertain by years and rheumatism, Mr. Mooney limped across the cabin, and opened the door into the woods.

"Come here, Floppy-ear!"

The big tan dog ambled toward him. Mr. Mooney regarded her speculatively. "Now if those people that put that air notice in the paper sees my sign I stick up in the post office, I guess likely your folks'll be right along, ma'am. Some of those summer folks up to the lake, most likely."

Don't know no better'n to go wanderin' all over the mountain. At the sound of a car laboring noisily up the steep hill, he closed the weathered door upon the dog, and bobbed outside. The car was an old one painted blue and gold, and the driver was a fair-haired slim girl, with blue eyes to match her sweater and beret. She left the car at the end of the road out past the thick trees clustered around the edge of the clearing, and came running across the stony field to the cabin.

"Hello," she called. "Have you got Floppy-ear?" She came up to him, breathless. "Oh, please, is she here? I've looked everywhere!"

There was the sound of harking from behind the wood shed door. "Oh, she is here! Here's the reward." She thrust into the tough wrinkled right hand of Mr. Mooney a crisp, new ten dollar bill.

Suddenly there was a honk! honk! from the direction of the car. "Oh, whoever is blowing the horn of my car? I came up alone! Wait!" And she was gone, leaving Mr. Mooney looking after her, his mouth still opened to speak.

"I beg your pardon, sir?" Mr. Mooney gave a violent start. There at his side was a tall, good-looking youth with dark hair.

"I came to claim my dog, sir. You have her here, I think—in the shed, perhaps?" With three long strides, he was past the astonished Mr. Mooney and had opened the door of the shed. The dog came bounding out to him, jumping at his legs, exhibiting every sign of joy and recognition.

"Here," smiled the young man. "Here is the reward! Thank you, sir!" He thrust into the left hand of Mr. Mooney a neatly folded ten dollar bill. "Come, Floppy-ear!" he called, and started across the field.

Before he had gone two steps the girl was facing him, her eyes flashing. Without speaking to him, she turned scornfully away. "Come, Floppy-ear!" she called. And the dog came running to her, jumping, barking, with joy.

—Mr. Mooney, because he was near-sighted, had to move nearer to them in order to puzzle it out. He had to move nearer still, because he was a little hard of hearing. But neither of them noticed him at all.

"You don't want that dog," the man was saying in an even, firm voice, that somehow held a note of bitterness. "Come here, Floppy-ear." The dog came.

"You don't value a gift when you don't care anything for the giver." "I do care for the giver—I mean, I—did—I mean—"

The young man's voice became softer, and Mr. Mooney moved a little nearer. "Just what do you mean, Jocelyn?"

"I—I mean what I said—Gerald." Mr. Mooney was getting nervous. He didn't like to have talks kissing right in front of his cabin. It wasn't respectable. He cleared his throat as loud as he could, but no one paid any attention. Then he tried something else.

"Come here, Floppy-ear," he called. The dog came.

The man was taking something out of his pocket. "And you'll wear my ring again, Jocelyn?" he was saying, and slipping it sparkling in the sunlight, on her slim white finger.

Together they turned and smiled for a moment at the leathery-brown old man who was staring at them from the yard. Together they called "Come here, Floppy-ear!" The dog went.

Mr. Mooney stood in the door of his cabin and watched them walk, close, down across the stony field, the dog running joyfully at their heels. He looked down at the two ten dollar bills, one in each hand.

"Doggone!" said Mr. Mooney.

CHANCE TO GO "BACK TO SOIL"

Uncle Sam Disposing of His Back Yard.

If the people are going back to the soil, it can also be said that Uncle Sam is giving the public domain back to the people. All fences are being removed and his back yard is open again.

A new effort is being made to redistribute overbalance of population in industrial centers.

One of the largest sections of vacant acreage is in the Golden state—15,712,567 acres.

Nevada seems to have the largest open territory—51,221,334. Utah still has 25,197,820 acres. Arizona, New Mexico, Oregon, Wyoming and other western states still have vast areas of unpossessed soil. Florida is the only eastern state with any possibilities for the homesteader—32,303 acres.

There need be no great hurry about packing up and rushing off to seize this land either in the West or East, however. A great deal of it is without water other than rainfall—and the rains are apt to be scarce. A lot is in the form of mountain and desert and some is swamp land. Most of the desirable territory is taken.

Uncle Sam has already disposed of 250,000,000 acres to homesteaders, 400,000,000 acres in sales and about 140,000,000 to railroads, highways and canals. And his grants to states cover 181,000,000 acres.

He started out with 1,442,200,320 acres of unoccupied land in the beginning. This has shrunk to 173,319,246 acres. This does not include 35,184,712 acres withdrawn for various purposes and 135,952,918 acres in national forests, National parks and monuments take up 6,231,186 acres more, and 56,670,535 acres are still in Indian reservations.—Los Angeles Times.

The Baldheaded Row

Hitherto the idea has prevailed that baldness is a purely physical defect. Millions of human beings have in good faith attempted to remedy the trouble on that basis, having been solemnly assured by the experts that the cause was wholly physical. We have supposed that Socrates, Cleopatra, Shakespeare and other famous baldheads of history became so through some weakness of the hair roots or the lack of some nutritive quality in the scalp. Are we now to assume that they and thousands of other distinguished men lost their hair merely through overmuch worry about financial matters?—Washington Star.

MEDICAL ADVICE

If you want to
... keep the bowel action regular and comfortable
... make constipated spells as rare as colds
... avoid danger of bowel strain
—use a liquid laxative

Can constipation be overcome?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!"

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is stated plainly on the label; fresh herbs, pure pepsin, active senna.

Its very taste tells you syrup pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delicate action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. Drug stores have it ready for use, in big bottles.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the average person's bowels just as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

Why Hospitals use a liquid laxative

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will it irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains a doubtful drug, don't take it. If you

THE TEST:

This test has proved to many men and women that their trouble was not "weak bowels," but strong cathartics!

First: select a properly prepared liquid laxative. Second: Take the dose you find suited to your system. Third: gradually reduce the dose until bowels are moving of their own accord.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the highest standing among liquid laxatives, and is the one generally used.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Holding out hope of assistance to aged people in distress is a serious matter. Any unfilled promise in this respect is too ghastly for contemplation. Recently there has been widespread criticism of the old age pension law which is now a part of our welfare code for the relief of those who, in the evening of life, find themselves in need of help. Criticism of the new law is not based upon its intent, but upon the provisions with which it is surrounded. It is being openly charged that while vast sums will be collected under the head tax, but few of our old people will actually be benefited. Many believe that the cost of administering the law will be excessive. Perhaps it is too early to know if these criticisms and complaints are well founded. That will take time. For the sake of the good name of Michigan we hope there will never come a time when it can be openly proven that somebody has been guilty of playing politics with human misery.

GOING TOO FAR

Now it is the manufacturers who are protesting about too much governmental interference in private business. They profess to see in the NRA codes a condition arising that will take from them the right to direct their own affairs. When the government was entering the field of transportation, utilities, railroads and banking, there was but little complaint heard from our industrial leaders. It was not their ox that was being gored. They now realize that if the drift to government regulation continues, private initiative and individualism will become a negative part of national progress. Their position is well taken. The record of government in business is a record of continued failure. It has yet to demonstrate its ability to manage its own affairs—the task of government.

Dissolving Indebtedness

THE subject of debt looms large on the mental horizon of today. Quite apart from the manifold questions bound up with the consideration of war debts, those sad legacies of strife which so greatly concern the nations at this time, there remains the debt that many individuals are facing a situation in which their assets seem inadequate to meet the liabilities they have incurred. Often, as a result of depreciated currencies, they see the value of their possessions continually diminishing and begin to question the stability of their once accepted as a fixed standard.

It is helpful to examine Jesus' utterances on debt in the light which Christian Science throws upon them. The first mention occurs in the prayer which he gave to his disciples in response to their request that he should teach them to pray. The Master's words, "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors," are wonderfully illuminated by the spiritual interpretation which Mary Baker Eddy has given them in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 17). "And Love is reflected in love."

Love, then, is the primary solution of this question of debt—the love of God for his children reflected by them to one another. Jesus evidently saw the need of amplifying this subject in a way that would be easily understood by his hearers, for he later expounded it by means of a parable. He told them of a servant who owed a vast sum which he was apparently unable to pay. At his earnest request, however, his lord forgave him this debt. We read that this servant then went out, and finding a fellow servant who owed him a comparatively small amount "took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest." And disregarding the debtor's plea for patience, he cast him into prison. Their lord, however, became cognizant of the situation and withdrew his pardon, requiring the creditor to pay his own debt.

It is interesting to notice that neither of these debtors protested his inability to pay or asked for the amount to be reduced. They both prayed the creditor for patience, promising to pay the full amount owing. In the first case it is recorded that his lord had compassion on the servant and forgave him his debt, while in the second the creditor took his fellow servant by the throat, or, metaphorically speaking, established such "a strangle hold" upon him as to render it impossible for him to free himself. It is clear that the mental qualities of patience and compassion extended to one who is in difficulties reassure and help him to win his freedom while a cruel and unmerciful attitude of thought only tightens his bonds.

ernment. It is about time that we called a halt to this attempt at socialization of our industrial, financial and mercantile institutions. Even staunch supporters of the NRA plan for national recovery believe there is such a thing as the government going too far.

OUR YOUNG PEOPLE

It has been truthfully said that not all heroes are born of war. We have our peace time heroes as well. First among those who are performing a real service to the nation during these troublesome days are those young men and women who go quietly about their work at small wages and without complaint and thus provide for the support of their parental households. These young people accept responsibilities without abusing privilege, cut out many social pleasures and practice self-denial in order to keep the family together and free from want. This kind of self-sacrificing service makes no loud outcry, but nevertheless it reflects golden character of the finest kind. They are deserving of their country's praise.

NEED NOT ANSWER

Old age pension enumerators are abroad in the Commonwealth. They carry with them a questionnaire cleverly disguised as a general census count. There is no law in Michigan that compels a citizen to reveal his private affairs unless he so desires. One need not hesitate in refusing to answer the questions which the questionnaire propounds. That is your inalienable right under the Constitution. For the state to seek information, to which it is not entitled, seems a trifle out of place to say the least.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY HONORING MRS. GEORGE O'BRIEN

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Mrs. Herbert McRoberts the latter part of last week in honor of her mother, Mrs. George O'Brien, whose marriage was a recent event. It was also Mrs. O'Brien's birthday. A delicious luncheon was served, the main feature being a pretty wedding birthday cake made by Mrs. Emory Gimble. The guests departed leaving many useful gifts and wishing Mrs. O'Brien many happy years of married life.

Had Capacity Crowd

A capacity crowd packed the local Methodist church last Sunday evening for the annual Armistice day service. Fine music was provided by the choir and Mr. Gilson Clark, Rev. Ruch introduced the speaker, Rev. Pontius, who spoke from the topic, "The Spiritual Foundation for Peace."

LATE-SEASON CROPS EXCEED EXPECTATION

Favorable Conditions Improved Earlier Outlook for Potatoes

The November 1st estimates of the Michigan Co-operative Crop Reporting Service at Lansing indicate that yields on the late-season crops in this state were generally above earlier expectations. Favorable moisture conditions during September and the absence of killing frosts until late in October were responsible for much of this improvement.

The preliminary estimate of Michigan's 1933 potato production is for a crop of 20,400,000 bushels, approximately 9,500,000 bushels less than that harvested in 1932 and 1,500,000 bushels below the five-year average production, 1926-30.

Favorable weather conditions during September and October were unusually beneficial to beans and the Michigan corn crop was the only grain to show a better than average yield. The apple crop was the largest harvested in nine years.

BUYERS WANT TURKEY TO BE WELL DRESSED

Growers Get Best Prices for Birds Which Attract Eyes of Consumers

Probably the turkey does not care how it is dressed when sent to market but the woman who is going to cook the bird takes a paying interest in that detail, according to the poultry department at Michigan State college, which has planned a series of meetings to show how to dress birds to bring the best prices.

Turkeys are one of the products often personally marketed by their producer so any increase in price which can be obtained by offering better quality poultry is a direct addition to the profit in growing the bird. Methods of dressing turkeys so they make an excellent appearance at the market are no harder than haphazard ways of getting the birds ready for the table.

EAST JORDAN YOUTH KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Robert Darbee, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Darbee of East Jordan, was found by his father about 5:00 p. m. last Wednesday, crushed beneath a boulder on the Eveline Orchards farm and near Mad Lake.

Robert was assisting his father in work at the farm and they were excavating a pit into which it was planned to roll a large rock. Mr. Darbee was engaged at the time elsewhere on the farm and Robert was working alone on the project. Evidently the boulder became dislodged, rolled into the partially-opened excavation, pinning Robert beneath it and crushing out his life. The body from the shoulder down was caught under the rock.

NO PULLMAN ON P. M. RUN AFTER SATURDAY

Extra Service to North Region Has Been Discontinued

The train schedule will remain the same as usual but without sleeper service. There have been many days, official announcement, when the Pullman went south or came north without a single occupant.

SCHOOL MONEY GUARANTEED BY GOV. COMSTOCK

Definite Allocation Is Promised the Schools by January 1st

A definite allocation of funds to relieve the financial distress of the school system at least by January was promised Thursday by Governor Comstock in conference with a 16th congressional district delegation.

He said that unless the legislature assigns revenues collected from the sale of hard liquors to this purpose he will submit the entire question before the first of the year, asking that supplemental revenues be provided.

Told that certain groups are opposed for "moral" reasons to the assignment of liquor revenues to school purposes, he said that the educational interests had better take that and eliminate the chances that an appropriation from the general fund might fall down.

INTERNATIONAL RECORD?

By flying 12,445,000 miles of a total of 13,100,000 miles scheduled during the past calendar year, United Air Lines completed vastly more scheduled mileage this year than any other transport company in the world. It is claimed, on the basis of an international check. The mileage completed was 95 per cent of the total mileage scheduled. Of the 12,445,000 miles flown, more than 9,000,000 were on the coast-to-coast route, said to be the most traveled long-distance route in the world. The 1932 mileage is expected to be exceeded by a large margin this year.

Ease Pain Now In Few Minutes

A Discovery That's Bringing Fast Relief To Millions

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And this is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate. What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

STATE EDUCATION HEAD SPEAKS HERE

DR. PAUL F. VOELKER TO ADDRESS MEETING FRIDAY

Principal Speaker at Annual Fall Meeting of Northwestern School Men's Round Table

One of the most important educational gatherings of the year in northern Michigan will be held here Friday evening, November 17th, when the Northwestern School Men's Round Table convenes for its annual fall meeting.

The Round Table is an association of men teachers, principals, commissioners and superintendents of the northern Michigan region north of Reed City. The group meet twice a year and, deviating from the usual custom of previous years, the banquet next Friday night will be followed by a mass meeting at the gymnasium, to which all teachers and school patrons of the region are invited.

The program will bring to Charlevoix two speakers of prominence in Michigan educational circles. Making his first appearance in northern Michigan since taking office will be Dr. Paul F. Voelker, state superintendent of public instruction. Dr. Stack of Nanton, former president of the Northwestern Round Table and now connected with the rural division of the Michigan department of public instruction, will speak also. Both will talk briefly at the banquet to be held at Hotel Noble preceding the mass meeting. The topic of Dr. Voelker's address will be "The New Deal in Education." Mr. Stack will speak on the topic, "Michigan's Elementary Course of Education."

The Round Table meetings are usually open for men only, but this year, due to the fact many members expressed a desire that more teachers, school board members and patrons might hear Dr. Voelker, the plan for a mass meeting was adopted.

The program at the gymnasium will open at 7:45 o'clock with a concert by the Charlevoix school band. The concert will last until arrival of the speakers from the banquet at approximately 8:30 o'clock.

Arrangements for the meeting are in charge of O. P. North, superintendent of local schools and present president of the Northwestern Round Table. Those planning to attend the banquet are requested to communicate with him so that suitable accommodations may be provided in advance.

WOLVERINE PLANNING A BIG ENTERTAINMENT

Many State Officials to Take Part In Affair There Friday

On Friday, November 17th, The Wolverines, Inc., are giving their first annual sportsmen's ball. This ball is The Wolverines' bid for a reputation as entertainers. The ball will be held this year at the Silver Top dance hall at Afton, Mich. The party will start at 9 o'clock in the evening and carry through until 6 o'clock Saturday morning. A turkey dinner will be served at midnight and breakfast at six in the morning. For the dance program there will be three high class orchestras, one from Cheboygan, one from Flint and one from Lansing. Two of these orchestras will be playing alternately all night.

Paralleling the dance portion of the entertainment, a varied athletic entertainment will take place on another floor of the building. There will be several amateur, preliminary bouts and four feature bouts, two of which are heavyweight bouts, one middleweight and one lightweight. The Michigan State college fencing team will give an exhibition of the three different types of fencing and the exhibition will be explained while it is in progress, by the M. S. C. fencing coach. As a feature attraction, they are putting on a battle royal in which seven husky colored boys will be put in the ring at the same time for a general free-for-all and the last man on his feet wins.

There will be a number of other attractions at various times during the evening and, to fill in any possible gaps in the athletic carnival, the Black Crows orchestra of Cheboygan will be on the job. The services of the Black Crows is being donated for the evening by Rep. Ernest Faircloth of Cheboygan county.

At some time during the evening the Hon. Prentiss M. Brown and Frank D. Fitzgerald will speak briefly. In his talk, Mr. Fitzgerald will tell of his interest in the development project. A number of the members of the state administration, among them Attorney General Patrick O'Brien, State Treasurer Theo. I. Fry, Director of Public Safety Oscar G. Olander, have already expressed their intention of being present.

There will be on the job all night, a one hundred and seventy-five pound wrestler who is anxious to take on anybody in the world at his weight, for side bets up to $1,000.00. His name is Jack London. It is planned to make this affair the biggest entertainment value that has ever hit any place close to this part of the country. A membership drive for The Wolverines is being carried on in connection with this ball and they are putting on this entire entertainment for $2.00 plus one year's membership in The Wolverines, Inc., which is $3.00. This makes the entire cost for this big evening's entertainment only $5.00 per couple.

WHY DID SEWAGE PROPOSAL LOSE?

A.—Hours of polls were advertised in both local papers.

Q.—That certain public officials have said the plant should be near the light plant.

A.—It has been explained that cost of plant in any location other than a central one will be positively prohibitive.

Q.—That building will be unsightly and tanks should be covered.

A.—This is not true. Completion of the plant would beautify the place of its location. The public is invited to view plans now on file in the city offices and see for themselves.

Q.—That estimate does not include storm water sewers and price of site.

A.—The estimated cost of approximately $87,000.00 includes everything connected with the proposition.

Q.—That the council and some people are trying to force the proposition without sufficient consideration.

A.—This is not true. The proposition has been considered several years by this and previous administrations. Economic conditions at the present time make it especially desirable to furnish employment.

Q.—That the council and mayor take the stand that they are only submitting the matter to the voters and therefore are not so strong for it themselves.

A.—It is necessary to get public approval in order to receive federal approval. The council would not spend over $1,500 in preliminary plans if they did not think the project worthy.

Q.—That septic tanks will pass state requirements.

A.—They probably would under protest. Cost of septic tanks closely approached cost of sewage treatment system and is not nearly as satisfactory. The upkeep of septic tanks is said to be greater than the other proposal.

Q.—Has job been let?

A.—Possitively no.

Q.—That the council can add all the expense they care to after the vote is taken and carried.

A.—It might be said they could do the same with any other city department, but haven't. The council operated the city at the lowest possible cost and in all likelihood will continue to do so.

Q.—That water rate will be doubled.

A.—This matter has not been fully worked out. However, a very generous estimate is that water bills will be increased 70 per cent. This is a very generous estimate and without a doubt will be reduced considerably and in a period of years cut down to practically nothing at all.

BUTTER IN STORAGE WARMS NO CHILDREN

Americans Fail to Credit Dairy Products With Proper Food Values

Butter in cold storage adds no heat to the youngster's body, according to the dairy industry of Michigan, which has called a meeting at East Lansing, November 21, to discuss ways of reducing the stocks now awaiting consumption.

Michigan's stake in the meeting is represented by an annual production of 76,000,000 pounds of butter and by the purchase of an additional 18,000,000 pounds. Piling up storage butter affects the price of all dairy products, milk, ice cream and cheese. Drops in price travel back to the dairy farms of the state, and also cut the amount in the pay envelopes of thousands of people who manufacture or handle dairy products.

Consumption of butter has dropped during the past few years. This is in many cases a mistaken economy because this food product has fuel, energy, and health values which should be included on the daily menu for every family.

Second Discussion On Home Landscaping November 23rd

A very cordial invitation is extended to hear O. I. Gregg, landscaping specialist of the Michigan State college on Thursday afternoon, November 23, in the Boyne City library beginning at two o'clock.

This is the second discussion in a series of three and should prove even more interesting than the first. The twenty-nine people who attended the first meeting were very much pleased with this project and will certainly be present for the second. At least fifteen places in the county are in the process of being beautified under Mr. Gregg's direction.

Northwestern Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement Association

At the close of the month of October testing in the Northwestern Dairy Herd Improvement association, we find 434 cows under test. These cows averaged 662.3 pounds of milk and 26.89 pounds of butterfat per cow. During the month there were 30 cows that produced over 50 pounds of butterfat and 51 cows that produced over 1,250 pounds of milk. Sixty-five cows were dry, three cows were sold for dairy purposes and ten cows were slaughtered because of unprofitable production.

George Meggison of Charlevoix was owner of high medium small herd. His herd of 16 purebred Jerseys averaged 570 pounds of milk and 31.26 pounds fat.

Members slaughtering low producing cows are to be highly commended. Because of exceedingly low prices for butterfat, high price for hay and grain (with the prospect of hay being exceedingly high by spring, due to a state shortage) it is necessary, more than ever before, for dairymen to cull out low producers.

Nine Choirs Competed in Choir Singing Contest

The Top O' Michigan church and country choir contest was held at Gaylord last Friday, November 10, with marked success. In spite of the fact that no potato and apple show was held during the week, over four hundred people were in the audience and thoroughly enjoyed the wonderful competition between the choir organizations.

First prize of $50.00 was won by the Congregational choir of Northport, Frank Anderson, choir leader. Second prize of $35.00 was awarded to the Sears community choir, Donald Thomas, director. Third prize of $25.00 went to Kingsley M. E. church choir, Edith Hammond, director, and fourth prize, $15.00, was won by the Gladwin M. E. choir, Mrs. C. M. Serafford, choir leader.

LIQUOR REVENUE WILL BE GIVEN TO SCHOOLS

Governor Says Sales Tax Will Not Raise Sufficient Funds

The state's profits from the sale of hard liquors after repeal probably will be utilized to preserve Michigan's public school system, Gov. Comstock announced last week.

He said he is convinced now that the sales tax will not provide sufficient money to sustain the educational units and he sees no other levy except that on liquors as a means of providing further aid. Even this, Comstock fears, may be insufficient.

School Finances Desired

"The crisis is approaching rapidly," the governor said, "I am reliably informed that several schools must close within a few weeks unless some financial assistance is received."

Comstock said that he is not yet certain that he will include educational matters in his first call for a special session of the legislature; but he indicated the subject will be opened before the session is ended. The governor will meet Monday with the legislative council, as it receives its sub-committee's proposed liquor bill and shortly thereafter will set the date for the session.

Further indication of his desire to place school finances before the solons in some form or other is the fact that yesterday he told newspapermen that "you may say that the session probably will be called in the middle of the deer season," which opens November 15.

SCHOOL PATRONS HEAR FINE TALKS

EXCEPTIONAL P. T. A. PROGRAM
THURSDAY NIGHT

State School Situation and Growth and Functions of P. T. A. Explained by Two Speakers

A large gathering, with visitors present from nearby towns as well as a good representation of rural school teachers, attended the November meeting of the Charlevoix Parent-Teacher association held at the gymnasium last Thursday evening.

Due to illness, Mrs. David W. Stewart, state P. T. A. president, was unable to be present, but this disappointment was offset by the fine addresses given by Paul Thompson, Lansing, assistant superintendent of public instruction, and Mrs. W. T. Saunders of Kalamazoo, vice-president of the state P. T. A. organization.

Speaking principally on the state school situation, Mr. Thompson expressed faith that Michigan officials would provide some means of relieving financial distress so that schools could continue uninterrupted. He stated no schools in Michigan were closed now through lack of funds, but that the first of the year would bring a crisis unless financial aid was forthcoming.

Mr. Thompson pointed out that the cost of operating Michigan schools had been curtailed sharply, but available funds were still short of actual needs. Based on a figure for the past nine years, $69,000,000 would be necessary for the 1933-34 term. With the property tax estimated at $25,000,000, the primary fund at $19,000,000 and $15,000,000 appropriated from the sales tax, but not raised, or a total of $59,000,000, the funds for schools would still be $10,000,000 short.

Mr. Thompson expressed the opinion that the education systems of Michigan had been operated as honestly and economically as any other state unit, and therefore were deserving of support and consideration.

Mrs. Saunders in her address traced the origin and history, growth and functions of the Parent-Teacher association movement since its inception at Washington, D. C., down to the present time. She told of the many other child welfare organizations that had developed from the P. T. A., and the wonderful influence it held over the childhood of our nation. She brought out many interesting points regarding the movement.

An appreciated feature of the evening program was a concert presented by the school band under the direction of R. B. Magor. It was the first public appearance of the school band since reorganization following opening of school.

TEMPERANCE UNION WILL AID WELFARE

Voted to Take Over Distribution to Needy at Last Meeting

Mrs. George Burns was the program leader at the meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union held last Friday afternoon in the community room. She gave a fine up-to-date talk on the temperance question.

She prophesied that many women will refuse to patronize stores where liquor is sold; that repeal will bring temperance teaching back into the schools and that temperance will find more favor in the near future as results of the legalized liquor traffic become apparent. "We have lost a battle; we have not lost the war."

The devotional service was in charge of Mrs. Robert Dickie. Mrs. Bartholomew, secretary, read the annual report showing that good work had been done. The delegates to the recent state convention gave the high points of that meeting.

The committee appointed a month ago to investigate as to the need for welfare work this winter reported in favor of soliciting, renovating and disbursing clothing as they had found upon inquiry that no other organization was planning that kind of relief. It was decided to go ahead with the work with same committee in charge, viz: Mrs. Kelderhouse, Mrs. Usher and Mrs. Dick.

It was voted to donate the December offering to the Brown home for old people in Grand Rapids; also to observe the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the Union with Mesdames Hamilton, Usher and Saltonstall as the committee in charge.

Mrs. Margaret Parker will be leader of the next meeting scheduled for December 8th. The anniversary observance will take place on Friday evening, November 24th, at one of the churches.

Ladies' Aid society first Wednesday.

Missionary society third Wednesday.

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock we will continue the discussion on "Fundamental Facts About Grace."

In the evening at 7:30 the pastor will begin a very interesting series on "The Prophet Daniel." This series will be along the line of plans for studies in prophecy which will continue throughout the winter season.

By many Bible teachers the Book of Daniel with its great prophecies both fulfilled and unfulfilled is one of the most interesting portions of God's word.

Prophecy is history pre-written. The entire history of the chosen people, Israel, is written in the prophetic Word. All of their sufferings, wanderings, what has befallen them in the past, their present lot, scattered among all nations of the earth; and what is yet to come upon them are found in the Bible. The great majority of professing Christians have little desire to know what God has said concerning the future. They would rather listen to theories or dreams of the human mind. Because thou and of fortune tellers, astrologers and mediums make good living throughout Christendom by thousands who seek their advice there seems to be a little inconsistency for one to say he is uninterested in the future. The prophetic Word neglected leaves man ignorant of God's plan and man becomes an easy victim of inventions and delusive theories.

We ask you to read the book of Daniel carefully and be on hand Sunday night at 7:30 as we take up this interesting series.

Because of the absence of Mrs. Parker one might experience difficulty in getting in touch with the pastor. Any one may reach him before 9 o'clock a. m., at noon, and between 5:30 and 7:30 p. m. unless something unavoidable interferes.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL JOINS DEBATE LEAGUE

Will Compete in Oratory, Declamation and Extempore Speaking

Charlevoix high school has become a member of the Michigan High School Forensic association and will take part in a state-wide competition in public speaking and debating according to an announcement by J. H. McBurney, instructor in speech at the University of Michigan and state manager of the association. Mrs. Ruth Anne Dowd of the high school faculty will be in charge of the local contestants.

The Michigan High School Forensic association is directed by the University of Michigan in cooperation with an advisory council representing the Michigan Conference of City Superintendents, the Michigan High School Principals' association, and the Michigan Association of Teachers of Speech. State-wide interscholastic contests will be conducted in debating, oratory, declamation, and extempore speaking. The local school will be represented in the contests in oratory, declamation, and extempore speaking.

The question for discussion in the debates of the state association this year is the proposal that all radio broadcasting in the United States be conducted in stations owned and controlled by the federal government. This subject has been adopted by thirty-two state high school debating leagues and will be discussed by high school students throughout the country.

The great majority of the schools will hold their first debate on November 17. Three other state-wide debates on December 1, December 15, and January 12, will complete the preliminary series.

HARBOR MAN CHOOSES ALL CLASS C ELEVEN

Charlevoix Players Awarded Six Positions On 1st, 2nd Teams

Selecting candidates for an all-northern class C football team, Ford Moulton, Harbor Springs sports writer, named six members of Charlevoix's championship squad to positions on the first and second squads.

Harbor Springs was awarded an equal number of positions, East Jordan and Boyne City each four, and Rogers City two. Jack Foster, perhaps one of the outstanding players in Northern Michigan class C competition this year, was placed in a halfback position, and "Marc," local veteran end, was chosen captain of the first squad.

Following are the selections: First team—Ends: Roen, Charlevoix (captain); Bowser, Harbor Springs; Guards: Tomkins, Boyne City; Somerville, East Jordan; Center: Hoffman, Rogers City; Halfbacks: Cihak, East Jordan; Foster, Charlevoix; Fullback: Clute, Boyne City; Quarterback: Herrick, Harbor Springs.

Second team—Ends: Potter, Charlevoix; Grimes, Harbor Springs; Tackle: LaCrozier, Boyne City; Stallard, East Jordan; Guards: Howell, Rogers City; Smith (captain), Harbor Springs; Centers: Fitzpatrick, Boyne City; Quarterback: Clark, East Jordan; Halfbacks: Shapton, Charlevoix; McIntosh, Harbor Springs; Fullback: Hebert, Charlevoix.

As a man gets older he's afraid to admit it by leaving a party, so he stays to the bitter end.

LAUNCH PROGRAM TO HELP CITY'S NEEDY

W. C. T. U. Opens Place to Collect and Distribute Clothing

At a recent meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, a committee of three to look after soliciting and collecting of clothing to be distributed to the needy, was appointed.

O. P. North, superintendent of schools, was interviewed and kindly consented to allow the committee the use of a room directly above the community room. The clothing will be kept in this room under the supervision of Mrs. Gertrude Dick. The purpose of using a room in the school building for storage of clothing is to give teachers an opportunity to outfit needy children.

The room will be open to the public certain days of the week with the committee in charge. Tuesday, November 21st, at 3 o'clock, has been set aside as the day to receive clothing. Anyone wishing further information in regard to the movement may call Mrs. George Kelderhouse or Mrs. A. J. Usher, members of the committee.

ling telephone calls. The investigators and workers throughout the county will be expected to make daily reports of their activities in person at this office and receive their instructions from the director, who will work under the supervision and with the advice of the three welfare commissioners. Mr. Reagan also asserted that it would be possible to ascertain at the close of each day how much money had been spent on relief in the county and that within two days time of any given date complete report could be made to the state commission.

Directly after the open meeting, the three commissioners went into private session with Mr. Reagan and perfected their organization by the election of Joseph M. Foster as permanent chairman, Dr. Guy C. Conkle as vice chairman, and Albert Freiberg as secretary. Mr. Reagan planned to select a clerk and a place for his office Wednesday. He has already chosen a director, who is a man trained and skilful in this work. While the matter of an office is not definitely settled, it is likely that desk room will be secured in the building now occupied by the Children's Fund of Michigan on Petoskey avenue. Mr. Reagan is leaving town for a while, Wednesday, and on his return Thursday, will pick his field workers and investigators.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PLAY SET FOR DECEMBER 7

Combined Classes Will Present "Skidding" In Local Gym

"Skidding," an unusually brilliant comedy of superior dramatic quality, will be presented by the junior-senior classes of the high school on Thursday evening, December 7.

This play enjoyed a long and successful run on Broadway and this season is one of the most popular offerings of the best stock companies and little theatres throughout the country. Just within the past few months it has been released for amateur performance and it is only because of the generosity of Samuel French, publishers, that it is possible for the local group to secure the acting rights in this time of rigid economy.

It affords the cast much pleasure to be able to offer the public such a recent dramatic success, and one which is so certain to please the people of Charlevoix.

Every member of the cast is enrolled in the Drama club, a high school organization, which aims to bring the best in drama at the lowest prices, to the greatest number of people.

SCHOOL TROUBLES NOT EXAGGERATED

SUPT. PAUL F. VOELKER TELLS EDUCATORS HERE

Northwestern School Mens' Round Table Retained O. P. North As President at Meeting Here

The financial stress of Michigan schools is not being exaggerated, Dr. Paul Voelker, superintendent of public instruction, declared in an address at the gymnasium last Friday evening before the fall meeting of the Northwestern School Mens' Round Table and a large assemblage of school patrons.

He denied statements made charging him and his department with exaggerating the difficulties of the schools of the state. Many of the schools in Michigan are operating on faith, he said, and unless state aid is received will be forced to close. City schools of Battle Creek, Kalamazoo and Flint, he said, have funds only to last through to early spring and in many rural schools teachers are working under $1 a month contracts. Detroit schools, he said, will face a serious situation when the scrip issued in payment of obligations matures and must be met.

He pointed out that the schools of Michigan have cut budgets from $86,000,000 to $15,000,000, leaving a deficit of $41,000,000. "We are asking for only $15,000,000 of that deficit but don't seem to be able to get it," Supt. Voelker said. He pointed out with regret what appears to be a general break down of the moral of the people, resulting in a spirit of not caring whether or not the schools were continued.

Supt. Voelker expressed the opinion that a concerted move towards the consolidation of schools may be necessary to aid the financial situation by cutting down the expense of operation. He stated revenue from the sales and other taxes and release of impounded school funds in closed banks, may serve to ease the financial situation.

Another speaker was Dorr Stack, in charge of the rural division of state schools, who talked largely on the financial situation.

Both speakers talked briefly at the Round Table banquet at Hotel Noble preceding the mass meeting.

At the business session, the Round Table officers were re-elected as follows: President, O. P. North, Charlevoix; vice-president, E. A. Hinton, Lake City; secretary-treasurer, C. M. Lane of Benzonia. It was decided to hold the spring meeting in Lakeview and the 1934 fall session at Traverse City.

A delightful feature of the evening was a concert given by the high school band preceding the mass meeting. R. B. Major, director, delighted the audience with two beautiful cornet solos.

Don't forget the Association of Commerce banquet and annual meeting Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Bill 25c. At Odd Fellow hall.—Adv. 4711.

BANK RE-ORGANIZATION PLANS CONTINUE TO GO FORWARD

Re-organization plans of the Charlevoix County bank continue to progress, according to reports of officers and the depositors' committee.

Tuesday afternoon a total of $150,000 in waivers, including substantially a greater share of larger local depositors, had been signed and turned in.

Waivers on public deposits, including the county, city and school district, are expected shortly. The supervisors authorized signing of the waiver at a special meeting recently, but final disposition has been delayed by adverse action on the part of some individual members of the finance and interest and sinking fund committees, whose approval is necessary. These difficulties are expected to be ironed out soon. It is understood a legal opinion from state officials, which would open the way for the city council to authorize signing the waiver, was being forwarded from Lansing following a meeting of local bank officers with state banking officials earlier this week.

Robert Bridge, cashier of the closed Charlevoix County bank, ventured his institution might possibly open prior to Christmas providing the 90 per cent of deposit waivers were turned in soon enough.

RE-EMPLOYMENT GROUP ORGANIZED IN COUNTY

Warren Davis, East Jordan, Director With Local Office

Charlevoix county's Federal Re-employment committee, whose duties are to approve National Recovery Act projects and select workmen from the unemployed for these jobs, has completed its organization.

The members are J. M. Foster and Arthur Bergeon, Charlevoix; S. E. Rogers of East Jordan, and Alee Heller of Boyne City. Offices for the committee are being set up in the local information bureau on Bridge street. Warren Davis of East Jordan, has been chosen director.

Mr. Davis will have charge of the registration of all unemployed of the Charlevoix district and similar registration places are being provided in other cities of the county. The committee requests that all unemployed register with Mr. Davis at once, in order that there be no delay in selecting workmen when projects are approved and ready to start. At the present time the only National Recovery Act project actually under way in Charlevoix county is the improvements now being made on the swing bridge here. This job comes under the category of contract work for which the committee selects workmen.

Like the new Civil Works program, National Recovery Act projects are aimed to ultimately absorb welfare relief.

WINTER TAX RATE GREATLY REDUCED

15 MILL TAX LIMITATION PROVIDES DECREASE

Charlevoix Property Owners Will Pay $17.53 per Thousand Instead of $28.36 Last Year

Winter taxes which become payable on December 10 show a large reduction from last year, according to figures prepared by County Clerk Fenton R. Bulow. The rate has been reduced from $28.36 per thousand valuation charged last year to $17.53.

The winter taxes go for county, state and school purposes. The rate will include a debt service of $4 which was added by school district No. 1, Charlevoix city and township, to retire bonded indebtedness.

The big reduction is due to the new 15 mill tax limitation which was adopted by the voters of Michigan last November. By the new law the general property tax cannot be more than $15 per thousand dollars of valuation, except that an amount can be added to a debt service tax to meet certain previous obligations. In Charlevoix's case the obligation is the new grade building and gymnasium which is now in the process of retirement.

The winter tax rate will be approximated as follows:

County	$ 8.00
Schools	5.00
State	.53
Debt Service	4.00
Total	$17.53

The state tax will be divided between the University of Michigan and Michigan State college. This allocation was set by the legislature at its last session.

Revenue for city purposes was raised on the summer tax rolls. The allocation of the 15 mills was made by the county tax commission, provided for under provisions of the 15 mill tax limitation law. The large reduction in the winter tax rate is going to be a welcome one in view of the reduced revenue of the winter months and the stress of present local financial conditions.

FOUR BOXES SMALL PERCH CONFISCATED

Turned Over to Local Welfare Officers for Distribution

Four boxes of undersized perch, totaling around 400 pounds, have been turned over to local welfare officers for distribution to the needy.

The illegal fish, confiscated upon their arrival here late last week from St. James by Conservation Officer Charles Allers of Michigan patrol boat No. 1, were caught in nets in St. James harbor, according to reports.

The Ladies' Literary and Sewing Club will hold a novelty sale on December 9 and 16.—Adv. 4711.

ORGANIZING LOCAL WELFARE AGENCIES

WELFARE RELIEF AND RE-EMPLOYMENT COMMITTEE STAFFS APPOINTED—OFFICES IN CHARLEVOIX

FEDERAL RELIEF PROGRAM UNDER WAY

Charlevoix County Allotted 200 Men in New Federal Civil Works Program — State, County and Municipal Projects to Provide Work Forwarded to Lansing for Approval

The machinery has been put in motion to inaugurate in Charlevoix county the new Federal Civil Works program through which President Roosevelt hopes to give employment to 4,000,000 men on welfare by December 15.

Michigan's quota under the new plan is 120,750 men, and of this amount Charlevoix county has been allotted 200, according to word received by J. M. Foster, chairman of the county Emergency Welfare Relief committee which will also handle the Civil Works program as well as direct and welfare work relief in Charlevoix county.

Director Is Chosen

Within the next few days complete organization of the personnel of the Charlevoix county emergency relief committee will have been made. Gus Muma of East Jordan has been named director. A bookkeeper and other members of the office force and staff of field workers will be selected at once. Offices have been equipped in the District Health Unit building on Petoskey avenue and the task of directing relief work is under way. F. A. Reagan, district field representative, is here instructing the men on their new duties, so there will be no hitch in placing the work program in operation.

Projects to be undertaken under the Federal Civil Works program are divided between highway and municipal jobs. The county road commission and state highway department have outlined ten highway projects for Charlevoix county, evenly divided between state trunk lines and county highways and scattered throughout the county in order to give work in every section. This program was approved by the local welfare chairman Monday afternoon and has been forwarded to Lansing for final approval. Word to start work on the projects is expected momentarily. The city council Monday night outlined three municipal projects which have also been forwarded to Lansing for approval. They include Antrim and May street storm sewers and reconstruction of the power line leading from the Bellaire hydro electric plant to the local distribution plant. Other projects will be presented as the need requires and the several cities and villages of the county are expected to present similar projects for consideration and to provide employment in their respective districts.

Financing of the Civil Works program will be handled through the Veterans' Bureau offices in Washington. The clerical work will be taken care of in the local relief office and checks will be issued by the county treasurer, who has been appointed assistant disbursing officer to the Veterans' Bureau. The 200 men allotted the county must have been on welfare prior to November 15. The rate of compensation for this work will be $1.20 per hour for common labor, and $1.20 per hour for skilled labor. The work week has been set at 30 hours, following the same stagger system as previously employed.

The purpose of the Civil Works program is to take men off the welfare and give them jobs. Men will be selected from the welfare lists until they are exhausted and then recruits will be taken from the ranks of the unemployed. It is anticipated welfare dependents, except those unable to work and receiving direct relief, will be ultimately absorbed. The program has been outlined for a 90-day period, but in all likelihood will be extended at the expiration of that time.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Memberships Will Be Received at Headquarters in County Bank

Efforts to put Charlevoix "over the top" in the annual Red Cross roll call drive, will be concentrated into two days, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Headquarters will be at the Charlevoix County bank, according to Mrs. Adah Beeman, roll call chairman. Solicitors will be present throughout the two days to accept any memberships and donations to the cause.

Mrs. Beeman reported today that the local Red Cross chapter had already distributed 792 garments to the needy so far this fall, indicating the helpful work of the organization and need for continuance of the efforts.

BRIDGE PROJECT IS PROGRESSING

CONSTRUCTION FENDER PILING NOW UNDER WAY

Traffic to Be Halted from Midnight Thursday to 6 a. m. Friday — Workers Taken from Welfare

Work of constructing new fender piling south of the pivot pier of the swing bridge on U. S. 31, is now well under way.

The project is the first National Recovery Act work undertaken in this county. The job is being done by the Love Construction & Engineering Company of Muskegon. F. M. Walker is the project engineer in charge for the state highway department.

Mr. Walker announced Wednesday morning through this and other northern Michigan papers, that all traffic across the bridge will be halted from 12 o'clock, midnight, Thursday, to 6 a. m. Friday. At the present time old piling west of the bridge has been removed and those east of the bridge are now being taken out. By Thursday night, when the bridge will be kept open during the hours stated above, the pile driving outfit will work directly beneath the bridge, thus necessitating it being kept open.

A crew of sixteen men, taken from the welfare list, are being used on the job. The engineering firm rented equipment of the Sears Dock & Dredging Co., owned by Franklin Sears, for the work. Under provision of the National Recovery Act, the workmen are being employed 30 hours per week on the basis of an eight-hour day. The maximum number of laborers are now being employed. The crew shift twice weekly after completion of 30 hours work.

In addition to new fender piling, electrically operated and controlled safety traffic gates will later be installed. This job will be let under separate contract, bids to be received Friday of this week at Lansing. Under the Civil Works program, additional repair to the bridge structure have been presented by the state highway department for approval.

To provide fire protection to the north side residential district while the bridge is open Thursday night, the city has ordered one of the fire trucks be stationed north of the bridge.

ATWOOD COUPLE WEDDED HERE LAST SATURDAY

At a pretty wedding solemnized at 8 o'clock last Saturday evening by Rev. W. W. Hurd at the Methodist parsonage, Miss Christina Veerstra and Arthur DeVries, both of Atwood, were united in marriage. WILL RE-SUBMIT SEWAGE PROPOSAL

ANOTHER SPECIAL ELECTION LATE IN DECEMBER

City Council Acts On Petitions Requesting Matter Be Again Put Up to Voters

At its meeting Monday evening, the city council voted to re-submit the proposition of issuing revenue bonds to finance construction of a sewage treatment system at another special election.

The action followed the mandate of a petition presented by Dr. C. J. Winder and signed by 91 others, asking that the matter be brought up for vote again. The proposition lost by a margin of 10 votes at a special election held Wednesday, November 8. Previous petitions have also been presented to the council.

The matter of date of the special election was not decided Monday night, due to the absence of City Attorney Rollie J. Lewis. The proposition requires 30 days' notice, however, so probably will come up for vote late in December.

The council voted to advertise for bids for sidewalk snow removal this winter. It is anticipated the city will again be divided in three districts—the south, valley and north districts—each to be served by different individuals the same as last year.

Acting in response to requests of J. M. Foster, chairman of the Emergency Welfare commission and the new Civil Works commission, the council, through R. F. Sloan, city engineer, presented three projects for submission and approval of state officials. The projects listed, for which estimates have been forwarded to Lansing, were Antrim and May street storm sewers, and installation of a new power line between Charlevoix and Bellaire to connect the municipal hydro electric plant with the local distribution system. The combined projects would furnish work for a large number of men. Other municipal jobs are being taken under consideration for presentation as a part of the new relief work program.

In regard to the sewage disposal matter, an educational program to acquaint taxpayers with the proposition, will be conducted prior to the next special election.

REAGAN TO SPEAK BEFORE COMMERCE GROUP

Annual Banquet and Meeting of Association Thursday Evening

Dr. F. A. Reagan, district field representative of the state welfare commission, who is now here directing reorganization of local units, will be the principal speaker at the banquet and annual meeting of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce which is to be held Thursday evening at the I. O. O. F. hall.

It is Dr. Reagan's desire to extend the aims and methods of the new community welfare set-up to as many Charlevoix citizens as possible, and it is hoped that there will be a full attendance at this meeting. Those who cannot attend the banquet should endeavor to get there in time to hear Dr. Reagan.

There is a lot of planning and preliminary work to be done in the way of devising work projects to absorb the available labor. As relief must be given to all—either directly or in the form of labor—it is to the community's interest to push those items of civic development which could not be undertaken even in normal times on account of lack of funds to pay labor. With government money to do the work and a plentiful labor supply, much permanent local development may be carried to a successful conclusion and that much money turned into constructive purposes which would otherwise have to be paid out in the form of direct relief.

These and other important matters will come up at this meeting for discussion and whatever action may be taken.

4-H Club Program Starts in County

The winter club program is under way in Charlevoix county. At least twenty different clubs are being organized. The girls are interested in the clothing club, the boys in the handicraft project, and both in the hot lunch project.

As a result of having had a very successful program in the past, we find that several members are taking on the fifth year in the clothing project. This means that many have advanced through the various years. The same thing is true with the boys in the handicraft clubs, many of whom are doing third, fourth and fifth year's work.

The county-wide achievement day this next spring will be in Boyne City as it is the policy to alternate between the three cities in the county and it is now Boyne City's turn.

Many schools and communities have been visited during the past event. The work is largely being conducted in the rural schools through-out the county, largely under the direction and supervision of the county teachers. The girls hem dish towels, darn and patch and make clothing articles. The boys make many useful and practical articles for the home or for the barn such as tie racks, window supports, tables, milk stools, feed troughs, etc.

According to a new book dealing with the history of New York City, there were fewer spinsters and widows in pre-revolutionary days than at any time since.

WHY YOUR HEALTH DEPENDS UPON YOUR KIDNEYS

Your Kidneys Are Constantly Eliminating Waste Poisons From Your Blood

To Be Well See That They Function Properly

YOUR KIDNEYS! Do you realize what an important part they play in your bodily health and length of life? They are the blood filters. Every 24 hours they excrete more than 500 grains of poisonous waste. These your kidneys are literally sentinels of your health.

It is well, then, to keep careful watch of your kidneys. If they fail to do their work fully, there is slow poisoning of the system, which may lead to many serious conditions.

Disordered kidney action and bladder irritations may give rise to scanty, painful or too frequent passage and getting up at night. One is apt to feel a dull, nagging back-ache, drowsy headaches and dizziness.

While, naturally, temporary irregularities may occur, if the condition persists, it is well to look to your kidneys. There is positive danger in neglecting disordered kidney action.

If you have any reason to believe your kidneys are not functioning properly, why not give Doan's Pills a trial? No other advertised diuretic has such world-wide use. None is so well recommended.

RECORD OF LIFE

The average man of fifty is found to have worked 6,500 days, slept 6,000 days, walked 800 days, played 4,000 days, eaten 1,500 days, been sick 500 days and listened to the squawk of the pessimist all his days.

To make Children

EAT

Don't force children to eat! The girl or boy who has no appetite has stasis—which means the child is sluggish. But enthalpies have caused more constipation than they ever cured! The "California treatment" is best—just pure syrup of figs. Try this for a few days, then see how eagerly your youngster will eat.

Stimulate the colon and that child with a lively appetite will devour everything set before him. Here's the simple treatment that does more for babies or older children than all the diets, fat foods, or loaves.

Nature has provided the "medicine" you'll need to stir your child's colon muscles into proper action. California syrup of figs. Pure, delicious, harmless. It acts on the lower colon—where the trouble is. It has no ill effects on the intestines.

Begin tonight, with this marvelous "California treatment." Any druggist has California syrup of figs, all bottled, with directions. Use enough the first time to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. Whenever a cold or other upset clogs the system again, use this natural vegetable laxative instead of drastic drugs.

WARNING! There are dealers who practice substitution. Be sure to protect your child by looking for the name CALIFORNIA on the bottle.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

ROADSIDE MARKETING

By T. J. Delohery

FRUIT JUICES, JELLIES, JAMS, IN DEMAND

ALL of the small fruit, vegetable and dairy products which William H. Brinton raised on his 35-acre farm near Parkersburg, Penn., was hauled to town and offered in wholesalers. What he didn't sell was taken back home and Mrs. Brinton put it up in cans and glass jars.

Now Brinton only takes to market what products are not good enough for his wife to eat; and Mrs. Brinton buys many things from neighboring farmers in order to supply the demand from hundreds of people who come to their roadside market and from customers living in other states who order by mail.

The experience of this farm woman has been duplicated by scores of others who sell canned meats, fruit juices, jams, jellies and preserves direct to consumers or who place them in local stores on a commission basis to be sold in competition with high-class factory-made products.

Little Farms, near Mattewan, Mich., comprising 35 acres, was in danger of being foreclosed until the owner, Mrs. Irma Ester, happened to offer a batch of homemade grape juice and jelly to passing motorists. It was in sheer desperation that Mrs. Ester placed the fruit juice and jelly on a table in front of her home. In less than an hour it was gone.

"It looked like we had found a way to make money," said jovial Mrs. Ester, "but I wasn't any hand at jelly making. But I talked it over with mother and we rummaged the attic and old trunks until we found a cook book which contained recipes for jams and jellies, some of which were one hundred years old, I guess."

"The house was an uproar that night. Every available pot, pan and kettle was going. We worked all night making jellies and grape juice; and when dawn broke, I thought we had made enough stuff to last a year. But we had hardly gotten in bed when Mr. E. D. Young, a friend, who was taking care of the sales, roused us with the news that we needed more stock—we had sold out the second time."

"Dead tired, we went at it again. And every day after that, until the tourist season closed, we were going at top speed. That winter, when we talked over our success and the possibilities of the future, we felt convinced that we had the makings of a business which would be profitable."

"We guessed it right. Business was better the next year and it has kept on growing. We process all of our own fruit and what we buy of neighbors. And our selling season doesn't end with tourists leaving the road. It continues through to the holidays, many people now using our assorted package of jellies and jams as Christmas gifts."

W. S. Farnsworth, for 40 years one of the prominent fruit growers in Ohio, was unable to find a satisfactory market for his apples, and other fruits until he changed his method of selling. When marketing was put in the hands of his son-in-law, Mr. Young, he immediately advertised in local and surrounding town newspapers.

Then he contacted retailers who, seeing the publicity, the quality fruit and the possibility of sales, put Farnsworth apples on display. Sales boomed, then dropped suddenly. Young, with characteristic enterprise, changed the package, using a colored basket and covering the apples with netting to keep out the insects and dirt.

More advertising. The package, which is known as "Farnsworth Family Pack," was featured in window displays and again the demand picked up. Clear cider, too, was brought to the retailers. Bottled and labeled it moved into consuming channels rapidly, even where cider sales had theretofore been sluggish.

When newspaper advertising showed its worth, Young thought it might help the demand for Farnsworth fruit and fruit products if he had a market building on the farm and invited people out to visit the place. Accordingly, space was bought in the motor club magazine, the ad consisting of an invitation to visit the home of "Farnsworth's Family Pack," and a map showing how the orchards could be reached by motor.

Visitors were treated to samples of fruit, cider and apple butter and shown the market houses, where rows of baskets of apples, jugs and bottles of cider and jars of golden apple butter all properly labeled and arranged so as to make a most attractive display, were. Naturally, sales followed, but in no case were prices below those in the retail stores. This policy was adopted to protect the retailers.

Birds' Songs Recorded After Many Failures

It took modern engineering and science to capture the songs of birds where the musical and imitative arts had failed, says the Literary Digest. Bird songs are among the most elusive of melodies. Musicians have often tried to write them down, but most birds do not sing in the man-made scale. Their notes are usually not whole or half tones, but may be quarter tones or other fractions.

Birds' Songs Recorded After Many Failures

The apparatus which has first successfully recorded bird melodies was devised under the direction of Albert H. Brand, associate in ornithology, American Museum of Natural History. This recording machine is essentially an adaptation of the equipment used in recording the human voice in talking picture studios.

The longest shot ever taken with the apparatus was during the recording of the song of a common oriole. The trick was 250 feet from the microphone, and the microphone and mirror were at least another 100 yards from the bird. At that distance it was hard to distinguish the bird through the mirror sight, yet the sound picture was completely satisfactory.

BETTY MAKES A HIT WITH HER HUSBAND'S MOTHER thanks to an amazing new Laundry Soap

NEW LAUNDRY SOAP DISCOVERY WELCOMED BY HOUSEWIVES

A still faster-washing soap that gets clothes 4 to 5 shades whiter yet can't hurt anything plain water won't WASHDAY in over a million homes has been revolutionized by an amazing new Laundry Soap Discovery of Procter & Gamble—America's largest soap-makers. Up and down the country, it is completely changing women's ideas of quick, easy washing, safe washing, and white clothes!

This remarkable invention is an utterly new type laundry soap. A soap that multiplies itself 500 TIMES in suds. Which means you get at least twice as much suds as from old-style soaps. A still faster-washing, still whiter-washing soap that's utterly SAFE for colors, fabrics, and hands.

This remarkable new discovery is called OXYDOL. And you'll find to your surprise that it makes other soaps—"granulated," bar or flake—hopelessly out-of-date.

Women believed they had the fastest soap already! Then found it was slow, alongside OXYDOL. For OXYDOL utterly banishes boiling. It ends washboard scrubbing. It cuts soaking time to 15 minutes—gets clothes out far sooner.

They believed they had the whitest washes they could possibly get. And are now amazed by washes 4 to 5 shades whiter than before.

By impartial scientific test, ONE washing with OXYDOL gets clothes whiter than 2 to 4 washes with other soaps. But that's not all!

You'll find clothes actually last longer, washed with this new soap. That the faintest colors do not fade. That it is easier on hands than any soap you've ever used. For no strong agents, no chemical bleaches are in OXYDOL. Just pure soap elements so blended with others as to protect clothes against fading. OXYDOL simply can't hurt anything clear water won't!

DISSOLVES Dirt—In Any Water, Hard or Soft

Its creamy, "free-acting" suds dissolve dirt out in 15 minutes. No boiling, no back-breaking scrubbing is necessary. Nor any "water-softener," either. For the right amount of water-softener is already there.

Different from ordinary soaps, OXYDOL is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it is sold. The water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. The OXYDOL you buy here contains just the right proportion of "softener" to fit it.

With OXYDOL you'll do your wash in 25% to 40% less time. You'll get a whiter, sweeter-smelling wash than ever before. Everything will iron beautifully—no soap streaks or smudges anywhere. And you'll never be bothered with fading colors or red, soap-bitten hands.

These things we promise you. Whatever your former favorite, try OXYDOL next time you wash. You'll never go back to slower, harsher soaps again! Procter & Gamble.

OLD SYSTEM BEST

Out of the gradual growth of public opinion regarding the evils of the primary system of nominating candidates for public office, it is to be hoped that sufficient pressure may come day by day to bring about a change in our present method of selecting men and women for party preference. The old convention system fell into disrepute because of its abuse. Fundamentally it was sound in principle and should have been retained. Nomination by convention means for party loyalty and responsibility. It shuts out the demagogue and the self-starter. If restored to favor the abuses of the past can be avoided by an alert citizenship bent upon the return to a republican form of government. Too long have we drifted with the tide of unrepresentative government which the primary has produced.

JUDGMENT IS NEEDED

It is always dangerous to write about the liquor traffic. Varying views make impossible any mutual agreement regarding this widely discussed social problem. One fact is uncontroverted: John Barleycorn is back. There is but little dry territory remaining in the nation. Legislation must be provided for control, as far as possible, of the flow of liquor after December 5. To prevent speakeasy evils, cities like Detroit, Grand Rapids, and perhaps two or three others, should be allowed to dispense liquor by the glass in hotels of the better class. State liquor stores in second class cities, with drug stores vending package goods only in the smaller communities. State income should be derived solely from the profits of state stores and in license fees. But one direct excise tax—levied directly by the federal government and collected at the point of manufacture or port entry. Prices regulated by government edict and made sufficiently low to discourage the bootlegging industry. Unless John Barleycorn is taken firmly in hand right in the beginning, he will prove the same troublemaker as of yore. To do this calls for the exercise of our best judgment.

THE COUNTY FAIR

There are those who believe that the day of the county fair is past. This may be true of some fairs but if it is, something fine will have gone out of our community life in the loss of a homely philosophy and neighborly spirit which the county fair typifies. The county fair provides a time when the best the community has produced on the farm, in the home, and in the shop is shown in a friendly competition in skill, when the boys and girls of the community may exhibit the results of their achievements, and when the people of town and country may come together in genuine neighborliness. Times have changed, it is true enough, but who would say that we need less of these things? In many respects, the county fair brings out the best there is in the life of the community. It ought never to be out of date, or out of place, to do that.—Herman Roe in Northfield (Minn.) News.

DON'T SPEND TOO MUCH

Michigan will, because of necessity, participate to a certain extent in the government public works building program. To a moderate extent this participation will be justified. There is need to furnish labor for as many of the unemployed as possible and the state might as well take advantage of the opportunity to do some needed institutional building as long as federal money is going to be passed around anyway. But it is not likely that the legislature now in special session will feel warranted in spending thirty million dollars for such a purpose as has been suggested. Application of just ordinary business judgment should preclude that. There are going to be a good many future pay days and the less we have of them the better we are going to be off. That is only common sense.

WHITE COLLAR WORKERS

At last the government has recognized the plight of a large class of our citizens—known as white collar workers. Formerly they held responsible positions in good salaries. In spite of the reversal of their fortunes, most of them have hesitated to seek welfare aid. The government plans to provide full time employment at wages as high as $1.20 an hour in the case of skilled workers. That many of them are unfit for hard labor will be taken into consideration. They will be given positions as nearly in conformity with their former vocations as possible. President Roosevelt has issued a warning that nobody seeking work shall be questioned about his politics. There has been some talk that this was being done in connection with state relief. Immediate work for four million men is sought by the administration. It will make Uncle Sam the largest employer of labor the world has ever witnessed.

Don't forget the Association of Commerce banquet and annual meeting Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Bill 25c. At Ogdell Fellow hall. —Adv. 4711.

FRESHENING BREEZES

Somebody should suggest erecting a monument to the forgotten man before we forget where he lies buried.

President Roosevelt said: "Never another winter like last winter." Wonder if he was referring to the weather?

What has become of the old-fashioned girl who used to put on an extra partition along about this season of the year?

If this Mae West urge for plump waistlines continues, it won't be long now before Kate Smith will be setting the style for the ladies.

This country having withdrawn from the peace conference, Uncle Sam can now turn his attention to those battling farmers out in Iowa.

A cooking school in Detroit is seeking information about quick supper menus. And a million husbands of bridge fiends are ready with instant replies.

Perhaps it might be a good idea for the banker, the farmer and the small home owner to go into a huddle and see what has happened to those long overdue government relief loans.

True progress is not to be gained by being critical of others, but by being helpful. When we come to understand that so much of the world's happiness depends upon coordinated endeavor, then will we have learned the first lesson of universal brotherhood.

The Carey-O'Brien Circle of the Baptist church will hold a bazaar and baked goods sale at Staley's store, Saturday, December 2.—Adv. 4712.

RED CROSS RELIEF AIDS DISTRESSED IN 120 DISASTERS

Help Given in Fires, Floods, Earthquake and Epidemics Part of Year's Task

The American Red Cross has reached into the homes of six million families in the past year with unemployment and disaster relief. Chairman John Barlow Payne announced.

"As the year closed the organization continued in readiness to serve in the forthcoming winter at the point of greatest need and to adjust its service to meet the calls of the emergency of unemployment and disaster," Chairman Payne stated.

In a year of greatest economic distress in the nation's history, in which the Red Cross ably discharged a relief task in distributing flour and clothing to distressed families in all but six of the nation's 3,698 counties, the organization also was called into action in 120 disasters, of which 96 were within the borders of the United States.

Earthquake, floods, hurricanes, fires and other catastrophes visited death and destruction upon the lives and homes of thousands of people. Red Cross statistics showed that in the 120 disasters almost a thousand lives were lost, 148,340 homes were destroyed or damaged, 13,275 persons were injured, and Red Cross relief was given to 452,879 individuals.

In giving aid in these disasters, in its unemployment relief and in handling the distribution of government wheat and cotton, the Red Cross expended from its national treasury the sum of $1,070,284.

During one period of twelve weeks, 46 disasters occurred in 23 states. Red Cross disaster workers were hard pressed in meeting all of these needs occurring at once, but everywhere misery was promptly relieved.

Support of the Red Cross work is through its annual roll call, conducted by chapters in the period from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to November 30. Every citizen who joins the Red Cross as a member aids in carrying relief to disaster victims and in other Red Cross services, such as preservation of life, child welfare through the Junior Red Cross, and direct service for the public health.

A double barred cross in red on a Christmas seal is a guarantee to the purchaser that the money derived from its sale will be spent on the prevention and cure of tuberculosis in Michigan. On Thanksgiving day the 1933 tuberculosis Christmas seal will go on sale. The design is unusually distinctive this year, showing three figures in black bringing in the yule log, against a vivid winter sunset. But in case there is any confusion in the mind of the purchaser as to whether or not they are investing in anti-tuberculosis work, the Michigan Tuberculosis association advises them to watch for the red, double barred cross.

Another form of invisible ink is made from a mixture of transparent tint base and paste drier. It is invisible when dry, but shows up clearly when rubbed with an ordinary lead pencil.

Almost Instant Relief From Neuralgia

For Quick Relief Say BAYER Aspirin When You Buy

Here is quicker relief from pain—the fastest safe relief, it is said, ever known. This is due to a scientific discovery by which BAYER Aspirin starts "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass here tells the story. A Bayer tablet starts to disintegrate or dissolve—go to work—almost instantly. This means quick relief from pain—fewer lost hours from headache, neuritis, rheumatism. And safe relief. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

When you buy, see that you get the genuine Bayer Aspirin. The best way is never to ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But if you want Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always to say "BAYER Aspirin."

RECORDS SHOW DROP
IN FARM RECEIPTSAccounts On 65 Michigan Farms Prove No Upturn

Any upturn in farm incomes that may have occurred in Michigan has happened since the close of 1932, if at all, according to the farm management department at Michigan State college.

Continuous records on the same 65 farms, from 1929 through 1932, show that the average loss of income on each farm during that period was $2,388, 55 per cent of the total income of 1929. There were general farms averaging about two-thirds of their income from the sale of livestock products.

Attempts by the owners of these farms to meet conditions also show in the record. Two methods of improving the situation were tried; first, larger units, and second, more efficiency from each unit.

More acres of crops were planted and the livestock was shifted somewhat to permit the keeping of the more highly productive types. The number of ewes, cows, and hens increased during the period but the number of sows decreased.

More men were employed per farm, each man worked more, and more assistance was received from members of the farmer's family in 1932 than in 1929. All this labor was thrown into the balance in an unsuccessful attempt to shift the pointer to the profit side.

Records of the actual cash spent on each acre tilled throw a powerful light on what has happened to the purchasing power of the farmer. Cash paid out for each acre of crops in 1929 was $23.64. The expenses per acre in 1932 were 7.93, a decrease of 69.1 per cent.

PEN BARN ADAPTED TO DAIRY BUSINESSEquipment, Labor Costs Less by Making Stable, Milk Room Separate

Pen barns for dairy cattle enable the dairyman to reduce his expense for equipment and for labor, according to the agricultural engineering department at Michigan State college.

This type of structure is not new but it has not been in much favor until recently. The theory of the building is to permit the cow to run loose in a large room in the barn all of the time they are confined except while they are being milked and fed grain. Hay is fed in racks in the main barn.

Units built to accommodate 12 cows provided a separate room with four stanchions for a milking room. Four cows are admitted, fed grain, milked, and returned to the main barn.

The college department claims that this type of construction not only saves equipment and labor but also produces cleaner milk. The cows keep cleaner in the main barn than they will when confined in stalls, and the small milk room can be kept in sanitary condition more easily than a stable in which the cows are kept over night.

MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE
WEEKLY NEWS

The need for a reduction in price of automobile license plates is shown by the decrease in motor vehicle weight taxes and gasoline taxes collected by the department of state in 1933.

For the first nine months of 1933, the total gasoline tax amounted to $12,122,867. This is a decrease of $1,187,512 under the amount collected during the same period in 1932.

The motor vehicle weight tax for the first ten months of 1933 was $17,532,417 or $1,149,492 less than was collected for the first ten months of 1932.

Department records show that on November 1, 1933, there were 58,416 fewer motor vehicles operating on Michigan highways than there were a year ago. Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald has recommended that the legislature reduce license plate costs to three, six and nine dollars. This reduction, he declares, would permit thousands of motorists, who cannot afford to pay the present weight tax, to use their automobiles.

Public Acts of 1933 are now being distributed by the department of state. Under the law the Public Acts are furnished without charge to various county officials and may be purchased from the department by citizens for $1.50.

A new political party will appear on 1934 ballots. It is called the Progressive Fusionist party and has adopted as an emblem the American flag and pictures of Theodore Roosevelt and Thomas Jefferson. The vignette and proper application for a place on the 1934 ballot were filed with the department of state last week.

The first three months of this year Russia exported more than a million pounds of candy to the United States.

THANKSGIVING

The nation approaches another Thanksgiving season. Not the bounteous season of wealth and human happiness of a few years ago, but a season that finds our people subdued and chastened under the heavy load of depression. Times such as these are not unmixing with good. There is a strengthening of the moral fibre that was missing from our social fabric during years of prosperity.

Now we are humble in the face of so much human misery. Yet as we pause to take count of our blessings we find so many things for encouragement and for new faith. There is a noticeable revival of the old Puritan spirit in the land. As our Pilgrim fathers gave thanks that they had been spared from privation and death, let us also give thanks for the many blessings still remaining to us as our national heritage.

Our nation is at peace with the world, those who are in want have been assured of assistance, never has there been greater wealth of understanding among our people; we are about to enter the greatest era the world has ever known. As we stand upon the threshold of this new day let it be with a real spirit of Thanksgiving in our hearts, that we may have an abundance of material and spiritual wealth as our reward.

NO TIME FOR DOUBT

President Roosevelt has yet to be accused of not being American-minded. His every action since assuming office stamps him as a man thoroughly in accord with American ideals and traditions. He has shown sympathetic understanding of the conditions which our people have faced with such splendid spirit for so many years. Now is no time for the nation to doubt the wisdom of the campaign he is waging for national recovery. We should exhibit a greater spirit of patience and understanding. Before joining those who are expressing fear that the recovery program will end in failure, let us first be sure that these doubts and fears did not originate with selfish interests seeking to gain advantage at the expense of the masses. We should impress upon ourselves the simple fact that we can not go back and try this plan over again. Either it must win its major purposes or it will be discarded, just as we have discarded previous ventures looking to recovery. If there is one warning the American people should heed—it should be that warning which cautions us against losing our faith in the valiant fight which President Roosevelt is making for the salvation of the nation.

A GOOD START

The federal government by winning its first battles against organized kidnapping gangs is doing much to discourage that widely publicized sport of the underworld. Snatching defenseless citizens and holding them for ransom is not the playful game it was when the criminals had only state courts to deal with. Uncle Sam, it appears, deals hard by the code and can neither be bought or intimidated. Because crime is so firmly entrenched it will be a long drawn-out fight, but there will never be any question as to whom will eventually emerge victor. The department of justice works slow and methodically, never tires in running down clues, and when it strikes it does so with a thoroughness that brings terror and demoralization to these sworn enemies of society.

A STRANGE SIGHT

The long-expected special session of the legislature to consider liquor and welfare legislation will convene on Lansing on Wednesday, November 22. We trust there will not be too much lifting of the eyebrows because it is the twin threats to society—liquor and welfare relief—that necessitate this gathering of the lawmakers. When we listened last

CONSTIPATED 30 YEARS

AIDED BY OLD REMEDY

"For thirty years I had constipation. Sourcing food from stomach choked me. Since taking Adenka I am a new person. Constipation is a thing of the past."—Alice Burns, F. J. Fessenden, Druggist.

Autumn time to high sounding phrases appealing to the best and purest in human nature to arise from the depths of despair and go forth to a new and more glorious nationalism, we little dreamed that the time would ever come again in this country when John Barleycorn and his boon companion, Human Misery, would occupy the center of a legislative stage. Something seems to have gone wrong with the program that was to rescue the nation from the shambles of Republican misrule. Just tell the boy out in front to enl in the prophets.

IT'S DIFFERENT NOW!

Michigan, moving toward greater safety on the highways, is now in possession of a statute that should go a long way in curbing the reckless driver. It is not the intent of the law to unjustly penalize the careful driver, though he may become involved in an accident, but is designed to put an end to the fellow who has never exhibited the least responsibility regarding the damage rights of those whose property has been destroyed through his own carelessness. Under the new law he can either take his choice of making a satisfactory settlement or find himself barred from using the highways to continue his career of recklessness. If care is exercised in applying the provisions of the law only to those guilty of careless driving it will undoubtedly be continued as a part of our automobile code. However, it must not by any means be construed as a compulsory insurance threat. To do that would be to defeat the very ends which the law seeks.

THE BEST INVESTMENT

Last year 45,000 persons died in the United States after giving up their insurance the year before. The loss to the dependents of these persons was approximately $37,000,000.

It was one of the tragedies of depression and a tragedy which, though unavoidable, will be a continuing one in the lives of thousands of widows and children who have had their only safeguard against poverty swept away.

So—keep up your insurance if it is humanely possible for you to do so.

It's a tough job for the average man meeting his premium payments. It usually means all sorts of sacrifices on the part of himself and his family.

But it pays, and the knowledge that your dependents will have some protection if worst comes to the worst will probably make you live longer also.—Detroit Times.

READY TO FUNCTION

John F. Hamilton, Michenn manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, says that the machinery which has been set up to provide federal relief for distressed home owners in Michigan is beginning to function in an orderly manner. According to Mr. Hamilton need for relief was so great as to be an acute emergency. In Wayne county alone more than 70,000 foreclosures of mortgages have been recorded during the past few years. While conditions outstate are not so acute, there are a startling number of home owners facing eviction. They will be the first to receive government aid. He asks that those holding mortgages be as patient as possible under the circumstances, promises that there will be no unnecessary delays in the huge task of refinancing those who have applied for help.

NOT IN ANY HURRY

Although 1934 automobile license plates went on sale November 15, together with the information they would be good for 15 months service, it is hardly likely, except in case of new cars, that there will be any great rush of car owners anxious to suspend the new tags from their vehicles. Most motorists will prefer to wait and see if relief in lower priced plates being campaigned "for by Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald, will be had during the special session of the legislature which will be called early in the year. It is known that Mr. Fitzgerald is on friendly terms with Governor Comstock, who may be persuaded to include motor car relief in his message to the legislature on law revision.

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH!

One issue that is bound to command more than the usual amount of attention at the special session of the legislature on law revision early in the year will be the matter of small loan rates. Although the small loan companies voluntarily promised Governor Comstock to reduce their rates in return for his veto, but few of them have kept their word. If any permanent relief is ever secured by the small borrower it must come through legislative channels. The rate set by the legislature last spring was adequate and fair. It should be restored. The democratic party will have small chance of success next year with this most important campaign pledge left unfulfilled.

REQUESTING BIDS FOR BEAVER ISLAND MAILContract to Be Let Soon for Coming Winter Season

Sealed bids are being received by Postmaster C. B. Meggison for transportation of all mail between Charlevoix and St. Ignace from the close of navigation this year until the opening of navigation in the spring of 1934.

The bids will be received until 6:00 p. m. on Tuesday, November 28th.

The successful bidder will be allowed compensation for two round trips per week with the understanding that they must carry all mail offered on the route in two round trips, or perform additional trips without compensation.

The bidders are expected to specify the equipment they will use, and will also be expected to operate on a schedule satisfactory to the post office department.

Harold Schneider held the contract for airplane delivery last winter, and previous winter service was provided by "Bud" Hammond.

LEGION ACTIVITIES

The dug-out in France will have its counterpart at the Legion home of Leslie T. Shapton post when the work of sealing up the wall of the basement is completed and the new heating stove installed. There will be no need for duckboards, however, and the unpleasant accessories of rats, mud, water, cooties and cold will be happily lacking. The formation of a "hot stove league" for thrashing out problems arising from the depression, politics, recognition of the USSR, etc., has already commenced and other interesting features will take place during the winter months.

The post, at its regular meeting Tuesday evening, voted to sign the County bank waiver on deposits and granted Rev. G. R. Parker's request to permit the newly organized "Hi-Y" association of boys to use the "dug-out" this winter, as a meeting place and for recreation. A Christmas party was discussed, with turkey and chickens and one or two special prizes for the extra lucky ones to be played for. The matter of organizing a wood detail to supply the fuel bin of the "dug-out" is the affair of most immediate concern.

So visit the "dug-out" frequently, comrades, and see for yourselves that the depression may have us down, but we are not yet out.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PLAY
SET FOR DECEMBER 7Classes Select "Skidding" for Annual Dramatic Performance

"Skidding," the Junior-Senior play to be presented on Thursday evening, December 7th, is being anticipated with much pleasure by those who attend the high school dramatic performances.

This comedy portraying a fresh, sincere picture of American family life is, without doubt, well worth seeing. The chief charm of the drama lies in the reality of its characters: Marian Hardy, struggling between love and a career; Wayne Trenton, the man she loves, who will accept no compromise; Myra and Estelle, married sisters who have met matrimonial difficulties; the mother and father, whose whole life has been their children; the dear old grandfather who unknowingly brings Marian's romance to a happy ending; Aunt Milly, Mrs. Hardy's unmarried sister who has always longed for a home and family of her own; young Andrew Hardy, an adorable adolescent lad with keenly humorous observations; and Mr. Stubbs, a "hard boiled" politician.

The playwright with great skill leads his characters from hilariously clever comedy to moments of high dramatic portent. Sprinkled through all are bits of philosophy which leave an audience better content with life.

In order that a larger number of people may see this unusual comedy, prices have been reduced to a minimum.

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 19.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Rom. 8:10): "And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life because of righteousness."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 359): "The evidence of the existence of Spirit, Soul, is palpable only to spiritual sense, and is not apparent to the material senses, which cognize only that which is the opposite of Spirit."

AT THE MOVIES

New Romantic Movie Relives Pre-Auto Days

Some idea of the cultural and economic life of a small Mid-West town in the early 1900's is graphically reflected in the odd and unusual props used in Paramount's "One Sunday Afternoon," coming Saturday and Sunday to the Palace theatre, with Gary Cooper in the starring role, and Fay Wray, Neil Hamilton, Frances Fuller and Roscoe Karns in the featured cast.

Of chief interest are the vehicles in use before the automobile. These include surreys, buggies, hacks, buckboards, victorias, phaetons, tallyhoes, dogcarts and bull-wagons.

Other "props" strange to the modern notion include the earliest types of automobiles, copper-bottom wash boilers, hickory chair with rawhide bottoms, camel back trunks, porcelain dishes, tandem bicycles, coal-oil lamps, "light-day" matches, stereoscapes, Edison graphophones, velvet-covered picture frames.

Articles of organization for the Progressive Fusionist party of Michigan are on file with the secretary of state. The new political unit is headed by Clyde V. Fenner, president of the home defense league, who led a lobby for the enactment of the chain store tax at the 1933 legislature.

Fenner is chairman of the state central committee for the new party. Others reported to be associated with him are Mrs. Josephine Gomon, Detroit, and Judge Edward J. Jeffries, also of Detroit. Judge Jeffries was a nominee for governor on the Republican ticket three years ago.

Fenner in past years has been a candidate for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, for congress, and the Detroit common council.

According to the chairman of the new party, its membership will be composed of former members of both major political factions of the state who no longer wish to support their parties. A complete slate will be nominated next year, he said.

Method of Dispensing

Liquor sales by the glass will not be permitted in any municipality of Michigan unless local governing bodies by two-thirds vote agree to such dispensing, the present draft of the legislative council's liquor bill provides.

Originally the measure, now being drafted by the council, provided that the cities of Grand Rapids, Flint and Detroit could have sales by the glass but denied other municipalities this right.

Despite the fact that the governing bodies of cities may decide whether "glass sales" are to be allowed the voting public within the municipalities will have an opportunity to express its desire under the present draft of the bill.

Tornado Is Most Frequent Disaster; Causes Heavy Loss of Lives

What type of disaster occurs most frequently in the United States?

This question is answered from the relief annals of the American Red Cross which show over a period of years that the tornado, or cyclone as it is called in some sections, is the most frequent and causes a heavy toll of life. It swoops almost without warning, and in the terrific whirlpool of its fierce winds it destroys all in its path.

The Red Cross gave relief in 44 tornadoes in eighteen states last year. The tornadoes killed 326 persons, injured 2,535 and the Red Cross gave aid to 21,738 who were homeless, injured or otherwise victims of the storms.

Toll of the Earthquake

When a severe earthquake killed 95 persons; injured 4,211 and destroyed several thousand homes in Southern California last March, the Red Cross was first upon the ground with emergency relief. It required more than three months for the Red Cross to restore the needy to a self-sustaining basis. The organization expended a relief fund of $111,000.

Serves Under Five Presidents

John Barton Payne, a retired judge and lawyer of international reputation, is serving his twelfth year as chairman of the American Red Cross. His service is without pay, and his appointment is by the President of the United States. He has served by appointment in high public office under five presidents—Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt.

If public education in the future is to be supported by a whiskey tax, why not make the local school superintendent manager of the state liquor store and save all those salaries?

SPECIAL ELECTION DECEMBER 20TH

SEWAGE DISPOSAL TO BE VOTED UPON AGAIN

City Administration Makes Plea to Voters for Favorable Action in View of Conditions

Wednesday, December 20th, has been definitely set by the city council as the date for the second special election to decide upon the issuance of revenue bonds to finance a sewage treatment plant for Charlevoix.

In the first of a series of articles which will appear in this paper each week prior to the election, the city administration is pointing out to taxpayers all possible angles of the proposal, its necessity, etc., with a plea that the stress of present times, as well as the fact that now is the favorable time to construct the plant, be recognized.

The first article follows:

To the general public the question of sewage disposal for the City of Charlevoix may be a relatively recent subject. However, such a project has been seriously considered for a period of six years by past administrations. For a longer period than this the Michigan State Department of Health has been agitating the matter of sewage disposal at Charlevoix.

The fact that a complete analysis of the sewage problem was presented to the mayor and council in October 1926 by Pearce, Greeley and Hansen, substantiates the above statement. This report cost the City of Charlevoix $750.00 and was a very thorough survey of the situation by one of the outstanding firms engaged in sanitary engineering.

That more thought was given this matter by the representatives of the people is shown by the fact that a second report was proposed and presented to the council in March, 1931. This report brought up to date the survey of 1926 and analyzed in some detail various types of treatment works. The amount expended for this report was $100.

It is apparent that the demands of the Michigan State Department of Health so influenced our past administrations that they felt justified in expending $850 for surveys and reports compiled prior to March, 1931. It is unfortunate that an equal amount of consideration has not been given this matter by the citizens of Charlevoix.

It is not necessary to go into the details of "why" Charlevoix needs a sewage disposal system. It is a generally accepted fact that we must take care of our sewage in the near future.

That now is the logical time for undertaking such a project must be universally realized because now of all times we can accomplish a dual result. We can relieve a condition of unemployment that has existed for many months and at the same time carry through a project that will enable Charlevoix to maintain the leading place it has always held as the most ideal resort town of the north, a project that will be an everlasting source of civic pride and a positive insurance for the health of our citizens and summer visitors.

In regard to the employment made possible by this project, any unemployed citizen wishing work would be eligible for a job. No contracts of any kind have been let as yet. If they are, it will be with the express condition that all labor be recruited in the City of Charlevoix. Work on this project would be manual labor to the greatest extent possible; which refutes steam shovel rumors and other statements of the "complete" (Continued on page 2.)

NEED MORE CLOTHING, FOOTWEAR, TO GIVE TO NEEDY CHILDREN

The committee appointed at the November W. C. T. U. meeting to co-operate with school teachers in the work of gathering and distributing clothing to the needy, reports progress in their activities. Many garments have been gathered and distributed so far.

The committee reports need for more garments, especially sweaters, winter coats and warm footwear of all kinds. These articles may be brought to the grade building where Mrs. Gertrude Dick is in charge, or notify Mrs. George Kelderhouse, the chairman. The distribution room is above the community room in the grade building.

STUDY INFANT CARE IS BEING ARRANGED

Series of Meetings During December and January Planned

Miss Edna Lockwood, Charlevoix county nurse connected with the District Health Unit, has arranged, with approval of the Children's Fund of Michigan, to give a series of infancy and maternity classes.

These classes will be held each Friday during the months of December and January, at 1:30 p. m., starting December 8th, in the community room of the Charlevoix grade school building.

Everyone interested in infants and in infant care, particularly expectant mothers, will welcome the opportunity of studying such vital topics as the examination of the mother during pregnancy, the delivery of the baby, clothing for the baby, plans for feeding and the general care of the infant.

W. C. T. U. OBSERVE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

PROGRAM AT THE METHODIST CHURCH FRIDAY NIGHT

Despite Repeal and Reverses Local Union Plans to Continue Work Started Fifty Years Ago

The Charlevoix Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which was organized between July 24th and 26th, 1883, observed its fiftieth anniversary at a meeting held in the social rooms of the Methodist church on Friday evening. This was a most delightful occasion with seventy-five members and friends in attendance.

The formal program consisted of a salute to the flag led by Mrs. Mary Hamilton; devotions conducted by Mrs. Mary Kirby; greetings by the president, Mrs. Gladys Palmer; the ladies' quartette composed of Mesdames Cross, Miles, Kelderhouse and Stelter sang "White Ribbon Vibrations" and "O Womanhood Arise," also led the company in singing patriotic songs; Mrs. Saltonstall gave "The Story of the Fifty Years;" a short message was read from Miss Agnes Rodger, a past president; Mesdames Armstrong, Blackwood, Burns, Cross, Jacobs and Stelter responded when "One Minute Reminiscences" were called for. Mrs. Helen M. Hurd gave an address on "The Present Outlook," calling on Dr. F. F. McMillan to close with something in a lighter vein, which proved to be an original poem on the liquor evil, composed in the doctor's high school days, and very amusing.

Rev. W. W. Hurd, pastor of the church, and his wife, made everyone feel at home during the social hour which followed the program. Mrs. Edith Meggison was in charge of the refreshment table. An enormous birthday cake made by Mrs. Lucy Hooker and decorated with fifty candles was more than sufficient to serve the entire company. Mrs. Ella Usher assisted Mrs. Hooker in cutting and serving the cake.

In spite of repeal and other reverses Charlevoix Union plans to continue its work. It will "enlarge not lessen its activities." It will "advance not retreat."

BENEFIT DANCE FOR HOSPITAL TUESDAY

Interested Individuals Sponsor Affair to Raise Needed Funds

A group of individuals interested in the welfare of Charlevoix hospital, now beset with financial difficulty due to shortage of funds for operation, are sponsoring a benefit dancing party to be given Tuesday evening, December 5th, at the high school gymnasium.

Wexstaff's orchestra has been procured to furnish music for the evening, and Tony Novotny, well known accordionist, will play for special numbers. The program will include both round and square dances. In addition to dancing, tables will be available for those desiring to play cards.

An admission price of 50c per couple will be charged and 20c each for spectators. All proceeds of the affair will be turned over to the hospital. School authorities have donated use of the gymnasium for the party. A large attendance is desired for this worthy cause.

A Pilgrim supper and program will be given at the Congregational church, Tuesday, December 5th, from 5:30 on. Adults 25c, children 15c.—Adv. 4811.

An Editorial

Charlevoix's two banking institutions, one closed for withdrawal of deposits a month and other since last spring, are preparing for reopening.

Both institutions have presented reorganization plans designed for the best interests of their depositors. They have thrown down the gauntlet to their creditors to determine whether or not the banks shall open and attempt to work out of a situation which has not been altogether of their making, or go into costly receivership and liquidation.

Charlevoix has the past few weeks experienced conditions unparalleled in its history. Business is at a standstill. Citizens of means have been forced to a hand-to-mouth existence. Those who ordinarily would have made their own way have been thrown into "welfare." The Christmas season approaches upon a city "broke."

These conditions can be alleviated. It is within the power of the citizens of Charlevoix to make it possible for our banking institutions to reopen within a short time. It is within their power to release nearly a half million dollars for use of an impoverished city. They need only to act at once in signing waivers necessary to complete the plans of reorganization.

This is no time for quibbling. Perhaps the plans are distasteful to some, but at such a time as this it is not fair for a few to stand in the way of the majority. This is no time for politics; no time for personalities; for petty prejudices. The future of Charlevoix depends upon unselfish, quick action.

Let the citizens of our city rally to this cause at once. Let's open Charlevoix's two banking institutions BEFORE CHRISTMAS!

STATE BANK PLAN REORGANIZATION

PROPOSAL PRESENTED AT MASS MEETING TUESDAY

Reopening Would Be On 60-40
Basis, Releasing Around $200-
000 in Cash to Depositors

The Charlevoix State Savings bank, operated under conservatorship since early last spring, presented its reorganization plans to depositors through its attorney, Rollie L. Lewis, at a mass meeting held Tuesday evening at the gymnasium.

The plan, sponsored and approved by the state banking department, provides for establishment of a new bank with capitalization of $250,000.00, to be furnished by assessment of 100 per cent against the present stockholders. In event the assessment fails to provide the necessary capital stock, depositors will be privileged to buy in to complete the capital structure.

Creditors are asked to waive 60 per cent of their deposits. The balance of 40 per cent, plus trust accounts and deposits of $10 and under, will be available in cash upon reopening. The plan provides depositors representing 75 per cent of total savings and commercial accounts must sign waivers. The amount to be released will approximate $200,000.

The 60 per cent waived will be held in trust for liquidation by the Charlevoix State Savings Bank Depositors' corporation, organized for the purpose and composed of F. S. Myers, Dr. F. H. Wilkinson and Fenton R. Bulow, trustees elected at the mass meeting Tuesday night. The Corporation will issue to each depositor and creditor a certificate of indebtedness giving the holder right to his ratable share of proceeds from liquidation of "frozen" assets. The Corporation will borrow against the "frozen" assets $27,000 from the R. F. C. to meet an indebtedness of $68,932.28 to the R. F. C. and First National Bank of Chicago, items known as "bills payable," the balance to be used for readjustment of accounts. The borrowed funds must be repaid from proceeds of liquidation prior to any distribution to depositors.

All transactions, election of directors and officers, and other affairs of the new bank are subject to approval of the state banking commissioner.

On page four of this issue will be found the complete reorganization plan and the waiver agreement.

STATE FERRY EMPLOYEES ON NEW SCALE OF WAGE

All Michigan state ferry employees are now on a wage scale which approximates the scale adopted by the Lake Carriers' association on Sept. 1. It is announced by State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wageningen.

MILLIONS OFFERED TO FARMERS OF MICHIGAN

New Federal Loan Agencies Make Funds Available

Michigan farmers will be offered millions of dollars in additional credit through two new federal agencies, Ralph L. Harmon of the federal intermediate credit bank of St. Paul announced Friday.

The official explained that farmers may obtain loans through local farm credit associations to be formed under the production credit corporation. He said each borrower would be required to purchase $5 in stock for each $100 borrowed.

The other federal agency is the land bank, which will sponsor the organization of farm loan associations to underwrite farm mortgages. Harmon said these agencies will assist in providing credit for farmers until the banks themselves are able to meet the credit needs.

WINDER RETURNED COMMERCE HEAD

RE-ELECTED AT ANNUAL MEETING
THURSDAY NIGHT

Association Plans Cooperation With City and Welfare Authorities
On Work Projects

(By F. V. Tyler).
Dr. C. J. Winder, president of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce, was returned to that office for 1933-34 by the unanimous vote of the Association's annual meeting, which was held at the I. O. O. F. hall, last Thursday evening. S. M. Rose was elected first vice president; J. M. Foster, second vice president; Milton Block, third vice president, and F. V. Tyler was elected secretary-treasurer of the association to succeed himself.

The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p. m., following a delicious banquet provided by the past noble grands of the Rebekah lodge, with Dr. Winder presiding. In the absence of Dr. F. A. Reagan, district field representative of the state welfare commission, who was to have been present, but could not attend on account of pressure of other business, Dr. Winder bespoke for him the cooperation of the city council and the Association of Commerce in the matter of providing work projects for the unemployed of this community, and outlined Dr. Reagan's recommendations on this score. The doctor also mentioned a number of projects that have been brought up from time to time at previous meetings of the association as proper subjects for consideration at this time—such as the installation of shuffleboard and tennis courts, the improvement of bathing beaches, the erection of bath houses, open air fish pool, etc. A general discussion followed, resulting in the suggestion of such projects as a second scenic drive along Lake Michigan, north of town, at the end of Mercet boulevard; a deer park, similar to the one at East Jordan; the resumption of the re-location of U. S. highway No. 31, north of town; a combination comfort station and bath house of permanent stone construction on Lake Michigan beach, near the life-saving station and the matter of negotiating for a new postoffice building.

On motion of Capt. S. M. Rose, the chairman was requested to appoint a committee of three to draw up and circulate a petition for a new postoffice building. Dr. Armstrong's motion that a committee of five be appointed to cooperate with the welfare commission was carried.

The service will establish a winter base at the St. Ignace airport and a plane will be kept at the newly built ten-plane hangar. Emergency service within a hundred-mile radius will be offered and coast guard units have been notified of this.

The Hammond Service hopes to have a mail base at St. Ignace for delivery to Mackinac Island and Beaver Island. Its plane will be equipped with pontoons, wheels or skis as conditions demand and will be available as a flying ambulance.

CIVIL WORKS PROGRAM IS STARTED

NEARLY THREE HUNDRED MEN
AT WORK MONDAY

Eleven Highway, Three Municipal Projects Approved — Welfare
Set-Up Complete and At Work

According to J. M. Foster, chairman of the Emergency Welfare Relief committee, two hundred and seventy-five men were put to work in Charlevoix county Monday morning.

Six Civil Works highway jobs were started at scattered points throughout the county, and these projects, together with welfare work relief jobs, provided employment for the number of men stated above. This number was increased Wednesday morning by commencement of the work of reconstructing the transmission line between Charlevoix and Bellaire, one of three local municipal projects already approved. It is anticipated work will be started next Monday on May and Autrim street storm sewer projects with completion of plans and cost estimated which are yet to be furnished.

Charlevoix county's quota of men under the C. W. A. program is 405, an increase of 205 over the first figures released. Over one-half of the total allotment will be given employment immediately. They are being taken strictly from the welfare lists. The remaining number will be hired as projects are made available and they must be welfare dependents or those on the verge of receiving aid. Each man will be given an opportunity to work 30 hours per week. Trained workmen will receive $1.20 per hour while unskilled labor will be paid at the rate of 50c per hour.

Eleven highway projects, divided between county highways and state trunk lines, were approved for Charlevoix county Saturday at Cadillac. The program will provide 109,830 hours of work. The labor cost is estimated at $33,000, supervision and materials at $17,900, or a total of $51,000.

The eleven projects are as follows:
1. Grade widening, tree trimming and gravel stock piles from Boyne Falls south on M-131, 3.5 miles.
2. Grade widening from Bay Shore west on US-31, 5 miles.
3. Grade widening and gravel surface, 9.75 miles, west part of Eveline, west part of South Arm, east part of Wilson township.
4. Grade widening, tree trimming and right-of-way clean-up on west shore of South Arm of Lake Charlevoix in Eveline and South Arm townships on M-66, 5.5 miles.
5. Repair on bridge beam, US-31, Charlevoix.

6. Grading 2½ miles on town line, Boyne Valley and Wilson; 3½ miles northeast part of Wilson.
7. Grade widening, ditching, tree trimming and roadside clean-up on M-131 north of Boyne Falls, 4.5 miles.
8. Grade widening, ditching and patching, 8.5 miles, from US-31 south to Lake Charlevoix in Hayes township.
9. Grade widening, ditching, moving fence on US-31 south of Charlevoix, 6.5 miles.
10. Grade widening and ditching, 6 miles, from southeast corner section (Continued on page 7.)

SPECIAL ELECTION

mechanization of the undertaking.

The total cost of the project would be $86,700. Of this amount $31,590 would be available for labor, and we mean labor; engineers, inspection and administration expenses not included. The policy of the public works administration is to grant 30 per cent of the cost of material and labor to projects of this nature. This means that $19,200 will be given to the citizens of Charlevoix and positively need never be paid back. Furthermore, the sum of $86,700 includes everything, including cost of site.

The site chosen for this plant is the entire O. E. Wilbur property extending from the channel mouth on the north, to the O'Neil property on the south and includes the vacant lot south of F. S. Myers' property with thirty-four foot frontage on Bridge street. This is now used as a driveway.

This site has been chosen as the most suitable location from both an economic and operational standpoint. More on this subject will appear in a future publication.

Options on the Wilbur property to the amount of $300 have already been paid, which will apply on the purchase price of the property. The purchase price as before stated, being $10,000.

The buildings erected to house the treatment works will be attractive indeed. There will be no unsightly clutter of ugly structures. What can be done to beautify sewage disposal plants can be seen in a number of views on file in the office of the city clerk.

There is no doubt that the community spirit and desire for group benefit so lacking as shown by the last election will operate in full force at the next election on December 20th. When the citizens of Charlevoix realize the full importance of the decision now confronting them, they can not help but show by their mass action that the sewage project should be approved.

Approved: L. S. Sec, mayor; Wm. Hlgman, chairman of committee on streets, sewers and public health; Vincent S. Madison, superintendent municipal utilities.

This is the GOLDEN AGE

OUR time is the greatest the world has ever seen. We have more to be happy with. We have better things, greater variety, keener comforts for our choosing, more conveniences to help us in our work, more things that elevate and entertain.

This is the day of better homes, better clothing, better babies, better health, better everything. Compare any phase of our life with that of years ago and you will find that it is better.

And what is the instrument that has made, and is making these better things possible? Advertising!

Advertising is the news of all the looms, all the furnaces, all the laboratories, all the shops, all the stores that are working, planning and building for you.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once would have been worth a king's ransom, are yours at little cost. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, manufacturer against manufacturer, for your benefit. This competition brings out the best there is in everything for your personal benefit.

You wouldn't know about many boons of modern life except through advertising. That is why you are not taking full advantage of the better things today if you consistently overlook the advertisements.

Why Children Need a Liquid Laxative

The temporary relief children get from some synthetic, habit-forming cathartic may cause bowel strain, and even set-up irritation in the kidneys. A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to give the child "a double dose" a day or two later.

Can constipation be corrected in children? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say many mothers who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Give the dose you find suited to the system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until the bowels are moving regularly without aid.

An approved liquid laxative (one that is widely used for children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The mild laxative action of this excellent preparation is the best form of help for children—and grown-ups, too. The dose can be regulated for any age or need.

Solid Comfort at Outdoor Sports

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

COLOR, color, color with furs and furs and tweeds and tweeds galore, together with all sorts of other novelty woollens in endless procession, that's the story of the fashions for spectators at fall and winter outdoor sports. Suppose we make a close-up study of them individually, rather than collectively.

The eye-biting costume in the upper left of the illustration is without a doubt a good starting point, giving us a picture of a perfect grandstand outfit. The leopard-skin sweater coat over a brown and tan plaid suit with a color-dotted Ascot are typical in the realm of spectator ensembles. By the way, please to notice that we said plaid suit with emphasis on the word suit. It's this way, fashion is making a special feature of jacket-and-skirt two-pieces of ray plaid woollens and for that matter of all kinds of bright suitings, which can be comfortably worn under sports topecoats.

Another sports ensemble that goes places this fall and winter is shown at the right to the top of this group. It is brown and white tweed, of course, for about every other suit is of tweed. The high-neck somewhat Russian tunic is made on the reverse side of the material. The lipstick buttons of painted wood are a chic trimming feature. Tap milk lines the large collar which may be turned up or down at will of its wearer.

As to the girl in the center, she is wearing one of those slim, snug little cloth suits which has the merit of slipping easily under a fur coat. It is tailored of bright red wool, but it is her kolliaski scarf bon which we want to talk about mostly. It's just out, so really new that so far they are shown only in the high-class shops.

ADVANCE FASHIONS ARE REAL ECONOMY

Women seem so startled when they occasionally learn that something in last season's wardrobe need not be relegated to the ashcan. All competent performers should show their shopping ability by choosing each season several good, advance fashions that brand them as "leaders" and not "followers." This system keeps the entire wardrobe diverting and interesting at all times. The "followers" may all go in now for Vivienne's Arab burnoose evening wrap which she introduced in the spring in satin. You get to slip this over your head in true Moorish fashion. The only difference is that you'll probably gallop out to a first night opening instead of into the desert to have sand blow in your eye. And check your budget before ordering your burnoose to see if you should have it in velvet or ermine. Both are lovely.

Straight Silhouette Is Favored in Sports Mode

A new jaunty sports mode on a straight, clean cut silhouette has been launched by Lanvin this year. In contrast to the curved silhouette shown for more formal clothes. Olive green, brown, and navy blue woollens fashion two-piece frocks or slender skirts topped by loose three-quarter-length coats, cut on a breezy line, with most of the fullness in the back. Trim collars of astrakhan, shaved lamb or muskrat complete the ensembles.

Short Hair

Dinky little hats look prettiest when the hair is short, though the dying hasn't perished, by any means. Hair is cut so that it is just long enough for a single upturn along the tape line.

Youth adores these long narrow howl-fur scarfs and as a matter of fact they are making a decided "hit" with those older, as well.

A very welcome accessory to comfort and to smartness is the little muff that keeps company with a coat of like fur. That is what the bright-eyed maid, below to the left in the picture, is trying to tell us. Hers is a coat of line-jap mink and the wee muff is ditto. The full sleeves testify to this model being of this-year vintage. The beret which tops her curly bob is brown antelope with a pompadour of mink fur just to be pert. The next sport she attends perhaps she will substitute a checked green woolen frock for the brown one she is now wearing. For the latest color, formula fashion prescribes greens with browns for high style. To complement her green dress she will don one of the new alpine suits in bright green which will be sure to have a feather of many colors thrust inconspicuously through a peaked crown.

Another tweed—down in the right corner of the picture. Notice the skin-light skirt. The closer fitting the smarter, says fashion, and it is to be observed that the majority of the younger set is losing no opportunity to impress the world at large that this is so. Button your tweed one-piece dress down the back or button it down the front but be sure to see that there's the proper quota of buttons somewhere upon it.

The color scheme for this swanky dress with matching coat is green with brown, collared with natural lynx, and topped with a brown felt splane hat which sports a multi-colored quill positioned at a picturesque slant.

CHIC CASUAL FROCK

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is just such frocks as this which capitalizes simplicity in its every detail and line which a best-dressed woman is choosing to wear during the daytime hours. This particular model is made of a strikingly handsome material, a self-stripe fabric of beige, to a ravishing mandarin red.

Proof of Affection

The chorus girl was giving notice that the company would have to discontinue with her services, owing to her approaching marriage.

"Pretty sudden, isn't it?" growled the manager.

"It was, in a way," agreed the girl. "I only met him a short time ago, and at first I wasn't sure of my feelings. But the moment I saw his car I knew I loved him."—Stray Stories.

HOW MANY OF US GO THROUGH LIFE BLIND TO BEAUTY?

In a book called "On Being Alive," the well-known Dr. Walter Russell Howie pleads with us to seek and appreciate the beauty around us. "Open your eyes," says he, "and look. Make up your mind to be on the watch for something which will give you a new taw of enjoyment, something which will make you stop and say, 'I never noticed that before,' or 'I never knew it, but that really is beautiful.'"

And the author goes on to enumerate the many spectacles of exquisite beauty in country and city that are before our eyes, but by most of us unseen. What we really need, for the greater enjoyment of life and all the beauty around us, is some "Celestial Surgeon," to stab our spirits broad awake.

What vast implications are in that thought! What limitless vistas it opens in one's mind for greater peace and happiness for all of us, for life as we would all live it!

For such a Celestial Surgeon who could "stab our spirits broad awake" would make us more sensitive not only to the scenic beauty around us. With "our spirits broad awake" our perceptions would be sharpened, too, to the beauty in the people about us. We should be able to see through surface fretfulness and maladjustments to the heart of people, which are usually good. With our "spirits broad awake" we should understand the unexpressed motive, the unspoken word, the caress that is held back.

With "our spirits broad awake" all the littlest things that clutter up living would sink into their true perspective. The big things, the important things, the realities in human relationship would be ever before us—we would live gallantly, the kind of living that brings no regrets.

Ease Pain, Headache in Few Minutes

For Quick Relief Say BAYER Aspirin—When You Buy

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered. Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking. The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And this is ready to go to work almost instantly. When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

SOLVING ONE PROBLEM

If we so organize our educational processes that every year there will flow into the life of our nation 5,000,000 young men and women, who are educated not only in knowledge but in character and public spirit, we shall not be concerned with the problem of the criminal.—Dr. Robert C. Hooper, president of Rutgers university.

Do this for Your Child in TWO WEEKS

How to rid any boy or girl of sluggishness or constipation and build a big appetite. The trouble with children who will not eat is usual stasis. The symptoms are a tongue that's always coated, bad breath, poor color, dull eyes that are often a bilious yellow. No appetite, no ambition—even for play. Hard to get to sleep, hard to wake in the morning.

There's an absolute remedy for this condition. It gives listless youngsters the appetite and energies of a young animal! They eat! They gain! They keep well!

It's not the stomach, but the bowel condition that keeps children from eating. But the trouble is in the lower bowel—the colon. California syrup of figs is the only "mellin" that is needed to stimulate the colon muscles. The very next day, your child is eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and you will see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight and spirits.

Any drug store has the real California syrup of figs, all bottled, with directions. Nature never made a nicer nectar or nicer tasting laxative. (It is purely vegetable.) Remember California syrup of figs when sickness, a cold or any upset has clogged a child's bowels.

WARNING: Even when it's something to give children, some stores will try to substitute. So be sure the bottle says CALIFORNIA Syrup of Figs.

Fifty Famous Frontiersmen

By

ELMO SCOTT WATSON

He Led Boone to Kentucky

All Americans know the name of Daniel Boone and most of them, no doubt, think of him as one of the first, if not the first, pioneer into the "Dark and Bloody Ground" of Kentucky. But how many of them have ever heard of the man who was most responsible for Boone's going there and who guided him to that alluring promised land?

John Finley, or Finlay, was that man's name and he was the son of Archibald Finley, who emigrated from County Armagh in Ireland to Bucks county, Pa., in 1731. When young John grew up he established himself as a trader and horse peddler at Carlisle, Pa., and in 1747 he was licensed as an Indian trader.

During the next eight years Finley carried on his trading expeditions into the West and in the autumn of 1752, with three or four companions, he descended the Ohio in a canoe as far as the falls at the present city of Louisville. From there they accompanied a party of Shawnees to their town near the present city of Winchester, Ky., and there from another party of traders Finley learned of the Great Warriors' Path.

After a series of adventures Finley returned to Pennsylvania and at the outbreak of the French and Indian war he enlisted as a wagoner in Braddock's army. Another wagoner in the same expedition was a young man named Daniel Boone and over the campfires of the campaign of 1755 young Boone was an eager listener to Finley's stirring tales of the hunter's paradise which he had visited beyond the mountains.

But, although Boone's imagination had been fired by Finley's narrative, nothing came of it until 1758. In that year the Pennsylvania trader, peddling his guns, needles, thread and Irish linens down in North Carolina, learned from some Pennsylvania settlers there that his old comrade-in-arms of the Braddock days was living on the Upper Yadkin, and immediately went to visit him.

Learning of Boone's failure to reach Kentucky by way of the difficult Big Sandy river route, Finley told him again of the Cumberland Gap route and again the Irishman's eloquent tongue poured into Boone's ears his tales of a country teeming with wild game. The result was that on May 1, 1760, with Finley as his guide, Boone, accompanied by four of his neighbors, began his historic journey and a few weeks later he stood in Cumberland Gap and looked down into the land of his dreams, the country with which his name was to be forever inseparably linked—"Kaintuckee."

Bill Tilghman, Frontier Marshal

"THOSE who live by the sword shall perish by the sword"—how true it was of so many of the famous frontiersmen, only, of course, the word "six-gun" must be substituted for "sword." It was true of peace officers as well as of outlaws. And what a queer turn of fate it was that one of the most famous of all the old-time frontier marshals should perish thus in a modern day when the old Wild West was but a memory. For, on November 1, 1931, when Bill Tilghman was shot down by a federal prohibition officer in the wide-open oil town of Crouwell, Okla., where the old-time marshal had been sent to curb liquor and gambling, it marked the end of a race of peace officers, the like of which probably will never be seen again in our history.

Born on the frontier of Iowa in 1854, Tilghman left home at the age of sixteen to seek adventure in southwest Kansas. He found it there as a buffalo hunter and as a scout in the Indian wars of 1874-75 and again in 1878. Next he became marshal of Dodge City, Kan., in the days when it was known far and wide as "wicked Dodge," and there he established a reputation for fearlessness and straight shooting which remained with him to the end of his days. After three years as marshal he became chief deputy sheriff of Ford county, a job which he held for four years.

In 1889, when Oklahoma was opened to settlement, he joined the land rush and won a fine farm for himself. He was ready to settle down to a peaceful existence as a farmer but the new territory was becoming overrun with bad men of all kinds and again Tilghman was enlisted on the side of law and order, this time as a deputy United States marshal.

As deputy marshal he performed one of the greatest feats of his career—the single-handed capture of the notorious outlaw, Bill Doolin, whom he "brought back alive" when it would have been much easier to have killed him. And this was only one incident in his long career of law enforcement, from which he often retired but to which he was repeatedly called back—as marshal of Guthrie, as chief of police of Oklahoma City and as a county sheriff.

He has been called "the greatest man hunter the Southwest ever knew," "the only frontiersman who was constantly on the job for a generation and still lived" and "the last of that building breed of old-time field marshals who risked and gave their lives to push back the borders of a wilderness."

fare board in creating welfare work projects was also unanimously carried.

R. L. Lewis pointed out the development of dock and waterfront possible at the foot of Clinton street in the event that the Ayres Road property is purchased by an oil and gasoline company as a site for a new service station, such purchase now being considered. F. E. Cartier cited the success that Traverse City has had with its siltboard courts, cabin camps, etc., by locating them on or close to the highway.

Arthur von Dolcke advocated using a part of the city's advertising fund of $2,500 for the erection at various strategic points of large bill boards advertising Charlevoix. This suggestion was later incorporated into a motion by Charles Emrey that carried unanimously to the effect that the new advertising committee of the association be charged with the duty of carrying it into effect.

Dr. R. B. Armstrong pointed out the menace that the prevalence of ragweed throughout the county presents to the hay fever tourist business in August and September and urged that farmers be induced to destroy it on their farms and that road commissioners and supervisors in city and township be more vigilant in seeing that the weed is removed from along the roadsides. Dr.

Winder, at this juncture, stated that, with the permission of the meeting, he would appoint a special committee to have the elimination of ragweed as its objective.

J. M. Foster, chairman of the county welfare commission, brought up the matter of a more equitable distribution of welfare grocery orders among the merchants of the city. The matter was discussed at length and it was finally decided to let the merchants, themselves, settle the matter, the secretary being instructed to contact the grocers of the city and get their individual views on this matter.

Dr. Winder's request that the meeting go on record in favor of the various work projects that had previously been proposed met with unanimous support. Other ideas proposed were Mr. von Dolcke's suggestion that the city furnish a supply of coats and hats for our summer visitors, Mr. Hicken's regarding bowling on the green, which he described as rapidly becoming popular sport and Mr. Lewis' mention of the croquet ground established some years ago by R. C. Hammett near the north side ball park.

R. L. Lewis brought up the banking situation and urged that waivers on deposits be signed as soon as possible so that the banks might open to capacity before Christmas. He believed that a committee should be appointed by the chair to visit depositors, explain to them details of the waiver and secure as many signatures as possible. This resulted in a motion by F. E. Cartier to the effect that the association go on record as a body as being in favor of doing what it can to help our banks to get back on their feet, which was unanimously carried.

F. E. Cartier, asking if the city expected to maintain a skating rink again this year, was assured by W. P. Hicken of the school board that such was the board's intention and that the high school boys would be assigned the duty of keeping the rink clean. J. M. Foster assured Mr. Cartier that welfare labor would be available for the construction of the rink.

W. E. Parmelee spoke on providing recreational facilities for the young men of the town and believed that the rooms and equipment of the city's lodges might be utilized for this purpose. His suggestion met with the first applause of the evening. Rev. G. R. Parker offered his services in this connection, to help the project in any way possible.

The meeting was adjourned at 9:15 p. m., the president stating that his committees would be selected and the names published at a later date.

AT THE MOVIES

"Pilgrimage," the new Fox drama, comes to the Palace Theatre on Saturday and Sunday to remain for an engagement of two days. It is heralded as one of the outstanding motion picture productions of the current season.

The story of the film is reported as one of the most unusual ever to be presented on the screen. It revolves around the love of a mother for her son which becomes so tense that it turns into a burning hatred. It is the story of a mother who sends her son to war and death in order to keep him from marrying the girl he loves. She is philosophically content with the fact that the girl will not have her son, even if it does mean that he must remain only a memory in her own heart. She tries to brush him from her conscience. She is strong in her determination to drive him from her life. But, in later years, she sees just such a romance as was her son's being shattered by a selfish mother, and she devotes herself to the saving of the two strange lovers.

An article disclosing the diabolical plan of a love-crazed youth who attempted an unusual murder, then turned on the gas and left a note saying he would wait for his sweet heart "on the other side"—but the attractive typist did not keep the date, will appear in the December 3 issue of The American Weekly with The Detroit Sunday Times.

FARM DAIRY PRODUCTSMeans of Reducing Surplus and Raising of Prices

More dairy products, and particularly butter, must be consumed, says the department of agriculture, in order that the surplus may be reduced and the price stiffened.

For this purpose the department is cooperating with the state-wide movement in appealing to the people of the cities and villages to use more dairy products. This will not only help the farmer's market but will insure the consumer maximum food value as compared with other foods. The general appeal to farmers to use their own product, rather than substitutes, is being made.

A similar movement originating in Wisconsin is designed to increase the consumption of cheese, and every family in Michigan is requested to increase their consumption by at least one pound of cheese during the week of December 11.

GASOLINE TAXES SHOW
A DEFINITE DECLINEExcessive License Cost Curtails Use of Automobiles

Gasoline tax collections declined $1,187,512 during the first nine months of this year compared with the same period in 1932 and automobile license revenue decreased $1,149,492 in the past ten months from the figure for the identical period last year, the department of state announced.

The total reduction in revenue amounting to $2,337,004.00, was caused, Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald contends, because of existing high license plate prices which many motorists cannot pay and thus are denied the privilege of driving their cars.

"The maintenance of a spirit of mutual self-help, through voluntary giving, through the responsibility of local government, is of infinite importance to the future of America. Everyone who from a sympathetic heart gives to these services is giving hope and courage to some deserving family. Everyone who aids in this service will have lighted a beacon of help on the stormy coast of human adversity."

11. Grade widening and ditching, guard rails and culverts, 9.5 miles, from southeast corner section 36 north, westerly through Marlon township.

Of the above projects, work has been started on numbers 2, 4, 7, 3, 6 and 8.

Chairman Foster, assisted last week by F. A. Reagan, district field representative, has completed the personnel of the county welfare group. Lewis Cornell of East Jordan, has been named bookkeeper and Miss Hilda Brady office assistant under Gus Munn, director. Investigators and field workers have been named and are now functioning. The work of handling direct relief is now going forward with precision. Those entitled to relief are requested to apply at the offices on Petokey avenue.

Registration of unemployed is going forward throughout the county. Warren Davis, director, is in charge of the Charlevoix office, and other bureaus have been set up in other cities and villages of the county.

Those in charge of handling welfare work in the county are to be complimented upon the speedy manner in which they have organized and started functioning. It is expected the county's entire quota of 405 men will be employed within a short time, and this number will be increased by absorption of unemployed as new contract projects are approved and started.

"We are obviously coming out of the depression now," you guessed it the first time—it's Dr. Julius Klein speaking.

CITY EMPLOYEES GET SEMI-WEEKLY CHECKS

Council Approved Payroll and Other Important Business Monday

The Charlevoix city council paid all employees Monday night for the second time since the bank closing. The payroll, amounting to $955.02, included only salaries of city workers, however.

The matter of snow removal on city streets during the winter season was referred to the streets committee with power to act after scrutiny of the several bids entered.

The council authorized the mayor and clerk to purchase necessary tile for the May and Antrim street storm sewer projects which have been approved under the Civil Works program. Work on the projects is expected to be started next Monday.

H. D. Marshall has been employed to superintend the jobs for the city. A contract was awarded Robert Bonthron for installation of a new heating plant in the water pumping station on Lake Michigan. The council voted to rent to C. W. A. officials a model T Ford truck owned by the city, providing the renters carry their own insurance on the vehicle. The truck will be used to transport men to the various projects now under way in the county.

New Views

ALL who at this period attempt to follow the rapid flow of new opinions and theories must be aware of a mental hurry comparable to the sensation of being out of breath. Diverse phases of the complex human problem are engaging the attention of thinkers in many lands. As one glances over the fields of art, medicine, theology, and what is termed science, amazing changes of outlook may be noted. Promises once considered unobtainable are being realized; positions long tenuously held are being proved untenable; conclusions regarded as final are being overturned. Long-established forms of government have in some instances been swept away, and some notable changes in the social order are manifest. Many today feel themselves in a changing world and are inclined to fear the strangeness.

In the beautiful thirteenth chapter of I Corinthians, Paul writes, "Whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away." Henry Drummond, analyzing this chapter in his book "The Greatest Thing in the World," points out that Paul shows the transitory nature of the things of earth, and leads thought on to the sublime conclusion that "Love never faileth." He comments thus: "A schoolboy to-day knows more than Sir Isaac Newton knew; his knowledge has vanished away. . . . You buy the old editions of great encyclopedias for a few cents; their knowledge has vanished away. . . . And in every branch of science it is the same. . . . There is a great deal in the world that is delightful and beautiful. . . . great and eagerness; but it will not last. . . . But what is certain is that Love must last. God, the Eternal God, is Love."

Those assured of this great fact know quietness of heart amid temporal changes consequent on the passing into oblivion of many phases of an old order. Those who know something of Christian Science are not only undisturbed but full of hope and good cheer. "Mistaken views ought to be dissolving views," writes Mary Baker Eddy in "Miscellaneous Writings" (p. 290), "since whatever is false should disappear." The very fact that former beliefs and theories no longer satisfy, that they have not stood the test of emergency, is proof that they were not posited on Truth. Viewed in this light the present world upheaval, then, is a reason for gratitude and rejoicing, for it proves that through all vicissitudes human thought must continue to strive for Monday night's meeting was adjourned until the following Monday evening, December 4th, when it is anticipated further Civil Works projects will be brought up for discussion and council approval.

In Memoriam.

a solid basis for its hope, until it finds rest in God.
But what of the future, to which many may be looking with apprehension? Mrs. Eddy, who foresaw Truth's destruction of error, and the disturbance incident thereto, in conditions such as are now testing the courage of mankind, had so clear a vision of the verities of being that she could write in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 56): "Trials are proofs of God's care. . . . Each successive stage of experience unfolds new views of divine goodness and love."

So the forward look should not be a fearful peering into imaginary darkness, but an upward look of joyous anticipation. Travelers cheerfully brave rough roads and hard climbing in order to win a vantage point from which to behold a beautiful view; and pilgrims on the ascending road of experience will find themselves more than compensated for any seeming hardship by the loveliness of spiritual views, constantly being revealed to their clearer gaze. This is true in its most practical sense, as many grateful hearts can testify. Some who in recent years have encountered hardships previously undreamed of declare with sincere gratitude that in every situation, no matter how difficult, there has come to their awakened thought a fresh and sweet realization, a new view of the divine care which is far more tender than that which we associate with the protection of earthly parents. This has resulted from the better understanding of the nature of God brought to them by Christian Science.

The Apostle Paul had planned a missionary journey to Rome, but it was a roundabout way that took him there, and he reached the famous city as a prisoner. But in the long way traveled toward the place of his desire, how many wonderful views he had of God's infinite love and power! That night in the Philippian prison, when he and Silas, their feet in the stocks, sang praises and "the doors were opened, and every one's hands were loosed." The rescue from shipwreck and the protection from the bite of the viper at Melita, Paul must indeed have rejoiced as he reviewed these experiences in the quiet of the prison.

So, today, those walking in the clear light of Christian Science will not regret the overturning of human plans, nor hesitate on the brink of unfamiliar experiences; for to them the future signifies further unfoldment of the knowledge of God, a better understanding of Him whom to know aright is life eternal! WILL SURFACE M-131 WITH CONCRETE SOON

State Asking for Bids of Relocation North of Boyne Falls

Efforts of Northern Michigan road boosters to have the relocation of M-131 north of Boyne Falls surfaced with concrete have been successful. The fact became known last week when the state highway department announced advertising for bids for concrete paving.

The bids announced are a part of a group of ten paving jobs, all made a part of the new federal highway construction projects. The total cost of the entire plan nears the million mark.

The two here are listed by the United Press announcement from Lansing as follows:

On M-131, Emmet county, 5.7 miles, 20 foot concrete pavement, Petoskey south, $140,000.

On M-131, Charlevoix county, 3.4 miles, 20 foot concrete pavement, North county line south, $80,500.

Subject for Sunday, December 3, is "God the Only Cause and Creator."

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, November 26.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (Ezek. 13:6): "They have seen vanity and lying divinations, saying, The Lord saith: and the Lord hath not sent them; and they have made others to hope that they would confirm the word."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following (p. 80, 84): "Science dispels mystery and explains extraordinary phenomena; but Science never removes phenomena from the domain of reason into the realm of mysticism. When sufficiently advanced in Science to be in harmony with the truth of being, men become seers; and prophets involuntarily, controlled not by demons, spirits, or demigods, but by the one Spirit."

BUYING POWER

During the past two months there has been a swelling volume of protest from the agricultural regions concerning the decline in the purchasing power of farm products. The protests still continue so vociferously that they have attained important political status, and are widely interpreted as indicating that the plight of the farmers is more grievous than that of any other group. Probably the sudden increase in the complaints of the farmers is mostly due to disappointment.

Meanwhile the purchasing power of industrial wages had been undergoing a long decline, but a sharp increase has been noted in recent weeks. Throughout most of the depression period, the relative reduction in the buying power of the factory workers as a group has been more severe than the decline in the purchasing power of farm products, especially pronounced in the worst months of the depression in 1932 and 1933.

The farmers are now distinctly less well off than they were last July and that is much to be regretted. The change does not warrant them in supposing that the solution of their troubles should be found either in a policy of monetary inflation or in the imposition of new taxes on the industrial population in order to provide bonuses to destroy crops and to reward farmers for reducing output. Farmers are faring relatively well as compared with industrial workers.

CHRISTMAS BUYING

Each year we are hopeful that Christmas buying will exceed that of the year past. It is a natural desire, clothed with a double purpose—that increased buying will bring retail sales to a point where they will be reflected in a more prosperous Main street—that those who indulge in Christmas giving will spread greater cheer among our people at this season of the year.

At first glance it might appear selfish in connection with Christmas giving to sound a note of warning against the folly of going outside your own community to purchase your gifts. When you buy at home you not only bring cheer and gladness to the recipients of your gifts, but the price on your dollar you spend remains at home to make a better place in which to live. Buy early, and buy at home, is always good advice.

BACK TO WORK

The government's plan to put four million men to work within 30 days at more than living wages, should have the support of every American citizen. It has taken official Washington a long time to realize that the man subsisting on welfare relief is always a liability to society. His economical status never changes—in fact, it continues to be an ever increasing burden. Put to work at wages that will allow for something besides mere existence he immediately becomes a community asset, regaining the place lost when unemployment took from him the opportunity of being a breadwinner.

It is true that putting men back to work on such a gigantic scale is being viewed with alarm in certain quarters, because of the tremendous cost involved, but if our national government could spend 25 billion dollars to indulge in wholesale murder overseas, it can with far greater propriety spend a few billion dollars

TREATMENT PLANT IS SUPERIOR TYPE

CITY EXPLAINS WHY THIS SYSTEM IS PREFERRED

Point Out Sewage Treatment Plant Least Expensive and More Satisfactory Than Septic Tanks

Continuing this week with a discussion of the sewage proposition taxpayers will be asked to vote on December 20th, the city administration explains why a treatment system is superior to a septic tank system. The article follows:

Negotiations in respect to sewage treatment works were reopened in July, 1933, with a dual reason, as before stated, to relieve the condition of pollution of our bathing beaches and to aid in the solution of the unemployment problem.

The council and mayor had many highly important decisions confronting them. We will outline in brief the nature of these problems.

The first question to be answered was in regard to the type of treatment works. There were two choices possible, a modern treatment works with sludge digestion, or septic tanks.

A solution of the sewage disposal problem involves the removal of the heavier materials from the sewage by coarse screening followed by sedimentation and sterilization of the sewage with no odor nuisance.

Whichever system was decided upon the above results must be obtained. The decision then, involved what type of plant would best accomplish the results and at the same time be an economic possibility.

If septic tanks are preceded by proper screens and grit basins to remove trash and grit followed by substantial sterilization with liquid chlorine it is possible to obtain satisfactory treatment of the sewage. Gases produced in the digestion of sludge in the septic tank if liberated, will cause an odor hazard.

Treatment by sludge digestion also needs trash racks, and grit chambers. Up to this point the methods do not differ materially. In the septic tank, sedimentation or settling of the heavy solids take place and they are retained in this same chamber during the period in which they are septicized or treated. The discharge from the tank therefore is not only made up of the water which carried the sewage to the tank, but also some of this septicized material. Much chlorine is necessary to properly sterilize such a discharge. In the sludge digestion type of treatment works water and sewage are immediately separated. The water only, needs chlorine treatment and hence, requires less than the discharge from the septic tank.

The heavy sludge is pumped to a specially constructed tank which serves the purpose of a digestion chamber only. Conditions of flow and temperature are controlled and hence correct digestion is assured.

There is no control of the action in the septic tank. If sewage is delivered too fast it simply discharges to the lake. If too slow, the long retention period causes large amounts of objectionable odors and requires increased chlorination of the discharge.

In both systems, there is a treated sludge to be disposed of. The sludge from the septic tank is most vile as far as odor and appearance is concerned. This is inherent in the type of treatment and can not be controlled. The sludge from the digesuntil it is in proper condition for removal and septic tank sludge which is unspeakably odorous must be hauled through the streets and dumped in some back area. Sludge from the digestion tank is dried and in such a condition is a non-odorous earthy material in no way comparable to septic tank sludge.

Septic tanks, once installed, do not permit increase in capacity, other than building new tanks. Sludge digestion type treatment works permit changes at relatively small expense so that larger volumes may be handled.

To insure no odor from septic tanks additional expense for flag pole type vents would be required. These are a part of the sludge digestion system as planned.

Septic tanks would require five chlorinators at $1,500 each, sludge digestion one chlorinator. Septic tanks would consume twice the chlorine at about $800 per year.

Septic tanks, in the opinion of Major Rich of the Michigan State Department of Health, would give us an antiquated system that we would be sorry of ever having installed. A sludge digestion system would afford us a modern treatment plant capable of giving the most (Continued on page 8.)

REORGANIZATION PLANS PROGRESS

MEETING THIS WEEK TO DECIDE PUBLIC FUND WAIVERS

Supervisors and City Council Plan Special Sessions — School Board "Pass Buck" to Attorney General

Reorganization plans of Charlevoix's two banking institutions, insofar as public funds of the county, city and school district are concerned, are expected to be brought to a solution this week.

At 9 o'clock Friday morning the county board of supervisors will be called into session to consider the waiver plan of the Charlevoix State Savings bank, also that of the Charlevoix County bank which they approved at a recent special session but which, to date, has not been signed. At the previous meeting the board by unanimous vote passed a resolution authorizing the treasurer to sign the County bank waiver subject to approval by the finance and interest and sinking fund committees. The committees have not as yet signed and it is intimated that Friday morning the supervisors will take the matter out of the committees' hands and directly authorize the treasurer to sign.

At its meeting Monday evening, the board of education voted to sign the waivers of both banking institutions providing an opinion authorizing such action can be procured from the attorney general's department at Lansing.

The city council meets Wednesday evening in special session to consider the bank waivers.

Depositors Sign Rapidly
Officers of both banking institutions reports excellent progress with their reorganization plans. Depositors of the State bank are turning in waivers rapidly now that the reorganization is actually under way. The County bank reports waivers totalling approximately $230,000 have been brought in, making a substantial increase in responses over the past week. Beaver Island creditors of the institution signed up practically 100 per cent over the week end. The County bank plan is expected to consummate quickly as soon as the waivers of public funds are received, thus assuring re-opening at least by the first of the year.

An Editorial

Encouraging progress has been made in the reorganization of Charlevoix's two banking institutions in the past week. The response has been gratifying—showing a spirit necessary to alleviate a condition under which this city cannot long survive.

However, there must be no let-down. To the contrary the response must be speeded up until the final goal is reached—until both Charlevoix banking institutions are re-opened and their funds available to revive business which is now at a standstill.

A far more gloomy condition confronts this city if the bank reorganization plans fail, forcing them into the tedious, expensive and disastrous receivership.

With funds available upon re-opening of the banks, Charlevoix's schools will be in a position to continue throughout the winter. The education of our children will be continued uninterrupted. If the banks do not open, the schools will be forced to close—their purpose defeated by a public which would sacrifice the future of its young people for none other than a selfish motive.

Creditors and depositors of Charlevoix's two banking institutions are implored to turn a deaf ear to propagandists. Their's is not the interest of the public in general—their motives are selfish, self-centered and harmful.

Officers of the banks, by consent and approval of the Michigan banking department, have presented reorganization plans designed for the best interests of the depositors; plans allowing the speediest method of re-opening and resumption of business.

One and possibly both of Charlevoix's banks may be opened before Christmas. This possibility depends entirely upon the public. It requires SIGNING NOW!

STUDY INFANT CARE IS BEING ARRANGED

Series of Meetings During December and January Planned

Miss Edna Lockwood, Charlevoix county nurse connected with the District Health Unit, has arranged, with approval of the Children's Fund of Michigan, to give a series of infancy and maternity classes.

These classes will be held each Friday during the months of December and January, at 1:30 p. m., starting December 8th, in the community room of the Charlevoix grade school building.

Everyone interested in infants and in infant care, particularly expectant mothers, will welcome the opportunity of studying such vital topics as the examination of the mother during pregnancy, the delivery of the baby, clothing for the baby, plans for feeding and the general care of the infant.

CWA FUNDS AVAILABLE TO SCHOOLS

FEDERAL PROGRAM OFFERING OUTRIGHT GRANTS

School Officials Urged to Present Projects Immediately to County CWA Administrator

The benefit of the Federal Civil Works Administration (CWA) is now definitely offered to the rural communities of the state. The rural school richly deserves to benefit under this program and needs the benefits and improvements that are possible to be obtained under the president's program of unemployment relief. The program is ready to go into action immediately—at once—RIGHT NOW! It should be of interest to every rural community. What is possible under this program of the CWA? Who is to pay for it and how?

First: The CWA program requires that the money furnished by the federal government must be expended on a ratio of two-thirds of the total cost for labor and one-third for materials. The federal government will pay the full cost of both the labor and material as an outright grant. The rural school district will not have to repay any part of the amount for either labor or material unless the cost of materials should exceed one-third of the total cost of the project. In such case, the school district will have to repay only that amount for the cost of materials which exceeds one-third of the total cost. For example: If a project costs $300 for both labor and materials of which the labor costs $200 and materials $100 then the federal government will pay the full $300. If the project costs $320 for both labor and material of which the labor cost is $200 and the material cost $120 then the federal government will pay $300 and the only cost to the school district will be $20.

Second: What projects of improvement to the rural school can be obtained under this program of the Federal Civil Works Administration (CWA)? The following projects seem to serve the general need among the rural schools:

(a) Building of addition to school buildings to provide a library alcove for use by the general public and school.

1. Employment of attendant for library to serve entire community.

(b) Projects designed to improve sanitary conditions.

1. Digging of wells to insure a sanitary water supply.

2. Building of outside toilet of the latest sanitary design.

3. Grading of the school site to insure proper drainage.

(c) Projects for needed repairs and alterations to the school building.

1. Any repairs and alterations to correct unsafe conditions.

2. Putting in windows to correct defective lighting and ventilation.

YOUTH IS HELD FOR PLOTTING EXTORTION

Money Demanded from W. H. Porter, East Jordan Lumberman

Harold Carney, 14, East Jordan youth, is held by authorities here charged with attempting to extort $150 from W. H. Porter, East Jordan lumberman.

Mr. Porter Monday received two letters through the mail demanding that he place $150 in a can at the foot of a telephone pole north of Golden creek on the Charlevoix-East Jordan road, not later than 5 o'clock Monday night. In event he failed to have the money there the latter threatened violent consequences.

State police, federal and county officers were notified of the letters and detailed on the case. About 6:45 Monday night Carney came to the foot of the pole after the can and was arrested.

Although first denying having written the letters, it is understood Carney later confessed he alone was involved, thus refuting an earlier statement another person had directed him to commit the crime.

It is understood the case has been turned over to the juvenile court for disposition.

REPORTS ACTIVITIES PAST YEAR

COMMERCE SECRETARY LISTS FUNCTIONS OF OFFICE

Detailed Report Shows Importance of Information Bureau Service to Charlevoix

(By F. V. Tyler.)

While business at the information bureau of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce was actually greater than during the previous 1931-32 period, the number of summer people visiting the bureau during the resort season, this year, was much less than in any former year since the bureau was instituted. This, however, was to be expected, notwithstanding the promise of greater tourist traffic for northern Michigan based on the influence of the Century of Progress exposition.

From August 15, 1932, to November 23, 1933, the total number of inquiries by letter answered from this office was 286. Of these, 127 were inquiries for hotel, boarding house or cottage accommodations, 20 were from job seekers, and 139 were on miscellaneous matters, representing the usual grist of requests for information that would come to a chamber of commerce in any community. Requests for hotel accommodations were referred to the hotels of the community by letter and those for cottages were turned over to five real estate brokers, after being acknowledged. Postage expense was $12.29.

Literature mailed from this office in package lot (exclusive of those mailed out to individuals on inquiry) included 522 illustrated folders and 250 map booklets. These were mailed to the Flint Automobile club, the Young Men's Christian association, Chicago (exposition headquarters), the tourist and travel bureaus of the Kansas City Star and Chicago Daily News; the National Drama Camp association, Detroit; the Cincinnati and Detroit automobile clubs; to Messrs. Pearson, Greeley & Hansen, engineers, Chicago, and to the chambers of commerce of Boyne City, East Jordan, Cheboygan, Elk Rapids, Harbor Springs, Mackinac Island, Manistee, Petoskey, St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie and Traverse City. Postage (Continued on page 8.)

FIRELINES IN COUNTY CONSIDERED FOR CWA

Supervisor Harry Dunsmore Working On Program for Submission

The possibility that the conservation department would come in for its share of providing CWA work projects in Charlevoix county became apparent last Friday when District Supervisor Harry Dunsmore of Boyne City, met with welfare officials here to outline a program from his department.

It is anticipated that within a few days a program of fire line construction throughout the county would be ready for submission and approval. Beaver Island is also included in the plan. Mr. Dunsmore estimated 70 men could be used on this work for 30 days or more.

The work of surveying and obtaining right-of-ways is now under way.

LACK OF PROJECTS CUTS EMPLOYMENT

MEN WORKING ON CWA SHORT OF PREVIOUS WEEK

Concerted, County-Wide Drive Under Way, However, to Provide Approved Work Projects

While shortage of approved projects has sharply curtailed the number of men authorized employment on the CWA program in Charlevoix county, county, city, schools and welfare officials are bending every effort to provide jobs for welfare dependents and unemployed.

Figures obtained from the emergency relief headquarters here reveal that approximately 260 men are at work throughout the county this week, somewhat of a decrease from the previous week due to the fact that work on welfare projects has been discontinued to shift men over to the approved projects which are being financed by the CWA, and which are insufficient to absorb all available workmen.

The combined state trunk line and county highway program inaugurated last week is being continued and has been enlarged to include additional projects upon which work was not started last week. A larger portion of jobs has been provided by this program so far.

Two local municipal projects are under way. Work has been started to rebuild the transmission line between Charlevoix and Bellaire. Two crews, one of 10 men and the other of 11, are being alternated on this work. Operations were also started Monday morning on the May street storm sewer, the first of several similar projects planned for Charlevoix. Approximately 20 men are being used on this job.

In the meantime a concerted, county-wide drive is under way to provide work projects for approval before the deadline December 15th.

At a special meeting Monday afternoon, the Charlevoix board of education took under consideration a program which included re-shingling the junior high school building and south side ward school, redecorating interior, repairs, new shelves and other improvements at the public library, fire escapes and extension of stage in the gymnasium, utilization of welfare labor for the construction of an ice skating rink, work on the athletic field, etc. Several of these projects will be approved, plans and estimates of cost drawn up and then sent to Lansing for approval by state CWA officials.

Working in the same direction, the city council Monday night authorized plans and estimates be drawn up for a bath house on Lake Michigan beach, construction of shuffle board courts in the city park on Bridge street, continuance of the storm sewer program, to include Antrim, Mason and Clinton streets. City Engineer Robert F. Sloan will have completed figures and plans for these projects ready by Wednesday night, when the council meets in special session to approve them. The other plans were turned over to committees. Finances of such projects must be on the basis of $2 for labor and $1 for material and supervision. Out of the effort of the school board and council are expected to come several projects to furnish employment.

It is hoped that projects furnished by city, township and school officials of the county will ultimately absorb the quota of 550 men Charlevoix county is allotted for the CWA program.

WILL ASK SUPERVISORS TO CONSIDER BUILDING OF NEW COURT HOUSE

When the Charlevoix county board of supervisors meet in special session here Friday morning, they will be asked, among other matters, to consider a proposal to build a new county court house, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

The plan is being broached at the present time with the knowledge that the present county office building is inadequate and must be replaced at some near future date, also that provisions of the National Recovery Act may be taken advantage of to finance such a project. Another consideration is the work the proposition would furnish to unemployed.

Providing the matter meets with the approval of county solons, it must be submitted to taxpayers at a special or regular election for final sanction.

POLAR BEARS START PREPARATION MONDAY FOR 1933-34 SEASON

Local basketball fans will be interested in the announcement that the Charlevoix Polar Bears, outstanding northern Michigan independent organization, start practice next Monday night for the 1933-34 season, their seventh.

The team will again this year be under the management of Gordon Todd, with Floyd Brown as treasurer. Included in the personnel will be such well known former high school stars as Glenroy Ikens, Floyd Brown, "Bill" Supernaw, Vic Smith, Joe Smith, Lyle Beaudoin and Dean Davenport, as well as Cogh Ray "Stub" Kipke.

The management plans to schedule the usual number of well known down-state teams, also other northern Michigan independent aggregations. The date of their first game will be announced when available.

FARM CREDIT AIDED BY MICHIGAN LOANS

Long and Short Term Financing
Through Use of Federal Agencies

Further steps to hasten assistance to the credit needs of Michigan farmers was pledged by officials in charge of funds loaned to farmers at a meeting held at Michigan State college recently.

Leo T. Crowley, general agent, St. Paul Land bank, said that criticism that loans were being delayed were not merited as more than $7,000,000 worth of farm mortgages have been approved in Michigan this year. This figure compares with the $22,473,000 loaned to Michigan farmers in all the previous years of the life of the Land bank.

This money is loaned on first and second mortgages as collateral. If the loan is for does not exceed 20 per cent of the value of a farm plus 20 per cent of the values of the farm buildings a straight first mortgage is used as security. If the loan exceeds that percentage of the land and buildings' value, the applicant can ask for a commission loan in addition to the money secured by the first mortgage. The total of the two loans can not exceed 75 per cent of the normal value of the farm. Another type of credit which will be available soon was explained at the East Lansing meeting by George Susens, president of the Production Credit corporation, also located in St. Paul and serving the same four states as the Land bank. This credit is designed for short term financing of growing crops or livestock. Money borrowed will be secured by the borrowers' notes. Mortgage loans, made through the Land banks, and crop financing on loans from the Credit corporation are expected to become a permanent part of the agricultural financial system. These credit agencies are not emergency measures. Local production credit associations comparable to the local farm loan associations will be made in as many districts as necessary in Michigan. The associations are composed of the borrowers and the officers, except the secretary, must be holders of loans.

County agricultural agents heard the credit facilities discussed at the college and can give further information about them.

We read that Will Rogers is interested in a parachute factory. Probably senses a market among politicians who will be up in the air next year.

Make the Pennies Larger

WHEN James Buchanan was President and tall beaver hats were in vogue; when gentlemen wore broad cravats and ladies wore hoop skirts, the pennies they tossed to children were as big as quarters. But the cart-wheel coppers your grandfather got for keeping his face collar clean were not as big in buying power as the pennies of today.

A penny then might buy a pastry, or ten of them take one to the Fair, but your great-aunt and great-uncle couldn't have gone to a movie at any price.

Sixty years ago the ladies could go shopping for dry goods and buy silks that would make you green with envy, linens that were linens and broadcloths that beggar description. But what their favorite store did not have they usually got along without.

You can pick up your daily newspaper and in fifteen minutes you can know what the different shops are offering in fabrics, patterns, varieties and qualities that great-grandmother never dreamed could be gathered together under any conditions.

Times have changed, and so have merchandise and business methods. One of the influences that has helped to bring about so much of change, that has helped to multiply opportunities and increase the spending size of our pennies is advertising.

Every merchant, every manufacturer knows that advertising materially reduces selling costs by increasing the demand for and the distribution of the products of hundreds of thousands of mills. Indeed, many of the things we count today as necessities or simple luxuries could not be made and sold at their reasonable prices except as advertising has created a broad market for them, making millions of sales at little prices and little profits.

Cunningly Devised Fur Trimmings

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FURCRAFT is making a spectacular gesture this season in the way of both novelty and style detail. Everywhere one turns in the realm of new furs the air is charged with that thrill of excitement which attends the seeing of out-of-the-ordinary fashions. This is especially so in regard to fur used in a trimming way, likewise fur accessories—"little furs" as some one has been pleased to call the cunningly detached collar-and-muff sets, the little caplets which tie on the "mel bows" which slip over the head and are worn like a necktie and the thousand-and-one other novelties which are simply breathtaking in their unusualness.

In accents loud and clear novelty in a trimming way speaks via the fur-bordered sleeves which distinguish the brown and beige wool crepe ensemble shown to the left in the picture. The designer of this smart outfit trims the sleeves of the long coat in bands of fox in contrasting colors—beige and dark cinnamon brown. This use of two-tone fox is frequently carried out in black and white and the effect is stunning. It is interesting to note that the smart bit of headgear worn with the suit pictured is of the identical brown and beige crepe of the costume itself.

From the handsome mink-trimmed cloth coat centered below in this group some idea is gained of the novel and intriguing alliances which fur and cloth are negotiating for winter. Outstanding style points include an interesting sleeve treatment which gains fullness through the use of cartridge pleats. The coat is one of those straight up-and-down tube effects which is so slenderizing and which interprets the swagger silhouette of the moment. The fur on the sleeves is so arranged as to simulate a cape contour which is characteristic of many of the new fur treatments. The generous collar is a draped affair that may be worn in several intriguing ways when opened. The luxurious heavily furled appearance of this model is a feature accentuated in many of the latest cloth-plus-fur coats. A theme widely exploited in current fashions is that of the dress which is fur-trimmed. Sometimes it is merely a matter of shoulder epaulets made of fur or a swatch or two somewhere on the waist or skirt, perhaps in form of an unexpected pocket or a decorative tab on rever or whatever the motif may happen to be. It only takes a dash of fur positioned just right to achieve a maximum style touch.

The pen-and-ink sketch of a Paris frock, appearing above to the left in the group, demonstrates the out-of-the-ordinary trends of voguish flat fur treatments. This stunning outfit which, by the way, bears a Martini et Armand stamp, has its sleeves entirely of supple broadtail. A most unusual detachable neckpiece and a matching muff complete this story of high fashion.

The dress pictured to the right is also natively trimmed in that fabric-like fur. It is a street or business frock of gun-metal gray lightweight woolen with a swatch of Persian lamb on the skirt to correspond with the fur bertha which collars the waist.

In connection with the existing flair for flat fur trimmings we would especially emphasize the growing tendency to match the fur details on the dress with a hat of the same fur.

TUNICS RETURN TO FAVOR FOR WINTER

The tunic again is the vogue. Molyneux uses it extensively, one very stunning model being of pale dull beige ribbed velvet for an evening with a little coat trimmed with dyed martins. A yellow iris is the shoulder trimming.

The gown has that simple and slightly curved décolletage with very narrow shoulder straps—so typically Molyneuxian—and the tunic comes low over the hips. The dull beige ribbed velvet has the skirt running diagonally and the skirt beneath the tunic falls in soft lines, increasing in width from the knees to the floor.

The jacket is a sort of cape-coat affair, with two bands of the martin where the cape curves around the arm to form a sleeve, and another band of martin in a circular movement around the neck and down each side, stopping at the waist.

Tailored Waist Newest Style for Evening Wear

The tailored shirtwaist for evening wear is one of the most radiant ideas in a season noteworthy for its departure from the conventional. No matter how severe the lines of the shirtwaist, the material must be the quintessence of elegance. Lame, metallic and other gleaming materials are used with sensational success.

The brighter the shirtwaist, the duller the skirt, seems to be the rule. Long, slim skirts, designed for these unusual balliads, are best when in mossy crepe, spongy woolen, or dull, deep-piled velvet.

Some of these two-piece evening costumes have jackets to match the bodice or shirtwaist. Most women seem to prefer a dark, dull jacket to match the skirt.

FOR RESORT WEAR

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Paris collections all sound the note for resort wear. Molyneux uses corded turquoise velvet in an informal dinner gown for cruising or resort. The jacket is that cunningly constructed, it suggests, the lines of a cape. No costume, as word comes from leading style centers, is complete without jewelry. The fair resortier in the picture is wearing a stunning bracelet, and since hair ornaments are the newest note, she pins up her tresses with a star set with glittering stones of various colors.

CAP AND BELLS

HER HEART'S DESIRE

A fond father was desirous of announcing to his little daughter that the fairies had visited his house and brought a beautiful gift.

"Well, darling," he said, "the fairies have brought something to mother and I will love as much as mother and I do."

The child looked up eagerly.

"Oh, daddy, do tell me what it is."

Father, looking very solemn, said: "I'll give you one guess. What is it you want from mother more than anything else in the world?"—and then collapsed as the darling, clapping hands, shrieked: "Ginny pigs!"

Identified

The teacher was explaining the difference between the stately rose and the modest violet.

"You see, children," she said, "a beautiful, well-dressed woman walks along the street, but she is proud and does not greet anybody—that is the rose. But behind her comes a small creature with bowed head."

"Yes, miss, I know," Tommy interrupted, "that's her husband."—Stray Stories.

TIME TO FORGET

"MY OWN PEOPLE, RIGHT OR WRONG"

"No wonder," writes one of our readers, "that women are the object of all sorts of discrimination. They don't know enough to stand together. There's one organization of women gone down to Washington to fight for something for WOMEN, and another organization of WOMEN fighting against them. I think the women who are fighting other women trying to get something for women should go to jail!"

The distinguished woman writer to whom this outburst was addressed answered it thus:

"I do not feel that in this day in this country it is necessary for women to stand by women, right or wrong, because they are women. To my mind that is only justifiable in an uneven fight, at the beginning of a struggle in which everything is stacked against one."

"I think women in this country today are so utterly free, that they enjoy equality and privileges to such an extent that they now have a RESPONSIBILITY to justify their positions. And you can't do that by dividing the world into WOMEN and MEN and backing the women, right or wrong."

"The quickest way to bring prejudice and discrimination upon any class of human beings is to segregate them and announce that they are fighting, first of all, for themselves. When women had no voice in government, in education, in churches, even in their private affairs, that attitude was justified. They had no responsibility toward a society that rated them low. But in our country today we have a responsibility to maintain the right, the public good, to be fair and just and wise and stable on all questions. We have no responsibility to other women just because they are women."

"It seems to me that is the best thing we can do for women as women—to show that we can rise above conceit as women, above the greed for power and influence and personal aggrandizement—and sex distinctions."

HE NEEDED WATER

Small Eric wanted to go to the swimming baths with the bigger boys, but his teacher thought it wouldn't be safe.

"But I'm a good swimmer, sir," he pleaded.

"Can you swim a league?" asked the teacher.

The boy did not seem to grasp his meaning, so to make it clear the teacher said, "Can you swim from your desk to the door?"

"Oh, no, sir," Eric replied, "there's no water there."—London Tit-Bits.

"Well, make it snappy."

LEAKING SUN

Reid's mother was busy cleaning and Reid sat gravely studying the band of drifting dust and lint which could readily be seen in the bright path of sunlight coming in through the window.

"I know what's the matter, mamma," he decided at last, "you wouldn't have to clean nearly so much if the sun didn't always keep leaking so much dust!"—Indianapolis News.

Nonsupport

"You say that your husband doesn't buy you any clothes?"

"No, judge. If my tongue were coated it would have to be at my own expense."

A chorus man out of a job was given a small part in a play. He merely had to walk on, sent himself and say, "Well, here I am." At rehearsal he did not give satisfaction.

"My goodness," whispered the chorus man, "for $15 a week he wants me to do character parts!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Now! A Quicker Way to Ease Pain

Don't Forget Real BAYER Aspirin Starts "Taking Hold" in Few Minutes

Here is quicker relief from pain—the fastest safe relief, it is said, ever known. This is due to a scientific discovery by which BAYER Aspirin starts "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass here tells the story. A Bayer Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate as it dissolves—go to work—almost instantly. This means quick relief from pain—fewer lost hours from headache, neuritis, rheumatism. And safe relief. For genuine Bayer Aspirin does not harm the heart.

When you buy, see that you get the genuine Bayer Aspirin. The best way is never to ask for aspirin by the name "aspirin" alone. But if you want Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always to say "BAYER Aspirin."

Does Not Harm the Heart

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.

What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

AN INFORMED CITIZENRY

The National Municipal Review states that "some local governments which have never before seriously considered informing the citizenry about the services bought by taxes are turning their attention to adequate presentation of the facts." The publication of the financial statements of counties, cities and school districts is fully in accordance with sound public policy. It not only gives the taxpayer information that he has a right to have, but it helps him to form more careful judgments as to what the tax spending policy of the future should be. Officials who try to do the right thing, and who use good judgment and honest methods, are never afraid to take the people into their confidence.

CHRISTMAS BUYING

In spite of the added cost of production we find most items of merchandise being reasonably priced. Especially is this true regarding Christmas goods. Never were gift articles more alluring or more easily obtainable. You have only to watch the sale prices in this newspaper to verify the above statement. Shop early—mail early—buy at home.

LOCAL COURT SEASON OPENS FRIDAY NIGHT

C. H. S. Tossers Go to Traverse for Initial Encounter

The local basketball season will get under way Friday night when Coach Ray Kipke takes his tossers to Traverse City for their opening encounter.

Hopes of victory in the initial tilt were somewhat dimmed by injury in practice Tuesday of Jack Foster, veteran guard, who is nursing a sprained ankle and may not be available Friday. Other players who will make the Traverse City trip are Pearl Carey, Richardson and Radle, forwards; Ance, center; and Roen, Hebert and Orlowski, guards.

The team has showed up well in practice sessions and is hoped to be on a par with outstanding combinations turned out of Charlevoix high school in recent years.

MICHIGAN DEPT. OF STATE WEEKLY NEWS

During November, 1933, a total of 8,349 motor vehicle license plates were sold by the department of state as compared with 607 for November, 1932. This increase is due, in part, to the fact that the 1934 license plate sale for both new and old cars started November 15, 1933, while only license plates for new cars were sold during November, 1932.

Revenue from this source during the past month amounted to $146,990 as compared with $12,673 for November, 1932.

Motor vehicle registration lists for 1934 will be sold for $40 a set, the same price that was charged for 1933 lists. In 1931 the lists cost $200 a set. When Secretary of State Frank D. Fitzgerald ordered competitive bids for furnishing these lists, the price dropped to $50 a set in 1932 and $40 a set in 1933.

The number of private detective agencies operating in Michigan dropped from 28 to 25 during the past year. Because of difficulty in securing bonds required by the new law, a large number of the old agencies stopped doing business and several new agencies have been formed.

Michigan's 1934 license plates will not be easily confused with plates of neighboring states.

New Michigan plates have black block numerals on a yellow background. Ohio plates have white numerals on a red background; Illinois, yellow numerals on a black background; Indiana, white numerals on a black background; Wisconsin, black numerals on a light blue background. The 1934 New York plates have orange numerals on a black background while the Pennsylvania plates reverse the combination with black numerals on an orange background.

SUGAR GROWERS IN BIG CAMPAIGN

Newspaper Advertising Being Used to Boost Use of Beet Sugar

Signalizing the launching of what promises to be the most aggressive and intensive newspaper advertising campaign ever conducted by the beet sugar industry in the United States, the Farmers and Manufacturers Beet Sugar association, representing all of the sugar beet growers and practically all of the beet sugar companies operating in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana, have announced that a determined effort will be made, through the medium of newspaper advertising, to stimulate the sale of beet sugar grown and refined in Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana.

Commenting on the launching of the campaign, Dr. J. A. Brock, educational secretary of the Association, said, "It has been demonstrated that the beet sugar industry is vital to the agricultural and industrial prosperity of Michigan, Ohio and Indiana and the continuance of this industry can only be assured by our having the loyal support and active co-operation of the people in these states."

"To this end we propose to present facts concerning beet sugar and the beet sugar industry, through the medium of an extensive newspaper campaign, believing that the consumers of sugar in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana will recognize the folly of sending millions of dollars to foreign countries for a product produced by foreign labor which is, in no respect, superior to beet sugar grown on American farms by Michigan, Ohio and Indiana farmers and refined in factories located in the three state by American labor."

(d) Projects designed to improve the use and beauty of the building and grounds.

1. Painting and decorating either interior or exterior.
2. Planting of trees.
3. Landscaping.
4. Surfacing of playground areas.

The federal office of the CWA has already approved of the projects above described. Any contemplated project should be presented immediately to J. M. Foster, Charlevoix, the county CWA administrator for approval. The county CWA administrators have been appointed by the State Emergency Welfare commission. The county CWA administrator will forward all projects which he approves to the federal CWA administrator for the State of Michigan. The latter's address is 609 City National building, Lansing, Michigan.

As above stated, the money is available now and is designed to put unemployed men to work. The opportunity to secure a just share of these federal funds for the rural communities will challenge the alert rural leader. The social significance of putting unemployed men to work upon the improving of the properties of rural and village school districts warrants and demands quick action. All projects must be completed by February 15, 1934.

BIDS FOR M-131 PAVING JOB ARE OPENED

Detroit Concern Is Low Bidder for Charlevoix County Part

Bids for the paving of 3.4 miles of M-131 in Charlevoix county and for a distance of nearly 6 miles in Emmet county were opened Friday at Lansing.

The low bidders were H. Cam Nelson, Muskegon, for the Emmet county section of the new highway, with a bid of $154,416, and the C. A. Handeyside Construction Co., Detroit, with a bid of $84,436 for the Charlevoix county section.

The new highway is to be paved with concrete and work is expected to be started as early next spring as weather conditions will permit. The new road likely will be open for travel by August 1.

The new road enters Petoskey on Spring street, connecting with Charlevoix avenue. The present route some day may be changed and a circular boulevard route opened from the end of West Mitchell street to Charlevoix avenue.

Considerable work on the grade for the new route will have to be done, this including filling in of low spots which have resulted from the fills settling; smoothing up the grades; installing any new drains necessary, etc.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
Charlevoix and Ironton

Although some other organizations may have or are advertising the month of December as "joy month" in their line of activity the local pastor has done the same for several years. To him the church has first rights to such a plea or slogan. The month should be "joy month" to everyone.

With this sentiment in mind we are interrupting our series of sermons on "Grace" for a few weeks to consider subjects suitable for the approaching Christmas season. The messages for the next three Sundays will be of Christmas. Next Sunday we will consider "The Story That Never Grows Old."

We are well satisfied with the interest in the Sunday evening service. With so many things happening every day that seem to be in line with New Testament prophecy many should be interested. Consider the "diverse phases of the complex human problem" that are engaging the attention of thinkers, and compare with the statement of Paul in his second Thessalonian letter, second chapter. We are facing the delusion he speaks of in the eleventh verse: "We do not compel anyone to agree with us in points of doctrine, but we do challenge Charlevoix to study with us the 'Prophet Daniel.'"

World Date Line Only Matter of Convenience

Custom and the convenience of the public regulates the international date line, as it does the divisions between the time belts in the United States. These do not follow meridians. The time belts in the United States are regulated by the Interstate Commerce commission, but the Far East has never had a conference, international or local, to establish the date line.

It would be inconvenient, for example, for some of the Fiji Islands to have a different day than Australia or New Zealand, or to have the day of the week differ from one island to another.

Until recently map makers differed on the location of the international date line. A few years ago Prof. George Davidson of the University of California, formerly of the United States coast and geodetic survey, conducted an extensive correspondence with the various governments under the date line to see what line was actually recognized by the people who lived there. He drew a line on the map as a result of his investigation and practically all cartographers follow it.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are best for liver, bowels and stomach. One little Pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic.—Adv.

New Theory With Each
A wise father who has five sons has five theories for raising sons.

To improve Any child's APPETITE

A sluggish appetite means a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called atony, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

California syrup of figs is doing wonderful things for ailing, sickly children all over the United States.

If your baby, boy or girl is bilious—pale-faced and dull-eyed from constipation—breath bad mornings, tongue coated all the time—don't give cathartics that weaken twenty feet of bowels! Instead, a little syrup of figs that doesn't disturb either stomach or bowels, but does act on the lower colon—where the trouble lies.

Nature never has made a finer laxative for children; they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. Your child will soon be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, keep well and avoid colds.

NOTICE: The bottlers of California Syrup of Figs respectfully warn mothers that the promises made here apply only to the genuine product in bottles plainly marked CALIFORNIA.

"Father of the Texas Panhandle"

IT IS difficult to say which of the many feats in the career of Col. Charles Goodnight made him most famous. Is he best remembered as the man who blazed three important trails in the old Texas cattle driving days? Or as the head of the great J. A. ranch which once comprised more than 1,300,000 acres and had more than 100,000 cattle? Or as the founder of the widely-known "Goodnight buffalo herd" and the preserver of the last remnants of the countless millions that once roamed the plains of the West? Whichever it is, his fame as the "Father of the Texas Panhandle," a title which includes in it some elements of all three, seems secure.

Goodnight was born in Illinois on March 5, 1836—just three days after Texas, where he was to win his future renown, had declared its independence from Mexico. His parents moved to Texas in 1845, the year the Lone Star state entered the Union. So if there was ever a man who "grew up with a state," that man was Charles Goodnight.

During the Civil war Goodnight, the young ranchman, served with the Texas Rangers, fighting Indians, Mexicans and cattle and horse thieves and winning valuable experience for the stirring days that were to come. At the close of the war the Texas plains swarmed with cattle and the Texans had to find a market for them. Some of the ranchers had already begun to trail their cattle up to Abilene, Kan., for shipment East, but Goodnight saw a greater opportunity in New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming, where there were Indian agencies looking for beef.

But between the Panhandle of Texas and these markets was a vast expanse of desert country inhabited by fierce Comanches, ready to pounce on white invaders, kill them and seize their cattle. Unhunted by these dangers Goodnight looked around until he found a kindred spirit in Oliver Loving and they, with 18 daring cowboys, gathered up a herd of several thousand cattle and started out. Two months later they arrived in Fort Sumner, N. M., with a 600-mile journey safely behind them.

This trail which they blazed immediately became known as the Goodnight Trail, and later it was extended through the Raton mountains into Colorado and Wyoming.

The second of the trails which Goodnight blazed ran from Alamosa, N. M., to Granada, Colo., and this one soon became famous as the New Goodnight Trail. His third trail, laid out when he was head of the J. A. ranch, was the Palo Duro-Podge City Trail, 250 miles in length, from his ranch to Dodge City, Kan.

Famous for an Act Not His

"COLONEL CRESAP," the last spring, in cold blood and unprovoked, murdered all the relations of Logan, not even sparing my women and children. There runs not a drop of my blood in the veins of any living creature. . . . Who is there to mourn for Logan? Not one!"

Do you remember it—"The Speech of Logan" in the old McGuffey's reader? Thousands of American school-boys have recited that matchless oration and thereby perpetuated a grave injustice to a brave frontiersman. For Capt. Michael Cresap was not the sender of the party of whites who murdered the family of Logan, the Mingo chief, during Lord Dunmore's war of 1774, even though the immortal words of the heart-broken red man sent the acclamation thundering down the years.

Born in 1772, the son of Col. Thomas Cresap, a well-known Maryland pioneer, young Michael early set up as a trader. But he did not come into prominence until the year 1774 when he went across the Ohio, became a "settler" on lands owned by no less a person than George Washington, and was the subject of several inflammatory letters by that future-great Virginian.

In the spring of 1774 it was apparent that another Indian war was imminent. Dunmore sent word to the frontiersmen along the Ohio to hold themselves in readiness to repel an Indian attack. Placing a liberal interpretation on these orders, a party led by Cresap ambushed some Shawnees and killed and scalped them. This was the first blood shed by the whites, and it is a blot on the record of Cresap, even though he was innocent of the murder of Logan's family, an affair which followed soon afterwards and for which Logan, confusing the two attacks, blamed Cresap.

In June, 1774, Cresap was commissioned a captain of frontier militia by Lord Dunmore and served with him throughout the campaign.

The next year when colonial resentment against the Mother Country at last broke out into open rebellion, Cresap led a company of Maryland riflemen, with "Liberty or Death" emblazoned across their hunting shirts, to join the Continental forces of the Excellency, Gen. George Washington, at Cambridge. But before he had a chance to distinguish himself, death cut short his career. He died in New York city in October, 1775, and was buried in the churchyard of historic Old Trinity. The headstone marking his grave has long since disappeared, and his only memorial is a famous oration with its unjust accusation of a crime which he did not commit.

LAND SET ASIDE FOR SOLE USE OF FEMALE NIMRODS

Connecticut is trying out a new experiment in feminism by setting aside 300 acres in the Farmington valley for women who wish to hunt game. Last year a woman game warden was appointed and a trout stream was reserved for women anglers. Now they are encouraged to try their hand at such game as Connecticut yields—rabbits, quail, and perhaps a grouse now and then. Deer may not be killed in Connecticut, and bears seem to have disappeared, although they are to be found in Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

One peculiarity of the Connecticut plan is that women are permitted to shoot throughout the 55,000 acres of public shooting grounds, while men are excluded from the feminine preserve. Is this the beginning of a new deal, to culminate in the elimination of man and the development of female Nimrods holding a monopoly of hunting? The Nutmeg state? The authorities say no; they merely suggest that women are backward hunters, and that the special preserve will encourage them to become good shots. The warden, Miss Edith Stuehr, will be on hand to furnish clay pigeons to amateur gunners, and they will be instructed in the game laws, "so that they will know which kinds of game are protected, and do not flaze away wild at anything that comes within range."

Naturally, the preserve set aside for women would prove irresistibly tempting to male hunters, but for the danger of being mistaken for wild game. If they are wise they will keep out of this preserve until the women learn how to handle firearms and to withhold their fire until they see their target clearly. A shotgun in the hands of an excited female is notoriously a lethal weapon.—Washington Post.

DISTRICT HEALTH UNIT BULLETIN

The district health department in cooperation with the Michigan Tuberculosis Association have arranged for an X-ray diagnostic clinic for tuberculosis to be carried on at Boyne City at the school house on the afternoon of December 13th and all day of December 14th.

Those wishing to have a check-up on their condition will get in touch with Miss Lockwood, Charlevoix county nurse, or Miss Johnston, Otsego county nurse.

Please do not come to the clinic expecting an X-ray if you have not previously arranged with your county nurse.

Lowering Infant Mortality Rates — Health District No. 3

"The infant mortality rate of a community is a pretty fair index of the intelligence of that community." That is the contention of public health workers.

Since 1928 the trend of the infant death rate has been downward in district health unit No. 3, which includes Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

In comparison with the infant death rate of the state at large, the combined rate for Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties shows that there still is much that must be done if this health district is to reduce its rate below the rate of the state. From 1927 to 1932, inclusive, the district rate has been above that of the state. But a beginning has been made—a different story was told in 1932. Last year the infant death rate for district health unit No. 3 counties was 40.3 per 1,000 live births, while that for the whole state was 54.4 per 1,000 live births. It only remains to keep up the good work.

What is the significance to the public of a steadily lowering infant mortality rate? It means that more and more assurance is being given to mothers that the children they bear shall live. It is one of the aims of the work of the Children's Fund of Michigan and of district health unit No. 3, which is supported by the Children's Fund, to contribute by every means available toward making childbirth safe and toward protecting the infant after birth. The work of each county nurse is largely directed toward that end.

Mothers generally know how to take care of themselves and their babies—both before and after the birth of the babies—than they ever did before. It is the work of Miss Alice Edna Lockwood, the county nurse, to disseminate this kind of information, to get in touch with expectant mothers and with mothers after childbirth, to distribute up-to-date printed matter gotten out by health departments or organizations relative to child problems, to serve as a link between doctor and patient in order that the doctor's advice shall be intelligently followed, to give practical demonstrations of what baby likes best when it comes to his bath or the way he likes best to be clothed to meet changing weather conditions, and to be a practical help in a hundred and one different ways. While it is unlikely that the infant death rate can be kept as low as 40.3, the aim of district health unit No. 3 is to keep the rate below the average for the state.

The more happiness you give the more happiness you have left.

State Bank of East Jordan Gives Bulletin Service to Farmers

The State Bank of East Jordan has inaugurated a service to farmers that it is hoped will be greatly appreciated. A bulletin rack has been constructed and placed in the bank lobby. It is completely filled with over fifty different bulletins that have been carefully selected as being the ones most attractive to farmers. The bank is very anxious to serve its patrons and urges farmers to freely use this opportunity of studying subjects directly related to agriculture. The subjects cover pretty largely the more important activity on the general farm. Inasmuch as we are greatly interested in fruits and berries, many bulletins will be found on these subjects.

If you do not find the bulletin on the particular subject that you are greatly interested in, kindly inform the bank officials and they will be glad to make a note of your wants and inform your county agent who will be glad to furnish these publications free of charge.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Sunday morning service, 10:45.

First Wednesday evening each month at 7:45.

Subject for Sunday, December 10, is "God the Preserver of Man."

Reading room Tuesdays and Saturdays, 3 to 5 p. m.

"God the Only Cause and Creator" was the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, December 3.

Among the Bible citations was this passage (II Sam. 22:31,33): "As for God, his way is perfect; the word of the Lord is tried; he is a buckler to all them that trust in him. God is my strength and power; and he maketh my way perfect."

Correlative passages read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following: (p.192): "In Science, you can have no power opposed to God, and the physical senses must give up their false testimony. Your influence for good depends upon the weight you throw into the right scale. The good you do and embody gives you the only power obtainable. Evil is not power."

AT THE MOVIES

Having stolen pictures from practically every star in Hollywood, W. C. Fields and Alison Skipworth are now trying to steal a picture from each other.

These two lovable rascals are together at last, in a picture called "Tillie and Gus." It will be shown on Saturday for a two day run at the Palace theatre.

Fields and Skipworth play the roles of card sharks who, after emptying wallets and dodging sheriffs all the way from Shanghai to Nome, arrive back home to find their niece and her husband practically penniless due to the skin-flint methods of a hyster lawyer.

They decide to give the old crook a bit of his own medicine, help themselves to a fortune and bring happiness to the young couple. How they do it by means of a diving suit and an old ferry-boat furnishes the film with a score of hilarious moments.

Featured with the comedy team are Baby LeRoy, Jacqueline Wells, and Clifford Jones. The picture was adapted from an original story written by Rupert Hughes.

War Veterans' Problems

Not since the period of the World War has the Red Cross faced a greater problem in handling the claims of World War and other veterans. Due to the changes in the regulations covering veterans' claims, chapters all over the nation have been crowded with veteran applicants for relief and for service in preparing appeals. During last year Red Cross home service workers in 3,268 chapters dealt with the problems of 411,124 ex-service men or their families. The chapters also aided 7,346 men still in the regular army, navy and marine corps.

An Army of Children

The membership in the Junior Red Cross last year was 6,629,866 boys and girls in schools, private, public and parochial. They enjoyed volunteer work in hospitals and for orphans, the aged and crippled, and also aided their schoolfellows by providing attention for their eyes, purchasing their glasses, and giving many other types of service to them. The Juniors aid their school work by carrying on correspondence and the exchange of portfolios with school children in other nations.

RED CROSS CLOTHES THE NATION'S NEEDY

Flour, Bread, Clothing Reach Into More Than Five Million Homes of Jobless

The greatest task ever undertaken by a relief agency in the history of private charity is drawing to a close with the final distribution of cotton clothing to more than five million families by the American Red Cross.

At the direction of the Congress, beginning eighteen months ago, the Red Cross undertook to convert the wheat and cotton surpluses of the Farm Board into food and clothing for the unemployed and needy. In the consequent operation, this relief agency entered upon a commercial enterprise greater than any single commercial firm has ever undertaken in the same period of time.

In the ensuing months the Red Cross converted 85,000,000 bushels of wheat into flour and bread and gave it to 5,603,000 families. The distribution was through 3,700 Red Cross chapters and hundreds of other charitable agencies. During the severe northwestern drought of 1931 the Red Cross also gave wheat in the form of food for livestock to 184,158 families.

The clothing—dresses, underwear, overalls, jumpers, sweaters and stockings for men, women and children, and even blankets and comforters—was distributed to 5,465,410 families. More than 54,000,000 ready-made garments and 92,000,000 yards of cotton cloth were given to the needy. This clothing came from $44,000 bales of cotton.

The wheat distribution was concluded in June, 1933, and final distribution of cotton clothing is occurring in the fall months.

In handling these tasks voted to it by Congress, the Red Cross will expend from its own treasury $735,000. At the same time the organization carried on its regular program of disaster relief, of service to the veterans of all our wars; of educational and welfare work through the Junior Red Cross; of health education and public health nursing and of life saving and first aid. Funds for this work come from the membership roll call the Red Cross chapters conduct from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, when every one is invited to join the Red Cross and aid in this vital relief work.

EDITORIALS

A THIRD PARTY

It is unlikely that Michigan folks will become unduly excited over the news coming out of Detroit a few days ago, announcing the birth of a third party in this state—the Progressive-Fusionist party. For some underlying cause our people have never seemed to enthuse over these new and untried journeys into the realm of politics. It is true that a few years ago the Progressive movement struck deep at the root of some of the old political tenants, but not even the dynamic personality of a beloved ex-president was able to keep it alive beyond the formative period.

It may be to renew some of that old spirit that this latest party is to use the portraits of Thomas Jefferson and Theodore Roosevelt on its party vignette. The attempt will not succeed. Our people have too much reverence for these leaders of old to confuse the principles of free government which they espoused with that of individual expediency and evaluation. Until there is real need for breaking away from the two dominant parties, movements of this character will not travel far. If the time should come (and we are not saying this will not happen) when a real crisis in government is reached, a third party might find favor in the public eye.

We are living in a day of government by trial and error. Under such conditions anything is liable to happen. But when any party capable of contesting successfully for political control, either in the state or the nation, its membership will not be composed of the self-starter type of political self-seekers, but by men and women willing to undergo every trial and hardship necessary for the perpetuation of liberty and the Union.

GOVERNMENT BILLIONS

A great deal of fear is being expressed about how the government is going to provide the billions of dollars necessary for national rehabilitation and not end up by occupying a seat in the pauper's corner. First the nation should realize that outside the sums being granted outright for welfare and agricultural needs, practically all other government journeys into the fields of national relief are in the shape of loans to finance, industry, individual farm and home requirements, all of which will eventually be repaid with interest. It ought to be adequately clear by this time that without immediate government aid the entire plan for recovery is doomed to collapse. Some of the plans advanced may not meet with our idea of safe government financing, but what else is there left to do? Private credit facilities have almost wholly disappeared. Something must be devised to take its place. If twenty-five billion dollars could be provided for destructive war purposes and not impair the credit of the nation, why should the assembling of ten billion dollars for constructive purposes be hailed with so much fear and trembling? As long as there is one dollar of government credit remaining it should be used to help win this battle. It is the people who are the government, and it is the people who will perish if the fight is not won. Every known law of self-preservation points to the road we should take.

THERE IS A SANTA CLAUS

Thanksgiving, and Junior's subsequent illness, are past and this week Michigan turns hopefully toward the first signs of Christmas presents as the next indication of a good meal.

Christmas! It may not mean so much to some who are still feeling the effects of depression, it may mean the revival of a memory to others who have new-found jobs and it may be just the same old holiday to a great many.

But there is one Christmas present that the rich and the poor—the great and the obscure—can share alike.

That is the fifty percent decline in the death rate from tuberculosis which has been brought to Michigan since 1908 when the first tuberculosis Christmas seal was sold on a nationwide basis.

The best part about this present is that it is given to the giver—it comes to all of us through our own efforts. With the tuberculin tests and X-ray examinations given thousands of Michigan school children every year by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, this present is paid for with revenue from the Christmas seal sale.

Help yourself to health—buy Christmas seals.

THE NARROW CORNER

The administration seems to have the giants of Wall Street backed up close to their own goal line. The old point-a-minute system has been broken up and for the first time they are being put on the defensive. Not knowing whether to expect a pass or a plunge through the line they have been unable to concentrate their defense to cover the spot where the thrust is going to be made. The halo that hung over them in the past has grown very dim. They do not present a very inspiring sight. Not much sympathy can be found for them out in the rural sections of the nation, where there is unanimity of opinion that this would not have happened had they observed the rules of the game in our national effort to put an end to depression. With their vaults piled high with billions of idle dollars they have refused to provide for the credit needs of the country unless they were allowed to carry the ball. Meanwhile the nation has suffered and the return of prosperity delayed. Unable to sense public opinion they have adopted a course of action that is swiftly spelling their own doom. It begins to look as if their era of capitalistic domination is at an end and that the capitol of the United States is going to be moved back to Washington.

WISE LEADERSHIP

It would surprise many people to know that the spirit of human kindness has been a powerful influence in the countless decisions of the business world that have resulted in the maintenance of payrolls beyond the need of the business in these difficult times. It has been fortunate for all of us that there have existed in this country a large number of individuals and business concerns who have conducted their affairs successfully. Many an employee owes his present employment and, similarly, many an employer owes the continuance of his business to the presence in his personnel of a large number of level-headed employees who have refused to be swayed by the leaders of discontent. — Frank P. Leslie, Minneapolis.

SCHOOL BELLS TOLL

The schools of Michigan are in need of immediate help. Local resources have passed the last outpost and unless state and national aid is made available without delay many of them will be forced to close. It makes no difference what has caused this acute situation, now is no time for argument, instant action is demanded. There are two things this nation must face if it is to continue great—its workers must be provided with jobs and its children educated. The state legislature is in session. Its leaders should be inspired to meet this emergency. We cannot afford to be critical of what sources of revenue are tapped to provide the money. Let us park our aesthetic snob outside until the danger line has been passed. Then there will be time for new selection of financial fundamentals. Act now! Argue later!

People would rather be amused than instructed.

Besides the correspondence above mentioned, 129 letters were written at this office on matters connected with the department of state and, as unofficial assistant to the chief of police, the secretary is charged with the submission of periodical reports on crime and misdemeanors to Lansing and Washington and the handling of the occasional business correspondence of the chief. Since the commencement of welfare relief last fall and until the establishment of the present state and national set-up, registration of the unemployed has been made through this office.

Actual application for automobile license exceeded the registration of last year, although 516 such applications represented half-year extensions of the 1932 license plates. Of the 1933 passenger plates, 391 were sold; 177 full rate commercial plates and 75 full rate trailers. Only 5:15 p. m. and 7:45 a. m. The boat half-rate trailer plates were sold. Combined, the above figures total a, m., 11 a. m., 1:30 p. m., 4:00 p. m., 1:24 1/2 full-rate applications and 519 m., and 6:30 p. m. The schedule is half-rate—a grand total of 1,762 subject to change without notice.

applications for license. Title transactions (applications for new title, transfers of plates and titles, etc.) separate from the sale of plates, totaled 287.

The treasurer's report for the Charlevoix Association of Commerce shows a balance in the Charlevoix County bank of $54.85 as of November 23, 1933, $1.00 cash on hand and $3.74 in postage. Total disbursements by the present treasurer (elected December 16, 1932) total $185.41. Outstanding bills now total $140.69.

To correct a misconception, current in some quarters, relative to the remuneration received by the corresponding secretary and branch manager for his services, it might be stated that his total compensation for all the work of his office, from every source, amounts annually to less than six hundred dollars, only half of which is paid in regular monthly amounts.

State Ferries On Winter Schedule

The winter schedule of the state ferries operating between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace started Friday and continuing until the close of navigation. Only one boat will be on the run. It will make trips each way every two hours and a half. It will leave Mackinaw City at 7:15 a. m., 12:45 noon, 2:45 p. m., 5:15 p. m., and 7:45 a. m. The boat will leave St. Ignace at 6 a. m., 8:30 a. m., 11 a. m., 1:30 p. m., 4:00 p. m., and 6:30 p. m. The schedule is half-rate—a grand total of 1,762 subject to change without notice.

COUNTY TUBER YIELD WAS 94 BU. PER ACRE

Antrim County Leads Northern Michigan in Production

Charlevoix county's average potato yield for 1933 was 94 bushels per acre, according to the monthly report for the state just issued by the U. S. department of agriculture.

Antrim county leads the north-west Michigan group with an average of 107 bushels per acre followed closely by Emmet county with 105 bushels. Benzie is lowest in the group with 45 bushels per acre. Kalkaska had 80, Leelanau 75, Manistee 72, Missaukee 80 and Wexford 97.

Of the potato situation the report says:

"Low temperatures the last week of October caused some damage to the Michigan potato crop in northern and central Michigan as some fields were still undug at that date and considerable stock was in temporary storages. However, the losses from this cause were more than offset by improved yields in various areas. Owing to the lateness of killing frosts this season, many late-planted fields in northern Michigan were favored with an extended period of growth. The table quality of the Michigan crop this year is generally excellent. In some localities, a heavy percentage graded out for lack of size; in other sections where the crop was planted later the loss from this source was unusually small."

"Weather conditions during October in many other late-potato states were very similar to those in Michigan. For the 18 surplus late states, the crop is now estimated at 229,397,000 bushels which is about 31,000,000 less than that harvested in 1932 and 18,500,000 bushels below the average crop for the five years ending 1930."

tion tank need not be withdrawn satisfactory odor free service. Considerations such as these, and many others, which we have not space to mention, prompted the council and mayor to make their wise choice of a sludge digestion type treatment plant.

The site chosen, the O. E. Wilbur property, was decided upon after considering all angles of the question in regard to cost and operational advantages.

There has been some discussion as to the purchase price of this property. It may be of interest to know that the Wilbur property is assessed on the City of Charlevoix tax roll at $6,000.

STATE PARK VISITORS SHOW SLIGHT DECREASE

Although reports from through the state during the tourist season of 1933 indicated a severe drop in the resort business under last year, a decrease of but 300,000 in attendance at Michigan's state parks has been reported by the parks division of the department of conservation.

MUST HAVE LICENSE FOR WINTER FISHING

All Anglers Must Have License After January First

Michigan's winter fish spearing season will open January 1 and for the first time the man with the spear will be required to have a license.

A 1934 general rod license will be necessary for everyone fishing for any species in any inland waters after January 1. It is expected that the licenses will be placed on sale by about 1,800 agents of the conservation department, December 15.

The winter spearing season is unchanged from last year. Carp, suckers, mullet, redhorse, sheepshead, lake trout, smelt, pike (great northern, grass pike and pickerel), muskellunge, whitefish, ciscoes, pilotfish or menominee whitefish, dogfish and garpike, may be taken by spear through the ice without an artificial light during January and February.

LEGION ACTIVITIES

Leslie T. Shapton post No. 226 has received a citation from the national headquarters of the American Legion for especially meritorious services along the lines of welfare work and Americanism activities. The citation was presented to Comrade Charles Martini at the post officers' conference recently held at Owosso and Charley states that there were very few of them given out.

Tuesday evening, ten members of the post visited Comrade Charles Hamlin at his cabin on the lake, south of Norwood, and enjoyed a memorable evening. Cards, music and coffee and hamburgers were the principal features. The Indian file through the swamp was especially appreciated by those who wore high-topped boots, but the arduous experiences of the exploring party were amply rewarded by comfortable seats around the big fireplace, blazing with birch logs.

The dug-out at the Legion home is getting better and better all the time and is justifying the wisdom of those who are responsible for the idea. It will be available on every night in the week and at times when heating the rooms above would prove an expensive proposition.
